Top-Flight Runners, Swimmers Go To U.S. For Olympic Coaching

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 25—(AP)—More than 35 top-flight runners and swimmers from other lands including Canada now are getting the benefit of United States coaching with the idea of getting ready for the summer Olympic games at Helsinki, Finland.

Not all of them will make it, but a few must be considered as possible winners. Many already have shown the ability to make their national teams.

The University of Michigan has the biggest delegation of Olympic candidates from other countries, including a nine-man Canadian delegation in track.

This includes Don McEwen of Ottawa, mile and two-mile star, miler Don Ross of Oakville, Ont., and quarter-miler Jack Carroll of Montreal. In the recent Big Ten meet Ross won the mile in 4:09.4, beating McEwen by two-tenths of a second. McEwen then went on to win the two miles in 9:10.2 for a flashy double performance while Ross finished second in a record half-mile.

Carroll won the 440 in the same meet in 48.8 seconds.

At the Canadian Legion meet in Montreal last week McEwen almost lapped the field in winning the two mile run in 9:04, bettering the old Canadian mark of 9:08.2 he set at the same meet last year.

Also on the Michigan team are Canadians Al Rankin of Ottawa and George Lynch of Toronto, both rated as Olympic prospects, and Roland Nilsson; Sweden's shot put champion. Nilsson tossed the 16-pound shot 53 feet, 7¾ inches to win the Big Ten title.

Other good Canadians on U.S. college teams include James Lavery, Drake University quarter-miler who recently won the Central U.S. Collegiate conference title in 49.8; Richard Fergusson of Toronto, Iowa middle distance runner, and Bill Parnell of Vancouver, Washington State middle-distance man.

Top Swimmers

Canada also has some top-rank swimmers training in the U.S., including Allen Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Gerry McNamee of Vancouver. Both were members of the 1948 Canadian Olympic team. Gilchrist, named Canada's most outstanding swimmer in 1949 and 1950, is at Southern California and McNamee at Fullerton (Calif.) Junior College.

Four students at U.S. colleges were among the 35 athletes recently picked as members of the Australian Olympic squad. The first to be considered among probable Olmypic winners is swimmer John Marshall of Australia and Yale. He won two of his three events in the Eastern U.S. Intercollegiate meet two weeks ago and set a U.S. mark of 19:03.7 for the 1,500 metres free style over a 50-metre "long" course used in Olympic swimming.

Named with Marshall for the Aussie Olympic team were Garrick Agnew, Ohio State swimmer; John Davies, Michigan swimmer, and Morris Currotta, Seton Hall College quarter-mile runner.

Another foreign swimmer who must be regarded as an Olympic threat off his U.S. performances is Graham Johnston of South Africa and the University of Oklahoma. He won the 220 and 440-yard and 1,500-metre free style races in the Big Seven championships and set a pool record each time.

Some of the other foreign Olympic prospects include the strong Jamaica delegation of club runners Herb McKenley and Basil McKenzie and George Rhoden and Lance Thompson of Morgan State College.

Fans Wondering If Jinx To Dog Wing Playoffs Again

DETROIT, March 25. (AP)—On the eve of the opening series of the Stanley Cup playoffs with Toronto Maple Leafs, Detroit's National Hockey League fans were pondering just one question: Will the Red Wings play the smashing, power game that has brought them four consecutive league championships or will they try again to play scientific hockey in the playoffs? Before backing their sentiments with wagers Detroiters generally wanted to have a look at tonight's opener and see "how they're going to play it this time."

One summed it up thus: "You can't beat those Toronto or Montreal clubs at cozy, scientific, defensive hockey. The Red Wings ought to know by now you got to drive the puck down their throats all the time."

Montreal Canadiens whipped the Red Wings in the opening Stanley Cup series a year ago, four games to two.

Detroit defeated Toronto, 4-3 in the 1949-50 finals and won possession of the Stanley Cup for the only time in its three successive league championship years before the current one.

Taken To Cleaners

In 1948-49 Toronto made short work of the Red Wings in the finals, winning in four games.

Before the successive championship years, Toronto ousted Detroit from the cup competition in 1947-48 (4-0), 1946-47 (4-1), and 1944-45 (4-3). The Red Wings kicked the Maple Leafs out in 1942-43 (4-2).

Back of this Toronto won four of the cup playoffs from Detroit and dropped two.

Most hockey writers insist that the Red Wing switch to "cosy" hockey in the playoffs has been their undoing. Manager Jack Adams doesn't agree.

There is agreement that Detroit probably plays the roughest power hockey in regular season play. It was good enough to give them a runaway, 22-point bulge over the second-place Montreal Canadiens this year. They were away out front the year before, too, and blew the playoff.

Bruins Meeting Habs For First In Six Years

MONTREAL, March 25 (CP).—When Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens meet tonight in the opening game of their Stanley Cup semi-final it will mark the first time the clubs have clashed in the post-season hockey classic in six years.

In 1946 Canadiens defeated Bruins four games to one in the final—the last time the Montrealers have captured the cup. Three years earlier the Bruins gobbled up Canadiens in the semi-final, also by a 4-1 margin, and lost to Detroit in the final. The Bruins last won the cup in 1941.

A more up-to-date sizing up of the teams shows the Bruins have the edge. In the 14 times Montreal and Boston met during the regular season just closed the Bruins won seven games, Canadiens five and two games ended in ties.

Just what this points up in a short series—best-of-seven — is debatable. There are plenty of arguments for each team.

Scoring Rashes

Montreal's rookies have been out in scoring rashes and Canadiens' ace sniper, Maurice Richard has returned after a long lay-off due to a groin injury.

Canadiens finished in second place in the long National Hockey League grind. They had a 12-point margin over the fourth-place Bruins and rolled up 195 goals for the season against 162 for the Bruins.

At the same time, the Bruins finished with a splurge of victories—10 in their last 12 starts—to beat out New York Rangers for the last playoff spot. One important factor was the superb netminding by goalie Jim Henry, although on the season's averages Gerry McNeil of Canadiens had a slight edge.

The Bruins left Boston Monday night for Montreal, where the first two games will be played—tonight and Thursday night.

Coach Dick Irvin was concerned over the loss of Johnny McCormack, ace defensive centre, who suffered a broken arm Saturday night.

Baseball's Training Camps Buzz Over Cobb's Blast At Moderns

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Ty Cobb's blast at modern ball players has the boys talking about the old Georgia Peach. In training camp dugouts, oldtimers revive the Cobb legends for new ears.

Casey Stengel was asked what he thought of Cobb's statement that Yankee shortstop Phil Rizzuto and Cardinal outfield Stan Musial are the only modern players who can stand comparison with the oldtimers.

"I'm not going to comment on it," said Stengel, then he commented for the next 30 minutes.

"There's probably a lot right and a lot wrong in what he says," Casey began. "But I know one thing. He could play ball."

Stengel spotted Rizzuto walking past the bench. He gave you that big wink.

"I'm having a lot of trouble with Rizzuto since Cobb wrote that piece," he said. "Fighting with the other players, picking scraps. Thinks he's Cobb." Rizzuto grinned and walked away.

Along came Clyde Milan, old "Deerfoot" who once broke Cobb's record by stealing 88 bases in 1912. Cobb, of course, came back to set a high of 96 in 1915.

"He was a great player," said Milan. "A good friend of mine—off the ball field. But he's been away for years. I know he's wrong when he says modern players don't train and work hard.

"Don't think he didn't make mistakes, too. I remember at least three time when I was playing against him that he stole a base with somebody already on it."

"He'd stop at nothing to beat you.

"When he was fighting for the batting championship one year he made the groundkeeper let the grass grow down the third base line. Let it grow nice and high for about five days. Then he had it mowed down real close for about 10 feet from third towards home.

"If the third baseman stayed back, he'd bunt in that high grass and leg it. If he charged in, Cobb could slap one past him where the grass was cut and it would roll into left field."

PICKING TEAM

In Auckland Monday night, New Zealand picked 12 men and women for its Olympic team, including broad jumper Yvette Williams and hurdler H. M. Holland. The team will arrive in London June 21 to compete in various meets before heading for Helsinki and the summer games.

L'il Arthur King Scores TKO Over Pruden

TORONTO, March 25 (CP). — Toronto's L'il Arthur King Monday night scored a technical knockout over Fitzie Pruden at 1:15 of the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round bout. King weighed 138¼, Pruden 144¾.

Far ahead on points, King, British Empire lightweight champion, crashed over two left hooks to the jaw and a right to the body that sent Pruden down for the count of eight. Groggy, Pruden got to his feet and was an easy mark for the tigerish King.

The Toronto battler, now fighting out of Philadelphia, propped up Pruden against the ropes with another left smash and then by actual count, hit him 42 times to the head and body before referee Billy Burke stepped in.

Pruden, defeated by King in their first match here last January couldn't get started against his lighter opponent. He was kept off balance by straight lefts and took at least four punches to one while trying to land his specialty—a right hook to the body.

Pruden, native of St. Catharines showed his best in the seventh when he hurt the Negro with a right jab to the chin and a hard right to the stomach. But he shot his bolt here.

Roof Falls In

King scored with stinging left jabs in the eighth and then the roof fell in for Pruden early in the ninth. King, on top of the welterweight, suddenly uncorked two vicious left jabs and Pruden was down.

The crowd of 7,500 sensed the kill and King, who used his left most of the fight to chop down Pruden, poured in a vicious left hook that bounced Pruden against the ropes. He remained upright and King practically left him numb with his 42-pounch barrage.

The loss practically nullified any chance Pruden had of getting a rematch with Chico Vejar who defeated him in a close bout at Madison Square Garden a couple of weeks ago.

In a preliminary six-rounder, Lyle Staff, 202½, St. Catharines, won a unanimous decision over Stanley Smardz, 185, Poland.

Gene Poirier, 150, Niagara Falls won a unanimous decision over Harry Poulton, 141¾, Halifax, over six rounds.

SECRETARY RESIGNS

The Royal and Ancient Golf Club, overlord of all British golf championships, Monday night in St. Andrews, Scotland, announced the resignation of its secretary, Cmdr. J. A. S. (Sandy) Carson.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Jacqueline du Bief, world figure skating queen, announced Monday in Paris that she will leave next Monday for the United States and her debut as a professional ice skater.

She insisted that she has not yet signed any contract as a professional, but agreed that she is in full accord with John Harris, producer of the Ice Capades, on terms. Officials of the ice show announced Sunday in Moncton, N. B., that they had signed the 19-year-old girl.

Sunday night Jacqueline won her sixth French championship in her final appearance as an amateur.

In Manchester Monday, England's league soccer teams recommended an increase in the minimum general admission charge from one shilling and six pence (21 cents) to one shilling and nine pence (24 1:3 cents. The new price would become effective next year when the government tax on soccer tickets will be increased.

A charity match between Babe Zaharias, queen of the golf links, and Billy Maxwell, United States men's amateur champion, was virtually assured Monday in Miami, Fla., with a prospect of 10,000 persons in the gallery. Fred Corcoran, Ladies Professional Golfers' Association tournament director, said Mrs. Zaharias and Maxwell had agreed to the match. It probably will be played in Denton, Tex., where Maxwell attends North Texas State College, next fall.

The New York and Illinois State Athletic Commissions in Chicago Monday signed a reciprocal agreement aimed at driving the hoodlum element out of boxing. The agreement provides for mutual recognition of suspensions and contracts between managers, boxers, or promoters. The Illinois commission also cited Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of former lightweight Ike Williams, for appearance April 7 to show cause why his Illinois manager's and second's licence should not be revoked.

Favorites won the first five races at Lincoln, England, Monday as the flat racing season resumed in Britain after the winter layoff. Gordon Richards, Britain's leading jockey since before most of the other riders were born, had two winners in four mounts to bring his world record lifetime total to 4,396. The 47-year-old Richards rode his first winner in 1921.

Red Wings Finish 22 Points Ahead Of Habs

MONTREAL, March 25 (CP).—It's official now, and the National Hockey League's final statistics for the regular 1951-52 season are all cluttered up with Detroit Red Wings.

The club won the league championship for the fourth consecutive season, finishing with an even 100 points, 22 more than the second-place Montreal Canadiens.

The Wings' Gordie Howe romped off with the scoring honors: most goals, 47, and most scoring points, 86. Terry Sawchuk was low-average goalie.

Ted Lindsay lost out for the doubtful honor of being bad man of the league. His 123 minutes in the penalty box were four short of the 127 amassed by burly Gus Kyle of Boston Bruins.

Finishes With Rush

But Lindsay finished with a rush to take second place behind Howe in point-scoring, with 69 points. Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens was third with 65, but led on total assists, 50.

As leading point-getter, Howe is winner of the Art Ross Trophy for the second year in a row and he collects $1,000 from the N.H.L. for his performance. Lindsay gets $500.

Sawchuk also comes in for $1,000 along with the Vezina Trophy. In 70 games Sawchuk was scored on only 133 times for an average of 1.90 goals a game. He led the league in shutouts, with 12.

Al Rollins of Toronto Maple Leafs, last year's Vezina winner, was closest to Sawchuk with a 2.20 average.

STORM HITS LAKEFRONT—Wind and rain went on the rampage during the week-end along Southern Ontario's Great Lakes shoreline. Hundreds of residents were driven from their homes as winds that reached gusts of 60 miles an hour lashed the water. Huge waves pounded the shore. In Toronto's suburban Mimico a cottage occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Warrington, James Boyd, and Frank Beardmore, all recently arrived from England, was pounded by the waves which already had crumbled the verandah. The storm was the tail-end of a disturbance that earlier had stirred up tornadoes in the Southern United States.

Manitoba Has Biggest Budget In Its History

By The Canadian Press

Record budgets reflecting continued prosperity have been brought down by all four of Canada's western provinces. Manitoba completed the parade Monday night with the biggest budget in its history.

The four Provincial budgets together total $373,000,000—approximately the size of the Federal budget of 20 years ago.

British Columbia leads with estimated ordinary expenditures for the coming fiscal year of $142,000,000. Alberta follows with $116,000,000, Saskatchewan with $66,000,000 and Manitoba with $49,000,000.

B.C. will spend $44,000,000 on capital account, Alberta $43,000,000 Manitoba $22,000,000 and Saskatchewan $15,000,000.

On a per capita basis, Alberta is the biggest spender. Its treasury swelled by revenues from oil, the province will spend $125 on ordinary account for every man, woman and child. B.C. follows closely with $121. Saskatchewan's per capital expenditure will be $79 and Manitoba's $63.

Budget For Surplus

The increases in this year's budget over last year's ranged from $6,000,000 in Manitoba to $24,000,000 in B.C. Alberta showed an increase of $22,000,000 and Saskatchewan of $8,000,000.

All provinces budgeted for surpluses. Manitoba, with the smallest budget, estimated the largest surplus—$500,000. Alberta expects a $279,000 surplus, B.C. $81,000 and Saskatchewan $49,000.

Most of Manitoba's $22,000,000 capital outlay will be on hydro-electric facilities. Alberta and Saskatchewan will go heavy on road construction, the former spending $24,000,000 for this purpose and Saskatchewan $15,000,000. B.C. will spend $13,000,000 for roads and more than $10,000,000 on buildings.

STEEL STRIKE POSTPONED — CIO President Philip Murray (right) tells reporters that the steel workers have postponed their threatened strike because of a recommendation by the Wage Stabilization Board that they be granted a 17½-cent hourly wage increase. Murray warned, however, that the possibility of a strike will still exist if industry fails to agree.

Weekend Ice Freezes Bethany

BETHANY, March 25 (ENS).—The storm which began Saturday night and continued through Sunday morning brought traffic almost to a standstill through Bethany village; the highway and side streets were like sheets of glass.

Hydro service was disrupted for about eight hours, and many families had to dispense with a hot breakfast on Sunday morning, having no power for their electric stoves. Good neighbors with coal or wood burning stoves shared their heat to boil the kettle for a cup of tea or coffee for those depending on electricity.

One family brought out its portable gasoline stove used for summer picnics and used it to prepare breakfast. The telephone operators had to go back to old times and use a hand-turned crank at the local switchboard to ring the numbers called, instead of the usual electric keys.

Actress Brutally Beaten 'To Teach Her Lesson'

HOLLYWOOD, March 25 (AP)—Actress Anne Sterling was beaten up and kidnapped early Monday by four thugs she said held her captive in a luxurious home for 1½ hours. She was sent unconscious to hospital.

Sheriff's Deputy Bert Keenan said that Miss Sterling had been "beaten and bruised from her eyebrows to her toenails."

The actress told him that she recently received a telephone threat. Afraid to stay alone, she went to the apartment of a friend, Ann Jackson. In the vestibule of Miss Jackson's apartment house, the actress continued, "four men grabbed me, took me to the underground garage and beat me . . . and kicked me . . they also slugged me with some kind of blunt instrument."

She said they then drove her to a luxurious house and beat her again "even more viciously." She said one of the men told her they were doing it to teach her a lesson.

Miss Sterling and a former room-mate, Fashion Designer Yolanda Elliott, recently opposed each other in court in a dispute over a fur stole. Miss Elliott was acquitted of charges that she stole the fur piece from Miss Sterling while they lived in an apartment together.

Subsequently, Miss Elliott sued Miss Sterling for $100,800 damages, charging malicious prosecution. This suit is still pending.

Must Exercise Tolerance

CLEVELAND, March 25—(CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, said Monday night the United States is rightly the "first among equals" in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. In a speech at the annual Newton D. Baker memorial lecture, he added, however, that all partners in the alliance will have to exercise "restraint, comprehension and tolerance."

Falls Under Truck

PERTH, March 25 — (CP) — Joseph Wayne Fleming, 5, was killed Monday night when he fell from a truck and was crushed under its rear wheels. The boy was riding in the truck cab and fell through the door into the street.

Science against pain

Science progresses: For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for the relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantage of insolubility, acidity and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN.

Why take DISPRIN?

Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) it permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

High Water Level Problem Studied By Ont. Legislature

TORONTO, March 25 — (CP) — The problem of high water levels on the Great Lakes may be studied by a select committee of the Ontario Legislature.

Premier Frost told the Legislature Monday that the committee could meet during the spring and summer to prepare a brief for submission to the proper authority. He stressed that water levels on the lakes constitute an internationl, rather than a provincial problem.

The present situation apparently was due to a cycle of high water levels which comes every few years. It was believed lake levels would be more effectively controlled when the St. Lawrence Seaway was built. He saw no value in rushing in with protective works without having the proper information.

"It's like King Canute, who stood on the shore and ordered the waves back," said the Premier. "There's just nothing we can do."

He spoke after the question was raised by William Murdoch (PC—Essex South) and Arthur Child (PC Wentworth), who told of damage in their lake-bordering ridings from the weekend storm that hit much of Southern Ontario.

Warning System

Provincial Secretary Welsh told the Legislature that a special telephone warning system to the provincial Civil Defence headquarters and all potential target areas is being installed.

Speaking during consideration of his department's $1,404,000 estimates, Col. Welsh outlined Ontario's Civil Defence program. Much of the preliminary organization has been completed, he said. "We are now embarking on the second, or training, phase."

The province's system would cooperate with the R.C.A.F. Ground Observer Corps to send warnings of approaching enemy aircraft from stations "located strategically along a belt across the northern section of Ontario."

Other plans and achievements Col. Welsh listed in the Civil Defence program: a 30-per-cent increase in municipal fire-fighting equipment since 1949; a fire-equipment standardization program which would be completed by the end of next year; special training courses in "radiological defence" for fire department instructors and other municipal officials.

Civil defence organization was completed and training started in all of the province's 29 cities, in 101 towns and 22 villages.

Co-operation had been developed with fire departments in New York and Michigan to deal with emergencies along the border and the Fire Marshal's office had mobile radios on the same wave length used by some U.S. fire departments.

Widens Scope

Health Minister Phillips introduced a bill that would widen the scope of post-graduate medical students in the hospitals where they intern to include authority to sign birth and death certificates and to authorize use of narcotic drugs.

A bill designed to cut costs of rural telephone companies by permitting them to string lines on hydro poles for a fee was introduced by Hon. G. H. Challies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Two other bills introduced will implement announcements made in the Budget Speech last week.

One will require the Hydro Commission to give municipalities annual payments in lieu of municipal taxation on hydro property and offices. The other will amend the corporation tax act to permit companies the same depreciation provisions as in the Federal tax law.

The House passed the Provincial Secretary's estimates after criticism from J. B. Salsberg (Lab.-Prog.—Toronto St. Andrew).

Mr. Salsberg said the government was setting a "horrible example" to industry by keeping 6,000 civil servants, listed as casual employees, who are not entitled to the protection given permanent employees. Some civil servants had been listed as "casuals" for from five to 25 years.

Begin First Hearing In Competition Case

KITCHENER, March 25 (CP)—The first hearing of a charge under the Unfair Competitions Act in Ontario courts began here Monday.

Mrs. Kathleen Herchenrader, 23-year-old saleswoman of stainless steel products, is charged with making disparaging references to aluminum products.

The defendant sold steel cooking utensils to Joseph Kocher, of Waterloo, following a home demonstration. It is alleged that during this demonstration Mrs. Herchenrader ran down a competing line of goods.

Ice Jam In River

DRAYTON, March 25—(CP)—Thousands of tons of ice jammed the Conestoga River here Monday, threatening damage to homes, business places and the town's main bridge. Floating downstream on a flood that has filled cellars and low land in dowtown Drayton, the ice has jammed about the bridge which spans the river near the community's main intersection. Drayton is 35 miles northwest of Kitchener.

Renew Licences

OTTAWA, March 25—(CP)—The CBC Board of Governors recommended that the licences of seven privately-owned radio stations be renewed for another three-year period. Approvals included stations CHLO in St. Thomas and CJOY in Guelph. The board also recommended approval of share transfers requested by station CKOX in Woodstock.

Criticizes Restrictions

ADELAIDE, March 25—(Reuters)—Walton A. Cole, editor of Reuters in Australia on a world tour, Monday criticized increasing restrictions on news gathering in various parts of the world. He said in an innterview, "journalists are imprisoned and subjected to all kinds of unpleasantness through merely trying to do an honest job of reporting."

Ration Worries

LONDON, March 25—(Reuters)—Socialist Norman Dodds, worried about the troubles rationing imposes on beauty seekers, will ask the food minister to arrange: "An allocation of tea and sugar to ladies' hairdressing establishments to enable cups of tea to be provided to women undergoing the long and tedious process of permanent waving."

Get Plane Lift

Truck Driver Found Wholly Responsible For Crash On Highway

Three Lakefield people have been awarded a total of $6,850 by an assize court jury as a result of a two-truck collision on Highway 28, Dec. 7, 1950.

Damages awarded the trio, all of them injured in the accident were:

George Jessup, 27, driver and owner of one of the trucks, $1,050; for damages to his truck, injuries, and out-of-pocket expenses.

Frances Jessup, 27, his wife, $800; for injuries and medical expenses.

Sadie Jessup, 25, sister-in-law, $5,000; for out-of-pocket expenses, and general damages. She received a broken left arm, facial injuries that left permanent scars, lost her sense of smell, and an aggravated asthmatic condition.

Counter Claim Dismissed

The defendant Clarence Liscum 27, of Warsaw, received an assessment of $6,000 for his damages. But he was found 100 per cent negligent by the jury and his counter-claim was dismissed by Justice LeBel, presiding at the assizes.

The jury found that Liscum in his northbound truck didn't take sufficient precaution to make sure there was no oncoming traffic when he swerved out to pass a truck ahead.

As a result, the Liscum truck collided with the southbound truck driven by Jessup. Both trucks ended up wrecked in the ditch, a mile and a half south of Lakefield, and all five occupants of the vehicles were hospitalized.

William Donegan, 58, McFarlane St., a passenger in Liscum's truck received head injuries. Liscum was the most seriously hurt of the five people involved.

The jury took two hours and 45 minutes to arrive at their decision.

Justice LeBel complimented them, saying it was the "only reasonable verdict; and he thought their assessment of damages fair."

The paved road through Morrow Park, the extension of George St., will be closed to traffic Wednesday at 2 a.m. for the period of the Central Ontario Spring Show. It will be cleared again probably Friday night.

FAINTS IN COURT

A woman fainted today as she told an assize court jury that she was raped by Armand Larocque, 39, of Patterson St. She was carried from the witness box where she had crumpled up while testifying but returned five minutes afterwards. Later, she again had to leave the box when she became ill. Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, Q.C., is handling the Crown's case; and Robert Carley and Trevor Clarke are defending Larocque. Justice A. M. LeBel is presiding.

Many Exhibits Of Interest At Seed Fair

The expansive exhibit of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is the most attractive display at the Central Ontario Spring Show at Morrow Park. It occupies some 60 feet along the north side of the main building, and is a bright and colorful feature of the central part of the show.

Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, on the south side, is another educational exhibit, and beside it is an arresting demonstration set up by the Ontario Veterinary College.

Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, Holstein Breeder's Association and the Canadian Bank of Commerce are also prominent booths.

Thomas Stothers, special representative of the bank on agricultural relations, will be here for most of the week. Farm Forum members will remember him as one of the discussion group in the headquarters broadcast of the subject: 'Is there enough farm credit'?

Nearly Complete.

Placing of the seed exhibits in the central section of the big building appeared to be nearly completed at noon. Stuart Bowman was directing this department, with Oliver Dalrymple of Stirling, secretary of the show, and agricultural representative in Hasting county; Robert Armstrong of Cavan and Warden R. R. Stewart of Otonabee.

Success of the show in its attendance will likely depend on the weather. Promise of sunshine today petered out in a light snow flurry that spent itself later.

The farm machinery building includes several details of contrast that are accentuated by an old handmade wooden hay rake. It is really worth seeing as a reminder of the period in local and also universal agriculture when farmers had to depend considerably on their own devices. The wooden tines of the horsedrawn fork present a relic of the past before science seriously took hold of the mechanics of farming.

Old Reaper.

There is also an old reaper that was apparently manufactured before the cut grain was automatically tied in sheafs. The farm implement could improve this section of their show by explantory signs for the benefit of a generation that has grown up since the impact of Henry Ford's genius effected a revolution in farm methods.

Other old machines generally related to the assembly of modern equipment are chiefly of historic interest, heightening the extent of improvements that have vastly mechanized the practice of farming.

Fred Brant Fund Tops $250

The Fred Brant fund climbed over the $250-mark today with a number of $2, $3 and $5 donations from Peterborough citizens.

Since March 14 when the fund opened to help the 24-year-old man in the Civic Hospital, Examiner readers are expressing their sympathy for him by contributing towards the fund. Brant had parts of both feet amputated after they were severely frost-bitten.

The fund on Friday had reached $217 largely due to the $100 donated by D. A. McGillis, the largest single donation to date. The other $117 was raised by citizens donating in small sums.

Since Friday citizens have contributed $42.50 to bring the total to press time today to $259.50.

Indian Woman To Speak Here

Diplomatic secretary to the Indian High Commission at Ottawa, Miss K. Rukmini, is coming to Peterborough on Wednesday to address the United Nations Society. This young Hindu woman was educated at Bangalore and Madras, and did postgraduate study in international relations at the London School of Economics after the war.

Attached to the Indian Foreign Service since 1948, Miss Rukmini came to Canada last autumn.

The meeting being held at the Normal School Library Wednesday at eight is open to interested non-members of the society.

Miss Rukmini will also speak to the Kiwanis Club Thursday and the Central Council of the I.O.D.E.

Swing Bridge Abuilding To Span Canal At Hastings

A new 80-ton swing span bridge is being assembled at the present time at Hastings for the Department of Transport to replace the original span which has been in place since 1890. Its contract price is $49,500. The structure is 83 feet long with a 24-foot roadway and a five-foot sidewalk on the west side. It is ten feet wider than the old bridge and by this weekend the contractors, Central Bridge Company of Trenton, will have been prefabricating it for three weeks.

The maintenance staff of the Trent Canal System have had to do considerable preliminary work in building new cement abutments and pivot piers. The new span is being erected on the new cement work and when completed will be shoved over into position after the old span has been cut apart with torches and hoisted out of the way.

Old materials will be used by the department for repairs on other structures throughout their system.

It is expected that the building contractors will be finished this weekend and early at the beginning of next traffic will be diverted via Trent River—Highway 30—for about 24 hours while the old unit is being dismantled and the new one nudged into place. The only factor which might change these tentative plans will be contrary spring weather.

The Hastings swing bridge structure is a year late in being erected, according to engineering plans; shortage of steel has caused the delay.

Community Fund Nears Objective

Peterborough's Red Cross and Community Fund campaign is $3,389 under its objective of $85,000.

Latest totals reported by the campaign office show that the school children and women's divisions are still the only ones to make their objectives. The retail division with a present total of $14,726 is quite optimistic of making its objective of $17,000. "That is if the canvassers keep canvassing and the public continue to give," W. Roberts co-chairman of this division with Ford Warren, said today.

$1,850 Short.

The Industrial Division has collected $36,150 of its $38,000 objective with its campaign completed. Fifteen of the 36 industries in this division made their objectives. They are: Albion Knitting, Canada Packers, Canadian Canoe, C. G. E., Canadian Sealright, C.H. E. X., Dominion Woolens and Worsteds, Peterborough Examiner iner, Peterborough Lock, Peterborough Lumber, Lucky Strike Bait Works, Martin-Hewitt Containers, Ontario Marble, Outboard Marine, Peterborough Canoe.

The Special Names Division report $23,250 collected and hopes that the final total will be between $23,500 and $24,000.

This division's objective was $25,000.

It's Normal

It's normal. Citizens look at the sky and read the weather predictions. But all they have to do is look at the calendar. The month is March and Peterborough is getting March weather. Some men are wearing spring coats, others winter coats. Women are wearing spring straw hats and fur coats. One minute the sun is shining, the next snow is falling. There is a breeze that chills and water in puddles freezes over at night. It's normal, but thank goodness, it's nearly over.

Inquest Finds Boyd Died From Exposure

MADOC, March 25—(ENS)—A verdict of death by freezing and exposure was returned Monday in the inquest into the death of 40-year-old Almond Boyd, Marmora carpenter.

The five-man coroner's jury found Boyd had died "on or about March 2." They attached no blame.

Boyd's body was found March 7 when a friend of his was sent by Boyd's aunt to see if Boyd's home was padlocked. The friend, Clarence Wallbridge, found the body at the door of the house.

Evidence at the inquest showed that Boyd had been drinking March 1 with friends, and his liquor permit showed the purchase that day of three 25-ounce bottles and three 12-ounce bottles.

Hit Boyd Twice

Towards the end of that day, Boyd and Private Keith Toms had argued and fought. Toms told the inquest he hit Boyd twice.

Medical evidence showed Boyd had suffered a fracture of the nose, caused by something like a blunt instrument.

Toms further testified that he had left Boyd at the door of his home, fearing that he would wake up and become belligerent again. Returning to the car, Toms admitted telling Charles Head, the driver, that he had taken Boyd inside the house and put him to bed.

Head told the inquest that he had met Boyd in the Marmora liquor store with Toms, who introduced him to Boyd. Toms asked Head to drive him to Havelock, and he consented.

Bottle Each

With Mrs. Head, Toms and Boyd, Head drove first to Toms' mother's home. Head described drinking by the three men, and said that to his knowledge Boyd and Toms each had a bottle of liquor. In the car there was a case of beer purchased by Mrs. Head.

Boyd was being driven home when he said: "I forgot my whisky." They returned, but found no bottle. It was later seen in Boyd's pocket.

It was at the house that the fight took place. Head said he noticed Boyd lying on the ground with Toms standing a short distance away. Toms eventually helped Boyd into the car, and later they drove to Boyd's home, where Toms said he could handle Boyd alone.

Toms returned to the car, said Head, saying he had put Boyd to bed. Head did not hear of Boyd's death until March 9.

Mrs. Head's evidence corroborated her husband's.

Toms said he struck Boyd twice, the second time when Boyd was on the ground. He claimed the blows were struck in self-defence, as Boyd had first grabbed Toms by the collar.

Three Causes

Medical evidence, given by district pathologist Dr. H. Luckie, of Belleville, was to the effect that the injuries Boyd received were not sufficient to cause death. He believed the stunning effects of a fall, the high amount of alcohol in the body and the exposure had combined to cause death.

Dr. Ward Smith, analyst, said the condition of the body was consistent with death due to freezing. Exposure and alcohol were two facts to explain death without bringing anything else into the picutre.

He testified to the following amounts of alcohol found in Boyd's body: blood, 1.6 parts per 1,000; urine, 3 parts per 1,000; spinal fluid, 2.8 parts per 1,000.

The jury was composed of G. West, foreman; C. Whytock, P. H. Nayler, K. Connor, and A Bird. Assistant Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson, Q.C., conducted the examination of witnesses.

Also present was Inspector Ralph Taylor of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the O.P.P., who investigated the circumstances of Boyd's death.

Council Settles On Rate Of 64.75 Mills, Increase Of 9.25 Mills

Separate School Supporters To Pay 67.25 Mills, Increase Of 10.25 Mills
Ald. Miller Sets Levy "With Deep Regret"

Peterborough's municipal tax rate for Public School supporters is 64.75 mills, an increase of 9.25 mills over the 1951 levy of 55.5 mills; and for Separate School supporters, the new rate is 67.25 mills, an increase of 10.25 mills over the 57-mill rate of last year. The bylaw striking the rates for 1952 was passed by the council Monday night, with Mayor Waddell presiding and all members present. As intimated before and since the turn of the year, the city's tax rate has ascended to a record level that was not anticipated in the fiscal surveys and approximations since the end of the war.

"I believe that I am expressing the sentiments of the entire council-when I say that it is with deep regret that we have found it necessary to levy a considerably higher mill rate than that of last year," said Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman of the finance committee, in submitting the budget by-law in its second reading. His motion for adoption was seconded by Ald. S. J. Black.

Caught By Inflation

"We do not feel that any one department should be singled out for blame because of the situation we find ourselves in at the present time. We are caught in an inflationary cost of living period from which there seems to be no evasion."

The by-law formally authorized the striking of the rate, its levy on the assessment, and the adoption of the assessment roll prepared in 1951 as the basis of the 1952 taxes.

Ald. Miller proceeded with an explanatory statement as information for the public, showing the various expenditures last year and the corresponding estimates for this year, with pertinent comment here and there as he went along.

In quoting the facts which he presented, this report gives the 1952 estimates, followed in brackets by the 1951 relative expenditure, and indicating increase or decrease.

Breakdown

The finance chairman discussed first what he referred to as "a breakdown of the general rate":

Administration of justice, $46,000 ($45,375.29); increase $624.71.

Assessment Department, $22,140 ($18,758.80); increase $3,381.20, of which $2,000 is for reassessment and annexation, the balance is for wage increases.

Board of Works, $270,900 ($253,799.84); increase $17,100.16, of which $13,000 is an increase in the cost of operating the sewage disposal plant which was completed last year; the balance is made up of miscellaneous items.

Charity, $60,000 ($55,592.03); increase $4,407.97; expenditures last year exceeded the expenditures for charity in 1950 by approximately $5,500. As this part of the budget is purely guesswork based on past experience, it would seem reasonable to increase the 1952 requirement by a comparable amount.

Gratuities and retiring allowances, $18,716.97 ($16,593.06); increase $2,123.91, due to the unfortunate accident at the Zacks building last May.

Department of Health, $57,461.85 ($51,481.90); increase $5,979.95, due entirely to wage increases and purchase of a new car.

Fire Department, $158,500 ($154,242.31); increase $4,257.64, due to wage increases and a mobile radio system.

Garbage collection, $95,890 ($111,199.18); decrease $15,309.18. Last year incinerator repairs cost $13,000, and $11,590 was spent for new trucks.

Pension Plan

Pension plan, $25,000 ($20,723.52); increase $4,276.08; this is the city's 5 per cent share of employees' wages.

Judge Agrees To Hold Enquiry Into Brant Case

Judge J. D. MacRae of Whitby has accepted appointment by the city council to conduct an enquiry into the circumstances resulting in the amputation of part of the feet of Fred Brant of Lindsay, who is still a patient at Civic Hospital.

This engagement was reported to the council Monday night by Ald. Herbert Young, chairman of the legal committee.

"Mr. R. D. Humphries of Oshawa has consented to act as counsel in this investigation," Ald. Young said.

"It has not yet been decided where it will take place," was his reference to premises.

Opens April 1

"Judge MacRae has informed us that he is prepared to come to Peterborough on April 1 and 2, beginning each day at 11 a.m."

Ald. Young's motion that the report of his committee be approved, was seconded by Ald. A. B. Burrows.

Ald. Harold T. Rehill asked whether consideration had been given to the probability that Mr. Brant might not be able to leave the hospital by April 1.

"I was talking today to his doctor," Ald. Young said. "He thought it might be necessary to have the evidence of Mr. Brant taken at the hospital. I reported that to Judge MacRae, and he said he would be satisfied with that arrangement."

Addition Begins At Outboard Marine

Eastwood Construction Company has begun the enlargement of the plant of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company.

Plans of the Outboard Marine were announced about a month ago. The contract was let to the Eastwood Company, and work is under way. Present expansion, 125 ft. by 152 ft. is actually an extension of the main building by 12 ft., and is of similar type of construction except in a few details.

Mount Pleasant W.A. Meeting

Mount Pleasant Women's Association has met at the home of Mrs. D. Armstrong. Mrs. W. Downer took the devotional topic "The Fear of the Lord." basing her remarks on several passages of scripture. President Mrs. G. McLean conducted the business. Mrs. Dave Lawson was appointed to interview the Young People of St. James' Church, and if convenient have them present their play during Easter week. "Thank you" cards from the sick, who have been remembered, were read by Mrs. F. Graham. The following program which was in charge of Mrs. E. McLean was presented: An adress on "The Stewardship of Time" by Mrs. A. C. Lark; two Bible contests conducted by Mrs. G. McLean and Mrs. H. Jamieson, and a reading by Mrs. W. H. Lowes. The Rev. Mr. Lark closed the meeting with prayer. Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. R. Carr and Mrs. H. Lowes.

Give To Book Fund For Servicemen

A contribution to the Legion Book Fund to buy books for servicemen was voted unanimously at the meeting Monday night of the Ex-Servicewomen's Elizabeth Smellie Branch of the Canadian Legion. The assembly in the Gunners' Mess at the Armouries also voted a donation to the Legion Scholarship Fund.

Contents for a parcel to be sent to a serviceman in Korea were donated by members and Miss Grace Simpson offered to pack and forward them. Welfare chairman Miss B. Waters reported the Legion had been able to render assistance to several families during the past month.

It was resolved to endeavor to bring more ex-servicewomen into the branch.

A report on the bingo held March 15th was read by treasurer Miss Esther Might. President Miss Irma Allen thanked members for their splendid co-operation and sent a message of thanks to the men's branch for assisting.

A scrap book of members' branch activities as recorded by Miss Nan Duncan was circulated. Two instructive films were viewed, followed by the playing of several excellent recordings while refreshments were being served by Miss Helen McFarlane and committee.

White Hat Is Right For Easter, All-Black Second

NEW YORK, March 25.—The white hat is the right hat for Easter. There once was a day when white trimming on an Easter hat was considered "spring-y" enough—but this year, fashion experts predict that all-white millinery will be the popular favorite.

There will be little hats in white straw, bowler-shape, medium hats in white felt, and wide-brimmed sailors in white fabric or straw.

Among the most high-fashion of them all will be the color-of-snow flower hats, created in either all-white or in combinations of white with yellow or green.

Running second to white in the spring fashion picture will be all-black. For one of the first times in fashion history, buyers say, it's running ahead of the Easter-parade classic, navy blue.

The explanation for this is that women are wearing black with all-black costumes—but white hats with navy blue ensembles.

YWCA Bd. of Dir. Express Sympathy

Sympathy was expressed for Miss Leta Brownscombe, executive director of the Y.W.C.A., in the sudden death of her brother, at opening of the meeting Monday of the Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A.

Plans for an open board meeting on world members' day were left to the membership committee. Complete monthly reports were received from committee conveners.

Health education committee announced preparations for the spring pageant in full swing, and expressed appreciation for the help being once again proffered by the Lion's Club. The program committee announced a rummage sale by the 20 Plus Club on April 5th.

A training course for YW members at large is being conducted by Miss Agnes Roy, assistant executive director of the National Y, at the local Association on April 7, 8 and 9, afternoons at 2.30 and evenings at 8 o'clock.

A rapid growth of the nursery school under the able leadership of Mrs. V. Northcott showed a pressing need for an assistant in the coming year.

New president Mrs. H. T. Rehill presided.

Fashion Flashes

Step out and see for yourself how smart are the new shoes designed for spring costume wear. Right in the mood of the season is a shapely pump of glittering black patent leather with white calf underlay for a series of tiny square cut-outs.

✧ ✧ ✧

Topaz touches in jewellery, scarfs and other accessories go beautifully with all the blonde tones so much in fashion for spring and summer. Benedictine yellow is another shade that is winning approval for its rich, warm tones.

✧ ✧ ✧

Suburban living calls for smartly simple daytime cottons—crisp and efficient, yet colorful—and this type of wardrobe backbone is better than ever this season, judging from a recent house-frock show. Stripes and solid combine for a cotton sheer made with a tucked bib front. The top is of white and gay stripes; the skirt of unpressed pleats is all grey. White rayon linen collars and cuffs, and a black velvet shoestring bow tie are other attractive accents.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dream dresses stud every good dinner and dance wear collection. Dreamy, indeed, is a short-skirted model of pale pink corded lace over crisp pink taffeta. The square neckline tapers down to a waistline molded by a velvet girdle in shades ranging from light grey to steel blue.

✧ ✧ ✧

There's nothing like crisp touches of white to dress up a suit — be it grey, navy, brown or black. New and attractive is a petal-shaped Ascot in white shadow striped organdie that resembles pleating. Such a scarf takes nicely to glitter pins or colorful floral bits, such as the new tiny ceramic rose pins or shaded orchid pins, all set with tiny rhinestones.

✧ ✧ ✧

Still going out with the smartest costumes is the good faille handbag. A new one, a big dress-maker pouch, has a shirred over-skirt, and, for a different look, has a tortoise-shell frame with a big ball closing.

Butcher-McInroy

The wedding took place in St. Luke's Anglican Church Friday evening, with the Rev. W. J. Gilling officiating, of Roselyn Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McInroy, to Lavergne Butcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armar Butcher, all of Peterborough.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a tailored gabardine suit in tangerine shade with green accessories and her corsage was of Talisman roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Wayne Ferguson, who was wearing a black velvet suit and white accessories and her corsage was of American Beauty roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Kenneth Batchelor.

A reception for the immediate families took place at the bride's home after the ceremony.

The bridal couple then left by motor to spend their honeymoon at Charleston, West Virginia. They will live on Cricket Place on their return.

Choose Fabrics To Suit Clothes When Sewing

Fine fabrics furnish the foundation from which all fashions are made. Today we have all the rich, luxurious fabrics of grandma's day plus the hardy, durable fabrics that have come to us from the chemical laboratories. Nylon is the outstanding example of this, and has proved its worth many times over. Other materials are being woven and tested. Before buying any of these new fabrics, it is wise to learn a bit about them. Ask if it is washable, does it shrink, does it require ironing, are the colors dye-fast? If you learn all these important things first, it will help you to look after your garments better. Many fabric companies have made up little booklets giving full details about their fabrics . . . telling you how to sew, wash and care for them to obtain the best results. These booklets are to assits the home-sewer and can be acquired from your own department store.

One of the most important things to consider when buying material is the suitability of the fabric to the pattern chosen. For example, if you wish to make one of the lovely full skirt models, it is better to choose a fabric with a little stiffness or body in it.

Cottons will be more popular than ever this year and can be found in all sorts of beautiful prints that are suitable for dress wear as well as everyday. Cottons are made in all types of materials from delicate sheers to heavy duty types. Colors are rich, and if you choose a good quality cotton, it should be completely dye-fast. Petticoats are made from cotton because it is cool, can be washed and starched easily and remains fresh looking as long as you wear it. Taffetas are also ideal for the stand-out effect along with organdy, dotted swiss, stiff lace and nylon.

If you're looking for a material to drape into soft lines, you'll find silk jersey, satin soft crepes and chiffon best. They can all be found in a wonderful assortment of delicate colors.

Coats and suits can be made from many fabrics. The deep pile or "poodle-cloth" materials are very important for coats and can be made in either a full or fitted style according to your choice.

Spring and summer will be gay with prints of all types . . . large or small floral designs, little geometric patterns and polka dots are all popular. Backgrounds of black, navy, shades of brown, grey, red, green, blue and purple are all lovely. Blue is leading the color parade with blonde tones, which means anything from an off-white to the lighter browns, coming after. Any color is right as long as it's the best color for you. Choose your fabrics with confidence this year, knowing there is a wonderful assortment and prices to suit everyone's budget.

Kelly-Killingbeck Nuptials

WARKWORTH, March 25 — (ENS).—In Oak Heights United Church on Saturday afternoon Grace Loretta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Killingbeck, R.R. 2, Warkworth, became the bride of Mr. John Albert Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of Campbellford.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. G. Lester. Wedding music was played by the bride's sister Miss Ferne Killingbeck and Miss Helen Beatty of Campbellford was soloist. Before the ceremony she sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and during the signing of the register, "Because."

Floral setting was formed of baskets of pink and white gladioli banked with ferns.

Chantilly lace and French net was fashioned over white taffeta in the bride's gown. The moulded lace bodice was outlined with appliqued lace flowers where it attached the neckline yoke of net and this same trim bordered the very bouffant skirt of net which had unusual decoration in a large pocket of lace. She wore a tiny bonnet-shaped hat made of the same lace as her dress and fingerless gloves to match. Her flowing veil was of French tulle illusion. A mauve orchid centred her bouquet of white carnations tied with white ribbon.

Mr. Killingbeck gave his daughter in marriage and she was attended by her sister Mrs. Bruce Elmhirst of Campbellford as matron of honor apd Mrs. John Flatt of Peterborough as bridesmaid. The groom's niece Maureen Kelly of Stirling was her flower girl.

The attendants wore quaint gowns of nylon marquisette over taffeta fashioned to emphasize tiny waistlines above very full floor length skirts and topped with tiny bolero jackets. Mrs. Elmhirst's dress was lilac shade and Mrs. Flatt's in spring green and they wore matching gloves and beaded tiaras. Cascade bouquets were of green tulips and yellow daffodils for the former and daffodils with mauve tulips for the latter. The flower girl wore a bouffant frock of yellow organdy with lace trim and a matching bonnet and mittens. She carried a basket of pink tulips and white narcissus.

Robert Kelly of Burlington was groomsman and Morris Kelly of London, Ontario, an usher at their brother's wedding and Bruce Elmhirst also ushered.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents where her mother received in a dress of navy tricotine crepe worn with grey accessories and a mauve orchid corsage. The groom's mother assisted, wearing a two piece grey taffeta dress with navy accessories and a mauve orchid.

Later the bridal couple left on a wedding trip east. Mrs. Kelly travelled in a three-piece suit of grey and mauve gabardine and was wearing a deep orchid corsage when going away.

They will live in Campbellford on return.

DOROTHY DIX

Key To Popularity Found In This 4-Step Program

DEAR MISS DIX: We have just moved to a suburban town from the city. I am finding it very difficult to make new friends, as most of the people around here have known each other for years. I'm a sophomore in high school. After school I have nothing to do but sit home and study or read. My mother say she's tired of my moping, but I do miss my friends in the city and don't know what to do with myself here. Have you any suggestions? VIVIAN

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER: It does often take a little time and patience for one to break into a new and already established "crowd," but it certainly is not the hopeless task you make it. Your schoolmates are just waiting to see if you measure up to their standards before accepting you as one of themselves. In the meantime, I have a few pointers that may help. Proficiency in four major fields of personal endeavor will soon bring you all the friends and dates you could possibly hope for. Here they are: Take the four letters that spell G-I-R-L! Let each one remind you of a trait you must acquire, and perfect. These are the things you must do: Groom, Interest, Relax, Liven! Not too difficult an assignment, is it?

Appearance Comes First

Groom: Your appearance, of course is the first thing people notice about you, and from it they can form the most amazing conclusions. If you happen to be an habitually untidy person, you'll be immediately marked tabu with particular people. So you begin by paying meticulous attention to the way you look. Your hair must be clean, lustrous, shining, and arranged simply and tidily. If you use make-up, go easy. Don't plaster color on cheeks that nature has already tinted with a glowing pink, nor waste gobs of lipstick on youthfully red lips. Be sure your clothes are always spotless and pressed, your shoes shined, and heels straightened. Don't go in for extremes in anything, especially when in school.

Interest: Now you have attracted the attention, and approval, of your schoolmates by a well-scrubbed and shining appearance, they begin to notice you and make conversation. Show your interest in them. Don't try to impress them with your life in the city, the glamorous friends you knew, or places you frequented. Be curious, but not obnoxiously inquisitive, about the activities of your new acquaintances, and about the school. Even though the goings-on may seem "small town" to you, this is, after all, where you live and local affairs will be important in your new life.

Relax: Now that you are receiving some attentions from your neighbors, don't be flustered by them. Accept any invitations extended to you in a gracious manner, with no false hesitancies about not knowing whether you're free on a certain night or not. Even though some of the boys and girls may seem boring to you, be nice to them and accept any overtures in a pleasantly grateful manner.

Liven: By this time, you have become one of the bunch. You go to many of their homes, their parties and are part of the general group. Don't sit back on your laurels. You must begin to do your part by contributing something to the general welfare. If you have talent, don't be hesitant about contributing some of it. If you play a musical instrument or sing, be generous in sharing the gift, but don't overdo it. Gauge the point at which your audience is satisfied, but not bored, and stop. Young peoples' groups become restive very easily, and activities must be constantly changed. If you don't have a particular talent, develop one. Become proficient in at least one sport and be ready to join in any games possible.

Follow this simple program, and see how long it takes to make friends!

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married four years ago when I was 18, and now have three children. My husband has driven a truck ever since our marriage, and has only been coming home once or twice a week. I hated it at first, but now I am glad, as he bores me to death. His only topic of conversation is trucks! Now he wants to get a job where he will be home nights. I dread it as I don't know how I can stand having him home every night of the week.

BONNIE

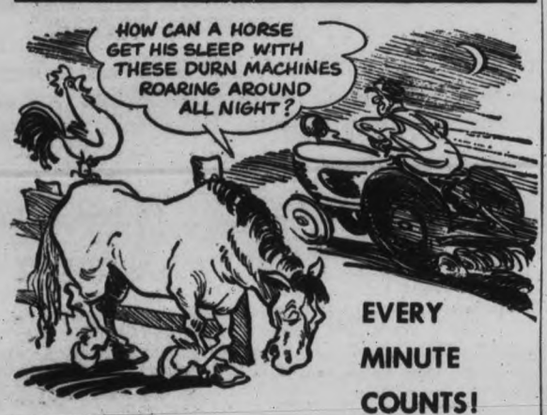
ANSWER: When a man is working hard to support you and his family, I don't see how you can tell him you don't want him home because he bores you! After all, he's earning the living for you. Being alone so much these past four years has probably made you so independent of anyone else's companionship that you dread having your solitude invaded. This phase, too, will pass as soon as you get used to your husband's new working schedule. If his conversation bores you, have you given any thought to your own? Perhaps you don't always have a sparkling flow of small talk, either.

Woman Escapes from laxative habit

"After trying many kinds of remedies to relieve constipation, I finally turned to a daily helping of ALL-BRAN. No constipation now!" confides happy Montreal woman. And delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN may bring back your youthful regularity if your suffering has been due to lack of bulk in your diet. It's the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. ALL-BRAN is high in iron and protein —not habit-forming. Eat ½ cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily; drink plenty of liquids. Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's London, Ont., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!



EVERY MINUTE COUNTS!

Now is the time to check over your machinery for spring cultivation. You won't make time with broken or badly running equipment. Efficient modern machinery lets you operate 24 hours a day if necessary. It cuts down labour and lowers cost of production.

Millbrook Holds CGIT Tea In Church Room

MILLBROOK, March 25 (ENS)—The C.G.I.T. of St. Andrew's United Church held a St. Patrick's Day tea in the waiting room on Saturday afternoon. The tea table was centred with daffodils and lighted green candles. The small tables were decorated with green streamers and shamrocks and daffodil bouquets. The assistants were: Marie Petersen, Marilyn Sanders, Janet Hobbs, Irene Olan, Laurel[illegible]rie, Dorothy Ball, Frances Elson, Lenore Ouellette, Ada Olan and Joan Gilbert. Mrs. M. E. Hobbs poured tea and the girls were assisted by their leaders, Mrs. A. M. Butler and Mrs. William Buckham and by Mrs. David Lunn who made tea. Replenishing plates were Alice Hawkins, Wilhelmina Eadie and Reta Kennedy.

Mary Mosher and Dorothea Chapman were in charge of the sale of the parcel post packages.

What's Right?

A friend who his having a tea or morning coffee asks you to pour.

WRONG: Protest that you'd rather not, that someone else would be better.

RIGHT: Accept the request graciously.

Homemakers Serve Dinner

BETHANY, March 25 (ENS)—The Glad I Canner's Junior Homemaker's Club on completion of their winter's course in nutrition and good supper dishes, served a delicious supper for the public in the United Church basement on Saturday evening.

The menu of soup, an attractive salad plate, tea biscuits, cup cakes, tarts and fruit dessert was served by the club members: Eleanor Rowan, Marie Finney, Janet Bigelow, Marie Lowery, Alva Bidgood, Grace Bigelow and Joan Bristow.

They were assisted by the leaders, Mrs. M. Finney, Mrs. Clarence Page and Mrs. H. L. Challice, members of the Women's Institute, who sponsor the club. Mrs. T. Jennings won the prize for the lucky ticket, which was drawn for by Miss Laura Morton.

Miss Marie Finney, president of the club welcomed the guests and spoke briefly of the work of the club, expressing the thanks of the members to the leaders. On display was their exhibit for the County Achievement Day to be held in Orono, also the record books, which noted each meeting's activities and home assignments. The poster for their exhibit was the work of Miss Laura Morton and the exhibit included the showing of seven ways of serving apples.

The Rev. James Hampson spoke briefly, commenting on the capable way in which the supper had been cooked and served.

Home Baking Cake Draws

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Hot Cross Buns Easy Way

One way or another most of you have come to the conclusion that I am a good cook. I hope I am. If that is true it is also true that we are a family of good cooks, for when my sister puts her hand to making such specials as hot cross buns or those delectable butter buns, I stay close. For nothing can cross her up on hot cross buns. The recipe I am giving you is Peady's, made often by me too, but originally worked out by her. (Someday I'll give you her Baked Chicken Special).

Easy Hot Cross Buns

Four tablespons sugar, 2 teaspons salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, ½ cup scalded milk, ½ cup cold water, 1 yeast cake or 1 package of granular yeast, about 3½ cups sifted bread flour, 1 egg, ½ cup either raisins or currants washed and dried, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind are optional but recommended, ½ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg. In large mixing bowl measure the sugar, salt and shortening. Stir in the scalded and still hot milk, and when shortening is melted add the cold water and crumble the yeast cake into it, stirring. (If granular yeast is used dissolve it for 10 minutes with 1 teaspoon of the required sugar in the cold water before adding the water). When yeast is blended in add 2 cups of the sifted flour, and the unbeaten egg, and beat well until batter is completely smooth. Add all of remaining flour, the fruit, rind and spice and beat very well. If to be used in the future, oil the top of the dough, cover and keep in cold part of refrigerator, breaking off dough and letting it rise (as described below) as you need it.

If to be used at once do not chill but separate dough into 3 even pieces and roll these with the palms into rolls about 8 or 10 inches long and cut each into 8 pieces so that you have 2 dozen even-size buns. Shape in buns by rolling between palms, place in rows without touching in 2 square pans which have been greased. Cover and let rise in warm place for about 1½ or 1¾ hours or until doubled. With the sharp point of a knife cut deep cross in top and let rise a few minutes longer. Bake at 425° Fahr. for 12 or 15 minutes. If desired 2 minutes before baking time is up you may brush them with mixture of 2 tablespoons each sugar and milk. To finish when cool make another cross in your cut cross with outline of icing.

Butter Cakes

I have had requests for these little cakes. They are yeast butter cakes, baked on a griddle as you may have seen them done in downtown restaurant windows. They are out of this world.

Scald 2 cups milk and add to them 1 teaspon salt, and 2 tablespoons each shortening and sugar. Cool this mixture to lukewarm and add 2 cakes yeast which have been crumbled. Stir until yeast is dissolved. Sift bread flour and measure 4½ cups and sift it over the wet mixture and stir and beat in until perfectly smooth—this takes at least 3 minutes with a strong arm. Scrape out into a clean bowl, and stand bowl in pan of warm water at 70° Fahr. and let rise until it is very light—much lighter than you would let bread rise. Drop from large spoon onto medium hot barely greased griddle—not as hot as for pancakes. Bake until bottom crust is brown but not burned. It takes from 10 to 15 minutes to acquire a good crunchy crust on both sides. Break apart while hot and dot with butter. Serve at once. If there should be any left-over split and toast and spread with butter. These amounts make about 15 medium-sized cakes. Worthy of a party and nothing could cost less.

6—In Memoriam

DODD—In loving memory of a dear father, who passed away March 25, 1951.
His weary hours of loneliness,
His troubled days are past,
And in our aching hearts we know
He has found sweet rest at last.
—Daughters Lillian and Myrtle.

PAGETT—In loving memory of Roger who passed away six years ago today.
All the dear little angels were robed in white,
All happy at play in the midst of light.
When Jesus came calling and said to His hand,
"Here's one more little playmate, give Roger your hand."
—Lovingly remembered by Mother, Father and brothers.

WOOD—In loving memory of my husband, Wellie, who passed away Mar. 25, 1951.
I have only your memory dear husband
To remember my whole life through
But the sweetness will linger forever
As I treasured the memory of you —Ever remembered by his wife Edith.

7—Cards of Thanks

I sincerely thank the Rev. Fathers, Sisters, Doctors, Nurses and many friends who were so kind to me during my stay in St. Joseph's hospital and all who sent cards and letters since my accident—Michael Mahoney.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to attending doctors, nurses and sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital, also friends and neighbors, for their visits, cards and gifts during my recent illness.—Mrs. Douglas Markwick.

The family of the late Mrs. Elijah Hubble wish to express their sincere thanks for flowers, cards and expressions of sympathy during their recent bereavement.

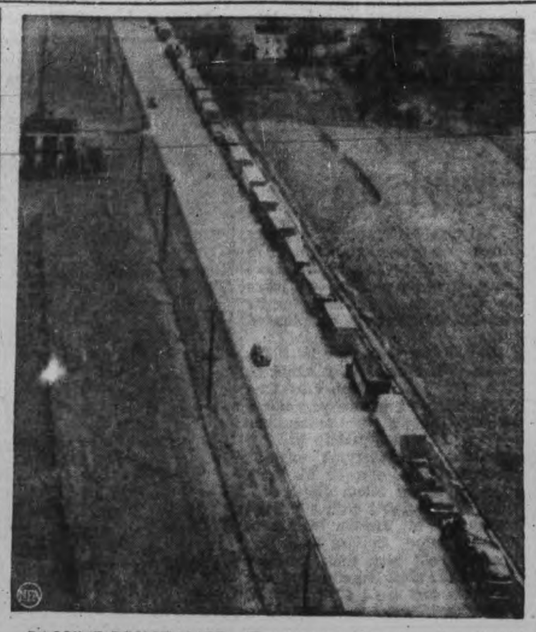
No Propaganda

DETROIT, March 25—(AP)—The Detroit Arts Commission declared Monday it could find no Communist propaganda in the motor city murals of Mexican artist Diego Rivera. The commission rejected a plea of former Mayor Eugene I. Van Antwerp that the murals in the Detroit Institute of Arts be painted over or ripped out.



PASSIVE RESISTANCE—Trucks were lined up for almost two miles along U.S. Route 20 at Conneaut, O., as trucksters halted in protest against a Pennsylvania law limiting truck weights to 45,000 pounds. Hhe blockade began at midnight and scenes like this wtre re-enacted at many points along the state border.

Buy Annuity For Mrs. Tong

TORONTO, March 25 (CP). — L. G. Gillett, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, announced today the purchase of a life annuity for the widow of slain Det.-Sgt. Edmund Tong and donations to the benevolent funds of the Toronto and Montreal police forces.

Payments for Mrs. Tong will amount to $7,600. Of this, $6,500 will be used to purchase a life annuity and $1,100 will be used to retire a mortgage on her home in Toronto.

Additionally the Canadian Bankers' Association will divide $5,000 between the benevolent funds of Toronto and Montreal police forces "in appreciation of extraordinarily fine police work and close co-operation between the Toronto and Montreal police forces" in rounding up three suspected bank robbers, Steve Suchan, Leonard Jackson and Edwin Boyd.

Tong was shot down March 6 by two gunmen when he and Det.-Sgt. Roy Perry stopped a car on Toronto streets while investigating a series of bank robberies.

Meanwhile, establishment of a fund for Tong szayfmli fund for Tong's family was announced today by Mayor Allan Lamport. The fund of public contributions pouring in would be administered by finance commissioner Arthur Lascelles.

Approve Award

WASHINGTON, March 25 — (AP)—The U.S. Senate Monday approved award of the Merchant Marine Distinguished Service Medal to Capt. Henrik Kurt Carlsen. Carlsen was master of the "Flying Enterprise", which sank in January despite his virtually single-handed efforts to bring her to port.

Bakeries Charged

HONG KONG, March 25 (Reuters) — A Communist newspaper received here, says 52 bakeries in Hankow, have been charged with using inferior ingredients in making cookies for Chinese troop in Korea. Several of the bakeries were specifically accused of causing the illness of 8 volunteers."

Toscanini Has 85th Birthday

NEW YORK, March 25—(AP) —A year ago, friends were wondering if Arturor Toscanini would ever conduct again. Today, on his 85th birthday, they're confident he'll be doing so for some time.

The world-renowned maestro observed the occasion at home with his children and grandchildren.

He was expected to take time out from reading the hundreds of congratulatory messages to run through, on the piano, Beethhoven's Ninth Symphony—the work he will conduct Saturday in his final concert of the season.

At this time last year, the fiery Toscanini was in "temporary retirement". An old knee injury had forced him to cancel a spring schedule.

A close associate said:

"He seems to have completely overcome that truble. He bounces around on the podium, and up the steps with the old vigor. His doctor says he has the heart of a man of 30. He'll be back next year, and for a long time to come".

Marmora CWL Votes To Continue Bursary

MARMORA, March 25—(ENS) —March meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart hall on Sunday evening with a fair attendance. The president, Mrs. Charles Cook, occupied the chair. A letter of thanks was received from the Rev. F. O'Flaherty of the Indian Mission at Port Arthur for used clothing sent this winter. Also a letter of thanks was read from Msgr. MacDonald of Alexandria for the disposing of Christmas cards. Several other thankyou letters were read from members who had received gifts.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Joseph O'Neill. Mrs. H. English reported for social welfare. Mrs. J. McCrodan and Mrs. B. Hughes reported 15 visits to the sick and shutins and the same ladies volunteered for this duty for the coming month.

The president reported that Peter Nicholson had obtained the highest standing in matriculation and the bursary from the League would be presented to him at the High School Comencement exercises on Friday evening. It was decided to donate this prize again next year.

It was decided to hold an April Fool supper in the hall on April 1. The members brought in donations for the basket of groceries to be drawn for after Easter. The basket was donated by Mrs. B. Hughes.

Group 2 and 3 were asked to furnish the lunch for the April meeting. The Nominating Committee was then appointed with Mrs. A. M. Jones chairman assisted by Mrs. H. English and Mrs. W. A. Shannon.

The Rev. J. A. O'Neill then addressed the meeting on undesirable comic strips and literature which enters the home, after which a resolution was passed to write the Diocesan convener condemning such comics and literature.

The first combined business and social meeting of the newly formed Scouters' Club was held in St. Luke's Parish Hall last week with a real attendance. President Walter Wood started off with a brief outline of the purposes of the club and introduced his fellow officers in Mrs. Hatton and Gord Hunt. Mrs. Epping, District Commissioner for Guides in Peterborough was introduced and gave a short paper on the guide movement and its relationship to scouting.

Special guest Campbell Rowett, chairman of the Anglers' and Hunters' Association offered the services of the association in the work of badge instruction within their area of work, especially in conservation. Mr. Rowett Explained the work of his association to those present and stated the standards set by the Boy Scouts Association were very high and one that would be well for all members of the Fish and Game and Anglers and Hunters to aspire to.

District Commissioner Dr. G. R. Langley presented skipper Ken Jakins of the Lakefield Sea Scout Troop with his part two Gilwell certificate.

During the social section Jerry Hatton and Miss Marilyn Huycke won the hog calling contest, Mrs. Gardner and Darrel Lipsett came first in the shoe dance and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Payton of Lakefield group won the spot dance.

Eastern Ontario Conference

One bus load and several cars travelled to Cobourg Saturday to attend the leaders conference being held in that town. Skipper Art Rose of All Saints' was in charge of the Rover discussion and was fully supported by members of his crew. Scouter Bill King of St. Luke's conducted the Cub leaders section of the course. Some 190 officers, group committee men and members of Mothers' Auxiliaries were present with action all the way.

Mothers' At Work

Dr. and Mrs. Jim Perry with Mrs. Norman Elliott visited the Lakefield Sea Scout headquarters last week at which the work of the Scout Mothers' Auxiliary was the subject of instruction given to a group of interested mothers of the Lakefield Sea Scouts. The Peterborough visitors were royaly entertained and found the Lakefield headquarters a very interesting spot especially the large open fireplace.

With St. John's

Bagheera Stan Purser introduced new ideas into the games of the pack giving the lads a real understanding about the Union Jack in a game in which the Panthers came out to win over the Tigers by the score of 8 to 5. after the close of the regular meeting Jim Baker passed his model and public telephone and also presented a certificate for the swimmers badge, our little English Cub completed book-balancing, time leap frog and Union Jack, Ken Collins, Garry Hamilton, and Bruce Cotton passed leap frog Garry also competed Union Jack tests. Some action was shown in the troop the net results being Peter Dunford passing knotting, Wayne Collins —First Aid and Gadgets, Laurie Gedge the laws and promise.

2nd Armour in Action

Saturday morning found 26 members of St. Luke's troop on the early morning train for their annual visit to the Sportsman Show in Toronto. An arrival at the biy city the troop made their first stop at the Royal Ontario Museum. Here the party divided into three section under scouter Henry Nokes acting A.S.M. Danny Barclay and troop leader Bob Harvey. The group went to the Sportsman Show with the keenest interest being taken in the Cardwell's from Wallace Point and their canoe capers. A great impression was made on the group by the Preston Boy Scout band, not only for their good music but also the fact that 23 out of the 56 members of the band were wearing the Queen's Scout badge. On their return home the boys found great activity at the station as they witnessed the repair gang working at a derailed engine, thus capping a busy and interesting day.

The Cub pack are still really be aiming for one of those plan achievement awards for 1952. Roger Mesley was accepted into the pack and presented with his white kerchief. One new project is the building of model planes with the instruction at present being limited to one member of each six. The following tests were recorded, Roger Mesley, Darrell Halstead and Wayne Ash—law and promise, Ken Starr—promise, Don Easterbrook—time, Don Muir—knots and book-balancing, Blair Greenley—knots, ball throwing, Daird Pilley—time and ball throwing, David Choate—knots, Neil Roberts—book-balancing, Bob MacDonald and Ron Worboy—physical exercises, Bob Exell—skipping and time, Don Morrison, toy maker.

Down At Sacred Heart

The pack is steadily growing larger with another new chum, Bert Bailey, being accepted into the pack. During an investiture ceremony Bill Rogers and Bob DeNoble were made full members of the Brotherhood of Scouting as they took their Cub Promise to "do a good turn every day." Hopping and somesault were the main items in the tests examinations with Peter DeNoble, Gary Garvey, Bill Harrington, Paul Brioux, Paul Harding, Tom Teevins, Larry Woodcock and Michael Collins passing with flying colors.

Visit Firehall

All Saints' Cub Pack recently spent an evening at the Fire Hall. The boys enjoyed their visit and especially the instructions they received on the equipment. At the Pack rooms a ceremony was held at which Bruce Jackson became a full fledged Cub. Also Graham Sutton will now proudly wear the homecraft and team players badges he was presented with at the last meeting.

Bill Watters Reports

St. Paul's Pack held its regular meeting on Friday last with some 31 Cubs assembled around the Council Rock, at which two ceremonies were carried out. First group committee chairman John Anderson officiated in the promotion of Larry Greig to the rank of Sixer and Barry LeRoy to that of Seconder. Akela McLeod then invested Roy McWilliams in the Pack as a Tenderpad, Mr. and Mrs Williams being on hand to congratulate their son and wish him good hunting. Sixer Watters led the game of "Whispering Relay" and Sixer Montgomery the game of "My ship is sailing". Then came the tests with the following results:—Tom Caldwell—collector's badge, L. Greig —swimmers' badge, David Minty completed first star work, W. Turner —Union Jack, somersault, book balancing, ball throwing, R. Williams—leap frog, book balancing, ball throwing, S. McBride—Union Jack, somersault, B. Law—national anthem, savings, cleaning boots, folding clothes, J. Jones—compass, national anthem, cleaning boots, folding clothes, savings, B. LeRoy—signalling, compass, cleaning boots, folding clothes, F. Spinks and W. Dunfield—Compass, savings, cleaning boots, folding clothes.

Murray Street Reports

All phases of scouting tests were the order of the day under scouter LeBar and troop leader Horning. Gerry Armstrong, Garry Sarginson, Brian Simpson completed laws and promise, Max Horning passed signalling. At the regular meeting the court of honor went into session drawing up plans for future hikes and also election of officers. Gord Pollock—troop reporter and photographer, Max Horning—quartermaster and Gary Sarginson—historian.

Trinity Pack

The last two meetings of the pack has seen some changes in the personnel in which the following promotions were carried out. Sixers—Earl Daynes, Tom Nesbitt, John Thompson, Paul Ross; Seconders — Leslie Mann, Donald Gibson, Douglas Hardwick, Stanley Hood, George Malby, Allan Jamieson. To round out the group Akela Gordon Hunt will still be ably assisted by Brian Malcolm and David Elliott who have been sixers for the past year. A sixer's council meeting was held to discuss future plans. Ken Kearns and Jim Tanney passed Union Jack, Bill Howe—cleanliness, George Malby, Ken Sage, Grant Sparrow, Jack Woodgate, Dill Edmondson, Bill White, Ralph McCullough, Stanley Hood, David Clark, Ken McFadden, Bob Don Gibson, John Thompson, Leslie Mann, Earle Daynes completed signalling.

Another member was added as David Ross was accepted into the troop through the investiture ceremony Friday and Don Spearin advanced a little along the trail in passing his knotting and camp bed tests also Dick Burgess in the completion of knotting. The games "British Bulldog" and "Crows and Cranes" were on the evening's program.

Bridgenorth Visit

Your scribe recently visited the Bridgenorth scout group with Peter Dominik to take part in the investiture ceremonies of that unit.

Jack Cocks was invested as assistant club leader. Jack then assisted cub master Patterson and Mr. Dominik in the investiture of Dale Doughty, Larry Heard and Murray Payne into the cub jungle.

Following this Ernie Clarke was invested a scoutmaster for the troop. He then carried out the investiture of Don Phillips, Noel Pearson, Brian Edwards and David Parish into the world brotherhood of scouting as members of the Bridgenorth troop.

The final ceremony of the evening was the investiture of Bill Lawrence as patrol leader in charge of the Seal Patrol. Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Payne and Mrs. George Heard were present to witness the advent of their sons in the scout movement and the Rev. D. P. Morris involked the blessing on the boys.

The members of the 17th Peterborough Scout Troop's Court of Honor visited one of their members, Peter Gray, who has been confined to St. Joseph's Hospital for two weeks.

A very nice basket of fruit was presented to Peter by Art Little, Patrol Leader of the Eagles of which Pete is Seconder, with best wishes of the Troop for a very speedy recovery. Art's only regret was that the Eagles did not win the pennant last week so that he was unable to let Pete keep it for the remainder of his confinement, but expects when Peter gets back, they will have a better chance. During their visit, they noticed a young chap, Frank McLeod, to whom they presented a copy of the book "Tenderfoot To Kingscout" and a knotting rope. Frank has never been a scout but is very interested and believes that if there are scouts in Lindsay, he will join. If not, he is going to become a lone scout. Frank lives about a mile from Lindsay.

The Scouts, with a healthy curiosity, asked their Scouter if they might try out the new self-operating elevator and were referred to the nurse who granted their request, but after pressing all the buttons, ended up by locking themselves in for about ten minutes. When, with a true scout's self-reliance, they finally realized what was wrong and got out, they were satisfield to sit down and enjoy a game of monopoly with Peter. It might also be mentioned that the basket of fruit disappeared very fast.

REPLACEMENTS FOR KOREA—A large body of Canadian soldiers sailed recently from Seattle, Wash., en route to Korea, where they will replace units of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade due for rotation to Canada. Members of the 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, line the ship's rail as they wave good-bye.

Council Settles

Suburban roads, $20,000 ($17,000); increase $3,000; city's share of Suburban Roads Commission's budget.

Water rate (hydrants, etc.), $40,000 ($36,500); increase $3,500, charged by Peterborough Utilities Commission.

Manufacturers Committee, $6,500 ($2,427.95); increase $4,072.05. The part-time services of an Industrial Commissioner and his expenses are the reason for this increase.

Parks Department, $66,000 ($66,948.98); decrease $948.98.

Recreation Commission, $15,700 ($17,000); decrease $1,300.

Public Library Board, $48,300 ($40,700); increase $7,600, for wage increases, painting the exterior of the building, heating installation.

Police Department, $160,047.50 ($136,42.21); increase $23,825.29, increased wages and rent.

Property Committee, $15,000 ($26,471.10); decrease $11,471.10; reasons for reduction: Repairs and alterations to fire hall, city barn, new market site and Charlotte Street parking lot amounted to $24,502.92 in the 1951 budget.

Special Grants, $7,375 ($9,920.73); decrease $2.545.73; certain grants were reduced and some eliminated.

Welfare, $38,900 ($35,025.15); increase $3,874.85, wage increases and rent.

School Rates

Ald. Miller's summary of education costs was: "The levy for Board of Education purposes is $706,307.15 for a total increase of 3.16 mills over last year. This is an all-time high.

"Cost of operating Public Schools has risen from 12.15 mills to 14.10 mills, an increase of 1.55 mills.

"Cost of operating Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School has risen from 3.97 to 5.18 mills, an increase of 1.21 mills.

"Debenture charges for 1952 increased over last year by 1.13 mills, making a total of 4.29 mills for school purposes.

"The main reasons for the increase are as follows: (1) Increase in salaries and cost of living bonus. (2) Expansion of school system. (3) New Kenner Collegiate Institute. (4) Rent for quarters in new City Hall.

Civic Hospital

"Civic Hospital is another major item in our budget.

Expenditure for 1951	$881,557.39
Revenue, grants and patients	$841,524.34
Deficit	$40,033.05

The deficit was caused principally by increased wages.

The 1952 requirements are as follows:

To cover 1951 deficit	$40,033.05
Operating Costs	$219,026.94
Total	$259,059.99

"The increased grant over last year's grant of $100,000, includes $97,000 for increased wages. The organization of an employees' union was instrumental in causing this increase.

"The Civic Hospital employs approximately 275 persons, plus 87 nurses in training.

"In as much as increased wages make up a large percentage of our increased rate, a word of explanation is necessary.

"In 1951 it was decided to attach the cost of living bonus to all basic salaries at the rate of 1% increase (in salary) for each one-point rise in the cost of living index. The cost of living has risen in the past year 19 points or 19 per cent. We are forced to maintain a fair wage schedule in keeping with municipalities of comparable size, local business and industrial rates.

"Faced with the previously mentioned facts, the Council's only course is to curtail any major expenditures by way of works and equipment, and hold necessary expenditures to a minimum consistent with proper maintenance of services.

"The Council is fully aware of the fact that while our financial condition is not embarrassing, we are treading close to the border line and must exercise extreme caution in handling the public funds.

"Our capital debt stands at $7,022,606.25 (which includes an issue of approximately $1,200,00 for this year). We are reducing our debt at the rate of $400,000 per annum, which simply means that Councils for the next 15 years must refrain wherever possible from issuing any large size debentures.

"The City Council feels that they would be negligent in their duties if they were to levy for any amount of revenue which would not be sufficient to pay the cost of all our lawful financial obligations.

"In summing up the budget we arrive at the following conclusions:

"1. That every source of revenue should be reviewed for further possibilities.

"2. That municipalities should have other fields of taxation besides property and business tax.

"3. That provincial grants should be greatly increased for educational and hospital purposes.

"I hope I have made the Council's position clear to the citizens as a whole. I am sure that all the members of the Council have endeavored to serve you conscientiously, to the best of their ability so as to merit a continuation of your confidence in all our efforts on your behalf.

"The final pasing of the Council's 1952 budget has been delayed pending the presentation of the provincial budget. We did hope that some increased grants for education and hospital purposes would materialize, unfortunately such is not the case. There were two items in the provincial budget, namely, taxation of Utilities [illegible] and provincial buildings, which will be helpful.

"Mr. Mayor, I would like to thank every member of the Council and of the various spending bodies for the whole-hearted support accorded to me in bringing in my second budget. I cannot say that I am particularly proud of the budget, but I am satisfied that a real effort has been made this year."

Commenting on Ald. Miller's "complete report and review," Mayor Waddell said he hoped it would give the public a "good idea of the problem faced by the Council this year."

"Now that the committes have arrived at the budget," said His Worship, "I think it behooves everyone to see that we keep within the estimates. Frequent checks will be made during the year to make sure that that is done."

The summary of the 1952 tax rate, and for comparison, the 1951 rate, which Ald. T. D. Miller included in his explanatory review of the budget Monday night, was as follows (in mills):

	1951	1952	Increase/
General Rates	22.88	25.68	2.80
Garbage Collection	2.20	2.15	Dec. .05
Civic Hospital	3.91	6.49	2.58
School Rates	17.66	21.95	4.29
Separate Schools	19.16	24.45	5.29
Unemployment Relief	1.04	.98	Dec. .06
Debenture Rates	7.81	7.50	Dec. .31
Public School Supporters	55.5	64.75	9.25
Separate School Supporters	57.	67.25	10.25

Hope To Find Body Of Child As Ice Goes Out

Now that the ice is going out of the Otonabee river, it is hoped that the body of five-year-old Sharon Littlefair will be found.

It is believed that Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Littlefair, 53 Edgewater Blvd., drowned in the river about 100 yards from her home on Sunday afternoon, January 6.

Her sleigh was found on the thin ice, with the rope dangling in the water, where the ice had given way.

Playing With Dog.

About 5 p.m., Sharon was still playing in the snow with her sleigh and dog, near her home. Less than half an hour later, a passerby, attracted by the barking of Sharon's dog Nipper, turned in the alarm. Nipper was standing near the hole in the ice, barking excitedly and from the sheathing of ice clinging to him, it appeared he may have tried to rescue his small mistress.

However, there was no trace of Sharon who was wearing a green parka and snow suit.

Police and fireman dragged the river in the vicinity for several days without success. They were hampered by near zero weather which froze the river over almost as quickly as it was opened up. Toward the end of the week, dragging was discontinued after it was decided that any further attempts would be useless on account of the extremely cold weather.

The current is quite swift between Burnham Point and Point St. Charles, where the Otonabee empties into Little Lake and it is believed that the child's body may have been carried downstream.

To Prepare Report

KARACHI, March 25—(AP)—Dr. Frank P. Graham, U.N. mediator for disputed Kashmir, leaves for Geneva to prepare his report on the situation. Graham informed the U.N. last fall he was unable to find a solution for Kashmir's future suitable to both India and Pakistan. The Security Council asked him to make another try and he has been here and in New Delhi for the last four weeks working on it.

Star Adopts Baby

MEXICO CITY, March 25 (AP) —Josephine Baker has adopted a month-old Mexican boy. The American vaudeville and night club star said the as-yet-unnamed child will be flown in about 10 days to Paris where she maintains her permanent home. Miss Baker said the child is the son of an unmarried secretary.

Fewer Communists

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP) —F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover says membership in the U.S. Communist Party has dropped off by one-fourth in the last year and the remaining 31,608 have begun going underground. A year ago there were 43,217 Communists in this country, he told the House Appropriations Committee in testimony made public Monday night.

SLAIN DETECTIVE — Edmund Tong, 48-year-old Toronto detective, has died of wounds suffered when shot by two bank holdup suspects he stopped for questioning March 6. Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, both later captured in Montreal, and both also wounded by police, face charges of murder in connection with detective Tong's death.

Browns Make Clean Sweep Of Old Players

By GAYLE TALBOT.

BURBANK, Calif., March 25—(AP)—It is a mighty job of slum clearance that Bill Veeck has carried out on St. Louis Browns, who lost 102 games last season and staggered in 10 lengths behind the seventh-place Washington Senators in the American League.

Scarcely a trace is left of that deplorable outfit. The club has a driving new manager in Rogers Hornsby, who firmly expects to climb up over several teams. It also has what most baseball men regard as the finest set of rookies coming into either league this year.

Outside the pitching staff, only one regular from last season is likely to be in the Browns' line-up opening day. That would be Bobby Young, the club's sophomore second baseman. The only other possibility appears to be first baseman Hank Arft, though he more than likely will be replaced by Dick Khyhoski, a long-ball hitter obtained from Detroit.

Marion Only Veteran

The only real veteran in whom Hornsby is placing some hope is 24-year-old Marty Marion, the former "Mr. Shortstop" of the Cards, who is trying earnestly to make a comeback after a season as a bench manager.

If Marty makes it—and he says he will play at least 130 games—the Browns will take on an appearance of real class around the infield. Should Marty find the grind too heavy, Hornsby will have to fall back on Joe Demaestri, a fine-field, no-hit youngster obtained from the White Sox.

Of four highly-touted rookies who figure to take over steady jobs under the new order, the one with the most clippings is Jim Rivera, a swift centrefielder who hit .352 in helping Hornsby win the coast league pennant at Seattle last year.

In right field will be George Schmees, picked by Hornsby from Hollywood, where he hit .328 and drove across 100 runs. The left field post likely will go to Bob Nieman, the Texas League batting champion who closed last season with the Browns and walloped .372 in a dozen games.

Rounding out the infield at third is Leo Thomas, who slugged .310 for Portland last year and hammered across 106 runs. Some other infielders are around, such as Mike Goliat of the 1950 champion Phillies and Stan Rojek.

Future Looks Good

CHATHAM, March 25 —(CP)—The sugar beet industry outlook for 1952 is bright, directors of the Sugar Beet Marketing Board of Ontario were told here Monday. "One of the best outlooks ever facing the industry is the way the picture looks now," Eugene King, chairman of the board, told the meeting.

Professor Dies

TORONTO, March 25 — (CP) — Claude D. Longmore, 69, for 42 years an associate professor and librarian with Frontier College, died Monday. Frontier College, founded in 1900, has been popularly known as the "college in overalls." Its students are frontiersmen, lumberjacks, miners and railroaders in Canada's north.

Teachers End Strike

ANTIGONISH, N.S., March 25—(CP) — Antigonish County rural teachers voted Monday to end their school strike. The 94 teachers, who struck Feb. 19 to back demands for a $300 yearly wage increase, accepted a boost of $100 for single teachers and $200 for married teachers.

Local interest will focus on city skaters like Joan Begley (left), club senior women's champion, doing a spin, and Francis Finn, 12-year-old club skater, (right) performing a split jump.—(Choate Studio Photos).

Dunlop Surprised By Drop In Toronto School Grants

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—Education Minister Dunlop Monday told a delegation of Toronto school trustees he will investigate the province's school-grant system which is said to have allowed grants to Toronto to drop from 27 per cent to 12 per cent of the Board budget in the last five years. In 1945, the grant was $3,500,000. This year it will be $2,960,000.

Dr. Dunlop appeared surprised when informed of the drop. He was sympathetic toward the Toronto situation and trustees were hopeful when they left the meeting.

Eight trustees, accompanied by three board officials, specifically asked for an increased ceiling on grants per pupil and a change in the regulation which tends to discourage the rehabilitation of old schools. They pressed for a grant schedule which would have the province pay 25 per cent of Toronto board of education costs.

Although the actual amount paid to Toronto has varied little, the percentage to the total budget has dropped year by year as the budget increased. In 1945, the grant took care of 27 per cent of board expenditures and amounted to $3,500,000. This year the grant will be $2,960,000, about 12 per cent of the budget.

If the provincial government had maintained the 27 per cent ratio of 1945, the grant this year would have been roughly $6,000,000, or $3,040,000 more than it actually will be. A 27 per cent grant would have meant a mill rate more than two mills lower than the board's 1952 levy of 14.05.

Most of the Toronto decrease has been the result of falling enrollment in local schools. There are 20,000 fewer pupils in Toronto public and secondary schools than there were 16 years ago, as the result of the suburban exodus. But costs have soared.

The provincial grant formula is broken down into three sections. In the public school section, Toronto receives $16 per pupil in actual attendance, plus 16 per cent of instructional costs with a ceiling of $75 per pupil. Included also is 16 per cent of approved costs of debt charges, transportation of pupils and certain capital outlays. A textbook grant of $3 per pupil is added.

In the collegiate institute section, the board receives $40 per pupil per year based on average daily attendance, and 15 per cent of approved debt charges, transportation costs and certain capital costs. In addition, the board receives 50 per cent of the cost of night school teaching salaries.

In the vocational school section, the board receives $70 per pupil, 50 per cent of approved furniture and equipment items, and 50 per cent of night school salaries.

Municipalities with a population of more than 20,000 do not get grants for structural alterations in schools, new foundations, basements, stairways, new roofs, fire doors, new heating equipment, lighting, sanitary conveniences, fences, blackboards, desks, pianos and film projectors.

Scotts Corners Team Awarded Olan Trophy

SPRINGVILLE, March 25 — (ENS)—Wednesday evening was a memorable evening for the Scotts' Corners midget hockey team. Meeting at the Millbrook Arena, this team was addressed and congratulated by the Rev. A. A. Choate, Anglican minister at Millbrook and Ida.

Delbert Olan, reeve of Cavan township, brought with him a trophy which he is donating to the midget hockey players of the Millbrook-Cavan area. This year it was won by the Scott's Corners team and Mr. Olan called upon Carman Seymour, manager; A. B. Creighton, coach, and Melville Stevens, the captain of the team, to come forward. Then he presented this trophy with the name of the team suitably inscribed to Mel Stevens, the captain.

Speeches in appreciation of Mr. Olan's gift followed. This trophy is to be competed for annually.

The Eastern Canada Junior A basketball finals will be held in Windsor April 3 to 5, Stan Mockford, eastern zone secretary of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, announced Monday night in Toronto.

Committee To Study Ancient Coat-of-Arms

OTTAWA, March 25 — (CP) — Board of Control has set up a committee to see what can be done about the capital's outdated coat-of-arms. "A miscellaneous collection of hardware," is the most kindly phase applied to the city's heraldry by critics.

Included in the present coat-of-arms, besides a broadax (Mayor Charlotte Whitton says it "looks like a meat cleaver") representing the timber trade, are: a beehive for industry; a plow and sheaf of wheat indicating plenty; a locomotive for rail transport; the canal locks and Ottawa River for water transportation; a rural scene representing a country blessed with sunshine, timber and game; Chaudiere Falls for water power; the blindfolded figure of justice; a blacksmith at his anvil symbolic of "dignity of labor"; and the rose, thistle and shamrock for the British connection.

Hamlet Has Company As Train Stalled

REE HEIGHTS, S.D., March 25 (AP)—Practically everybody in Ree Heights (pop. 254) had company Monday—17 passengers from a snow-stalled train and 27 trainmen.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad train stalled in a 10-foot drift in Saturday's blizzard. Later a third engine, with snowplow attachment, bogged down. The passengers and crew are still here, waiting for a work train to dig them out.

Teepees Still Going Strong Knock Off Guelph Biltmores 4-3

By The Canadian Press.

St. Catharines Teepees appear to be enjoying their role of underdog in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs.

The Teeps confounded the hockey world by wading through Kitchener Greenshirts and Toronto St. Michael's in the opening rounds. Then Monday night they staged a four-goal rally to edge Guelph Biltmores 4-3 in the first game of their best-of-seven finals.

The victory came after Guelph appeared to have the game salted away with a 3-0 lead half way through the second period. From there on in its was all St. Catharines. Four unanswered goals spelled victory for the club that finished sixth in the 10-team standings.

The two clubs move into St. Catharines Wednesday night for the second game. The series survivors will meet South Porcupine Combines who Monday night won the Northern Ontario Hoskey Association Junior A championship with a 7-2 victory over Sudbury Wolves.

The win gave Porkies the best-of-seven final, four games to one. Their series with the O.H.A. champs will be a Memorial Cup quarter-final.

Sault Winners

In Sault Ste. Marie Monday night, the Greyhounds downed Noranda Copper Kings 8-2 before 6,375 fans to capture the N.O.H.A. Senior A title. In winning the best-of-seven finals four games to two, Sault Ste. Marie advances to meet the survivors of the O.H.A. Senior A playoffs in an all-Ontario Allan Cup final.

Chuck Marshall, Buddy Boone, Hank Ceisla and Brian Cullen tallied the St. Catharines goals while Andy Bathgate led the Guelph attack with two. Chuck Henderson scored Biltmores' other marker.

Bill Nedham and Bruce Jones led Combines with a pair of goals each, Ab Festarini, John McCord, Mike Kelly, Bill Cochrane and Merv Towers potting the rest. Bill Howard and Ed Demiess banged in Sudbury's goals.

Lotteries To Aid Hospitals Endorsed By Young PC's

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP) — Provincial lotteries to finance hospitals were endorsed Monday by the Young Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

Delegates to the Association's annual meeting adopted a resolution advocating a criminal-code amendment to permit provincial governments to operate lotteries. The proceeds would be for hospitals only.

The resolution originated with a delegation from Quebec, a province which has on the statute books a law permitting it to run lotteries. The law remains inoperative because of the criminal-code provision banning lotteries.

Leon Balcer, president of the association, said in an interview that the vote at the closed meeting was about 60-40 in favor of the lottery resolution. It won support from delegates outside of Quebec who felt it would be better to have legalized lotteries than to have Canadians continue to buy illegally Irish Sweepstake tickets.

Sent to Drew

The resolution, one of several adopted by the association, will be sent to George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and members of his party in the Commons for consideration at Caucus.

The young supporters of the party, met shortly after the opening of the three-day annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada. The senior association will do much of its work today.

George Nowlan, president of the senior association, said stress will be placed on getting party organizations ready for the next general federal election.

The Women's Association, meeting simultaneously with the Young Association, discussed ways in which they could help to strengthen the party. Sybil Bennett of Georgetown, Ont., was re-elected president of the Women's Association for another two-year term.

Mr. Balcer, member of the Commons for the Quebec constituency of Trois Rivieres, was re-elected president of the Y.P.C.

In one of their resolutions, the delegates urged tax and tariff reductions to bring down the cost of living. They called for revision in the government's immigration policies because of the unemployment situation. They asked unemployment insurance not be collected from students who work during the summer months.

TORNADO VICTIM—Mrs. Harry Waller comforts her husband after he was brought into a Dyersburg (Tenn.) hospital, a victim of the battery of vicious twisters that tore through a six-state area in the South. Death toll from the disaster reached 236, and more than 1,000 were injured.

Sacred Heart PTA Presents Lively Farce

"Always In Trouble", a lively farce, was presented last night in Sacred Heart Club House. Like most farces the play depends more on its action and humor for its success than upon a complicated plot.

The railway station in Slabtown, Mizzoury, really came to life with millionaires, Jazz-time weddings and bombs exploding. Gideon Blair, a millionaire (Frank Neary) certainly had his troubles in marrying off his grandchild to one of his own choice. Misery Moon (Neil Collins) by his fights with a colored cook and his frantic efforts to collect nine dollars from the grouchy old man took the star part of the play. His constant misfortunes and hard luck justifies the title "Always in Trouble".

Other comedy scenes were furnished by Lulu Pearl (Mrs. M. McDougall) whose every move and speech, is rag-time; Paula Maleek (Mrs. B. Rogers) who is after Tutt with a bomb; Samantha Slade (Mrs. L. Martyn) the old maid; and Patrick Keller (Joe Slattery) the bewildered ticket-seller.

Rosebud Reese (Mrs. V. Flynn) the grandchild in persuading Hiram Tutt (Rupert Millar) not to marry her feigns insanity and ends up by marrying Tom Rissle (Clair Grady) her grandfather's choice, and so collects her million dollars.

Extra girls included Mrs. J. Duggan and Mrs. J. DeNoble. Country travellers waiting in the station, Mr. and Mrs. E. Blodgett, Miss T. Sullivan and Miss C. Collins.

Music was supplied by Herbert Michel, Frank Heath, Mrs. G. Moore, Mrs. M. Murray, Bert Shangue.

This play is being presented tonight and Wednesday night in Sacred Heart Club House.

Government Studying Lake Shore Erosion

OTTAWA, March 25 — (CP) — The government has begun a study of the causes of shore erosion in Lake Ontario, Works Minister Fournier said Monday in the Commons as the opposition called for action.

Mr. Fournier said, in reply to a question from Gordon Graydon (P.C., Peel), that "if there is any federal responsibility, I will submit the case to my colleagues." Mr. Graydon had declared: "Something ought to be done before anything more serious occurs."

Shriners Convention

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25—(AP)—An estimated 4,000 shriners gathered here Monday for the opening of two conventions—Shrine Directors Association of North American and the Western Shrine Association. Delegates registered from 164 Shrine temples in Canada, Mexico and the United States.

Must Be Registered

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP) —The Senate Monday passed unanimously a bill that would required all foreign diplomats who prepare or disseminate political propaganda to register as propagandists. Sponsors said there has been an increasing tendency on the part of foreign governments, especially Soviet bloc countries, to operate their propaganda activities through diplomatic and consular personnel.

Alcatraz Too Expensive

WASHINGTON, March 24 — (CP)—Attorney General Howard McGrath wants to close down Alcatraz because it costs so much to operate. Alcatraz is a federal prison on an island in San Francisco Bay. McGrath has told the House appropriations committee, in testimony it made public Monday night, he favors a suggestion by the budget bureau that study be given to building a high security prison on the mainland to save money.

GALE WRECKS HOUSE—George Cairns of Toronto's suburban Long Branch looks sorrowfully at the raging waters of Lake Ontario which have torn away the living-room and two bedrooms and flooded the remainder of his home. In Long Branch 44 families were left homeless and 21 houses were condemned as unfit for human habitation in on-the-spot checks by village councillors. The storm extended all along the Great Lakes area from Oshawa to Windsor, and damage was heavy.

NHL Attendance Drops

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—Attendance in the National Hockey League's regular season declined some 50,000 in comparison with the 1950-51 figures.

Unofficial figures compiled on Monday showed the six clubs drew 2,310,316 fans during the regular campaign which ended on Sunday night. The turnout last season was 2,362,892.

Although they failed to finish in the playoffs, New York Rangers showed the biggest increase, jumping from 349,251 to 376,645. Detroit had a 19,000 increase. Montreal also was over its 1950-51 figure while Boston, Chicago and Toronto were under last season's totals.

The figures:

	1951-52	1950-51
Boston	245,144	308,650
Chicago	297,316	330,341
Detroit	419,862	400,731
New York	376,645	349,251
Montreal	503,993	502,403
Toronto	467,356	471,516
Totals	2,310,316	2,362,892

Decide Deaths Not Murder But Pneumonia

CAISTORVILLE, Ont., March 25 (CP)—The apparently mysterious death of an elderly brother and sister were cleared up Monday night by provincial police, who said the two died of pneumonia.

Post-mortems cleared the uncertainty in the deaths of recluse William Clayton, 73, and his sister, Nina, 70. Foul play was feared when their bodies were discovered Monday on their run-down, 70-acre farm, five miles south of this Niagara Peninsula hamlet.

"Both had pneumonia badly," said Corporal W. Coles, of the Smithville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police. "The brother had slight injuries around the right ear from where he lay down in the hay after going out to the barn. His sister apparently took the flashlight to look for him, fell over a picket fence and crawled on her hands and knees until she collapsed." He said her face was bruised.

It was the marks on the bodies that first led to reports they had been slain, before the post-mortems established the cause of death.

The couple left their property infrequently and neighbors told of reports that they kept large sums of money hidden around the farmhouse.

86 Removed Safely From B.C. Steamer

VANCOUVER, March 25—(CP)—Eighty-six passengers were removed safely from the coastal steamer Cardena Monday after the 842-ton vessel ran aground on a sandbar off the mouth of the Capilano River in Burrard Inlet.

The Cardena, with a crew of 45, was en route from Powell River to Vancouver. She is owned by Union Steamships Ltd.

Salvage tugs stood by and the Cardena is expected to be floated free at high tide during the afternoon. The crew remained aboard.

Fenella Women Told Of Life In Arctic

ROSENEATH, March 25 (ENS)—"Dental Work Among the Eskimoes" was the subject of the address given by Dr. R. S. Robertson, Cobourg, at the open meeting of the Fenella Women's Institute held Friday evening. In introducing the speaker, Mrs. W. I. Montgomery pointed out that the guest speaker had a special ability to do things of service to others, by profession a dentist, by interest a farmer, always ready to help others.

Dr. Robertson's talk, illustrated by colored slides, took the audience on the Dominion government boat, the C. D. Howe, through the northern waters of Canada. The boat carried a complete complement of officials for the health and governing of the outlying communities to which it also carries suplies. As the doctor looked after the dental needs, he said he had to compete with difficulties under which the Eskimoes live. The white man so far had done probably more harm than good. Away from our influence, tooth decay is unknown. The children's allowance, however, is given in good foods for the young, and he believed the government is doing all possible for the Eskimo people.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. N. C. Leach.

The meeting was held in the Fenella Community Hall and it was the one meeting of the year when the members of the Women's Institute entertain the people of the community. The president, Mrs. Frank George, welcomed the guests and presided over a brief business period, with Mrs. Percy Macklin secretary.

At the conclusion of the illustrated travelogue, a program of vocal numbers was presented. A solo, "Here Comes Peter Cotton-Tail" by four-year-old Jean Harper, with her mother Mrs. Elmer Harper playing the piano accompaniment; Mis Ann Fanning sang a solo, and Misses Gene Waldie and Margaret Duncan contributed a vocal duet. Mrs. Frank Down was accompanist for these two numbers.

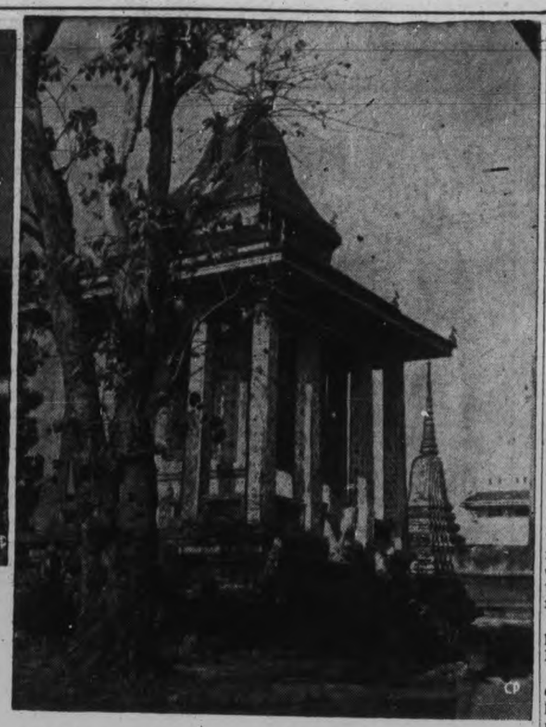
TEMPLE GATE—The Buddhist religion plays a close and important part in the lives of the people of Thailand. This photo shows the opium-smudged gate of Wat Bovern, one of the many temples and chapels which are plentiful in the southeast Asia country. The gate has gold-leaf stickers, flower s and smudges, all thank-offerings from grateful Buddhists.



SIAMESE CHAPEL—The Buddhist religion is one of the stabilizing influences in the untroubled, prosperous island that is Thailand in southeast Asia's sea of Communist turbulence. Despite their cheap construction of plaster and brick the temples and chapels glisten bravely in the hot sun.

Buddhist Philosophy Said Cause Of Siam's Indifference To Reds

By BILL BOSS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand, March 25. (CP)—Hitch your wagon to Nirvana and reincarnation and you get an outlook that westerners find puzzling. It's the outlook of millions of Buddhists in the Orient, and particularly in Thailand. It's the reason why this country is solidly anti-Communist — a free-enterprise island in strongly-Communist southeast Asia.

Communism exists in Thailand, or Siam as it is just as often called here, but its members are mostly Chinese. The Buddhist philosophy which influences most Siamese is a philosophy of the individual, not of the mass. It solidly proclaims the right of the individual to work out his own salvation.

And it gives him several lifetimes to do it.

The Buddhist doctrine of reincarnation says that one may return to this life in other existences, time and time again, to work one's progress to Nirvana—the state of Eternal Enlightenment. One's opportunities are governed by one's own conduct—the demerits and merits acquired in one's lifetime determine the state of being one has in a future existence.

Because of that belief in reincarnation in many forms, it is a tenet of Buddhism that the taking of any life is sinful.

Hence the dogs left to die miserably in the streets, the aged white monkey dozing into death at the Bangkok Zoo, the refusal to kill even the mosquitoes buzzing in a house.

Talks With Abbot

I talked for some time with a 47-year-old abbot, who might have been a youthful Mahatma Gandhi minus glasses. He is a former Roman Catholic, a graduate from Thailand's Assumption College, and a former deputy minister of the interior who renounced civilian life for the priesthood.

Thailand has a long military history and was the first Oriental country to offer fighting troops to the United Nations in Korea. Its battalion there has established an enviable record, but the troops fight without benefit of the priesthood's moral support.

"The profession of soldiering is an honorable one," said the abbot, "but it is wrong to kill, even in defence of Buddhism."

He said the responsibility on the individual Buddhist soldier is somewhat lifted if he has been conscripted or if the killing is a condition of service, but that he is not entirely relieved of demerit if he kills. The individual at all times is supposed to be following the dictates of his conscience and his reason. If they tell him killing is wrong, then he sins if he kills.

I asked him if that philosophy, pushed to the extreme, could not result in the annihilation of the Buddhist people and religion by a militaristic enemy.

"True, but is that important?" he replied.

Hope For Future

"We could at least hope that during this existence we had acquired sufficient merits to have an easier life in the next existence, and better opportunities. For most of us there are many lifetimes ahead before we reach perfection."

With that philosophy, time and tomorrow have no meaning.

Buddhist thinking, unlike that in the west, has no place for a "just war." However, the official teaching of the Siamese Buddhists in connection with the United Nations is that the U.N. aims and principles accord with their own.

One prominent Buddhist priest said recently:

"The U.N. charter is admitted by all Buddhists to be an application of the principles of Buddhism, for Buddhism aims at tranquility and moderation and inculcates the cultivation of goodwill among men and all living beings."

But that general approval does not extend to all that is done in the name of the United Nations.

Ontario Still Trying To Obtain 3 Portraits

TORONTO, March 25—(CP)—Ontario is still trying to add the portraits of three former premiers to its collection of portraits which hang in Queen's Park, the Legislature was told Monday.

Provincial Secretary Welsh said $6,125 voted last year hadn't been spent. It was intended for the portraits of former premiers Mitchell Hepburn, Harry Nixon and George Drew.

Col. Welsh said "we hope to get them this year."

Bombs Problem At Army Camp

OTTAWA, March 25 — (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton said Monday one of the problems of the Petawawa military camp has been pointed up by the finding of a live mortar bomb by a young boy.

He told the Commons that the bomb, a two-inch mortar, was actually found inside the camp area and on a mortar range, 125 miles north of Ottawa.

(It was found by Jimmy Rae, seven, who was prevented from tampering with it by his father.)

One of the problems at Petawawa was that people from small villages in that area could come and go on the camp property. Each time an incident such as this one had happened checks were made to see if all possible precautions were being taken.

G. K. Fraser (P.C., Peterborough West) suggested a fence would keep people out. Mr. Claxton's reply was that it would have to be 250 miles long.

Injured Pianist Making His Comeback

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 25 — (AP)—Two years ago a doctor looked at the crushed form of Barclay Allen, brilliant young pianist who had been mangled in an auto accident. He told Mrs. Allen: "your husband has two hours to live."

Today Allen is ready to resume his musical career, and he credits his survival to his faith in God.

"I was never a religious man," admitted the pianist, who now is paralyzed from the chest down. "But I believe that God was the reason that I came through. What other reason could there be, when the doctors had given up hope for me?"

A couple of years ago Allen had made a hit with the Freddy Martin band.

"I was playing a date at the Cal-Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe," he recalled. "I finished late that night and was driving home when I fell asleep. The car hit an embankment and overturned."

Allen was in the hospital almost continuously.

Church Helped

When it appeared that he would survive, Allen faced the problem of finding a return to useful life. Helping him in this was the church.

"After I came home, my wife became active in the Emmanuel Lutheran church in north Hollywood. She got me to go to church with her, and it was a rewarding experience.

"I used to think of churchgoers as uninteresting people. But now I have a great respect and admiration for them."

"At first, I didn't know whether I was going to be able to use my left arm or not," he said. "It was lame for a while, but by exercising, I got the use of it back. I think God took care of that, too."

Now he is able to play a half-hour or more at a time from his wheelchair. But he is working on a way to overcome that.

Allen has already made his return to public performance. He played for the Ash Wednesday service at the Emmanuel Lutheran church.

France Begins Crackdown In Tunisia

Premier, 3 In Cabinet Under Arrest, Army Orders Curfew

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 26. (AP)—France cracked down on Tunisia's independence-seeking Nationalists today, arresting Premier Mohammed Chenik and three members of his cabinet. Martial law and press censorship also were ordered.

The drastic steps were taken after the Tunisian government and the French protectorate's nominal ruler, 70-year-old Bey of Tunis, had balked at what was described as a French ultimatum that Chenik must be fired.

The French action climaxed three months of nationalist rioting and sabotage during which nearly 100 lives were lost. Hundreds have been arrested and put behind barbed wire.

Moslems On Strike

Moslems in Tunis went on strike today in protest against the French action, which included a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. and transfer of all police powers to the military.

Tunisia wants more self-rule and has asked the United Nations for help. Asian, Arab and some African members of the U.N. are planing to push the nationalist appeal before the Security Council, much to the annoyance of France.

The protectorate's real ruling authority, Jean de Hauteclocque, in a broadcast to the Tunisian people today charged that the premier "encouraged, if he wasn't an accomplice to," the nationalist demonstrations, attacks and sabotage.

The French resident-general said France was ready to institute reforms that would—satisfy the "legitimate aspirations of Tunisians" and "would lead Tunisia to internal autonomy" but that before these could be made, the present Tunisian cabinet would have to go.

Arrested with Chenik were the minister of state, Mohamoud Materi, health minister Mohamed Ben Salem and trade minister Mohammed Salah Mzali. They were flown to an undisclosed spot in Tunisia.

The police also arrested other nationalists and, at the same time, moved three nationalist leaders who had been under house arrest at Tabarka to another secret detention place.

Deneau Remanded

BOWMANVILLE, March 26. (CP)—Harold Deneau, 16, of Windsor, charged with murder in the fatal beating of his former employer, Sidney Goff, Jr., has been remanded to April 1. Goff, Cartwright township farmer, was slain March 16. Deneau made a brief appearance in court here on Tuesday and was not asked to plead.

Won't Permit Russians To Block Unity

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—The United States "will not be deflected" by Russian manoeuvring in its drive to unify Europe, State Secretary Dean Acheson said today.

He told a press conference that Russia's own European policy emphasizes "the need for a rapid development of a close European community".

In that community, he said, "Germany must be allowed to play its part".

Acheson questioned Russia's sincerity in proposing that the Big Four move for a peace treaty that would unify East and West Germany.

New Blocking Move

The state department, Acheson said, believes the Soviet proposal was aimed at blocking—if possible—the integration of Western Germany into the political and military organization of Western Europe.

Britain, the U.S. and France replied to Russia's proposal Tuesday with a suggestion that any get-together on a peace treaty be preceded by a United Nations' field study in East Germany to determine whether free elections could be held there.

This 600-word declaration, responding to a new Soviet proposal of March 10 to start work on a German peace treaty, did two things:

1. It served notice on the Kremlin that western countries, in close cooperation with the anti-Communist government of West Germany, are firmly committed to tying Germany in whole or in part to a "purely defensive European community."

Admit Germans

(Officials who helped draft the note said this meant the European defence community is being formed to enable West Germany to put military forces into General Eisenhower's western defence army."

2. It challenged the Russians to prove the sincerity of their declared interest in unifying Germany by permitting a United Nations Commission to go into the Soviet zone and find out what opportunity exists there for holding free elections.

The three powers thus made clear their decision not to be diverted from the path of rearmament.

Officials here predicted the new notes would be followed by a long series of exchanges such as has taken place regularly in the last five years.

The Russians had proposed that a United Germany be permitted to revive its Army, Navy and Air Force. That was the newest element in their note and was apparently forced by the impending defensive rearmament of Western Germany.

Won't Accept Red Cross Russia Says

Malik Declares Organization Not "Impartial"

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 26. (Reuters)—Russia today rejected the United States' proposal that alleged germ warfare in Korea should be investigated by the International Red Cross, claiming that this body is neither objective nor impartial.

Jakob A. Malik, Soviet delegate, told the United Nations' Disarmament Commission that the commission itself should consider the Communist charges against the U.N. command.

Not Competent

"The international committee of the Red Cross," he said, "is not competent to settle such matters. The so-called international committee of the Red Cross . . . is not an international organization but is a Swiss national organization which has assumed the name . . .

"Naturally such an organization cannot act objectively or impartially as a truly international organization should."

Malik insisted that the commission should ban bacteriological weapons and call violators "to account".

Urge Public Works Program Used Cut Unemployment

OTTAWA, March 26. (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today asked the Federal government for a "complete revision" of immigration policy, an immediate substantial program of public works and the restriction of some imports to cut down unemployment in Canada. In its annual legislative submission to the Cabinet, the 500,000-member Congress also urged the reimposition of price control, declaring the government's anti-inflationary credit restrictions had resulted in curtailing business and thereby increasing unemployment.

The 8,000-word brief read by Percy R. Bengough, T.L.C. president, was the first of the annual series to be placed before the Cabinet this week by the central labor bodies. The T.L.C. brief placed most stress on unemployment, saying it is "increasing at an alarming rate." The T.L.C. estimated 400,000 Canadians now are out of work; the March 1 figure of the Labor Department was 371,000.

To combat unemployment, the Congress recommended:

1. Restriction of immigration among trades in which there is Canadian unemployment and cessation of all immigration during the winter and off-season employment months, along with the placing of immigration under the labor department.

Need Winter Immigration

(Last week, Immigration Minister Harris and Labor Minister Gregg told a textile-union delegation textile workers would be kept out so long as there is unemployment in that industry. However, Mr. Harris indicated winter immigration would have to be continued to bring in the number of newcomers required annually.)

2. Immediate use of a backlog of public works which the government announced about two years ago as a 'rainy-day' measure against unemployment.

3. Tighter restrictions on the "dumping" of cheap articles from abroad, blamed by unions for causing unemployment in the textile and needle trades.

The Congress underlined its recurring demand for a wide social-security program, taking in a country-wide health-insurance plan. It deplored the fact that the government was not setting up a health-insurance committee at this session of parliament, as Cabinet spokesmen had indicated earlier would be done.

Ask Benefits Increased

The Congress asked that benefit payments to jobless be increased by at least 50 per cent and that there be a reduction in the waiting period before Unemployment Insurance payments are made. It also sought that coverage be broadened to include several categories not now eligible for insurance.

Police Hold 4 In Suspected Bank Robbery

MONTREAL, March 26 (CP)—Police today held four men—one of them wounded and in hospital—after what appeared to be an attempt to hold up a Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at nearby Chambly.

In hospital with a bullet in his foot is Real Poirier. Provincial police identified another suspect as Fernand Couture. Both are about 25 and live in Montreal.

Held for questioning are a Montreal taxi driver and a youth believed to be a juvenile. Police did not give out their names.

Suspicions Grow

Bank manager J. O. Galipeau said a man walked into the bank shortly after it opened and asked for change. Soon after noon another man, also a stranger to employees, asked for change and the woman teller became suspicious. Police were informed when other employees noted a taxi outside the bank with four men in it.

When Police Chief Denis Deschamps walked over to the taxi it immediately raced away, drove down a side street and piled into a snowbank. The driver stayed in the taxi and the other three ran across snow-covered fields with police in pursuit.

Deschamps fired one shot, hitting Poirier in the foot and the trio surrendered.

Textile Union Strike Likely In Six Plants

MONTREAL, March 26. (CP)—Threat of a strike today hangs over six Dominion Textile Company plants here and in Valleyfield, Que.

This situation was brought about Tuesday following an announcement by the United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.) that some 6,000 members are preparing to walk out over a wage dispute.

A statement from R. Kent Rowley, Canadian director of the union, said preparations are going ahead for strike action "which will take place within the next few days."

Rowley's statement said the company offered an increase of only seven cents an hour and refused to consider "the 13 cents proposed by Judge Rene Kippe," arbitration board chairman.

Rowley said the company offer was for a 3½ cents an hour increase, plus another 3½ cents when a contract was signed.

No Concessions

A company statement said the union made no concession from its "incredible demand for a 21-cent wage increase and restricted clauses that would hamstring management in operating the plants in these difficult days."

The union claimed the company rejected a five-cent premium for second-shift workers and guarantees for piece-work operators and refused to consider the judge's recommendation for negotiation for an old-age pension plan.

The union said also the company would not agree to the minimum starting rate of 77 cents an hour proposed by the arbitration board chairman and wanted to introduce clauses which would give the company a "blank cheque to increase work loads and speed up operations . . ."

The company's statement said the union repeatedly rejected the judge's recommendation dealing with increased productivity under the wage-incentive plan and management rights.

CCF Battle Over N.A.T.O. Reaches Showdown Stage

OTTAWA, March 26. (CP)—The running battle between the government and the C.C.F. concerning the North Atlantic Pact's military preparedness program has reached the showdown stage in the Commons. The C.C.F. carried it to that point Tuesday by injecting into a foreign-policy debate a non-confidence motion. It asked the Chamber to censure the government for "failure to take effective steps" to implement the North Atlantic Treaty provisions for economic collaboration among the Pact partners.

The motion, introduced by Percy Wright (C.C.F.-Melfort) and to be voted on at a later stage in the debate, came in the wake of recent sharp criticism by the C.C.F. over the military targets set up by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Specifically, the C.C.F. contends the military program will wreck the economies of western Europe.

In turn, External Affairs Minister Pearson, who also is chairman of N.A.T.O., has accused the C.C.F. of moving towards the Soviet propaganda line.

Mr. Wright suggested military defence under N.A.T.O. is not enough and that economic aid must be an important part of the defence of free society. But Canada, he complained, has made only a "miserabe contribution" in that field.

Canada Wants Cash

This country, for example, had shown a discrimination to give raw materials to its N.A.T.O. partners. Canada had followed a "cash-on-the-barrelhead" policy while France and the United Kingdom had lowered their living standards by contributing their raw materials to the fight against aggression.

The C.C.F. motion took the spotlight from a review by Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to Mr. Pearson, of Canada's part in the United Nations Assembly at Paris last fall.

Mr. Lesage, a delegate to the Assembly, said the Paris meeting left "many of us with a sense of depression." However, the U.N. still offered opportunities for east-west negotiation and brought together "in loose association" all of those countries which opposed Soviet aggression.

"To ignore or belittle the U.N.," he suggested, "would be an act of irresponsibility which would gravely weaken the moral basis of our democratic cause.

No Substitute

"We cannot pretend that the machinery is perfect but there is [illegible] for it anywhere."

Demand Industry Accept Proposal

PITTSBURGH, March 26 (AP)—The United Steelworkers' Union (C.I.O.) today demanded steel industry acceptance of the wage stabilization board's proposal for settling the steel dispute as negotiations opened with one major producer.

Before negotiations got under way with Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., the U.S.W. district director, John Murray, told reporters:

"We're going to present the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board to the company in full and we expect the company to accept the recommendations which were handed down. If they don't, they'll be responsible for any steel plant shutdown that follows."

The W.S.B. has recommended that the union and industry sign a new contract calling for a 17½-cent-hourly pay boost and other benefits.

President Philip Murray of both the C.I.O. and the U.S.W. begins talks with the giant U.S. Steel Corporation later today. Other companies begin their negotiations with union leaders Thursday.

A strike of more than 650,000 workers in basic steel-producing plants is threatened for April 8. Officials have urged both sides to work for a speedy settlement to avert a walkout.

Royal Winter Fair To Be Held Nov. 14-22

TORONTO, March 26 (CP). — The 1952 Royal Agricultural Winter Fair will be held Nov. 14 to Nov. 22, P. L. Whytock, president, announced at today's annual meeting. For the first time the fair will be held at two weekends instead of one.

Mr. Whytock said it is hoped the two weekend schedules will increase attendance, thus offsetting rising operating costs.

[illegible] the 1951 fair totalled $135,000. Increased operating costs caused the fair to end the financial year with costs exceeding revenue by $13,445.

N.A.T.O. Trainee Dies In Crash

CENTRALIA, March 26 (CP).—A young N.A.T.O. trainee crashed to his death on a nearby farm during a slight snow shower early today, seconds before he was to have landed at the R.C.A.F. station here to complete a routine night flying exercise.

The R.C.A.F. withheld the victim's identity pending notification of next-of-kin but said he was a Canadian.

The airman's light Texan plane—American counterpart of Canada's Harvard trainer—exploded as it plunged into a pasture field on the Clayton Sims farm about a mile and a half west of here at 1:05 a.m.

The student pilot, one of half a dozen on the night exercise, had been given final clearance to land. He was on his downwind leg and turning in toward the runway at 1,200 feet.

C.C.L. Refuses Accept McGuire

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP) — The executive council of the Canadian Congress of Labor said today it takes the stand that James E. McGuire, expelled this week from the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.), no longer is entitled to sit on the C.C.L. executive.

Mr. McGuire, national secretary-treasurer of the C.B.R.E., was fired after a trial on insubordination charges as the climax of a long feud with A. R. Mosher, president of both the C.B.R.E. and the Congress.

Manville Plans Wed Ninth Time

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP).—Playboy Tommy Manville said today he intends to make night club singer Ruth Webb his ninth bride—provided his present wife gets a divorce.

The asbestos heir met Miss Webb only recently.

"I don't know her very well," he conceded. "I've only had lunch with her once or twice, but I like her very much."

Manville's wife, Georgianna Campbell, is living apart from him and so far has not agreed to divorce terms.

NATO Lisbon Program Minimum—Pearson

TORONTO, March 26 (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday the military and economic program drafted at the recent North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Lisbon is the "very minimum" needed to strengthen the west against aggression.

"Fifty divisions by the end of 1952 doesn't seem to be a very exorbitant demand in the economies of the countries involved in the face of the Russian military might which can express itself immediately," he told a meeting of Osgoode Hall law students.

Report Barons May Join N.H.L.

CLEVELAND, March 26 (AP)—Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League are on "the verge" of moving into the National Hockey League, The Cleveland News reports today.

Geoffrey Fisher, the paper's hockey writer, says five of the N.H.L.'s six clubs have given approval to adding the Barons. The club supposed to be holding out was not named.

Jim Hendy, Baron's general manager, had no comment except to say that the club's owners would like to be in the N.H.L.

Clubs in the major circuit now are Montreal, Toronto, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, and New York.

Charges Dismissed Against Bus Driver

HAMILTON, March 26 (CP)—"I think that under the circumstances he did a remarkably good job," was the opinion expressed by Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins as he dismissed reckless and careless driving charges against Thomas McKenzie, 58, Toronto, Gray Coach bus driver.

The charges were the result of a bus accident on Feb. 9, at the bridge just past the rock garden on the Toronto highway.

20,000 Doctors Get Pay Boost

LONDON, March 26 (CP) — Twenty thousand British family doctors are to receive a total of £10,000,000 extra a year, plus about £30,000,000 back pay.

The award, announced Tuesday, comes as the climax to a six-year argument between the doctors and the government, launched before the National Health serivce came into being in 1948.

A high court judge, Mr. Justice Danckwerts, decided that doctors should receive an increase of £10 a week, plus retroactive sums of between £1,000 and £1,500 each.

Announcement of the award came as a shock to members of parliament. The Conservative government was trying to keep the cost of the health service to a ceiling of £400,000,000.

Doctors now are paid about 18 shillings a year for each patient, up to a maximum of 4,000 patients.

Their most common complaint is that they now are overworked by importunate patients and have lost their old independence, since being curt with a patient may result in having the patient apply to be placed on another doctor's list.

Search Two Communities For Clues To Big Holdup

DANVERS, Mass., March 26 — (CP)—Investigators searched two communities today for their first clue to the $681,000 armored-car robbery pulled in broad daylight Tuesday while three guards sat in a nearby drug store having a cup of coffee.

F.B.I. agents and local police said they hope to find at least one person who saw the three men break into the armored car and transfer the money to a double-parked 1950 sedan.

The robbers were seen speeding from the scene. Two getaway cars used in relay have been found but investigators are still looking for someone who actually saw the robbery.

An official of the United States Trucking Company, which owns the armored car set the exact amount of loot Tuesday night, correcting an earlier estimate of $600,000.

How much the bandits left behind was not known definitely early today but estimates ranged from $100,000 to nearly $1,000,000.

It was the biggest armored car robbery in U.S. history. The previous largest robbery of an armored car was the $427,000 holdup of a Rubel Ice Co., payroll in Brooklyn, N.Y., on August 21, 1934.

It is also believed to be the second-biggest cash robbery in the country in the last five years—surpassed only by the still-unsolved $1,219,000 robbery of the Brink's armored car headquarters in Boston 26 months ago.

Harold B. Klem, vice-president of the United States Trucking Co., said the guards violated a strict company rule when they left the armored car unattended.

The car was on a bank run, picking up and dropping off money at institutions north of Boston.

Paid $800,000 To Free U.S. Citizens

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—The United States has disclosed payment of $800,000 to Communist China for release of 12 Americans, eight of whom still are prisoners.

Elting Arnold, foreign assets administrator, told the Senate that the Treasury Department approved the payments after friends of the 12 in this country made urgent requests to do so and certified that the payments represented legitimate debts.

Since this case, Arnold said, a new policy has been adopted that such payments will not be allowed until the Americans involved are set free in non-Communist area such as Hong Kong.

Delegates Can't Agree On Russian Status

MUNSAN, Korea, March 26 — (AP). — Staff officers agreed formally today on the secondary details for supervising a Korean armistice, stripping their disagreement down to who will do the supervising.

The last of the minor problems was cleaned up, a U.N. command communique said, when the staff committee reached "complete agreement on the port-of-entry question."

The Allies then tried to solve the key issue by proposing again that Russia and Norway be dropped from the list of six "neutral nations" who will police the armistice. But the Communists insisted on including Russia.

Two other deadlocks stand in the way of a truce: (1) Whether the Reds will be allowed to repair their bomb-shattered airfields and (2) whether prisoners of war will have a choice of going home.

Destroy 18 Buildings

SEOUL, Korea, March 26 (AP) —U.S. F-84 Thunderjets today destroyed 18 buildings and six troop revetments east of Kaesong—headquarters for Communist armistice negotiators. The Fifth air force said the Red replacements were outside the area designated as neutral during the truce talks.

More Sacrifices For Africans

Forecasts Increase In Price Of Gold

CAPETOWN, South Africa, March 26—(Reuters)— A world-wide increase in the price of gold, speeding South Africa on its way to freedom from restrictions, was forecast by Finance Minister Nicholas Havenga today.

Introducing his budget to Parliament, Havenga warned his uountrymen that, while the Union is not faced with a financial crisis, they will have to find many millions for defence.

If the purchasing power of sterling is to be preserved, he said, South Africans will have to accept greater sacrifices in the future.

To bridge an estimated deficit of £23,133,000 Havenga announced increased tax on beer, tobacco, soft drinks and candy manufactured in South Africa.

Though the amount of foreign exchange available for imports during 1952, will be limited to £400,000,000, Havenga expected the dollar area's percentage to increase in this period.

South Africa's reduction of total imports by up to £70,000,000 was likely to be largely at the expense of soft-currency countries unless they could quote competitive prices.

The issue of general permits in relation to restricted permits would be as liberal as last year, but South Africa would not hesitate to authorize increased imports from the dollar area if exporters in soft-currency countries attempted to exploit the position, Havenga said.

The minister said he is convinced there will be a world-wide increase in the price of gold. Governments would not be able in the long run to peg the price of gold at a level entirely out of line with the value the public attached to it.

(Financial experts estimate that Havenga's 1952 ceiling on imports will cut South Africa's import of consumer goods by about 25 per cent.)

"Apart from increased taxation, we will have to save more money by consuming less, increasing our production and slowing down the rate of expenditure on development," he said.

Hit With Poker 'In Self-Defence'

Although she had been getting the best of the fight, Mrs. Isobel Watson explained in police court today that Percy Little, 48, 887 Water St., ended the struggle when he hit her over the head with a poker.

Mrs. Watson had a smaller poker in her hand at the time, and she told Magistrate W. R. Philp, "If I had seen him going for it (the poker) in time, I'd have flipped him and hit him."

Little claimed that the fight started during an argument Friday night. He said Mrs. Watson told him to get out. He said he did not have to get out, because it was his house and Mrs. Watson had not paid any rent for two months. She then picked up a small poker and hit him several times during a scuffle, Little said.

"Why did you use a poker to hit her?" queried Magistrate Philp.

"On account of she's hit me with it so many times," declared Little as he looked at the twisted iron poker. "I've even had to get out of a bedroom window to stop her from beating me up."

"Why not put her out?" asked Magistrate Philp.

Not Big Enough

"I can't," Little replied. "I'm not big enough. She floors me."

Mrs. Watson admitted slapping Little with her open hand and hitting him in the face with her clenched fist before the poker fracas started.

She said Little was afraid of her and Little agreed that he was.

On Monday, Little was charged with assault occasioning bodily harm. He was remanded on $1,000 bail until March 31 but he apparently was unable to raise the bail money and was tried today.

John Corkery defended Little and argued it was a case of self-defence and that the poker was the only means available to Little to defend himself.

Magistrate Philp dismissed the charge.

CLUB-WIELDING POLICE tussle with people in downtown Trieste on the fourth anniversary of the Allied declaration that Trieste should be returned eventually to Italy. The demonstrators favored Italian rule for the city which is also claimed by Yugoslavia and is ruled by a British-American military government. The political rioting raged all last week and was finally quelled late Sunday. In Rome and Naples, however, thousands of ten-age students clashed with police in frequent outbreaks of violence. More than 100 demonstrators were jailed in the two cities. Thirty policemen and scores of students were injured.

Drew Suggests Dropping Word

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Tuesday night there has been some comment about the fact that he is in the habit of referring to his party simply as the "Conservative Party."

Addressing the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, Mr. Drew said he was not disregarding in any way the official title of the party.

"It was first called the Progressive Conservative Party many long years ago by Sir John Macdonald himself," said Mr. Drew. "It is progressive, soundly progressive, because it is Conservative.

"In describing our party, I use the word, 'Conservative,' for convenience and for historic accuracy. Our principles—the principles upon which our forefathers reared this nation—are unchanged and enduring."

The party officially adopted the title Progressive Conservative at a national convention in Winnipeg in 1942, when John Bracken was chosen to lead the party.

Grampa Said Tops As Baby-Sitter

MONTREAL — (CP) — Fred Harding, one of the oldest baby-sitters in this city at 70, can change a diaper, prepare a formula, feed a baby, mind four children and its no "bother at all".

He took over his wife's clientele a few years ago when she was bed-ridden, and Mrs. Harding has been trying to get her job back ever since—without success.

Mr. Harding holds the same formula for ruling children as Hollywood's Mr. Belvedere—Clifton Webb.

"Children aren't hard to handle, you just have to know when to be firm with them," he says.

And parents say that he seems to know just when to rule with an iron hand and when to play.

"He's taking all my business from me," says his wife, "and when mothers call to make appointments I can hear the kids yelling 'we want Harding'."

The 70-year-old sitter is called "grampa" and "gramps" and just plain Harding by his 75 "customers."

Saw Breaks, Piece Cuts Operator On Forehead

NORWOOD, March 26 (ENS)—Walter Golloher, 29, escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon when a circular saw blade broke up and a flying piece of it hit him on the forehead.

Golloher, married and the father of two children, was operating the saw at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Rusaw, who live two miles north of Norwood. A bolt came off the shaft, and a piece of the saw flew up and hit him on the forehead.

He was rushed to Dr. Donald Holcroft, who put seven stitches in the cut. Golloher lives on the ninth line of Dummer township a mile north of Norwood.

WILLIAM THOMPSON

A farmer in Otonabee township all his life, William Thompson, 82, lot 18, concession 12, died Tuesday following a short illness.

Born in Otonabee township, Mr. Thompson was the son of the late Adam Thompson and Anna Gillespie. He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

He leaves his wife, the former Annie Foote; three daughters, Mrs. Ray Pogue, Cobourg; Miss Della Thompson, Peterborough; Miss Zeta Thompson, at home; one son, John, at home and one brother, Richard, Otonabee township.

The body will be resting at the Mather funeral home, Keene, until Wednesday noon and then to the Comstock funeral home, Peterborough, for service Thursday at 3:30 p.m. The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

W. J. CRONKRIGHT

MARMORA, March 26 (ENS). —The death occurred at his home here Monday evening of William John (Jack) Cronkright, 80. He resided for several years in this village having previously lived in Rawdon township. He followed the occupation of a mason, well-driller and carpenter in turn.

His wife died about 10 years ago. His surviving children are: Ross, Picton; Charles, John, Clayton, Marmora; Ira, Toronto; Mrs. Howard (Flossie), Marmora; Mrs. R. Heine (Tess), New York City, Mrs. L. Ash (Helen), Foxboro, and Mrs. Norman Chote, Reg. N., (Keitha), Calgary.

The funeral is being held on Thursday afternoon, leaving his late residence at 2 p.m. for St. Paul's Anglican Church. Burial will take place in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

MRS. FREDERICK WEIR

There passed away in hospital on Tuesday after a very short illness Mrs. Frederick David Weir, 502 Water St., a resident of Peterborough for the past 30 years. A member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Weir took an active part in the Ladies' Aid and the WMS. She was an outstanding supporter of her church and through her assistance and advice was able to give help to many of the leaders in other church organizations.

Considered Peterborough's most charitable woman, it now can be told, although her name was never mentioned during her life, that she was the most outstanding personal contributor to the British War Victims Fund during its operation. She made more than 60 donations and each one was a sizeable amount. The name she used was always "In As Much." When war clouds recently darkened the horizon Mrs. Weir telephoned the manager of the former Fund and said that if the need should again arise she would be

Mrs. Weir was the former Margaret MacNaughton Camelon and right behind the British people. was born in London, Ontario, daughter of the late Rev. David Camelon and Margaret MacNaughton. She was for a number of years a school teacher. For a time after her marriage she lived in Port Hope and came to Peterborough with her husband in 1922. Mr. Weir who for a number of years was in the city's assessment department, died in 1938.

The funeral will be held from the Comstock Funeral Home on Friday at 2:00 p.m. with the Rev. C. G. Boyd officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Prices Drop Steadily On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 26 (CP). — Prices declined steadily today in early afternoon stock market dealings as support faded.

Western oil and penny golds attracted speculative interest but a few lower-priced metals also showed large turnovers. Industrial dealings maintained a slow spread from leading issues. Volume for the first three hours was 1,634,000 shares.

Papers, utilities, liquors and retail stores led industrials lower with a broad list of declines. Constructions, steels and refining oils also weakened but banks and manufacturing companies edged upward.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton Central Explorers, Federated Petroleum, North Canadian and Western Leaseholds were among issues lower.

Base metal leaders eased as Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Steep Rock and New Calumet traded lower.

Senior golds were mixed. Giant Yellowknife, Hollinger and McIntyre added fractions but Bralorne, Lake Shore and Lamaque eased. Junior producers posted a majority of penny losses.

Suggests Retiring

PUSAN, Korea, March 26 (AP) —President Syngman Rhee, on his 77th birthday, said today: "I would like to retire to make way for young and able men." But he didn't say he would not seek re-election in June. Korean political observers interpreted his remarks as an invitation to his followers to urge his candidacy.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, March 26 —(CP) —The United States dollar today opened at a discount of ½ of one per cent in terms of Canadian funds, unchanged from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $0.99½ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.79½, also unchanged.

Fleming Wants Tax Cuts Fears Political Fraud Coming

OTTAWA, March 26. (CP)—Donald Fleming (PC, Toronto-Eglinton) said Tuesday night that if the Canadian Government is holding back tax reductions until the eve of the next federal election it is "perpetrating a political fraud" upon the people. In a broadcast speech, Mr. Fleming said the budget to be brought down April 8 should contain tax reductions.

Finance Minister Abbott should:

1. Give the people relief from unnecessary tax burdens.
2. Curb inflation.
3. Eliminate waste and extravagance.

With the existing rates of taxation the government had accumulated a surplus of $721,000,000 in the first nine months of the fiscal year.

Mr. Fleming said Prime Minister St. Laurent recently had sought to sound the death knell to hopes for tax reductions this year. The Prime Minister told the Commons that as long as the world situation continues as it is, he could not hold out any hope for substantial tax reductions.

Political Fraud

Mr. Fleming added:

"If the government is holding back needed reductions in taxation until next year on the eve of a general election in order to try to play the role of Santa Claus then, as they did in 1949, they are perpetuating a political fraud upon the Canadian people. Don't let them fool you again . . .

"Britain is faced with far more serious financial problems than is Canada. Yet the chancellor of the exchequer in his recent budget reduced the British tax. So it can be done."

"Vicious Blow" Friendly Tap

NASSAU, Bahamas, March 26 (AP)—The "vicious blow" movie actor Errol Flynn said Duncan McMartin struck him was only a friendly tap on the cheek, the Bahamas Supreme Court was told Tuesday.

McMartin, Canadian millionaire whom Flynn is suing for £80,000, testified he considered Flynn a friend and gave him a goodbye slap in the bar of the Windsor Hotel here on March 4, 1951.

McMartin said he knew Flynn was leaving for California, so he went over to say goodbye and told him he'd see him in California.

McMartin denied he was drunk or attempted a settlement with Flynn. The actor testified last week that the "vicious blow" caused injury and loss of revenue because he could not appear in pictures.

the Spanish question into the debate and urged closer relations with that country.

Joseph Bradette (L, Cochrane) pointed to Spain's "tremendous" military potential and suggested she had done as much as any other country to fight Communism. Franco should not be criticized for fighting for his country.

P. E. Gagnon (Ind.-Chicoutimi), said Mr. Pearson should try to convince members of the Atlantic Pact of the need for good relations with Spain, whose omission from the United Nations and N.A.T.O. could prove fatal.

W. J. Browne (P.C.-St. John's West) wondered why Spain should be an "outcast" among the nations of N.A.T.O. and the U.N.

Howard Green (P.C.-Vancouver-Quadra) renewed a plea that Canada join a Pacific pact and suggested it is "folly" to leave the Pacific "wide open" to possible Communist aggression. Canada should join the United States, Australia and New Zealand in their Pacific alliance.

May Be Matter of Life

What happened in the Pacific could be a matter of "life and death" to west-coast Canadians. The Communists were set in Asia to drive in "several directions" and there was cause for real concern.

Victor Quelch (S.C.-Acadia), while not indicating support for the C.C.F. non-confidence motion asked what steps the government plans to take to help European nations cushion their economies against the effects of their defence programs. Canada could help them by encouraging food production and contribute vast quantities of foodstuffs to Europe.

Mr. Bradette noted that Spain has 'tremendous' military potential. If Spain had not fought in her civil war of the 1930s, she would have fallen to the Communists. Thousands of her priests had been slain and her churches devastated.

The west should be more friendly to the government and her people because "we need them at the present time."

Supplementary estimates totalling $246,563,813 were tabled by Finance Minister Abbott. The figure brought the total estimated expenditure for the current fiscal year to $3,977,151,650. The year ends March 31. Preliminary estimates, tabled last week, set 1952-53 expenditures at $4,335,796,809.

Lists Extras

The supplementaries, covering expenditures unforeseen when the main estimates were made more than a year ago, included $1,500,000 in assistance for Canadian apple growers. Bulk of the amount —$1,200,000 — will go to apple growers of British Columbia. The remaining $300,000 will go to Nova Scotia.

A total of $665,000 was marked to provide compensation to farmers for animals slaughtered as a results of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan.

The largest items listed covered government contributions to the civil service superannuation fund. The amounts, totalling $102,943,977, were to put the fund on a sound accounting basis.

The Canadian National Railways has a 1951 deficit of $15,031,996 in 1951, it was shown in the estimates. The revenue and expenditure totals were not given.

A new attack on parliament's rapid-fire granting of divorces was launched by the C.C.F.

Members of the party held up passage of the first sessional batch of divorces from Quebec and Newfoundland, serving notice they are going to continue a campaign begun a year ago to get divorces from these provinces transferred to the exchequer court of Canada.

Guarded By Police

LONDON, March 26 (Reuters) —Police guarded the London homes of a former diplomat and a leading medical expert Tuesday night after they had received telephone threats that they would be murdered. Sir Reginald Hoare, British minister in Iran from 1931 to 1934 and now a banker, and Sir John Charles, chief medical officer to the education and health ministries and the home office, were told they would be killed unless they left Britain within 24 hours.

Jailed Five Years

TORONTO, March 26—(CP)— Paul Shaver, 20, said he was glad that he got caught the first time as he was sentenced today to five years in penitentiary for armed robbery. Police said Shaver entered a drug-store, held up the clerk, and stole $68.

(The government is understood to be planning at this session of parliament to have the waiting period cut to five days from the present nine days.)

Federal encouragement of the construction of low-rental housing and of slum clearance was another request. It was urged that down payments on new homes be reduced under the National Housing Act and that the repayment period of mortgages be extended.

Other recommendations of the Congress, which largely followed those adopted at its annual convention last September, included:

1. Higher income-tax exemptions and reductions in the taxes on cigarets, tobacco and cigars.

2. Widening of the scope of the Federal labor code—including all government employees—and inclusion in the code of the check-off of union dues.

3. The 40-hour, five-day week for government employees.

Bill Of Rights

4. Enactment of a Federal Bill of Rights as part of the British North America Act, as well as a Fair Employment Practices Act to outlaw discrimination in employment.

5. Amendment of the Canada Shipping Act to protect the employment of Canadian citizens in ships, and restriction of the Canadian coastal shipping trade to vessels of Canadian registry.

6. Stepping up of civil defence measures.

7. Federal financial aid to primary and secondary schools, such as parliament voted last year for universities.

8. Establishment of a Canadian coastguard service.

Urges Quebecers Visit Toronto

QUEBEC, March 26—(CP)—Visit Toronto and learn to love your fellow-countrymen, Msgr. Ferdinand Vandry, rector of the centenarian Laval University, advised Tuesday.

He was speaking to 1,875 students of 15 colleges affiliated with Laval University at a matinee concert of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra here. It was "Toronto Day" in Laval centenary celebrations.

The orchestra played Tuesday night at a public concert where Msgr. Maurice Roy, Quebec Roman Catholic archbishop and Laval chancellor, was host.

Msgr. Vandry said young Canadians didn't have to go to U.S. schools or colleges to learn English when they could learn it in English-language Canadian provinces.

Msgr. Vandry said he learned to love Toronto during his visits there. Lack of understanding because Canada's two great racial elements never really met is the reason for "our failure to learn to love one another".

Sir Ernest MacMillan conducted the orchestra through a variety of classical interpretations. He also played his version of a French folksong, A St. Malo, which is a French port where Jacques Cartier, discoverer of Canada, was born.

Ballet Dancers Well Received

By W. G. ROGERS.

NEW YORK, March 26 — (AP) —Sadler's Wells, renowned London dance company, played its second string here Tuesday night.

The junior group, Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet —not to be confused with Sadler's Wells Ballet which has made two trips to America — arrived for its first New York appearance.

It reached here after six-month tour of Canada and the U. S. but if it thus came in New York's back door, the welcome mat was out, and a capacity audience of about 2,700, much dressier than usual, greeted the young dancers cordially at Broadway's Warner Theatre.

John Lanchbery, conducted the four-part program consisting of "Les Rendezvous," "Beauty and The Beast," "Casse Noisette" and "Pineapple Poll."

The first three numbers were, in their way, good clean fun. But the quality was something less than professional.

With "Pineapple Poll," however the company ceased to be second-string, and took on an enviable character all its own. Featuring Elaine Fifield and David Blair, it was a jolly, witty, effervescent piece of choreography, smartly conceived and admirably danced.

The company stays here two weeks, then returns to England.

Hint U.S. Firm Putting Money Into Simpsons

TORONTO, March 26 (CP) — Is United States money coming into Simpsons, Ltd., a large Canadian department store with operations across Canada?

Though Simpsons themselves will make no comment, Toronto financial circles regard as fact the report that negotiations of some kind are in progress.

An announcement was expected more than a week ago, but at present no announcement is expected immediately. This is taken to indicate that no deal has yet been concluded.

Most reports have named Sears, Roebuck and Company, biggest United States department store, as the party interested in Simpsons; although other American firms may also be interested.

While first rumors were to the effect that Sears, Roebuck would "buy" Simpson, present reports aer that "control" of the firm is not likely to change.

It is assumed that any new money coming into Simpsons would be, in large part, for expansion purposes.

Simposn issues made strong gains on the Toronto stock exchange when the reports were first circulated, but have since retreated somewhat from their high ground.

Claxton Makes Bomb Appeal

OTTAWA, March 26 — (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton Tuesday repeated an appeal to citizens to surrender any wartime ammunition brought home as souvenirs as it may be live and dangerous.

He made the appeal as he gave the House further details on the finding of live mortar bombs in the vicinity of Petawawa military camp, 125 miles north of the capital. An investigation of the Petawawa discoveries is still going on, he said.

Due to a mixup of two reports, he said he had erroneously told the House Monday that a live mortar bomb found by a boy, Jimmy Rae, had been picked up on the Petawawa ranges. Actually, it had been found at a garbage dump near Pembroke.

(The boy's grandfather had take the bomb from the boy and called authorities.)

Mr. Claxton said another child had found five mortar bombs at a garbage dump. These also had been turned over to authorities.

Great Room For Industry In Growth Of Canada

Peterborough has a great potential for accommodating industry. It is only a matter of going after it.

Rene Brunay Perrault, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and guest speaker at the Peterborough's annual dinner Tuesday night gave a glowing account of Canada's future in an address entitled, The Road Ahead.

"There is a fantastic future ahead of you as Canadians," Mr. Perrault explained to the 105 members of the chamber and their wives. "You are living in a land of hope, but it is a land of hope for those who toil. It is not a land for the laggers, the slackers or the people who refuse to take responsibility. It is for those who are strong and who will toil and who want to be free."

Responsibilities

The speaker emphasized the responsibilities of citizens of Canada in making a contribution to their communities. In cities such as Peterborough it must take the form of working to develop all potentialities. He warned against the great tendency to compromise and to take the easy middle way.

"Canadians must be made to understand and know that an industrial revolution has been taking place in this country during the past 20 years. They must be made to understand and know the reason for this change and to understand and know the foundations on which it is based."

During this 20-year period industry has mushroomed in every part of the country until now one in every four Canadians is working in industry. It has meant jobs, wealth and a high standard of living for this country, Mr. Perrault explained.

The heritage given to Canadians by the pioneers of this country who decided they had a job to do and did it was one of the reasons he gave for this revolution. Other reasons were the tremendous potentialities the country has in metals and oil and the fact that Canada has the cheapes hydraulic horsepower of any country in the world.

Confidence Of Investors

"But the most important reason for this tremendous development is the confidence of inyestors who are staking millions of dollars in Canada's future. There is a new pride growing up in Canada which has also stopped the trend of Canadians going to the United States."

The speaker prophesied that the day would come when this country will have a population sufficient not only to think of exports but of sufficient food to feed its own people—the long dreamt of domestic market.

Turning to Canada's international situation, he pointed out the role this country is playing as a beacon light between the United States and Great Britain.

"Canada has characteristics of both of these nations and they will look to us for guidance," he said. "To fulfill its role Canada must keep its concept of freedom safe, sound and healthy."

He warned against the threat of Canada losing its culture by too great a filtration of materialism with its bywords of more production and economic power.

"If we forget the character that built this country, all will be lost," Mr. Perrault concluded. "We must be careful that our education does not stress too much the material advantages and forget the essence that makes for good character. Canadians must rededicate their faith in God, their faith in mankind and their faith in this country so as to preserve their heritage of freedom."

The speaker was introduced by John Madden and thanked by Wilson Gemmell.

I.O.D.E. Presents Final Concert

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26 — The last of a series of Sunday evening concerts sponsored by the Bemersyde Chapter, I.O.D.E. and the Campbellford Citizens' Band was held Sunday evening.

A fine program was presented by the band, a male quartet from Bowmanville, and a number of local artists. The Rev. J. C. Moloney gave a talk on the local public library.

The quartet was roundly applauded by the audience. Despite the fact that the chairman asked there be no encores, they were called back repeatedly and in all gave nine selections. The quartet was comprised of Rolly Coombs, Ivan Wooley, Kenneth Hawkins and Ted Ott. They were accompanied by Ross Metcalfe.

Local artists played and sang a number of solos, including requests from the audience, making the program varied and entertaining.

Miss Hazel Atkinson announced the program, and Mrs. F. G. DeCarrol thanked the artists who made the series a success. She also thanked the local clergy for their co-operation in making the concerts possible.

Accompanists for the evening were Miss Anne Nicholls, Mrs. George Nicholls and Donald Bennett, bandmaster.

Drew Urges PC's Undertake 'Great Crusade'

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives today nailed down some of the planks of their platform for the next federal election, a contest their leader, George Drew, urged them to undertake as a "great crusade".

Mr. Drew addressed the annual dinner of the Progressive Conservative Association Tuesday night after the association, the women's branch and the Young Progressive Conservatives pooled their resolutions for voting today.

George Nowlan, president of the association, struck the main note for the convention when it opened Monday. He said the association will put emphasis on organization at the "grass-roots level" in preparation for a general election.

Both Mr. Nowlan and Mr. Drew said at one time or another during the convention that the Progressive Conservative party is gaining popularity and can win the next election. The life of the present parliament expires August, 1954.

Mr. Drew said the people will turn from the Liberal party which in the "long exercise of power now has forgotten that it is the servant and not the master of the people."

Controversial Issue

One controversial issue that came out of the closed meetings was a resolution by the Young Progressive Conservative Association. It suggested a criminal-code amendment to permit provincial lotteries for the financing of hospitals.

The Young Progressive Conservatives also wanted the government to revise its immigration policies and provide exemptions from unemployment insurance for students.

The lotteries resolution drew criticism from the C.C.F. Youth Movement which said the recommendation "shows utter disregard . . . towards responsible public policy with regard to national health needs."

The past president of the Young Progressive Conservatives, Jack McNie of Hamilton, also had a word of criticism in Hamilton. He said government-sponsored lotteris have no place in a free society and are not a principle to be adopted by a party dedicated to free enterprise.

He said he would sooner adopt the "ill-conceived" hospital plan of Walter Thompson, Ontario Liberal leader, than introduce government-approved lotteries.

"You know what I think of your mother's opinion."

This is the eighteenth picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Plan No Special Line For Industrial Area

COBOURG, March 26 (ENS)— No special power line to the industrial development area north of the town is contemplated for some time yet, it was revealed at the regular meeting of Cobourg Public Utilities Commission. Power to service the new ordnance depot will be an extension from the present line out to Division street.

The commission reviewed tenders for two new trucks and after discussion of the prices quoted, the matter was deferred for later consideration.

Understanding Youth Topic Of W.I. Speaker

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26 — Members and friends of the Seymour West Women's Institute attended the course, "Understanding Your Teenagers" on two afternoons recently in the Presbyterian Church ladies' parlor here.

Miss Irene McBride, of the W.I. Home Economics Branch, Toronto, was the speaker.

Mrs. James Black, on behalf of the ladies, voiced her appreciation and thanks to Miss McBride for her interesting talk and hoped the ladies would go home and put into good use the ideas they received in the course. Ladies taking the course were: Mrs. Allen Lewis, Mrs. James Black, Mrs. Reg. McCulloch, Mrs. Gordon McCulloch, Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Mrs. A. E. Toombs, Mrs. Ray Bright, Mrs. Ed. Rutherford, Mrs. Frank Bittle, Mrs. Ray McCulloch, Mrs. Fred McCulloch, Mrs. J. Wilmink and Mrs. Arden Watson.

Falls Under Tractor Farm Boy Brave

DUSTIN, Okla., March 26 (AP). —A farm boy, unable to free himself, died beneath a burning farm tractor after kissing his younger brother goodbye.

Richard Dale Foreman, 14, and his 11-year-old brother, Glendell, were riding on the tractor Monday when it swerved, overturned, and burst into flame.

Glendell was thrown clear but Richard, the driver, was pinned uderneath.

The younger boy couldn't move the flame-swept machine.

Richard called to Glendell, told him to kiss him goodbye, and then said he should stand back as far as he could. He died before passersby could put out the fire and free him.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Box Social Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26 — The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held their regular meeting on Monday evening in the form of a box social. Members of the Legion were invited as guests.

Plans for a banquet to be held in May were laid, the banquet being to commemorate the auxiliary's first year in the Provincial Command.

With Comrade Alex. MacDonald as auctioneer, a number of decorated boxes were sold, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Files Damage Suit

TULSA, Oka., March 26 (AP). —A $500,000 damage suit has been filed against Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, authors of "U.S.A. Confidential," by Sheriff George H. Blaine. Blaine's petition charges the book has "severely injured" his reputation in sections of the United States and Canada where he has spoken to religious and youth groups.

David Jones

WARKWORTH, March 26 (ENS)—Funeral service for David Jones, 79, who died Saturday at his Cramahe township home, was held Tuesday in Morganston Christian Church. The Rev. John Shannon, assisted by the Rev. Bailey Kemptville, officiated.

Mr. Jones, a farmer, was married four times, and three of his wives predeceased him. The fourth, the former Ida Somerville, survives him, as do two sons, Thomas of Colborne, Evan of Hilton, and one daughter Lois, at home.

The three who predeceased him were the former Zean Booth, Mrs. Minnie Reeves, and Lillian Swisers.

Pallbearers were Hilton White, George and James Lovelace, Charles Wrightmyer, Allan Loomis and Howard Bedal. Burial was in Christian Church Cemetery.

Seek American Markets

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP).— German machine tool builders are planning to invade U.S. and Canadian markets, says American Machinist, McGraw-Hill publication. Industry representatives will be sent to trade shows and exhibits in Canada and the U.S, this spring in the hope of setting up adequate sales outlets for German tools.

Landscaping Expert Speaks To Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26— (ENS)—Professor John Weal of Guelph was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club Farmers' Night at Edgewater Park on Monday evening.

Professor Weal was introduced by Rotarian Bill Hogle, who said that Mr. Weal, a successful nursery man, had been secured by the Ontario Agricultural College faculty of horticulture, and is considered an authority on landscaping problems.

There are five principals to be followed for a landscaping job on your home: simplicity, proportion, harmony, personality and restraint Mr. Weal said. The landscape man had to be an architect, an engineer and a gardener.

The main portion of Mr. Weal's address was the placing of suitable shrubs, trees, etc., around a bare home. He illustrated this by the use of a blackboard and chalk sketches. Under the skill of the expert, the harsh lines of the home were softened by placing a juniper here, a bed of flowers there, a flagstone walk somewhere else and the over-all design was completely changed.

Cobourg Fireman Hurt On Bonfire Alarm

COBOURG, March 26 (ENS)— Fireman Jack Cann of Cobourg suffered bruises and a shaking up Tuesday night when the new fire pumper was called out to a small bonfire on Chapel St.

Cann, used to the older, smaller pumper, jumped on the side of the new truck, halfway back when the alarm sounded. As the new truck is wider than the old, he was brushed off the side when it went through the door of the fire hall.

Counties Health Unit Costs 57c Per Capita

COBOURG, March 26 (ENS)— Per capita cost of the health unit in 1951 was only 57 cents, the lowest since the Northumberland and Durham counties health unit was organized, it was revealed in the auditor's report for 1951, recently presented to the counties board of health.

The audit showed that the expenses for 1951 totalled $76,667.85 or an increase of $980.40 over 1950. The counties and the provincial government share of the total expenditures was $35,827.87 each, while the balance of $7,012.11 was a contribution from the National Health Grants for special projects.

While the actual expenditure from counties funds showed a slight increase over the previous year the per capita cost of 57 cents for the counties is the lowest on record, due to the increased population served by the health unit in Northumberland and Durham.

Stores Open Late

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26 — (ENS) — Commencing Tuesday, April 1, stores in Campbellford will remain open on Tuesday evenings. The stores will be open on two nights each week, Tuesday and Saturday, as in other years. The stores remain open on Saturday nights only during the winter months.

64¾ Mills

Peterborough's tax rate has been set at 64.75 mills on each dollar of assessment. A mill is a tenth of a cent. Therefore for each thousand dollars of assessed property, the rate-payer will have to pay $64.75 of taxes. The rate is an increase over last year of 9.25 mills. The rate for people assessed as separate school supporters is 67.25 mills, an increase of 10.25.

* * *

The high tax rate—the largest one-year increase they have ever faced—is a blow to the ratepayers. When the aldermen were gathering the estimates and saw the spectre of having to raise more than two and a half million dollars, they made a determined effort to reduce the estimates and called on all spending bodies to curtail their costs. Only a limited success followed. One of the smallest spenders, the Recreation Commission, made the greatest proportionate reduction in its estimates (from $17,000 to $15,700), but this had only a slight effect on the rate, compared with the hundreds of thousands of dollars which schools and hospital are costing.

* * *

Two major items of expense are not directly under the control of the Council; those incurred by the Board of Education and by the Governors of the Civic Hospital. The Board of Education requires $706,307 this year—exclusive of Provincial grants, and not counting the debenture costs on school buildings. This item alone takes 19.28 mills of the 64.75 tax rate and is an increase of 3.16 mills over last year. When interest on debentures for new building is added, the levy on public school supporters is 21.95 mills, or a third of the tax rate. This is an increase of 4.29, and accounts for half the increase this year in the total tax rate. The levy on separate school supporters is 24.45 mills, an increase of 5.29. The cost to the ratepayers of operating the Civic Hospital, as estimated, is $219,026 plus $40,033 to cover last year's deficit. This takes 6.49 mills and is an increase of 2.58 mills over last year. Therefore, a property assessed at $5,000 will be taxed $109.75 for education (on the public school supporter's rate) and $32.45 for the Civic Hospital. This hospital tax does not include very heavy debenture costs on the new buildings.

* * *

Peterborough is now paying 7½ mills on every taxable dollar towards its debentures, excluding school debentures. This is inescapable. The city is paying off its capital indebtedness at the rate of $400,000 a year. That is $400,000 taken out of the pockets of the ratepayers, and the rates; a very large item.

* * *

The Council has met the city's financial burden solemnly, and it has informed the public fully of the budgetary and taxation problems. The financial statements, estimates and explanations which we were able to publish yesterday are the fullest any Council has made available to the press (and therefore to the public) in several years. The Council and public need mutual confidence, as both face the unprecedented expenditures of this year, and confront the high taxes to produce the $2,604,853 necessary to operate the city.

Viewing With Alarm

Renewing his motion for a Bill of Rights for Canadians, Mr. John Diefenbaker, liberal Conservative Member of Parliament from Saskatchewan, said in the House on Monday that "freedom needs an anchor." The anchor he prescribes is a Bill of Rights guaranteeing basic freedoms, to become part of the Constitution.

Mr. Diefenbaker's aims are to be praised, and all Canadian believers in liberty support them; his way of attaining them by a formal constitutional assertion is not necessarily effective. If the political and social climate is illiberal, no words in a constitution will guard liberty; if the climate is already suited to the growth of liberty, constitutional enactment is unlikely to promote it further.

The sister Dominion of South Africa is a case in point. Under the present Malan Government, actions are being taken which most Canadians feel to be gross infringements on freedom. In Dr. Malan's efforts to separate the races and create categories of citizenship, separate representation in Parliament was provided for by legislation. The Supreme Court of South Africa has ruled that this legislation is invalid. Therefore, the Prime Minister plans to introduce legislation prohibiting the courts from ruling on the validity of laws passed by Parliament. Dr. Malan and his type are not likely to be dissuaded from illiberal acts by anything written into the constitution. If South Africa had a Bill of Rights, of what effect would it be now?

In demonstrations and active opposition such as "Sailor" Malan and his Torch Commando are now making, and not words in a constitution, successful resistance to illiberal government is to be found. "Sailor" Malan (no relation to Dr. Malan the Prime Minister) is revealing to his own countrymen and to the world the shame and dishonour which Governmental racial policies are creating.

Several influential members of the Canadian House of Commons are viewing with alarm the Malan policies. It is well that they have spoken as they have. They say what is in the minds of many horrified Canadians. Whether or not Canadians have the right to interfere, they have, as the Toronto Liberal Mr. David Croll said, "the right and duty to examine our relationship with South Africa." And they have the right to view the developments with alarm.

People who say they "view with alarm" are often the butts of jokes; nevertheless, if enough Canadians view the situation in South Africa with alarm, the weight of their criticism will not only influence Parliament to consider our relations with South Africa, but may indeed carry shafts of disapproval to South Africa to strengthen the opposition to the Malan apartheid policies.

Seed Fair

We welcome to Peterborough the Eastern Ontario Seed Fair now being held at the Exhibition Ground. This is a successor to the smaller Bay of Quinte seed fairs which have been held annually in various county towns in eastern Ontario. The Quinte Fair held last year in Peterborough was so successful that its expansion was decided upon, with a likely permanent venue in Peterborough. The exhibition is primarily of seeds, to show new varieties and their employment, but there are also exhibits of farm machinery, demonstrations of agricultural methods, and full programs arranged for visitors. Specialized as the exhibition is, much of it should be of interest to city residents. Peterborough is a county town of modest size; its inhabitants can be expected to have a lively interest in matters affecting the county and farming communities of the district.

Increased Pay For M.L.A.'s

The salaries of the Premier of Ontario and his Cabinet Ministers are to be restored to their 1930 levels of $14,000 and $10,000 respectively, plus their sessional indemnities. They had been reduced during the Depression to $11,995 and $8,000. The return to the pre-Depression levels is entirely justified. In fact, the new levels are probably still low, considering the expansion of the Ontario Government's business and the decreased value of the dollar.

Members of the Legislative Assembly (including Cabinet Ministers) are to be paid a salary of $2,600 a year (formerly $2,000) and an expense allowance of $1,300 tax free (formerly $1,000). A more liberal travelling allowance to and from Toronto is also to adopted. The increases are not large, totalling about $1,000, and there can be little quarrel with them. We do disagree with two of the reasons given by the 1951 House Committee appointed to consider the indemnities.

The Committee said that expansion of the Government services and legislation "makes membership in the Legislature practically a full-time occupation," and that the "increase in the work of the Government has made it necessary to lengthen the sessions of the Legislature substantially." We have not noticed any great lengthening in the sessions; in fact, the trend seems to have been to shorten them. Further, it is Government work which has expanded, and not the work of the Legislature.

The Cabinet, not ordinary M.L.A.'s, have more work to do. The Ontario Cabinet is large, and most of the legislation goes through Orders-in-Council (the Cabinet), or, in a quick succession of days, through the Legislature, with the rank and file on the benches voting automatically. The level of informed debate by ordinary members is not exalted, nor do they usually contribute much to the debates. If M.L.A.'s (not in the Cabinet) are making a full-time job of being Members at Queen's Park and in their ridings, they must have extraordinarily meagre notions about what a full-time job is.

Six Explosive World Questions

By SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

IT IS plain that if a third world war is to be avoided, certain big outstanding questions which at present divide the Great Powers will at one time or another have to be settled by negotiation. These questions, in Europe, are those of Germany and Austria, and, in Asia, those of China, Korea, Formosa and Indo-China.

A settlement of these questions would not put an end to ideological competition, and possibly not even to power-political tension. But it would end those fissures in the international fabric which cannot possibly be accepted as permanent without making ordered international relations altogether impossible, and which, unless removed by agreement, can be removed only by force; fissures such as recognition of competing Governments in the same country, exclusion of whole countries from their place in international society, or the arbitrarily—maintained occupation and partition of countries.

IT IS possible, indeed quite normal, to have peace between Powers with opposed interests, ideologies and aspirations, even though it may be an armed and uneasy peace. But there is no precedent for a peace based on sheer anarchy, with various Powers recognising conflicting Governments of the same country or disregarding the unity of countries which they nevertheless refuse to partition openly. This situation, which now exists in the above-mentioned two countries in Europe and four countries in Asia, must some time be resolved unless the world is to resign itself to the inevitability of war.

It is, however, also obvious that the attempt to settle these outstanding questions by agreement will by itself make the international crisis more acute and, for a time, increase the actual danger of war; not only because of the risk of failure, but also because the necessary operations are in many cases themselves of a highly delicate and perilous nature.

TAKE the case of Germany. It is obvious that no peace settlement with Germany is possible without a prior re-unification of Germany under a single elected Government. Enormous interests hang upon the character of that Government and enormous dangers will therefore accompany its election and installation. It is easy for grave incidents and irregularities to occur—or to be manufactured—either during the election campaign or during the period of the handing-over of power, and such incidents could by themselves become the spark that sets the world on fire.

These dangers would be lessened if the state of extreme distrust with which the West and the Communist Powers at present watch each other could be mitigated before negotiations begin, and a modicum of confidence in the other side's peaceful intentions be restored. This is the reason why the British Government especially has persistently urged making a start with settlements of the smaller questions and proceeding from the easier to the harder tasks. For instance, a treaty with Austria obviously involves less vital interests of the Great Powers, and fewer complications and difficulties in execution, than a treaty with Germany. On the other hand, if an Austrian Treaty were agreed and the occupation of Austria ended, this would substantially improve the atmosphere in which the German problem could be tackled, and encourage a presumption that a settlement is really wanted on all sides.

SIMILARLY, a local settlement in Korea would make it easier to believe in the non-aggressive intentions of Communist China, and thus facilitate the approach to general recognition and an over-all settlement with China. On the other hand, the actual record of the nine-months-old armistice negotiations increases a suspicion that the Chinese Communists do not intend the negotiations to succeed but rather wish to substitute protracted and inconclusive negotiations for a formal armistice, thus keeping their hands free for an arbitrary renewal of full-scale hostilities at the most favourable moment.

There is unfortunately little sign that either Russia or China is willing to agree to this progression from the easier to the harder tasks of peace-making. Failing such willingness, the only reinsurance for the West against the risk of tackling the large and explosive issues outright is negotiation from strength, which does not mean, as is sometimes suggested, negotiation by ultimation but negotiation in a state of material readiness to meet foul play by superior force; if this superior force visibly exists, it will by itself discourage foul play and reduce the risk of incidents.

BUT the creation of strength takes time. It is a matter of universal knowledge that the Western Powers will not be able to negotiate from local strength in Europe before 1953 or 1954; and it has always been extremely unlikely that Russia would wait passively until that time. What was hitherto [illegible] action would take. The Russian Note on a German peace treaty may provide the answer to that question.

It may be that Russia wants to precipitate matters and to create a make-or-break situation in 1952, when her local power in Europe is still clearly superior, and when America is, moreover, hampered in her freedom of action by her Presidential elections. This, quite apart from all questions of the merits of the Russian proposals, is an aspect of matters which must dominate the Western reaction at every stage of the explorations and possible negotiations which may follow the Russian initiative.

THE Western Powers have no right to assume for certain that the Russians mean what they say; that they really want a German settlement, even on the terms they ostensibly propose. Nor have they a right to assume the opposite for certain. They have to explore and find out. But at every step they must make absolutely sure that they are not trapped into a situation where their only alternative to the irredeemable loss of their vital position in Germany would be war. They cannot, for instance, risk the lives and liberty of West German statesmen by allowing them to conduct their campaign in East Germany without protection under Russian and East German Communist bayonets. They cannot put the German Federal Republic into the melting pot of all-German elections for a new Constituent Assembly without really foolproof (and knave-proof) guarantees that these elections are fair and free, and that their results will be respected. Nor can they renounce the treaties and agreements which at present bind Western Germany to the European and Atlantic Community in advance of an all-German peace settlement which may, after all, never come off.

If, by such a cautious and circumspect approach, the negotiations are delayed and progress is slow, this is not necessarily a loss to the cause of peace, provided the time is used to push forward with the rearmament and political integration of the Atlantic Community—which alone can enable the West one day to negotiate from strength and therefore to run risks in negotiation and to bank to some extent on the sincerity of the peaceful intentions of its opponents.

Stamp Tax A Costly Nuisance

(A LETTER IN THE OTTAWA JOURNAL)

SIRS: When the new budget is being drafted I hope that some of the experts will condescend to give a moment's thought to the humble stamp-tax on cheques. This is a tax which would appear completely inexplicable not only to the hypothetical visitor from Mars but even to a visitor from the United States. It might be called archaic, except that that would imply it made sense at some former period—which is ridiculous.

The total receipts from this tax are not readily ascertainable, as postage stamps may be used as well as the specially-designed excise stamps. However, it must be apparent to everyone that the proceeds are not only negligible in comparison to our total budget requirements, but are also less than the real cost of collection.

IT IS easy to see some of the inconveniences. These land on practically the entire population and everyone must be familiar with the evils inherent in the gummed-paper principle. But there are many expensive aspects of the tax which are not perhaps so apparent. Some of these might be worth mentioning:—

1. There are 3,774 branches of chartered banks in Canada and innumerable branches of trust companies, provincial banks and savings banks—all of which have to deal with the nuisance of stamps when handling cheques. It is impossible to calculate the total cost of maintaining stamp funds at all these branch banks, but anyone with a bank account must be familiar with the time wasted while bank tellers correct improper stamping in his deposit of someone lined up ahead.

2. Everyone who receives an unstamped cheque must either contribute a stamp of his own or return the cheque at the cost of a postage stamp. Some companies prefer the latter course on the assumption that to accept unstamped cheques will encourage other customers to leave stamps off. When the unstamped cheque is mailed back, the remitter may find he has missed a discount date—and a new trouble is introduced.

3. The common practice of making a cheque out for three cents more than the amount of the debt may save trouble for the sender but causes expense and inconvenience to those receiving cheques, who must put an additional entry for three cents through their books for every single cheque received to keep their accounts in balance. It can scarcely be imagined what this nuisance means in terms of extra bookkeeping for the hundreds of thousands of individuals and companies in the country that keep books of account. And of course extra bookkeeping to them means extra expense to them and, ultimately, to the whole country.

THE danger of listing these criticisms is that one tends to become diverted from the more fundamental objections to the tax. These may perhaps be summed up in the simple question—"Why?" What is supposed to commend this tax anyway? Productivity? Equity? Simplicity? Or has some one invented a new canon of taxation?

Perhaps the tax originated as a soak-the-rich measure. But much more effective means of doing that have since been evolved. In fact even the rich (if there are any of them left) might manage a wry smile at the thought of a defence on those grounds. From a revenue-producing point of view, this tax is almost a joke. Of course no one should speak disrespectfully of the three or four million dollars that it might yield, but this sum should be weighed against the incalculable (but obviously very great) expense imposed on the economy by it.

It is surprising that this nuisance tax should have stirred up so little complaint. Presumably it has come to be accepted as a sort of necessary evil in present-day society which, of course, it is not; there is no counter-part to it in the United States, for example. Is it too much to hope that one of the budget-drafters might turn his attention from the fun taxes, which involve the juggling of billions, just long enough to abolish this absurb nuisance?

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven . . . Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path . . . Thy testimonies have I taken as an heritage for ever: for they are the rejoicing of my heart. (Ps. 119: 89, 105, 111.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding . . . She is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her. (Prov. 3: 13, 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding. (Prov. 4:7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little . . .

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation: he that believeth shall not make haste. Judgement also will I lay to the linet and righteousness to the plummet: and the hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters shall overflow the hiding place. (Isa. 28: 10, 16, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity, and out of darkness. The meek also shall increase their joy in the Lord, and the poor among men shall come to understanding, and they that murmured shall learn doctrine. (Isa. 29: 18, 19. 24.)

March In England

(Montreal Gazette)

The people I meet in London's Hyde Park on a Saturday afternoon are simply not reacting to the national situation. Ignoring the prospect of less food and dearer living, they are actually enjoying themselves in the sunshine. Some are basking in deck-chairs (yes, basking in March!).

Undoubtedly one reason for our national good spirits is this extraordinary spell of pre-spring sunshine, unofficial and untaxed. Coming before its time, it has spread a mood of good humour and fellow-feeling and even optimism.

Jazz Boys

(BUP dispatch from Moscow)

The Moscow youth newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda" recently brought to light the "jazz boys"—youth who dye their temples grey to lend dash to their yellow and lilac-colored clothes.

The newspaper, which is always most jealous to guard the morality and culture of Russian youth, declared that these "jazz boys of cafe dansant society" were apparently dependent on doting, wealthy parents.

The newspaper named several of the "jazz boys", including one Anatole Gerzoni who, it said, had for seven years been pretending to be a law student. An active member of a youth organization all day, he spent his nights and the summer time in gay sports and for the past two years he had refused to work. He had made about two hundred public talks to youth audiences on the theme "Socialist labour and Communist morality," but that, the newspaper added, was only because he had plenty of leisure time.

Guiana Council Urges Ban Subversive Films

By B. O. WILLS

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana —(CP)—British Guiana, termed a breeding place for Communism by a Legislative council member, is taking steps to combat the growth of "violent ideologies."

The legislature has recommended to the government that all literature and films that are subversive or contrary to public interest be banned from the colony, only British possession on the South American mainland.

During a two-day debate, four of the 21 council members opposed the motion on grounds that the ban was designed to isolate the people from progressive ideas concerning social welfare.

Geoffrey H. Smellie said Socialism wasn't an evil but could become one when it stifled private enterprise to such an extent that initiative and self-reliance were destroyed.

Dr. Cheddi B. Jagan said it was clear that Russia was stirring up trouble by distribution of propaganda representative of Russian ideology.

He said it was a "shame and disgrace that persons of a British colony would endeavor to do the bidding of the Communists.

". . . it may be difficult to draw a line between what is actually subversive and what is merely advanced thinking," he said, "but I think the time has come when, in order to protect the land which we know is becoming a breeding place for these violent ideologies, steps should be taken."

John Carter, declaring that he wasn't a Communist but could be classed in the "left-wing group," said the democracy he believed in was not the type that could be found in South Africa or some parts of the United States.

"The democracy I believe in—freedom of speech, association and though—is an ideal not attained in many countries."

People who are against Communism are not prepared to fight it in the democratic way. He said he was for a revolution of thought and democracy and not one of arms. The true method of combatting Communism was to point out the evils of the belief and then, on the other hand, show the democratic policy and the principles it represents.

"Non-Communists are indolent and lazy," he said, "preferring to sit and make laws to suppress thought. It is a negative approach to the problem . . ."

Delayed Help

RIVERSIDE, March 26 (CP) — This Lake St. Clair town's plea for army aid in combatting a weekend flood cleared through red tape 57 hours after it was made, officials said Tuesday. They said that at 6 p.m. Monday they received a telegram which read: "Your request for help from Military District No. 1 has been referred to Headquarters, Central Command, at Oakville, Ont."

Dynamite Ice Jam

DRAYTON, March 26 (CP) — Four hundred pounds of dynamite Tuesday "loosened" an ice jam in the Conestoga river here and the water dropped four feet. Cellars and low-lying land were flooded at the weekend when ice piled up at a bridge near the main intersection.

Early-Ripe Apples Produced In N.Z.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — (CP)—An apple tree that bears a month earlier than any other known variety and produces fine quality fruit has been developed by a New Zealand orchardist, A. E. Vaile of Manurewa, near Auckland.

The apple, which he calls the "Vailearly" ripens in New Zealand just before Christmas, corresponding to late June in the seasons of the Northern Hemisphere.

Chance led to the discovery when Vaile came across a tiny tree bearing remarkably early fruit in the barren country of the tip of the North Island. He brought it home and after grafting and budding various other types has improved the quality of the fruit.

Vaile now is producing these trees in quantity and some of his cuttings are being tested in Canada.

Surprise Package

ANTIGONISH, N.S. — (CP) — Ten-year-old Red Cameron received a belated Christmas present. He tied a note to a Christmas tree shipped to the United States. L. T. Wright of Baltimore bought the tree and wrote Reid that he would drop around on his vacation next summer. He also sent a nice new jacket for the boy.

Police Charge Youth Robbed Grandmother

BRANTFORD, March 26 (CP). —William Craddock, 17, wanted on a charge of robbing his grandmother, was arrested Tuesday after a police chase over plowed fields during which several shots were fired. None hit Craddock.

The grandmother, Mrs. William Craddock, was robbed of $20 on Monday night while she was in her cellar tending the furnac, and $60 a week ago.

Fans Warned To Calm Down

NIAGARA FALLS, March 26—(CP). — Wrestling fans here were warned to calm down Tuesday.

Magistrate Harley Rallet said if disturbances continue at the arena during wrestling matches, police should arrest all the spectators.

Two men appeared before him charged with causing a disturbance in the arena Monday night.

William P. Staats, 57, Niagara Falls, N.Y., was fined $54, and Mike Domik, 46, of Port Colborne, $55.

Staats said that two weeks ago some one tossed his hat in the ring and a wrestler tore it up. Monday night he was at the ringside and "took one pass at the wrestler to get even for the hat."

MOOSE JAW, Sask., March 26 (CP)—Two-thirds of Mose Jaw went without milk deliveries Tuesday because of a surprise strike of 65 drivers of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries and Johnstone dairies. Prizes Of War Given Halifax

HALIFAX—(CP)—Two valuable paintings, once brought into Halifax as a prize of war, have been presented to the Nova Scotia Museum of Fine Arts by Cabot Coville, United States Consul General here.

Mr. Coville said the history of the paintings dates back to 1812. The two paintings were included in a shipment destined for the United States at that time, when Britain was fighting the new Republic.

A British warship captured the vessel and brought her into Halifax.

The paintings were later released and sent to the Pennsylvania Academy, where they still remain except for the two donated to the museum here as a token of friendship.

Marmora Gains T.V.L. Final By Rubbing Out Havelock In Close Game Before 1,800

Havelock and Marmora were virtually ghost towns to traveller passing along Highway 7 Tuesday night. Practically everyone was yelling and hooting for their favorites in the Trent Valley League semi-final game at the Civic Arena. Today Havelock is still the ghost town, in fact deader than on Tuesday night. Marmora meanwhile is perhaps the liveliest town in Ontario; for their favorites edged Havelock 8-7 to win the best-of-five series three games to two. They now advance into the Trent Valley League finals against Trenton Flyers.

Steady backchecking gave Marmora the verdict; that was the only difference between the two clubs. Both teams had the more than 1,800 fans in a frenzy throughout the game as they tore up and down the ice, never lagging. They stopped only when the players were too tuckered to move.

An example of the zip was the first 19 seconds. Bill Crowder from the opening faceoff sent Havelock one up in 14 seconds but from the faceoff after that goal Glen Lavender trickled the puck through Doug Hill's legs to tie the score five seconds later. Two goals in 19 seconds.

Tied It Up

Marmora fans' blood boiled with excitement more than 13 minutes later when Fred Stewart blasted in a short shot. But the cheering had hardly died down when Havelock's Ralph Hamilton on a solo rush tied the score two-all.

Early in the second Marmora fans were nervously biting their fingernails. Lorne Eakins rapped in a pass at the two-minute mark, followed up by a goal a minute later by teammate Don McIndoe. Havelock then led 4-2.

Lavender brought the Marmora fans back on their feet, whacking home a pass from Mike Forestall. But Al Caravaggie gave Havelock another chance to cheer minutes later when he sent his side up 5-3.

At this point team play was introduced for the first time and with neat pattern passes Marmora roared back into the game. Mantle combined with Bill Jones and Stewart, then Forestell worked with Lavender, both plays for goals, and the score was tied.

Took a Lead

But again Havelock had the last cheer as Hal Willshaw slipped the puck into the open Marmora net late in the second to put Havelock up 6-5.

After Bill Crowder's slap shot hit the twine for Havelock early in the third, Marmora fans began to shrink back into their seats, fearing the worst. But the Marmora sextet was still battling.

Marmora began to check and Havelock were stopped dead at centre ice, often the puck stolen off their sticks. A Mantle-Stewart breakaway, off a quick check, produced the first of a three-goal rally for Marmora. The cheers rocked the timbers.

A minute later the timbers were shaking twice as hard, for Lavender after weaving the length of the ice whipped in the tying goal.

As those cheers were still echoing along the roof-top, Marmora fans roared a third blast again a minute later as Stewart banged in a rebound from Roy Darrah's shot for the winning goal.

Life's darkest moment for Marmora was in the second period when their goalie, Eldon Killian, was hit by the puck on the forehead and knocked unconscious into the net. Carried into the dressing room the game goalie came to, refused stitches in the inch-long jaged cut, was patched up and returned to the game within 15 minutes.

Havelock — Goal, Hill; defence, Anderson and Berardi; centre, Reid; forwards, Willshaw and Crowder; alternates, Eakins, Caravaggio, McIndoo, Laing, Hamilton Pace, Wilson, Burwick.

Marmora — Goal, Killian; defence, Maynes and Gray; centre, Forestell; forwards, Lavender and Trumble; alternates, Stewart, Jones, Mantle, Darrah, Doyle, Kerr, Drummond, Brown, and Smith.

The summary:

First Period

Havelock—Crowder (Willshaw)	0:14
Marmora—Lavender (Trumble)	0:19
Marmora—Stewart	13:34
Havelock—Hamilton	16:54

FIRES 65

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., fired a six-under-par 65 Tuesday in Aiken, S. C., to win the Palmetto Golf Club's eighth annual pro-amateur golf tournament. Showing little effects of the 72 holes of pressure golf that won him $1,400 second-place money in the Jacksonville open Monday, Snead was never over par-71 on the 6,676-yard Aiken course. Tuesday's victory earned him $450.

TOO LATE! TOO LATE!—Havelock's goalie, Doug Hill, looked desperately for three seconds to find the puck; when he found the disc, it was too late. Here he catches sight of it, just as it crosses the goal-line. Marmora's Lavender slithered a shot from the corner, striking Hill's left skate and rebounding into the net at the 19-second mark of the first period. This goal tied the score one-all, Havelock's Crowder scoring at the 14-second mark. Marmora won the game 8-7 and the series 3-2 on games.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Lu Kimm Fought Wrong One To Drop Deciding Fall To Layton In Pro Mat Bout

Bret Harte once wrote: "For designs that are dark and ways that are queer the heathen Chinese is peculiar." The same must be applied to one Lu Kimm for losing the main mat bout at the Brock Arena last night just when he had Lord Athol Layton about to say "uncle". Lu took time out then to hop out of the ring and cuff Athol's trainer—who had tripped Kimm—around while Layton staggered to his feet in time to beat the ref's count. Lu didn't get back in time.

There was a sprouting of rhubarb after the garden party as the massive Manchurian expressed indignation at being counted out when ahead on points. He knocked down the strutting Layton and his cowering trainer, and the latter two required police protection from angry fans after the pair left the ring.

Won the First

But to get down to the sordid details: Layton, weighing 258 pounds, to Kimm's 281, won the first fall in six minutes with his "English Octopus" hold, something like a double reverse leglock, forcing Lu to concede. He got him in position for the fall by roughing his big rival along the ropes and using his judo slashes while Referee Sammy Gotter waved helpless warnings. Lu was strong and battled in clean fashion while Layton, who was faster, played it hard from the start and drew the fans' ire.

The moustached Lu came back to even things in 16 minutes with his "Manchurian Clutch"—a full nelson with head pushed into the shoulder blades to add leverage. Tiring of taking Layton's slashes, which he shed better than most wrestlers, he softened his nibs up with crushing bear hugs and a few club-like swings of big fists. They served up considerable mat work in between times. The hefty crowd made with the noise in approving manner when Kimm came home in front. Layton looked all done in and took quite a spell to revive, remaining in the ring during the intermission.

Kimm Outside

The final fall came in eight minutes with the staggering Athol on his feet for the count while Lu was outside pounding the bejabbers out of Lou Pitoscia, the villainous trainer. The latter had tripped Lu as he had Layton in a corner with his deadly "clutch" grip, with Athol on the way out in ring parlance. Earlier, Layton had again gone in for slashes, but found the heavy-necked Manchurian coming right back and throwing plenty of fists in lively action. They mixed again after the bell and the fans tried to get in on the deal briefly as the wrestlers left.

Towering Hi Lee, 292 pounds of him, and the 232-pound Zorra, battled to a 30-minute semi-final draw on pretty even terms. Lee resembled a lion with his shaggy mane, his deep roars and his terrific swings. But he found a nimble opponent — who could have used some of Hi's hair—in the Frenchman. The latter threw his feet handily and tossed fists, too, to balance up the usual rough tactics shown by Lee. They were in and out of the ring with action wide open at times, as well as some mat work, and the fans were solidly behind Zorra throughout.

Unpopular Win

Stan Mayslask, 240, took the prelim in 23 minutes with a few punches and body slams over newcomer Johnny Walker, weighing 220, but he didn't win any friends in doing so. Mayslask was tough from the start while Walker was fast and tossed Stan around plenty for a time, specializing in a flying headlock off the ropes. Gotter was terrible. Action eased up for a spell as they exchanged holds on the mat, but Walker opened it up again later in lively going just before Malslask polished him off.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Three Boston Bruins players were named to The Canadian Press National Hockey League All-Star team 13 years ago today. With Art Ross, coach of the Bruins who won the league title that year, the team had Brimsek in goal, Shore and Clapper on defence. Syl Apps of Toronto was centre on the all-star squad, with Gordon Drillon of Toronto at right wing and Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens at left wing. The Bruins went to win the Stanley Cup that spring.

Leafs, Wings Both Charge "Dirty Play"

DETROIT, March 26, (CP). — "Dirty play" charges were traded by Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings after Tuesday night's Stanley Cup semi-final opener which saw hockey take a back seat to a record-breaking penalty parade.

"It was disgraceful hockey and the blame rests with the Leafs' top management," said Detroit manager Jack Adams after his club had beaten Toronto 3-0 in the opener of the best-of-seven series.

"It was planned strategy to upset our offence," Adams added. "That's the way the Leafs always play and it doesn't make any difference who the opponent is. Our boys had orders not to fight back—just head for the penalty box if they were sent there."

Manager Conny Smythe of the Leafs countered by accusing the Red Wings of going after one of the Toronto defencemen.

"The Wings were trying to get (Fern) Flayman out of the game" he said. "Apparently Chadwick (referee Bill Chadwick) didn't know Flaman had a fractured jaw."

Draws Five Penalties

Flaman drew five penalties—three of them in the second period when 15 were handed out, tying the record for a period.

Smythe naturally wasn't counting the Leafs out of the running. "There wasn't much chance to play hockey," he said. "But we'll be back in there Thursday."

In all, 29 penalties—totalling 88 minutes—were called during Tuesday night's game. The old record of 24 was set in 1949 by the Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens during the regular season. Previous playoff record was 21 set by Toronto and Boston Bruins last season.

During the second period the penalty box was occupied for 15 minutes and 15 seconds of the 20 minutes.

Seven roughing penalties led the march to the cooler. Six were for interference, four were majors for fighting; four were misconducts; two for high-sticking; two for holding; two hooking; one tripping and one cross-checking.

Oddly enough, Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings who has a reputation as a rough house player, didn't have a penalty called against him.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Determined to wrap up the series in four straight, if possible, the Petes pulled out this aft for Kingston and the fourth game of their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" group finals. They nudged the Quinte Hawks aside in four straight of group semi-sawoffs, and aren't fooling around with the K's. Frankly, we thought Kingston would put up a better series, but then the Petes have been playing mighty fine hockey lately. They shouldn't have much trouble the rest of the way with the Limestone Citizens, and then they're into provincial semi-finals. The Ellis outfit have definite designs on an O.H.A. title this spring. Should they lose tonight, fifth fray is here Friday.

* * * * * * *

An N.H.L. release points out that Toronto Leafs have won the coveted Stanley Cup seven times, three time in a row. Ted Kennedy holds the distinction of being on five cup winners, while Conn Smythe shares with Tommy Gorman the honor of managing most Stanley Cup victors. Only in 1946 have the Leafs missed playoffs in 21 years. Detroit Wings have won the N.H.L. title four straight years and are after their fifth Stanley Cup. Six times they lost in cup finals, four times to Leafs. This is the 13th straight appearance of Wings in playoffs. They led the league this season by 11 full games. More again on Canadiens and Boston Bruins.

Swell Showing By Red

Ashburnham's gift to the N.H.L., George (Red) Sullivan, got 24 points in his first year in the big time. Had 12 goals and as many assists, besides serving just 24 minutes in penalties. That's a mighty fine showing for a rookie. Here are a few of the big N.H.L. names he leads in scoring: Dewsbury, Meeker, Horeck, Leswick, Mackell, Quackenbush, Brown, Kraftcheck, Mosdell, Goldham, Lewicki, Dumart, Klukay, Mortson, Ezinicki, Eddolls, Timgren, Flaman, Juzda, Martin, MacPherson, and a raft more. The scrappy redhead is making like he intends to stay up there, eh?

* * * * * * *

Playing up to the form predicted of them by the dopesters — and the gamblers — Detroit and Canadiens came through with impressive victories last night to open semi-finals. Canadiens flew to a 5-1 verdict over the Bruins and that series is not likely to go the limit. Some 14,000 noisy Detroit customers roared approval as their Wings routed Leafs 3-0 in the opener. They're in Detroit again tomorrow ere the scene shifts back to Toronto on Saturday and next Tuesday. Anything can happen yet in this series as Leafs won't bow out without a fight. Thompson and Reise touched off a fight last night that had ushers and fans in it to liven things up. A rather rugged tussle, we gather, but typical of Leafian-Wings' games most of the season.

Marmora Makes It

Marmora made T.V.L. finals here last night by squeezing out an 8-7 decision 'gainst Havelock before 1,800 fans. It gave 'em the semi-final sawoffs by three games to two. The losers put up a great battle before being rubbed out, while Marmora had to be in top form to grab the victory. They should make a real showing in league finals against Trenton Flyers, whose lineup includes Bob Parnall of this city. That series is expected to open Friday on Quinte ice, a best-of-seven affair. Goalie Eldon Killian of Marmora received a nasty forehead cut in the second but declined stitches till the game was over and returned to the wars. This spirit helped drive his mates to a three-goal rally in the third to win out. Fast, exciting hockey by the district teams.

* * * * * * *

East is east and west is west and last night the twain did meet. Two Layton, the Englisher and Manchurian Lu Kimm in the main go bout at the Brock Layton won it when Lu leaped lightly out of the ring to pound Layton's trainer around while the ref's count went on and on. Had Lu stuck to his chopsticks within the ring he had Layton ready to be laid among the daisies. Shaggy-maned and roaring Hi-Lee managed to eke out a semi-final draw with Zorra, the French Tarzan. Lee is a Texan, so that made four nationalities in the top two bouts. The ref comes from nowhere. Two Yank grapplers, Mayslack and Walker, mixed in the prelim with Mayslack the winnah.

Stratford Whips Owen Sound For Senior Title

By The Canadian Press.

Until this season, Stratford hadn't had a team in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A play since 1949, and that year the club finished far out of the playoffs. The three-year layoff however, doesn't seem to have hurt.

Stratford Indians Tuesday night won the 1952 O.H.A. Senior A championship 4-1 by coming up with four straight goals—three of them in overtime—to eliminate the 1951 Allan Cup champion Owen Sound Mercurys in the seventh and deciding game of their finals.

The victory gave Stratford the John Ross Robertson Trophy, emblematic of the Big Six title, for the second time—they last won the O.H.A. senior crown in 1907—and moved the club into Allan Cup play against Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, Northern Ontario Hockey Association A champions, in an all-Ontario final.

The series is tentatively scheduled to open in Stratford Friday night.

Both clubs played tight, scoreless hockey before 3,700 Stratford fans until 6:03 of the third period when Doug Gillespie drew first blood on a three-man attack with Andy Grant and Mike Bukacheski.

Ties It Up

Bruce Burdett tied it up on passes from Don Heinbuch and Ron Aitken five minutes later, sending the game into a 10-minute overtime session.

The Mickey Roth-Billy Flick-Denny Flanagan line wasted little time in making the extra period count. Flick connected at 4:56 and Flanagan came through at 8:03. The other two of the trio collected assists on each goal.

When Mercurys yanked goalie Bob Gillson in favor of an extra forward in the closing seconds, Ron Aitken clinched the issue with a shot into the empty net.

Although the O.H.A. Senior A title hunt was decided Tuesday night, the juniors still are battling for the right to represent their league in Memorial Cup play.

Providence Reds Blank Barons

By The Canadian Press.

The Providence Reds are on the brink of pulling the biggest upset of the 1951-52 American Hockey League Calder Cup playoffs.

Cleveland's powerful defending champion Barons were installed as favorites to crush the Reds in their best-of-five series. The Barons lived up to their ratings by taking the first two games but the underdog Reds have come back to tie the series.

The Reds stunned the Barons Tuesday night, 4-0, to square accounts at two games apiece. The deciding game will be played in Cleveland Thursday night.

The Reds came up with their best performance of the season in completely outplaying the defending champions.

Providence struck for two goals while the Barons were shorthanded in the first period and scored two more in the finale. Ray Powell, league's leading scorer, paced their attack with two markers.

Goalie Harvey Bennett of the Reds made 35 stops.

Meanwhile Pittsburgh Pirates dropped a 3-1 decision to Hershey Bears. But the Pirates still lead the best-of-seven playoff series three games to one.

Wings, Toronto On Spree As Detroit Clips Leafs 3-0 In Playoff

DETROIT, March 26. (CP)—Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, whose ice antics have at times resembled Pier Six brawls, are on the rampage. Wings took the opener of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals 3-0 Tuesday night but the scoring was incidental to the fist-swinging, wood-chopping, clipping and other penalty-drawing shenanigans. The Wings, when they concentrated on hockey, showed the 14,316 frenzied home-town fans why they are 2-1 favorites to take the Stanley Cup champions in this round. But the boys on both clubs forgot for the most part that it's still impossible to score goals from the penalty box. As it was, they broke one penalty playoff record and equalled another.

Referee Bill Chadwick and Linesmen George Hayes and Bill Morrison skated miles trying to separate the brawling, wrestling and sweater-tugging athletes. Twenty-nine penalties were called, including four majors and four misconducts — eight more than the previous high of 21 set in the second game of the Boston-Toronto semi-finals last spring.

Fifteen were called in the second period and this parade to the penalty box matched the total for one 20-minute session, also set in the third game of the Boston-Toronto what-was-it last year.

If this rough stuff continues, and there's every reason to believe it will on the general ill-feeling Tuesday night, these two feuding rivals probably will crack any existing records for time spent in the box next to the timekeepers.

Beats Rollins

The Wings, who have won the National Hockey League the last four seasons and who have taken the cup only once in that period, were sent flying midway through the final session when Red Kelly's close-in drive beat goalkeeper Al Rollins.

The Syd Abel-Gordie Howe-Ted Lindsay line—the highest-scoring trio in the N.H.L. this season—combined to put the Wings two up at 2:59 of the third period with Abel poking the puck into payoff territory on the rebound of Howe's long shot. Rookie John Wilson salted it away with the third goal at 14:21 on a breakaway play that caught Rollins out of position.

The notion that playoff games are played close-to-the-vest—an old-fashioned idea that has been knocked silly the last few years—took its beating early Tuesday night. Toronto defenceman Gus Mortson went off at 2:02 of the first period for riding Wilson into the boards and from that point on there was somebody resting—or fighting—in the penalty box every five minutes until almost halfway into the third.

Flaman Culprit

Leaf defenceman Fern Flaman set the stage for the second-period banishments when he was thumbed off four times within seven minutes—the last two going as a double penalty for holding and roughing Glen Skov at 14:20.

Toronto took 16 of the 29 penalties with eight players getting the gate. Seven Red Wings split the other 13.

The teams will be given two days to cool out. Second game of the series will be played here on Thursday night with the third and fourth going to Toronto on Saturday and next Tuesday.

If necessary, and the clubs aren't chopped up, the fifth game will be played here April 3, the sixth at Toronto April 5 and the seventh here April 8.

No Fireworks In Montreal

Canadiens Draw First Blood With Bruins

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, March 26. (CP)—That big first game, a potent wedge in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final, rested with Montreal Canadiens today. Unless Boston Bruins can do something quickly about the 5-1 shellacking they absorbed Tuesday night, the gap will be widened to the point where the series may start falling apart right in the Bruins' back yard.

Canadiens took the opener through steady, methodical and all-round better play. The big thrill for the 14,357 home-town fans was supplied by Maurice (Rocket) Richard, with a Florida sun tan and minus his tummy-ache, who whistled in two goals, enough in themselves in win.

Rookie Dickey Moore, Billy Reay and Floyd Curry tossed in the other goals that added up to a night of disaster for the Bruins. Pentti Lund was the only Bruin who could get the jump on little Gerry McNeil, Montreal goalie.

May Be Off Night

It may have been an off night for the Bruins. Coach Lynn Patrick said he had no complaints to make and that his team is far from counted out.

Coach Dick Irvin beamed happily but had no predictions about the second game here, Thursday night. The teams then move to Boston for two games.

The game lacked fireworks or anything of the spectacular except for Richard's rollicking forays in old-time style. The Rocket got into the last five games of the regular season after a layoff of 22 games because of persistent groin pains.

Richard's opening goal early in the first period came when defenceman Murray Henderson moved up to meet Elmer Lach at the blue line and got left on the rest of the play. Lach was partly tripped and shoved the puck forward. Milt Schmidt, Boston centre, trapped it but before he could move, Richard had swept in, knocked Schmidt's stick from his hands and grabbed the puck himself to move in on goalie Jim Henry and score with a lift shot.

Unwitting Victim

Defenceman Bill Quackenbush was an unwitting victim of Moore's goal in the second period. Taking a pass from Richard, Moore let loose a 30-foot drive. The puck struck Quackenbush, who was protecting Henry, and fell to the ice. Before he could clear it, Moore raced in and scored.

Lund's goal in the same period raised Boston's hopes. The Bruins were putting on the pressure at the time and Ed Sandford, digging for the corner in the Montreal end, intercepted Canadiens' attempt to clear the puck from a scramble of players. He passed sharply to Lund, 15 feet from the goal, and Lund rifled a fast shot past McNeil.

Quackenbush was caught alone on the defence on Richard's second goal. The Rocket picked up a loose puck near centre ice, passed to Moore and followed him in. Just as he reached Quackenbush, Moore left a drop pass for Richard who swung to the left and sent a low shot into the far corner of the net.

Johnny Peirson, Bruin right-winger, was the goat on Reay's goal in the third period. When Peirson lost the puck just outside the Boston goal crease Reay pounced on it and scored with a backhander before Henry could move.

Defenceman Gus Kyle was outguessed on Canadiens' final goal, with less than a minute of play left. Curry got loose from the pack on Doug Harvey's pass. With Kyle the only man between him and Henry, Curry tricked his way around the defenceman and went on in to score.

Jim MacPherson, Montreal defenceman, suffered a charley-horse in the opening period and is not expected to play Thursday night. Coach Irvin said he plans to use Stan Long, a farmhand from the Buffalo club of the American Hockey League who was called up as a stand-by for the series.

BRANTFORD 63 MILLS

Brantford's tax rate at 63 mills is an increase of seven mills over the 1951 rate. Separate school supporters pay an additional six mills.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. Ronald Howe, of Bridgenorth, was given out-patient treatment at Civic Hospital today for a gash in the back of her head, which she received in a fall. Stitches were required to close the cut.

CITY POWER-LESS

The city was without power for 10 minutes this morning when an insulator failed at the Auburn powerhouse. Power was off from 10.05 to 10.15. The insulator that failed was on a switching bus, and the resulting short circuit cut off power to the whole city. Repairs were made during noon hour.

WINS FIRST CASE

Robert Carley, son of T. J. Carley, Q.C., today won his first case as a solicitor in Supreme Court. It was the only criminal case listed at the assizes. Mr. Carley defended Armand Larocque, the French - Canadian carpenter charged with rape. Justice A. M. LeBel ordered the jury to bring in a directed verdict of "not guilty." Mr. Carley was assisted by a senior colleague in the law firm, Trevor Clarke.

ATTENDING TONG FUNERAL

Police Chief John Thompson and O.P.P. Inspector J. A. Stringer are representing the city police department and O.P.P. district 8 Headquarters at the funeral of Detective Sergeant Edmund Tong in Toronto today. Detective Tong died early Sunday morning as the result of wounds received 19 days before when he and Detective Roy Perry were shot down by two gunmen in Toronto. Chief Thompson was accompanied by Detective Sergeants John Stevenson and William A. Clarke and retired detective sergeant W. E. Meagher.

Arbitration Board Upholds C.G.E. Management In Dismissal Of Workers

Board Tosses Out Two Union Grievances But Recommends 14 Welders Be Reinstated With Loss of Seniority

An arbitration board has upheld the action of C.G.E. management in firing 16 welders from the structural steel department of the plant. Two grievances over dismissals—one for 11 welders and another for the remaining five—were filed by Local 524, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America. Both grievances were heard at a sitting of the board, under the chairmanship of Judge J. S. Anderson of Belleville, in Peterborough on Feb. 18-19 and March 1.

The board dismissed both union grievances and claimed the company were justified in firing all 16 of the men.

However, they recommended that nine of the first 11 be reinstated with a year's loss of seniority; and the other five be reinstated with two years' loss of seniority.

Two Exceptions

Exceptions were Cec. Harvey and William J. Anderson. Referring to them the board said: "Messrs. Anderson and Harvey were experienced union men, Harvey having been a full-time employee of the union for some time and Anderson having been a steward with experience in processing grievances. Little can be said on their behalf with a view to compassionate treatment. Because of their leadership and their conduct they may have influenced some of the less experienced members of the group when the 11 refused to resume work in a normal manner after repeated warnings . . ."

A wildcat strike involving the welders began on December 11 after the welders claimed a welding job had been recoded, so that they estimated they would lose as much as 12 cents an hour.

The issue wasn't settled and the company sent the men a letter telling them they must return and be ready to resume work in a normal manner by December 28. Otherwise they would be fired.

Union Urged Return

Local 524 said they had urged the men to return to their jobs; and management said they would not discuss the matter until the men got back to work and filed a grievance according to the terms of the company-union contract.

All 18 reported to work on Dec. 27. There was some discussion after they clocked in and asked for an interview with Roy T. Bogle, assistant works manager. An argument ensued with company officials when this was refused and they were threatened with firing if they didn't immediately get back on the job.

J. C. Harrison Famed Heel-Toe Walker

Famed as a heel-and-toe walker in the early part of the century, James Charter Harrison, 77, died suddenly today at his home, 733 George St. N.

Shortly after he came to Peterborough in 1908, Mr. Harrison raced against George B. Goulding, then world's champion heel-and-toe walker. Mr. Goulding was the father of Bev Goulding, football and basketball coach at P.C.V.S.

Mailman 29 Years

For 29 years Mr. Harrison was a mailman in Peterborough. He started with the post office in 1911, after spending some time with the C.G.E. and in Hamilton's machine shop.

He was well known also as a lawn bowler.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison celebrated their golden wedding on December 27, 1948. Mrs. Harrison, the former Annie Kitney, survives him.

Mr. Harrison was born in London, and worked as a driller in the Chatham and Royal Naval dockyards there before coming to Canada.

Surviving are: his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Gordon Patterson (Florence), of Toronto; Mrs. Clifford Turnbull (Lillian), Mrs. William Barrick (Elizabeth), both of Peterborough, and one son, Percy James of Peterborough.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later. The body is resting at the Nisbett funeral home.

Man Found Dead No Inquest Held

Robert Charles Rex, 32, 139 Rubidge St., was found dead in his room Tuesday. He had apparently been dead for several hours.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young was called and said today that no inquest will be held. Rex had been ill for some time and death was caused by double pneumonia.

Mr. Rex was a veteran of the Second World War, and served overseas with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He was not able to work following his return home to Canada. He was a member of the Canadian Legion.

He leaves his mother, the former Ann Scully, and a brother John, both of Peterborough. His father, Eugene Rex, predeceased him. Mr. Rex was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Funeral will be held on Thursday from the Kaye Funeral Home to St. Peter's Cathedral where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Ancient Farm Machinery Used Big Share Man Power

Although one display in the farm machinery building at the Central Ontario Spring Show is attracting plenty of attention, its promoters are not taking any orders. All the models on display in the northeast corner of the building are relics of another era, and manufacturers stopped turning them out before the turn of the century.

Tuesday afternoon, old timers and junior farmers alike were taking time out from setting up the exhibits of modern farm equipment to examine museum pieces which were in use on district farms more than 60 years ago.

With the older man, it was a case of reminiscing and looking back over many years of farming experience, to the days before 1900, when the mechanization of agriculture was just beginning. The younger fellows were just looking the equipment over and shaking their heads, wondering how "the old man ever got anything done with such a collection of machinery."

Replaces Lost Labor

Scarcity of farm labor in recent years has made mechanical equipment a must on the farm whether it's a 500-acre grain and dairy ranch or a small market gardening enterprise at the edge of a city.

Haying in the 80's was a back breaking job. It still is on farms that do not have the latest in mechanical hayloaders, balers and buck rakes to make the job easy. As Frank Morrison, retired South Monaghan farmer now living at 174 Lock St., demonstrated how an old fashioned revolving wooden hay rake worked, he stood in the shadow of a streamlined, rubber tired mechanical hay baler, which provided a striking contrast of the old and new in farm equipment.

Stewart Hall who assembled the display for the Ontario Retail Farm Equipment Dealers' Association which is sponsoring it explained that the rake was in use at least 85 years ago. It is about eight feet wide. The teeth, spaced about six inches apart are about four feet long, and pointed at both ends. One horse pulled the cumbersome apparatus, while the farmer walked behind, holding the two wooden handles which hooked under two teeth near the centre, about waist high. To trip the rake, he merely lifted the teeth up by raising the handles, till it flopped forward, then hooked the handles under the teeth on the side of the rake behind the long crossbar, raised them and the raking continued as the horse moved ahead. Mr. Hall found the rake on the farm of Chester Hamilton in Dummer.

Won Attention

On Walter Thorne's farm in Otonabee, he found the 65-year-old McCormack reaper. Compared with a modern binder, it looks more like a cross between a windmill

Rings Ordered To Be Presented To City Curlers

Ald. Herbert Young has ordered seven gold rings, ornamented with the city's crest, for presentation to seven members of champion rinks at the annual meeting of the Curling Club Monday night. City council authorized him to arrange for the tributary gifts. Four are for Dr. Ralph Clark and the three members of his Ontario champions of 1951, and somebody from the club reminded the council that the Colts won a provincial championship last year, which nobody recognized.

Reception committee has also been authorized to spend not more than $100 in entertaining the Salvation Army Band from Britain.

Property committee's report presented Monday night by Ald. H. S. Longhurst instructed City Clerk Outram to order, according to accepted tender, the following kitchen utensils from T. Eaton Co. for the Fire Department: 2 doz. dinner plates; 1 doz. soup bowls. 2 doz. cups and saucers, 6 individual metal teapots, 3 saucepans, medium size, four small frying pans, six egg cups, 24 water glasses, 2 doz. knives, forks and tea spoons, at a total cost of $58.84.

Several other Longhurst committee items were:

No purchase of chairs for personnel of the fire hall at present.

Peterborough Lumber Co. tender of $45.22 for the completion of the kitchen cupboard in the fire hall be accepted.

No purchase this year of a new Gestetner printing machine for the city hall.

Accept the bid of S. Csumrik of $20 to $25 for safety requirements in the boiler room of the city hall.

Rent At City Hall

Various departments of the city occupying space in the City Hall to be charged rental rate of $2.25 per square foot, and that the "funds so raised be used by the property committee to finance the operation of the building and to pay the principal and interest annually of the debentures issued in connection with the new city hall and its furnishings."

Ald. Longhurst has also asked for some definite information as to when copies of the audited statement of the city's finances for 1951 will be available.

C. Of Commerce Ends Year $1,430 In Red

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce ended 1951 with a deficit of $1,430.

Gordon McGavin, president, in an outline of the 1951 financial statement at the chamber's annual dinner at the Empress hotel on Tuesday night, explained that the total expenditure for the year was $17,481 and the year's receipts, $16,051.

However, the president predicted that at the end of 1952 the chamber's financial statement will not only be out of the red, but may show a substantial cash balance.

In his past president's message P. D. Scollard thanked the members for the co-operation they had given him during 1951.

Congratulations

Congratulations for the chamber's success in its activities were expressed by Mayor Waddell.

Appreciation to the past president, P. D. Scollard, was expressed by Bob Arnold who also presented flowers to Mrs. Scollard. Stan Shields thanked president McGavin for his efforts so far this year and presented flowers to Mrs. McGavin.

Special musical entertainment was presented by the following local talent: Miss Mary McBride, pianist, who played Manhatten Serenade; Bob Hutchinson, violinist, who played A Hymn to the Sun, accompanied by Max Park; Miss Phyllis Hart and Miss Ruth Grandy, who sang the vocal duet, The Italian Street Song.

Lindsay Man Pulls Self From Icy Scugog

LINDSAY, March 26 — Joseph Bishop of Lindsay narrowly escaped drowning in the Scugog River Monday night.

Police Chief Arthur Webster reported that Bishop managed to pull himself out of the ice waters after dropping into the river west of the Lindsay St. bridge.

A resident of the district phoned the police station and reported that a man was in the river at the edge of McDonald Park. When police arrived they found Bishop lying exhausted on the bank a short distance from the edge of the river. He was taken to his home.

At the time Bishop was unable to tell police how he had come to fall into the river.

G. F. Grady CHEX Sales Manager

Gerald F. Grady has been named commercial manager of sales for radio station CHEX. Gerry Grady joined the station's sales staff in November, 1949; his promotion became effective March 1.

Born and educated in Peterborough, he is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grady, 122 Park Street South. In 1940, he enlisted with the Canadian Army, receiving his discharge in 1945 with the rank of sergeant.

A past president of the Peterborough Junior Chamber of Commerce, Gerry is a member of the Sales and Advertising Club, and a sergeant in the Reserve Army (Canadian Dental Corps).

He is married to the former Dorothy Tooker of Brockville, and they have two sons and a daughter.

Farmer Quells Fire In Home

A chimney fire threatened the farm home of J. Wesley Bell, on the fourth line of Smith township Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Bell saw thick smoke pouring from the chimney while he was working behind the barn about 4 o'clock. Rushing to the house, he and Mrs. Smith were met with a fog of smoke when they climbed the stairs. Smoke and flames were coming from the furnace pipes as they passed through a partition in the upstairs hallway.

The fire was raked out of the furnace, and water was poured on the sizzling pipes. Smith fire department was notified, but the fire was out when the No. 2 Smith township pumper arrived.

Mr. Bell was almost overcome by smoke when firemen arrived but his efforts to save his home were successful. There was some damage to the upstairs from smoke and water.

"It's a mystery to me how it started," he said today. "There was so little fire in the furnace that I don't see how it could have started the fire in the chimney and pipes."

Cobalt Bomb Is Application Atomic Energy

REGINA — (CP)—The Cobalt bomb is one of the first major applications of atomic energy to the field of medicine, says Dr. H. E. Johns of the University of Saskatchewan physics department.

Dr. Johns, who designed the first Cobalt bomb and helped install it at the university last year, detailed its operation in a recent lecture here.

He forecast that in the next few years there would be a large number of cobalt units in Canada.

Canada is the only country in the wourld that can make the cobalt bomb, Dr. Johns claims. The bomb will produce as much radio- activity as all the radium in the world, he adds.

Construction of the unit was financed by Saskatchewan Cancer Society. Research was financed by the Society and the National Cancer Institute.

There is at present one other cobalt unit in operation— at the University of Western Ontario. The design and measurements for it were done by University of Saskatchewan graduates.

The machine is slightly better in cancer treatment than a 3,000,000 volt x-ray machine that would probably stand three stories high and cost about $200,000 to build, Dr. Johns says.

Yet the cobalt unit at the university is relatively small, weighing 1½ tons, and would cost about $50,000 to build.

Activated At Chalk River

Dr. Johns says the cobalt bomb is not a new treatment for cancer. It may present the possibilities of improved techniques but the principle of treatment is not new.

The cobalt used in the unit at the university was activated in the Chalk River atomic pile. This pile is the only one in existence, he says, with sufficiently concentrated activity to activate cobalt sufficiently for an efficient cobalt bomb.

The activated cobalt consisted of 25 discs of cobalt which were left for a year in the atomic pile. They were put into a container and packed in a lead casing.

The 1½-ton head is suspended on a track on which it can be shifted. It may also be raised, lowered and the activated cobalt cylinder rotated by means of motors operated by a control panel.

A special room was built for it in the university hospital, enclosed in concrete walls 12 inches thick. An observation window is protected by eight panes of glass, each one inch thick.

The room is equipped with special doors that turn off the ray's activity when they are opened. The reason is that the machine makes no noise despite the tremendous energy it produces and a person could absorb dangerous rays without realizing the machine was operating.

One important feature of the unit is its movability. The machine and a turntable in the floor can be operated so that the rays may be directed from several different angles in succession.

AIR DISASTER.—Firemen and rescuers search the strewn wreckage of a Dutch airliner that crashed and exploded in a woods near Frankfurt, Germany, killing 44 of 47 persons aboard. The jill-fated plane, a four-engined KLM, was bound from Johannesburg, South Africa, to Amsterdam when disaster struck.

Use Helicopters To Carry Freight In B.C.

VANCOUVER —(CP)—Helicopters capable of carrying one-ton payload will be used to speed up industrialization of British Columbia.

Two new Sikorskys, said to be the first to leave the Bridgeport, Conn., factory for commercial use, have been purchased by Okanagan Air Services, Limited, bringing the company's fleet of "egg-beaters" to 11.

The Sikorskys, each costing $200,000, will be used mainly in flying men, materials and supplies over rugged mountain terrain of Northern B.C. to the construction site of the Aluminum Company of Canada's multi-million dollar project.

This type of work is now routine for Okanagan Air Service fliers. The company started operations in 1947 with one pilot, an air engineer and one helicopter.

The firm was created by Carl Agar, experienced 'copter pilot and winner of the 1950 McKee trophy for the most outstanding contribution to Canadian aviation, and Alf Stringer, his chief air engineer.

Today there are 12 pilots and nine air engineers.

The company trains its own pilots and 'copter pilots for the R.C.A.F., and provides a complete course in mountain flying.

Stiff Training Course

A pilot must have a minimum of 1,500 flying hours in fixed-wing craft and other qualifications, or a minimum of 2,000 flying hours, before he can take the 'copter course.

One training course includes, besides theoretical instruction, 75 hours of flying starting at sea level and jumping up to altitudes of 5,000 and 7,000 feet, depending on weather conditions.

A course takes three months and costs $7,500 and at present there are seven students.

Foremost requirement for a pilot is even temper and steel nerves, as mountain flying is tough, especially when taking off or landing on bad ridges and ledges.

Landing 'copters on high spots is difficult, says Mr. Agar. As they rise the air naturally becomes less dense and increased outside air temperature thins the air even further.

The machine hovers over the ground at sea level by increasing pressure of air between main blades and the ground.

When the air is less dense, the 'copter's ability to hover is reduced. Under some conditions it may hover six inches off the ground or not at all.

Mr. Agar said helicopters are the best weapon against forest fires. They can fly chemicals, water and fire-fighting equipment into threatened and otherwise inaccessible areas.

WIRED FOR FISHING — This North Korean farmer turned up at Panmunjom a few days ago with a fishing rig that intrigued both United Nations and Red Chinese personnel in the area. His gear consists of a rod connected to a battery carried over the shoulder and a small net on a long pole. He presses a button, shocks the fish and scoops them up in the net. Judging by the string held by a Korean at right, results are plentiful if not hefty.

Smelt Fishing Catch Reduced

NEWCASTLE, N.B. — (CP) — What has become of the smelt?

That's the main question in New Brunswick's Miramichi area, which normally produces half of Canada's total smelt catch. Fisheries officials aren't sure of the answer.

In the 1951-52 season the Miramichi catch was 8,428 hundredweight as compared with 21,780 hundredweight during the previous winter. A one-week extension this year took the season into March but storms prevented fishermen from taking much advantage of the extra time.

Prices have been high, with the catch unable to meet demand.

Dr. A. W. H. Needler, supervisor of the Atlantic Biological Station at St. Andrews, N.B., said there was some indication the tasty fish were later than usual in arriving. There was nothing to show an actual depletion. The station has been investigating the smelt fishery in this area for years.

Dr. Needler disagreed with the theory of some fishermen that the water might be colder this year. Temperatures remained about constant under the ice, he said. However, due to a heavy fall run-off, the water was fresher than usual.

"Because of this, it might seem to the fish that they were just as far in as in previous years."

Dr. Needler said his Department hoped to have a better idea of the situation when it studied the early spawning run, due to begin about mid-April.

Place In Stores Honesty Booths

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—(CP)—"Honesty Booths" where customers pay for goods taken without supervision are opening up all over New Zealand because of high labor costs. Traders are finding that people are either so honest—or so prosperous—that their takings are too high rather than too low.

An unsupervised general store has opened at Manapouri, in the South Island. All goods are marked and customers take their own change from the till. Scales are provided for buyers who have to weigh out goods from bins or jars. The storekeeper, who goes to the shop only at opening and closing time, has never found her takings a penny short.

A leading Auckland morning newspaper now makes all its street sales from unattended boxes. Some mornings boxes have too much and sometimes too little. Over the week the takings are over rather than under the correct amount.

Roadside sellers of strawberries and other fruits have had the same experience with unattended stalls. They seem to be a challenge to customers' consciences.

Urges N.S. Centre To Aid Paraplegics

HALIFAX — (CP) —Dr. William Stevenson, head of the neuro-surgery department at the Victoria General Hospital here, says there is an "urgent need in Nova Scotia for a rehabilitation centre for paraplegic patients."

Speaking at a Service Club meeting, Mr. Stevenson said "at least 50 paraplegics—people suffering from paralysis of the legs and trunk, either from injury or disease —live in Nova Scotia."

"No facilities for their rehabilitation exist. Over half of the paraplegics in hospital now are there because of complications which arose because they did not receive rehabilitation treatment."

Bancroft Officials Optimistic On Budget

BANCROFT, March 26 (ENS) —Veteran officials of local municipal affairs would not make any direct comments on Premier Frost's announcement of the expansion of the municipal taxation field to include business offices and certain other properties of the provincial government but there certainly was a feeling of optimism in the air.

All cannily refused to make statements until they received specific instructions from the department of municipal affairs.

As Bancroft is a divisional headquarters for the Ontario Department of Highways, a sub-headquarters for the Department of Lands and Forests and the location of a four-man provincial police detachment some of the largest buildings in the village have been previously exempt from municipal taxation. The divisional office of the Department of Highways is in a rented downtown business block and the local school inspector occupies space rented in North Hastings High School, while Percy Thompson, district game and fish overseer makes his headquarters in his residence.

Lay 2 More Charges

TORONTO, March 26 —(CP)— Two additional charges were laid today against Edwin Boyd. He was charged with the holdup of two different Bank of Toronto branches — one on January 25, when two men escaped with $10,000, and the other last November, shortly after Boyd and Leonard Jackson escaped from Toronto's Don Jail. It brought to 12 the number of bank robbery charges against him.

Plan New Film On Adventures Of Pilgrims

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 26—(AP)—A lot of schoolbook notions about the Pilgrim Fathers are going to be punctured by a new film from Hollywood.

The picture is called "The Plymouth Adventure," and it's being personally produced by Dore Schary, headman at MGM. Among the facts he relayed to me:

1. The John Alden-Priscilla Mullins-Miles Standish triangle was strictly a figment of Longfellow's imagination. Standish was a married man and much older than Priscilla.

2. The Pilgrims didn't land on Plymouth rock.

3. The Mayflower wasn't blown off its course, which was supposed to be to Virginia. A land speculator bribed the Captain to deliver the settlers to New England.

4. The Pilgrims weren't stiff-necked stolid people. They were warm human beings capable of having fun.

5. They didn't dress primly, with square, buster brown haircuts. Their outfits could be colorful, and their hair styles were similar to those of today, including the crew-cut.

6. The Indians were not exactly friendly toward the settlers but did them no real harm.

7. Only half of the Pilgrims were religious dissenters. The others were tradespeople and craftsmen.

Emphasis On Voyage

The picture will take the Pilgrims into their first spring in the new land but the emphasis will be on the voyage across the Atlantic.

"I don't think most people realize what a great achievement it was", said Producer Schary. "Here were 102 passengers cooped up for three months on a ship that was 102 feet long with a 22-foot beam. The weather was miserable and the seas rough; the supplies of food and water became perilously low. The privation and the embarrassment of having to live so close must have been terrific".

I asked Schary how he became interested in the Pilgrim saga.

"It has intrigued me for a long time", he replied. "Twenty-one years ago, Don Hartman (now the Paramount production boss) and I were working on a musical show to be based on the Pilgrims. We were all set to go into production but the proposal fell through.

"In recent years, there has been a lot of new material turned up about the Pilgrims".

Long Cold War

SYRACUSE, N.Y., March 26 — (AP)—Sir Gladwyn Jebb said Tuesday night a Third World War probably would overthrow the Russian regime and at the same time establish chaos or totalitarianism in the west. Britain's delegate to the United Nations said in a speech he does not expect an all-out military clash between Moscow and the west but predicted the cold war will continue for a long time.

No Snoring Allowed

KARACHI, March 26—(Reuters)—Members of the Pakistan Legislature were told Tuesday they may doze in the House but must not snore. Speaker Ebrahim Khan had his attention called to a member snoring and was asked it is was allowed. He ruled: "I think dozing may be allowed—but not snoring."

CANADIAN CHAIRMAN—David M. Johnson, Canada's permanent representative at United Nations headquarters in New York, this month holds the rotating chairmanship of the U.N.'s Disarmament Commission. The chairmanship rotates among member nations monthly in alphabetical order. Mr. Johnson, a former solicitor in the Finance Department, joined the External Affairs Department in 1947 and served for a time as acting High Commissioner in Eire.

More Canadians Moving To Big Cities Census Shows

OTTAWA, March 26 — (CP) — More and more Canadians are clinging to the major cities where some big, historic population strides have been made in the last 10 years, the census-takers disclosed Tuesday.

In a final tabulation of 1951 census figures for cities proper, towns and villages, the Bureau of Statistics estimated:

1. Population in Montreal — Canada's biggest city—jumped 13 per cent in the 1941-51 period, passing the 1,000,000 mark for the first time.

2. Biggest percentage gains in population among top-bracket cities were made by two oil-rich Alberta centres — Edmonton (159,631) and Calgary (129,060) —both of which climbed a notch to become Canada's eighth and ninth biggest cities, respectively.

3. Toronto, Canada's second biggest city, made the tiniest percentage gain — 1.2 per cent — among the grown-ups.

4. The number of cities with populations of more than 30,000 jumped to 34 from 27 in 1941.

The figures do not include suburban areas which will be covered in metropolitan figures to be compiled in about two weeks.

Montreal's population jumped 118,513 to 1,021,520 from 903,007; Toronto's crept up by a mere 8,297 to 675,754 from 667,457.

3-Million Jump

Altogether, Canada's poulation in the 10-year period jumped to 14,009,429 from 11,506,655.

Edmonton and Calgary shoved Windsor down two places among the top 10. The automotive centre wound up in 10th place though its population climbed 14 per cent to 120,049 from 195,311.

Ten years of population growth left the seven top cities in the same order: Montreal, Toronto, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Hamilton, Ottawa and Quebec.

Widespread growth in urban populations boosted these seven to cities of more than 30,000: Oshawa, Peterborough, Port Arthur, Sarnia and Sault Ste. Marie, in Ontario; Sydney in Nova Scotia; and St. John's in Newfoundland, included in the decennial census for the first time.

Significant gains showed up in the medium and smaller cities as well. In Ontario, Sarnia's numbers increased more than 85 per cent to 34,697 from 18,734.

Dismiss Superintendent

EDMONTON, March 26—(CP)—James Fakins, formerly of Toronto, has been dismissed as superintendent of the Bowden Institute, established by the Alberta government as a corrective institute for youthful male offenders. "Misconduct" was given as the reason.

Makes Apology

EDMONTON, March 26—(CP)—Arthur Wray, first member of the Alberta Legislature to be expelled, returned Tuesday after apologizing to the House and withdrawing a "disparaging remark" he made last week about a government official.

Average U.S. Income

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—The average United States family had an income of $3,300 in 1950, up $200 from 1949, the Census Bureau reported Tudesday. Of 40,000,000 families, 31,000,000 had incomes of less than $5,000 and 10,000,000 had incomes of less than $2,000.

First Translation Of Quo Vadis By Ennismore Man

The first translation of Quo Vadis from the Polish language into English was made by a native son of Ennismore township, Jeremiah Curtin, who gained a reputation as a linguist in the United States. His name was recalled by Bert Tovey who was recently relieving for the proprietor at the E. L. Payne drug store, George St.

The career of Curtin was information from another source years ago. Mr. Tovey had retained the name of the translator from his school days at Peterborough Collegiate Institute before he took up the profession of pharmacy.

The historical romances, based on the history of Poland when that nation withstood the Tartars from the east, were still fresh in the memory of Mr. Tovey. He obtained them as a member of the old Mechanics Institute, on Water St.

That public library, preceding the erection of the present library, aided by the Andrew Carnegis fund, was on the second floor above the law offices of Currelly and Foster Sienkiewicz wrote a series of novels in sequel form, With Fire and Sword, two volumes of The Deluge and finally Pan Michael, that circulated somewhat among the students of Mr. Tovey's youth.

Quo Vadis was a popular historical novel of that time, and to men like Mr. Tovey there must be an ironic aspect to the success of superfilm produced by Cecil DeMille now showing.

Report Stalin Invalid

LONDON, March 26 — (AP)—The magazine which first reported Russia has the atom bomb said Tuesday Prime Minister Stalin is a chronic invalid and likely to die at any time. The Intelligence Digest, published by Kenneth De Courcy, said the report came from the "highest authoritative level in Russia," and from the same source which tipped it off on the Soviet atom bomb.

Film Costs $200,000

OTTAWA, March 26—(CP)—A Film Board spokesman said Tuesday night it may cost $200,000 to produce and distribute "Royal Journey," the board's film story of the Royal Tour last fall. The amount is expected to be recovered through revenue.

A DOG'S LIFE . . . And that's just what it was for this forlorn pooch in Minneapolis. His leash looped around a parking meter in the downtown area, the dog waited for his owner to return as the season's worst snowstorm deposited more than 13 inches of snow on the ground. There was no question about a parking law violation . . . police had other things to do than check the meters.

Peterborough Group Show Play In Apsley

APSLEY, March 26 (ENS)—The play "A Pair of Country Kids" by young people of St. James' United Church, Peterborough and sponsored by the Choir of Trinity United Church was presented in St. George's Parish Hall on Saturday night to a capacity house. All present thoroughly enjoyed the entire play and especially "Hi Hopkins" and "Sis".

At the conclusion members of Trinity United Choir entertained the cast at a lunch. During intermissions junior members of the Choir sold home made candy.

Y.M.C.A. Forbidden

ROME, March 26—(AP)—Italian Catholic action leaders told members of that lay organization in Italy Tuesday they must regard the Young Men's or Young Women's Christian Associations "as forbidden organizations" under Roman Catholic canon law. Vatican sources explained the directive has no effect outside Italy.

Dulles Resigns

KEY WEST, Fla., March 26 — (AP)—John Foster Dulles, Republican who helped frame the Japanese Peace Treaty, quit his post Tuesday as an adviser to State Secretary Dean Acheson. It is know that Dulles desires a free hand during the presidential political campaign.

Royal Journey Highly Praised

By J. C. GRAHAM,
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—(CP)— The official Canadian film of last year's Royal Tour of Canada is having a remarkable success in New Zealand. Released here just after the accession of Queen Elizabeth, it has extra topical interest, but it has been highly praised by critics in its own right.

One of the country's leading reviewers said:

"Not many of the products of the National Film Board of Canada have been screened in this country, but the quality of 'Royal Journey' shows why the Board's work has achieved a high reputation. The photography, production and scheme of the picture are in every way worthy of its subject matter. Good editing and careful selection of camera positions ensure a fluent variety of scenes. This is never merely a newsreel of bits and pieces, but a feature film in its own right, made by people who planned well and who knew what they were about."

Films do not run continuously in New Zealand. Mostly they are shown in three sessions daily. "Royal Journey" has been showing five sessions at a leading Auckland theatre and already has drawn packed houses for several weeks.

In view of the eventual Royal Tour of New Zealand, newspapers have been sending photographers and reporters to pick up tips on how a tour is run and how to pick the best spot to cover different events.

The film is also being quoted as an argument against disbanding New Zealand's own National Film Unit.

One critic said that a film like "Royal Journey" could only be made satisfactorily by an organization free from commercial ties.

Painful Cramps of "Monthly Periods" halted or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

• Women and girls who suffer from those functionally-caused cramps, backaches and headaches of menstruation — who feel upset and irritable on certain "particular days" — may often be suffering quite unnecessarily!

Such is the conclusion from tests by doctors in which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases tested!

Modern in action!

Such medical evidence shows Lydia Pinkham's Compound is remarkably modern in action. It strikes directly at the cause of menstrual pain!

The effectiveness of Lydia Pinkham's needs no proof to the millions of women and girls whom it has benefited. But how about you? Do you know what it may do for you?

Take Lydia Pinkham's through the month. See if you don't get the same relief from the pains and weakness of "those days"! See if you don't feel better before and during your period!

Get either Lydia Pinkham's Compound, or new, improved Tablets (with added iron). Both are grand, too, for those "hot flashes" and nervous feelings of "change of life"!

Don't suffer needlessly . . . when relief may be so near!

Lydia Pinkham's has a quieting effect on the uterine contractions (see chart) which often cause menstrual pain!

U.K. Cloth Mills Suffer Slump, 60,000 Laid Off

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 26 (CP) — For the first time in nearly two decades the term "slump" is being freely used to describe conditions in a section of British industry.

The shadow of short time and unemployment has fallen across the drab mill towns in the north of England, whose H-shaped television aerials and smoking chimney pots suggested a prosperity uninterrupted since pre-war days.

Sixty thousand workers in the textile industry, centred in Lancashire, have been temporarily laid off or are on the job only three days a week. Drying up of demand at home and abroad is blamed for the decline.

Exports of British textiles last year were valued at £535,000,000 compared with £415,000,000 in 1950. But the rot had already set in. Inventories were piling up in November and in the early months of 1952 the trend was sharply downhill.

Many complex factors may be at work. Perhaps the chief is that the pent-up post-war demand finally has been satisfied. Consumer resistance to the increasing cost of living may also, as one newspaper puts it, have thrown a spanner in the spindles.

Canadian Choosy

Textiles used to be Canada's biggest single import from Britain. In recent years Canadian customers have been more choosy and trade has dimished. Last year Canada bought 1,185,000 square yards of cotton piece goods compared with 1,845,000 square yards the previous year, and 219,000 square yards of rayon piece goods against 318,000.

Now, with import restrictions in the sterling area forcing British manufacturers to look elsewhere the North American market will be increasingly important. Canadian officials in London are not hopeful that anything substantial can be done in textiles. The slump here coincides with a vigorous campaign by Canadian Textile Industries for increased protection.

Employment in Canadian mills has dropped by 10 per cent, while the Canadian share of the domestic market fell from 63 per cent in 1950 to 53 per cent in 1951.

Thus for Britain the outlook appears gloomy. Already newspapers are publishing stories on the plight of European volunteer workers, many of whom have no savings to cushion them against prolonged unemployment.

One hope appears to be that the growing rearmament program may absorb some of those no longer needed in the mills.

Hunt Gold Bullion

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 26 (AP). — Gold bullion worth $11,000 is still being hunted in the wreckage of the Dutch airliner that crashed near here last Saturday with a loss of 44 lives. The rest of $500,000 worth of gold being flown from South Africa on the ill-fated craft has been recovered.

TORNADO'S AFTERMATH—While National Guardsmen (foreground) stand watch, salvage crews work with heavy equipment to clear rubble and debris from the storm-ravaged main street of Judsonia, Ark. The community was the hardest hit in the six Southern states damaged by tornados.

Rheumatic Fever Hits Hearts Of Young People

TORONTO, March 26 — (CP). —People must become as conscious of rheumatic fever as they are of poliomyelitis, if it is to be wiped out, Dr. R. G. Martin of Peterborough told the Ontario Asteopathic Association Tuesday night.

Rheumatic fever was "by far the greatest destroyer of the youthful heart," said the doctor, estimating that the disease was responsible for 90 per cent of heart disease among children, and 40 per cent of heart disease of all ages.

"Until 30 years of age, rheumatic fever is the most common cause of serious injury and death. To wipe it out it is necessary for us to become just as conscious of the problem as we have been of tuberculosis and as we habe become in recent years of poliomyelitis."

Also speaking at the 51st annual dinner of the association, Dr. H. D. Branion, head of the Department of Nutrition at the Ontario Agricultural College, said Canadians should think over carefully the fact that with an empty stomach people neither think straight nor act straight.

He told the association that Canada and the United States are the only two countries in the world that produce enouyh food to feed their own populations.

Canadians must come to the realization, he said, that "it is worth while to put a little money for food for the have-nots in the world." The United Nations will be a "going concern," he said, when Canada does all in its power to supply the food lacking in man countries.

Set Open Seasons For Muskrat Trapping

ALBANY, N.Y., March 26 (AP) —Governor Thomas Dewey signed legislation today permitting the New York State Conservation Department to set open seasons for the trapping of muskrats. Dewey signed another measure that will permit, after July 1, the taking of fish known vaiously as ling, lawyer or burbot by spears, arrow or hook from waters not inhabited by trout. The Conservation Department must set up open seasons for the species.

Named In Will

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., March 26 (CP). — Four cousins living in Toronto are named in the will of Mrs. Ina Therese Campbell, disposing of a $2,000,000 estate, which was filed for probate Tuesday. Ethel T. Pollock, Florence H. Taylor and Leila A. Cato are to receive $10,000 each and Arthur P. Taylor, $12,000. Most of the estate is to be divided between the Santa Barbara Museum of Art and the Santa Barbara College of the University of California.

Imperfect Stamps

UNITIED NATIONS, N. Y., March 26 (CP).—United Nations stamps with a printing error showing the blue and white U.N. flag flying at half-staff were recently put on sale by the post office here. Twenty of the stamps were sold before the post office realized they were imperfect and recalled them. U.N. employees are believed to have bought most of the 20 three-cent stamps which might become valuable.

Succeeds Father

COLOMBO, March 26 (AP). — Dudley Senanayake today agreed to succeed his father as prime minister of Ceylon. The 41-year-old son of the late Don Stephen Senanayake, veteran Ceylonese statesman and the country's first prime minister, had refused earlier to take the post left vacant when his father died Saturday of injuries suffered in a fall from a horse. He will serve until elections are held, in about six months.

12,000 Take Oath

TEL AVIV, March 26 (AP). — Twelve thousand Israeli men and women opposed to reparations talks with the Germans swore in chorus Tuesday: "If I ever forget the destruction of Jews by Hitler may my right hand wither." The oath by former underground leader Menachen Beigin in his "unrelenting fight" against the talks was solemnly recited in unison by the thousands with right hands raised.

Tried To Sell Daughter

HOUSTON, March 26 (AP).—A Houston butcher was arrested today and charged with trying to sell his two-year-old daughter into adoption for $500 and an automobile. Steven Ribnikar, 27, was jailed at Pasadena, Tex., after two probation officers posed as wanting to adopt the child, Sharon.

To End Meat Strike

MANCHESTER, England, March 25 (Reuters). — Two thousand meat trade workers in Northwest England who have been on strike for 15 days will go back to work Thursday pending negotiations with their employers. The men struck because three assistant depot managers would not join their union.

Canada's Growth Illustrated By Insurance

By FORBES RHUDE, Canadian Press Business Editor.

Canada's growth since the turn of the century is shown dramatically by the growth of the life insurance business.

In 1900, companies operating in Canada padi out in benefits $8,769,974. In 1951 they paid out $246,708,108.

Of this figure, the greater part about $153,000,000, was paid to living policyholders, and the remainder, $39,000,000, to beneficiaries.

The figures are supplied by the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association.

The increase in payments arises in part from an increase in population— from about 5,000,000 in 1900 to a present 14,000,000 — but in much greater part from the increased income of the average Canadian, and the fact that he carries more insurance.

Illustrate Growth.

Figures for payments in other years than 1900 and 1951, illustrating the pace of growth, include:

In 1910— $17,372,945; 1920 — $42,495,683; 1930 —$135,410,385; 1940 — $165,354,645; 1950 —$230,807,477.

In the same period, 1900-1951, life insurance in force rose from $431,000,000 to $17,000,000,000, and the total of premiums paid by policy holders from $15,006,941, to $475,717,224.

Of policies which become death claims, five per cent become claims in less than one year; 11 per cent in one to five years; 14 per cent in five to 10 years; 31 per cent in 10 to 20 years; 20 per cent in 20 to 30 years; and 19 per cent at 30 years and over.

Of these death-claim policies, the age of insured at death is:

Under 15, two per cent; from 15 to 24, two per cent; 25 to 34, four per cent; 35 to 44, seven per cent; 45 to 54, 15 per cent; 55 to 64, 25 per cent; 65 to 74, 26 per cent; 75 and over, 19 per cent.

Recover Money

READING, Pa., March 26 (AP). Police announced Tuesday night that Paul Baer, 25, a bookkeeper, has signed a confession admitting he took part in the theft of more than $170,000 in cash from a Reading —widow last weekend. The statement said $85,258 found Monday in a box behind the store where Baer worked was exactly half of the total taken from the home of Mrs. Helen M. Bidden. Police are searching for an accomplice who Baer said got the remainder of the money.

Durham Farmers Show Way With Top Seed Exhibits

Durham farmers stood out prominently in the open classes of the seed grain section of the Central Ontario Spring Show here today, and continued their rivalry in the classes reserved for their own county exhibitors.

Ontario County was second in the number of entries, followed by Hastings, Lennox-Addington, Victoria, Peterborough, and Northumberland, with a few from the Kingston fringe.

Judges were Dr. G. P. McRostie of O.A.C., John A. Dawson and George A. Elliott of Ottawa, and N. D. McKenzie of Toronto.

The old itinerant Quinte District Seed Fair apparently acquired new interest and vitality in its change of name and permanent location in Peterborough as the centre of the district from Ontario County to Frontenac inclusive.

The show winds up Friday afternoon with auctioning of the exhibits. A diversion in the program is the inter-county square dancing competition, main feature of Thursday night's entertainment at Exhibition Park.

Diversity Noted In Coat Sleeves

NEW YORK—Sleeves in spring coats show great diversity; the batwing, the large lantern, and balloon sleeves, the low-set, turned-back sleeve, the elegant push-up sleeve displaying long gloves and the sparkle of bracelets, and the curving cape sleeve, with its graceful easy line. The silk coat that serves as a late day dress combines authority and ease with its soft deeply-cuffed sleeve.

Waistlines are largely set by the influx of short, shorter, and briefest-of-all, little jackets.

Donate To Children's Funds

St. John's Mother's Club meeting in the parish hall Tuesday evening was addressed by Miss Rachael Young of the Children's Aid Society. She was introduced by Mrs. J. R. Henderson and an expression of appreciation was made to her by Mrs. F. C. Anderson. The meeting was opened with prayer by Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Roberston. President Mrs. K. O. Birkin was in the chair. It was decided to send donations to the Save the Orphan Fund and the Caravan Missions, also for children. A social half hour followed with refreshments being served by Mrs. Wm. Brooks, Mrs. H. Lewis and Mrs. R. B. Packer.

Mission Band Meeting

KEENE, March 26 (ENS) — Keene Mission Band met Staurday afternoon in the Sunday school rooms. Games were supervised by Mrs. H. T. Mather. President June McNevan called the meeting to order. Three hymns were sung and a prayer was read by the president. The minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary Betty Jane Gall.

Roll call was answered by the 29 members with the name of a spring bird. The worship program began with the purpose pledge. Janet Robinson read the scripture lesson. Mrs. N. B. Herrington gave a talk on Palm Sunday.

It was decided to invite the Hastings Mission Band to attend the Easter thank offering meeting in April.

Mrs. Mather read from the study book, "The Three Henry's," and dedicated the collection. Janet Robinson gave a temperance reading and Jean McIntyre read a story. Mary Lyn Elmhurst and Joy Ellison each played a piano solo. Mariam Wismer and Arlene Short sang a duet.

The meeting closed with a prayer read by June McNevan.

Re-Organize Guide Ass'n

A re-organization meeting of the Girl Guide Local Association took place Tuesday evening with new Guide and Brownie Commissioner Mrs. J. R. Epping presiding. It was decided that the existing executive will carry on until an annual meeting in the fall. This includes Mrs. C. G. Collins, vice-president; Mrs. Ed. MacDonald, secretary; Mrs. J. B. James, treasurer; Mrs. S. O. Shields, badge secretary. Mrs. D. Campanaro is telephone convener with a committee to assist. There are presently five Guide Companies and two Brownie Packs in the city and it is hoped to organize more shortly. A district conference is being held at Oshawa April 3 to 5 which Mrs. Epping will attend and she asked that mothers and other interested women attend this conference on the 4th when it is open to the public. This meeting was held in the Salvation Army Hall which may also be location for the next meeting on April 42th.

24 lbs. Clothing To Do Mrs. A. On World Tour

When Kate Aitken travels the world, she sets out with visas for a dozen different countries and carries an International Health Certificate to prove she has recently been inoculated for such deadly diseases as small pox, yellow fever, cholera, typhoid, typhus, and paratyphoid.

On the 12-day trip starting this Thursday Canada's ace woman traveller will carry just 24 lbs. of clothing; the rest of the 68 pounds allowed each overseas' traveller will be cigarettes and chocolate bars for Canadian service men in Korea and in Germany.

Setting out in a grey worsted suit, small grey hat, and kidskin jacket, Mrs. Aitken will take two new crease-resistant light wool suits—one in navy, the other in soft blue. She also has 3 little hats, made out of nylon, which can be packed one on top of the other to conserve space. She'll pack a spare pair of navy kid shoes, identical to the pair she'll wear. All lingerie is feather-light nylon, and cosmetics are measured to last just two weeks.

Wise in the ways of foreign travel, Kate Aitken carries plenty of paper tissues with her, also her own soap and paper towels. A can of detergent goes along, too, for swishing out stockings and lingerie at night. It's a new type of detergent that dissolves in cold water. Perhaps she recalls the old adage, "Once bitten, twice shy" when she also remembers to pack a can of D.D.T.

Because she knows she will meet at least a dozen women in far-off countries who long for that bright badge of courage, Kate Aitken, travels with a dozen lipsticks tucked in her purse.

Oh yes, and for the long hops over oceans and continents, half a dozen real, thriller-diller mystery stories.

Shrug-Off Shoes Match New Coats

NEW YORK — In the mood of the shrug or the "pop-off" coats—the short clipped coats featured this spring to wear with the tiny waisted, full-skirted silhouette — we find a whole range of matching shrug-off shoes, as easy to slide out of as the coats. Because the coats reflect pale and vivid shades, shoes keep step with them in a wide range of unusual colors as well as in white and those delightful off-whites, the eggshell, oyster, and French vanila tones.

MADAME LENART, experienced masseuse and cosmetician, who is seen demonstrating her profession on daughter Yvette. The Lenarts are New Canadians who fled their home and business in Communist-held Budapest, Hungary.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Mdme. Lenart, Cosmetician, Communist–Escapee Here

A new and exclusive service is now opening to Peterborough women who desire to retain or regain their youthful attractiveness of face. It is a service which is considered a "must" by women of the large centres in Europe and America but, which has never been available in this city before.

Madame Lenart, experienced masseuse and cosmetician from Paris, Budapest and Rome, will come to your home by appointment and deftly and relaxingly massage away double chins, wrinkles and fine lines and freshen your skin. She also specializes in evening make-ups for when you want to look your very best.

In escaping from the Communists in Hungary three years ago Madame Lenart, her husband and daughter walked in the darkness of two nights across mined areas to reach the border in Italy. During the daylight they had to stay motionless in the thickest woods to avoid detection.

So, they were forced to leave behind almost everything they owned and are starting a new life in Peterborough on the basis of their professions and ability to work. They think often of their five-floor furnished home in Budapest and their automobiles. Even their relatives were not able to get anything out before Communists took possession.

Mr. John Lenart operated a laundry and dry-cleaning establishment employing 180 men. Mrs. Lenart had her own beauty salon in Budapest with two masseuse assistants. Their daughter Yvette was only 14 when they left and still in school, but she has found employment at the hospital here. The family arrived in the city six months ago and Mr. Lenart took work with a large laundry.

If her services are in demand Madame Lenart will open a Peterborough Salon modelled on those so numerous in Europe. She feels there is the same need for her type of beauty service as for hairdressing and that the two should be conveniently available just as they are in the big hotels and fashion centres.

She is prepared too to give an additional exclusive service—that of making up creams, lipstick, rouge and powder suitable to the individual. Recipes she acquired during a two year course in cosmetic chemistry are among the few things she brought with her.

Madame Lenart also brought diplomas authorizing her to practice beauty artistry, and though they are written in Hungarian, the word "cosmetician" is universal with a universal meaning.

"Side Kicks" New Hats Of Bicorne Family

NEW YORK — Irene of New York, with her light, crisp touch, gives us "Kicks-ups" and "Chinups." "Side Kicks" and "Bobtail Sailors"—hats with a lift and a line. Never level-headed, but level-on-the-head. Irene flies a new bicorne which looks like a plane that has just made a perfect landing, its wings still spread.

These bicornes come in a family of sizes. The brim points are sometimes rounded, sometimes sharp but never indecisive. Crowns are so shallow that the hats appear to have just barely settled on your hair. Irene turns to the New York theatre for her colors and ties them to such current shows as "The Moon is Blue," "Paint Your Wagon Red," and "Top Banana." Lively colors with a New York cast.

Seven Basic Styles Of Hats

If the current variety in fashion seems a bit confusing, particularly in the field of hats, it will possibly be reassuring to realize that, according to Lily Dache there are seven 1952 basic hat shapes. This gives the shopper plenty of choices to get something that is becoming.

But, Miss Dache warns, take lots of time to choose a hat, and always model it before a full-length mirror.

Here is Miss Dache's list of the seven 1952 hat shapes:

The tiny "shape"—an abstract moulded disk, callot or scroll which hugs the back or side of the head.

The pillbox—rather high this year and worn to one side.

The profile hat—slapped way on the side of the head.

The nimbus—a transparent hat made of veiling or horse-hair which surrounds the head in a glow of reflected light.

The sailor—small, medium or very large, worn sidewise or way forward over the eyebrows.

The oversize glamour hat — huge cartwheels, dipping brims, bicornes, even garden party hats will be worn to dramatize slim suits and dresses this year. These are best in all-black or all-white, but some have touches of color in ribbons or flowers.

The unicorn—a small hat with a point shooting out at one side.

VAST FORCE

At its wartime peak in 1943 the United States Civil Service had a record total of 3,002,453 employees.

Gilmour-McDougall

The marriage was solemnized Saturday by the Rev. A. A. Mathews at the George St. United Church parsonage of Georgina Catherine, daughter of Mrs. Harvey McDougall, to Charles Robert Gilmour, son of Mrs. G. Gilmour, all of Peterborough.

The bride wore a powder bule suit with navy accessories and her corsage was pink roses. She was attended by Mrs. Donald Westlake, wearing a two-tone blue suit with navy accessories and corsage of red roses.

Mr. Robert Williams attended the groom.

The couple will live at 659 George St.

Home and School Association News

NORWOOD

NORWOOD, March 26 (ENS)—The Norwood Home and School Association met Monday evening in the 8th grade room of the public school. The president, Mrs. Gerald LaBrash, opened the meeting with a sing-song with Mrs. Jack Cronin at the piano and the Rev. R. D. Duncanson leading.

Following the secretary's and treasurer's reports, Mrs. La Brash said the committee working on the health unit were unable to attend the March County Council, but will attend the June session.

It was decided to send the $1 registration fee for the Home and School Convention which is to be held in Toronto during Easter week and as many members as possible were asked to attend.

Mrs. La Brash named the nomination committee of three: Mrs. W. H. Hudson, Mrs. Charles Fredericks, Mrs. Donald Audas.

On the question of raising money it was decided that a pledge donation be given, to be handed in to the treasurer, before or at the next meeting. It was decidede to send an invitation to the executive of Havelock and Hastings Home and School to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Small's room received the attendance shield for this month.

Program convener Mrs. J. J. Stewart then took charge of the meeting and called on Mrs. Allen M-Nab who gave a reading entitled "The Dreamer". This being educational week, Mrs. Stewart in introducing the teachers spoke briefly on the education in our schools today and read a poem, a parody on Longfellow's "Children's Hour".

The following teachers, Mrs. Wilson Small, Mrs. Stanley McMillan, Miss B. A. Borland, Mr. Kenneth Trumpour, Mrs. Reta Pakensam and Mr. Duncan Sinclair gave talks on their teaching curriculum of today. Mr. Sinclair the principal also spoke on supervising. Mrs. Horace Brown voiced a vote of thanks to the teachers were on hand to discuss all explaining their methods.

As it was open night the assembly was then dismissed so parents could visit the class rooms of their children where the teachers were o nhand to discuss all problems.

Lunch was served by the following hosts and hostesses—Mrs. Arthur Spring, Mrs. Melvin Andrews, Mrs. Eldon Preston, Mrs. Leonard Hie, Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, Mrs. George Richardson, Mrs. Jack Stewart, Mrs. Charles Rose, Mr. Kenneth Trumpour, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Obee, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Max Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Sinclair.

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

More than 500 attended "open house" at the Prince of Wales School Tuesday evening, which was arranged by the Home and School Association. President Mrs. W. E. Baggs and the executive and nominations committee members received in the entrance hall.

Both junior and senior school rooms were bright and attractive with displys of classroom work and teachers were on hand to discuss school problems.

Contributing much to the success of the evening was the participation of pupils in a number of active projects. A mural in the making, printing the school paper, chemical experiments, handicrafts, manual training, a novel method or recording on teletape and square, round and folk dancing by grade 8 were among the activities they presented.

An attractive tea table, gay with spring flowers, was the centre of a pleasant social time at the close. Social convener Mrs. J. Smith and members of the executive served refreshments.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Chicken Maryland Offered In Special Purpose Menu

Chicken Maryland (Simplified Version)
Cauliflower
Green Peas (new or frozen if possible)
Beaten Biscuit
Vanilla Ice Cream with Glad's Apricot and Cherry Sauce
Coffee

Directions

Helen P. asked for the recipe for beaten biscuit and almost in the same breath declared that she had to reduce to get into her city clothes for her perennial trip to town. She's on her own. That cream gravy on the chicken Maryland, beaten biscuit browned in butter and that calorieful dessert will take some resisting.

Simplified Chicken Maryland

This is geared for serving 8 and requires 2 young chickens. Cut the chickens in quarters for serving after they are dressed and cleaned. Dip in salted and peppered flour, then in beaten egg which has been diluted with 2 tablespoons cold water. Now coat with fine sifted stale crumbs. Have ready a baking dish or small roaster with about 3 tablespoons melted butter in it. Bake uncovered at 400 deg. Fahr., turning after 15 minutes, and basting with butter in pan and more if needed After 30 minutes, cover and reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for another 30 minutes or until chicken is tender. Be sure to cover, and if chicken seems in the least dry add 2 or 3 tablespoons boiling water to pan. Serve with Cream Gravy: After the chicken is baked, pour off all but 3 tablespons of fat and add 3 tablespoons flour and stir. Stir in 2 cups milk OR 1 cup cream and 1 cup milk, and cook until thick, stirring. Add salt and pepper to taste. Arrange chicken on hot platter and pour cream gravy over. It takes more will power than I have to reduce with that kind of food around.

Beaten Biscuit

(Remember—you asked for it.)

Two cups unsifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup good quality shortening, about ⅓ cup water. Mix flour and salt together and work in shortening with fingers or pastry blender. Then use just enough water to make a very stiff dough. There is a machine for beating (kneading) these—and some Southern cooks use an old fashioned clothes-wringer. But if neither machine or wringer is available or practicable put dough on a very solid wood block which has been floured, and beat as hard as possible with a smooth wooden stick. A heavy wooden potato masher is a good substitute and is often used. The foundation must be firm. An ordinary kitchen table will be injured by the beating. A 1½-inch thick wooden board on the concrete basement floor I have seen used. Give the dough 1,000 strokes—it requires about 20 minutes continuous beating. When beaten roll out on floured board to ½-inch thickness, cut with floured 2-inch cutter and prick each biscuit all over with a fork. Place on greased baking sheet and bake 375 deg. Fahr. for about 12 minutes or until baked through. These are best hot but still delicious cold. Do not make a double batch as it makes the beating awkward. It is worth all of the trouble.

Glad's Apricot and Cherry Sauce (For ice cream)

Drain apricots from 1 20-oz. tin and to the juice add ½ cup sugar and if on hand ½ teaspoon rum flavoring. Simmer until sugar is dissolved. Add the liquid from 1 small bottle maraschino cherries, and the cherries sliced, and the apricots chopped. Chill. Other flavorings such as almond or cherry essence are good. Keep cold and covered in the refrigerator, for this amount will be enough for two or three meals.

You meet a child for the first time.

WRONG: Start teasing him.

RIGHT: Be friendly but don't tease or kid him at least until he is acquainted with you and knows you well enough not to be embarrassed by the kidding.

DOROTHY DIX

Undue Anxiety Can Ruin Health And Happiness

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 26, married, with two children and a good husband. Yet I worry all the time about nothing. The most awful thoughts keep going through my mind and I can't settle down to enjoy anything. I don't seem able to think of anyone but myself. Doctors say there's nothing wrong with me, that I have to help myself overcome this worrying habit. Could you advise me how to forget unpleasant thoughts, and to think about others instead of myself? I don't want to go anywhere by myself. I know if I can't overcome this failing I won't be good for anyone.

ANSWER: In spite of what the doctors tell you, I think there is probably a physical weakness somewhere that is largely responsible for your condition. They may not have given you as thorough a check - up as you should have, and for that I suggest either a visit to another doctor, or to the clinic of your local hospital.

Whether you are physically ill or not, there is a great deal you can do to help yourself, and I think you would find religion your greatest source of comfort and assistance. If you would substitute a prayer for some of the anxieties that cross your mind during the day, you'd drive out much of the worry that besets you. For more specific help, why not see your pastor and have a lengthy talk with him? If you don't have a church affiliation, make one as soon as possible. This really will help you more than anything.

Find Work

The important thing for you to do is stop thinking about yourself, and apparently housework isn't enough of an outlet for your thoughts. Some sort of social service or welfare work would also be good for you. Helping out with the local Red Cross, with a Girl Scout troop, or as a Den Mother with Cub Scouts, would keep your mind and hands so busy the worry-bird wouldn't have a chance to fly in.

When some of these aids have improved your mental and emotional condition somewhat concentrate more on your home. Keeping a home and two young children should be pretty much of a full-time job if propery done. Cooking can be quite an art; making draperies and slipcovers provides a challenge that will be an additional help in overcoming the inferiority that is really at the base of all your trouble.

You ask me to send you a good-luck piece. There is no amulet that will give you a contented mind. Learn a few prayers to say in your moments of distress and you'll have no need to rely on a charm.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to a girl 22 years old, who has been married before and lived with her parents. I have been offered many jobs out of town, paying handsomely, but she refuses to move more than two blocks away from her mother. We are continually arguing about this mother fixation of hers. I have reached the point where I no longer tell her anything because I know it will be carried right back to mother. Can this mother complex ever be cured?

D. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is seldom a cure for such abject mother dependence as your wife possesses. Girls who are so loath to be parted from their mothers should never marry. How your wife ever managed to marry twice is a mystery. If you feel your work will be better out of town, go ahead and take the job. You won't be much less wifeless than you are now.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a middle-aged housewife with children almost grown. When they were small, my husband would go out nights, leaving me alone with the youngsters. Now that I could get out, he won't take me. Every time I suggest going out, he quarrels, and since he always has to have his own way, naturally he wins.

X. X.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Just why does this omnipotent he always have to have his own way? Just because you don't have the backbone to stick up for your own rights? If you are able to go out for an evening, and he won't be budged from the house, go out by yourself. Take in a movie, play cards with your neighbors, or just visit, but don't let a domineering male keep you tied down forever. He won't have much to say—after he finds out quarelling does no good.

6—In Memoriam

CROSS—In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away March 26, 1946.
Never will the one we loved
From memory pass away.
—Jim and Kay and grandchildren.

CROSS—In loving memory of my dear sister, who passed away March 26, 1946.
Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away.
—Sister Alice.

CROSS—In loving memory of Mary Ann Cross, who passed away March 26, 1946.
Her memory is a keepsake,
From which we'll never part;
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our heart.
—Lovingly remembered by Winnifred, Michael and grandchildren.

CROSS—In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away March 26, 1946.
She had a nature you couldn't help loving,
A heart that was purer than gold,
And to those that knew her, and loved her,
Her memory will never grow old.
—Lovingly remembered, Lill, Bill and grandchildren.

6—In Memoriam

DOIG—In sacred memory of my dear husband, Stewart Doig, who passed away March 26th, 1944.
Beautiful memories are all I have left
Of him I loved dearly and shall never forget.
His loving smile and happy face—
A broken link I can never replace.
Sad was the parting no one can tell,
So sudden on earth the sorrow fell;
Memories I treasure no one can steal;
Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by his wife Anna.

HAMILTON—In loving memory of Richard Hamilton, who left us five years in March 26, 1947.
It's lonely here without you Richard
For life is not the same to us
Since you were called away.
If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it, yes, and more
To hear your voice and see your smile
And greet you at the door.
—Sadly missed by Mary Hamilton and family.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ISABELLA EARLE

OMEMEE, March 26—(ENS).—Mrs. Isabella Melissa Earle of Omemee died Tuesday at her home in her 88th year. She had lived in the Omemee district all her life, except for a few years after she was born, when she lived in Cavan Township, near Bethany.

A daughter of the late George Nelson and Margaret Lee, she was the last of a family of four girls and a boy. Her husband, William Earle, died 11 years ago.

She was an active member of Omemee United Church.

Surviving are two sons, Dr. George N. of Omemee, Melville D. of Cobourg and four grandchildren, Mrs. Wendell McNevin (Jane) of Brampton, Mrs. William Nurse (Ethelmae), Dr. William N. of Omemee and George Wallace of Minnesota. A daughter, Mrs. Merrill Wallace (Viola), predeceased her. There are three great-grandchildren.

Funeral service will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt at the home of her son, Dr. G. N. Earle. Burial will be in Emily Cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE BOATE

Mrs. George Boate, 86, of Bobcaygeon, and formerly of Peterborough, died today at the residence of her sister, Mrs. C. Devitt, Bobcaygeon, following a short illness.

Mrs. Boate, the former Caroline Clark, was born in Ennismore township, daughter of the late Alexander Clark and Margaret Greer, and has lived in Bobcaygeon for only a short time. Formerly she resided in Toronto and Peterborough.

She was a member of Boate's Church, Emily township.

She leaves three sons, Ross and Orion, both of Toronto; Arnott of Peterborough; three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Franks (Christine), of Peterborough; Mrs. T. Callahan (Maurita), of Toronto; and Mrs. T. E. Gatehouse (Hilda), of Montreal; one sister, Mrs. C. Devitt, of Bobcaygeon. Her husband, George Boate, predeceased her.

The funeral will be held from the Belleghem funeral home, Friday, at 2 p.m. The Rev. Charles Richmond, of Christ Church, Omemee, officiating. Burial will be in Emily cemetery.

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP) — Six prominent Burmese educators arrived here Tuesday night to study Ottawa's system of technical and vocational schools. The group is on a tour of Canada which will take them to Montreal from here. They visited Victoria, Vancouver and Toronto earlier.

Ability Impaired Driver Fined

Thomas J. Gray, 29, R.R. 2 Campbellford, pleaded guilty to driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and was fined $50 and $2.50 costs in police court today.

Gray was arrested on Highway 7 by O.P.P. Constable Ralph Tremmills Tuesday night. Con-Tremmills said that he drove the cruiser onto Highway 7 just inside the village of Norwood and saw a car going west with no rear licence plate. He followed it and noticed that it was crossing the white line at times, and on one occasion, nearly sideswiped an eastbound car.

Constable Tremills said he found a 12 ounce bottle of liquor in the car and that Gray smelled strongly of alcohol and was slightly unsteady on his feet.

The crown offered no evidence on a second charge against Gray of having liquor in a place other than his residence. Gray claimed that the bottle was not his.

Ancient Farm

and a lawn mower with a basket for catching grass than a machine for cutting grain. However, old-timers recall it attracted a crowd of neighbours who eagerly watched the first one in the district cut a swath across a field of ripe grain, leaving the grain in neat bundles at regular intervals for the tiers and stookers who followed behind. There is also a cradle on display (a scythe like implement) used for centuries, before the reaper. Cradles were used even after binders were invented to open out the corners of fields, which the binder could not get at on the first round.

Digger And Planter

A potato digger and planter, both from the farm of M. S. Burnham on Highway 7 east of Peterborough complete the display. Mr. Hall says both machines are at least 80 years old. All the machines are in working order and could still do a job today.

Outside the building, workmen were trying to get an old sweep horsepower working. It is too big and unhandy to get inside the building and they were trying to get it set up at the entrance.

It was on the farm of Roy Whittingdon that Mr. Hall located this machine which furnished power for threshing before steam engines were used. Threshing was a merry-go-round in those days. Five long poles, known as "starts" were set in a large wheel. The inner rim of this metal circle was notched and meshed with a large cog-wheel. This gear in turn, revolved a shaft when five teams of horses, hitched to the starts which radiated from the large cog wheel like spokes, began walking in a circle.

Used In 1912

Carl Curtis of Baltimore stood by watching and recalled that he had driven horses on one on his father's farm about 1912. Mr. Hall said that he remembered operating one for an afternoon in 1920, but they were quite rare by then. The shaft was extended by splicing other shafts to it, and provided direct power for the stationary threshing mills which were common more than half a century ago.

Mechanization of agriculture has revolutionized farming. Tractors, combines, mechanical haying equipment and other mechanical equipment not only make the work of farming easier, they have stepped up the production per farmer many times, compared with the pioneer farmer of 60 or 70 years ago. With the disappearance of the itinerant hired man, who has taken a job in the city for more pay and shorter hours, mechanical equipment enables Canadian farmers to keep pace with an expanding demand for their products and at the same time, encourages their sons to stay on the farm, where life is not as rugged as it used to be.

Mrs. Wm. Jamieson

Funeral service for Mrs. William Jamieson, 40, R.R. 3, Peterborough, the former Greta Belle Crozier, who died Saturday in hospital, was held Tuesday in the Kaye funeral home.

The Rev. Henry Cotton, of St. Andrew's United Church, officiated. Burial was in Trent Valley cemetery, Hastings.

Pallbearers were Garnet and Donald Jamieson, William McIlmoyle, Marv Buchan, Jack Cook and Rollie Collmer.

SCOTTISH POLICEWOMAN —Margaret Pearson, who helped solve many cases as a member of the Glasgow police force, has arrived in Edmonton to join the force there. "There's no other job like it," Miss Pearson says of police work. She served in the women's naval service during the Second World War and joined the Glasgow force in 1949. She came to Canada along with 12 male members of the Glasgow force—all to join the Edmonton department.

Justice Directs Verdict Of Not Guilty In Rape Case

Justice A. M. LeBel early today instructed a Peterborough county jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty" in the trial of Armand Larocque, 39, of Patterson St., charged with rape.

The complainant was Mrs. Norman Howe, 533 Brioux Ave., an attractive dark-haired housewife. She said she was attacked in Larocque's car about 2 a.m. Sunday, March 9.

The alleged offence occurred after a beer-drinking session afternoon and evening, topped off by a midnight house party.

Justice LeBel said that there was no corroboration of Mrs. Howe's story and, if not drunk, she was at least partly under the influence of alcohol.

Law enforcement officers had done their duty in following up her complaint, he said, but there wasn't sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction.

Not Guilty

He told the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty. However he intimated that if they could not reach agreement on this he would permit Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, Q.C., and defence counsel Robert Carley to address them.

After retiring for a couple of minutes the jury returned and Foreman Vincent M. Eastwood delivered a "not-guilty" verdict.

Before the defence case was heard Justice LeBel refused to bring in a directed verdict when requested to do so by Mr. Carley.

Crown Called 13 Witnesses.

All the evidence was in by 5.15 p.m. Tuesday.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw Q. C., completed the Crown's case at 4.27 p.m. after calling 13 witnesses.

The jury were then dismissed while Robert Carley, one of Larocque's defence counsel, argued that Justice LeBel should direct the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

"Not only has there been no corroboration," said Mr. Carley, "but Mrs. Howe's story is insufficient to justify putting the accused on his defence.

"I must say that I'm somewhat taken back that the complainant is all wrong in her story," said Justice LeBel. "Either she deliberately tried to deceive us or she was so intoxicated she did not know what went on."

(Mrs. Howe said she climbed into Larocque's car on Little St., just four doors down from where she left a house party. She did this, she testified, to prevent any further scuffling between Larocque and two other men at the party who had followed them out. Then she drove away with Larocque into North Monaghan where the alleged rape occurred.

(Other witnesses said she was in Larocque's car, got out or was helped out during the "scuffle," and ran through a vacant lot branching off Little St., that is a short-cut to Monaghan Road. They observed Larocque circle the block in his car and pick her up again when she got to the end of the footpath at Monaghan Road.

"The two stories can't be reconciled," said Justice LeBell.

He said he was reluctant to instruct the jury to bring in a directed verdict in a case of this kind and so he would permit the case go to the jury. Later, having hear the defence witnesses, the Justice changed his mind.

Mr. Carley, assisted by Trevor Clarke, completed the defence case in just over 40 minutes.

They called Harry McGuirk, 294 Stewart St., one of the two men who left the house party and tried to get Mrs. Howe to return and get a taxi home; and Frank Boskas, a resident of Peterborough for two years who can speak French.

Admits Striking Larocque

Boskas said he was the one who struck Lacocque and put cuts and bruises on the accused man's face. But it wasn't because of Mrs. Howe that he struck Larocque, Boskas said.

Larocque did not enter the witness box on his own behalf.

The highlight of the day was when Mrs. Norman C. Howe, 25-year-old mother of two small children, told the assize court jury of how she had been raped. She said the offence had taken place in North Monaghan township.

Armand Larocque, a husky 39-year-old French Canadian carpenter was named as her attacker. Though on several other occasions she would have nothing to do with him, she told the court, she got into his car to go home, shortly after 1.30 a.m. March 9.

The accused man drove her back to the outskirts of the city after he had raped her, she said, and then she ran six blocks to her home at 533 Brioux Ave.

"I've been raped," she told her husband.

Ten minutes later, after she had calmed down a bit, she phoned city and provincial police.

Arrest Larocque

Larocque was arrested next morning at his Patterson St. boarding house while he was shaving by O.P.P. Constable John Cawood.

He gave the police a statement. He admitted Mrs. Howe got into his car but "I don't remember nothing; not even coming home."

Larocque pleaded not guilty.

The dark-haired housewife said that she had agreement with her husband that Saturday was her day off. She spent the afternoon drinking beer in one downtown hotel; the evening drinking beer in another; and after the hotel closed for the night she spent until 1.30 a.m. Sunday at a gay party in a south-end home.

Her estimate was eight drafts of beer consumed in the afternoon, one full- pint and seven drafts during the evening, and part of a bottle of beer at the party.

"I wasn't drunk," she said.

She admitted she left the party when it became obvious to her that one of the married women thought she was being too affectionate with her husband.

After leaving she was picked up in the car and raped, she said.

When she told of being attacked in Larocque's car Mrs. Howe began to falter and cry. Suddenly she slumped unconscious in the box. Court constables and two jurymen assisted her to an adjoining room and she returned about five minutes later.

"Are you all right now? Can you go on," enquired Justice LeBel.

"Yes," she said and continued her story of the night's events.

Before she finished her examination in chief and cross examination, lasting about two and a half hours, she had to leave the courtroom again when she suffered a dizzy spell.

Met Twice Previously

Mrs. Howe said she had met Larocque in beverage rooms twice before the night of March 8.

Both times when he had tried to get friendly with her she ignored him, she said.

Shortly after 8 p.m. March 8 she went into a beverage room with a friend, she said. When he left after 10 minutes or so she was invited to the table where Mr. and Mrs. Vyse were sitting.

Later, they were joined at the table by Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGuirk, Frank Boskas and Larocque—seven in all.

She changed places, so as not to sit beside Larocque, after he tried to engage her in conversation.

"He said I was pretty and he said something about my hair. He kept staring at me."

After the beverage room closed the party continued at the Vyse home on Little St. Mrs. Howe and Frank Boskas went down in Mr. Vyse's car; the other's followed in Larocque's car.

There they sang, danced and drank beer.

Mrs. Howe said she had part of a bottle of beer and definitely "wasn't drunk".

"I may have had half a dance with the accused . . . He just kept looking at me and wanting to sit beside me."

Then Mr. and Mrs. Vyse got into a discussion and I thought it was about me, so I left."

Mrs. Howe said she started walking east along Little St. toward her home about four blocks away. A car drew up, going in the same diection, but she refused to get in when she saw it was Larocque.

"Why?" asked Mr. Bradshaw.

"Because I didn't like the man."

She testified that the next thing that happened was that Mr. McGuirk and Mr. Boskas came running up to the car, parked on the deserted street. They went around to the driver's side and there was a "scuffle."

Mrs. Howe said one of the men said to Larocque: "You can't be trusted." And she also heard one of them say: "You're not going to hurt this girl."

"I went around the car and got in between them and said: 'Leave him alone, he's not hurting you'."

"Suit yourself," replied one of the men, Mrs. Howe related. She then climbed into the car beside Larocque and he drove away.

"Why did you get into the car?" asked Mr. Bradshaw.

"Because I was afraid the men would go on fighting."

"What," exclaimed Justice LeBel. "After one of the men had said 'suit yourself' and they had both walked away?"

"I don't know what's the matter with those guys, I wouldn't hurt you," Larocque is reported to have said.

Mrs. Howe said she was crying and upset because the men had been fighting and didn't notice where they were going. She presumed she was being taken home.

"How was he going to get you home if he didn't know where you lived?" asked Justice LeBel. "Did you tell him?"

"I don't remember," said Mrs. Howe.

She testified that after a five-minute drive Larocque stopped the car and assaulted her.

Though she fought, screamed and scratched. She was unable to resist his advances, she told the jury.

"Stop fighting or you'll get this," Larocque is supposed to have said clenching his fist.

Mrs. Howe said she tried sounding the car horn as well but he pulled her hand away.

Part of her clothing was ripped in the struggle.

She denied that there had been any consent on her part.

After the incident Larocque turned the car around and headed back for the city.

Lost Her Purse

"What was said?"

"He didn't say anything, but I said I'd lost my purse. He lit a match and I found it under the driver's seat."

"Why didn't you jump out?"

"I realized I wasn't in the city."

Mrs. Howe said she asked to be let out at the first streetlights, Monaghan Rd. and Cameron St., not more than half a mile from her home.

Then she ran home, ducking once in a field when a car approached. She said she was afraid it was Larocque coming back.

Before letting her out he allegedly warned her: "If you know what's good for you, you won't mention this."

She said she didn't think to run to the nearest house and report her plight.

"All I could think of was getting home," she said.

Once home, she told her husband that she had been raped and the police were called.

She was examined by Dr. H. G. Carleton who found that she had had sexual intercourse. But he found no scratches or bruises on her body.

Phyllis Vyse, 19 - year - old daughter of the host at the party, said she noticed several men standing around outside a parked car, just a little east of their Little St. home. A woman got out of the car, ran through a path in a vacant lot to Monaghan St. There she was picked up again by the same car.

This was corroborated by Harry McGuirk.

Later that night Larocque returned to the Vyse home. He was crying and was saying he was "too good-hearted." She heard him tell Frank Boskas that "I took her straight home."

Some of the conversation between the two men was in French.

Boskas, called by the defence, said he had previously "pasted Larocque a couple" because Larocque wouldn't stop the car for him. He said the cuts and bruises on the accused man's face were caused by his blows.

The jurors—all but one from the city of Peterborough—were Fred Rutherford, Belmont township; Arthur H. Winslow, Parnell St.; Clifford Shannon, Rogers St.; Whitty Thirnbeck, McDonnel St.; William J. Prindibble, Park St.; W. Hedley Vickers, Donegal St.; Vincent M. Eastwood (foreman), Hunter St.; William Woollard, Aberdeen St.; Arthur Thompson, Kenneth St.; William A. Wight, Adaline St.; T. B. Rose, George St.; and Max Comstock, Park St.

Square Dancers Have Contest

Ceres presiding at the Central Ontario Spring Show will be temporarily displaced Thursday night by Terpsichore with Dr. Harold Worton in charge of the interlude as master of ceremonies.

That refers to the square dancing competition by sets of eight men and women from five of the counties comprising the Central Counties represented in all the phases of the show. Once disparaged somewhat, at least as a ho-down, the square dance has been raised in rating and respect as a folk dance, included even in diversions and the social experience of high school students, Farm Forum programs and generally when people get together more or less in escape from the routine of life.

Five Sets

Dr. Worton expects at least five sets. Each may bring its own orchestra and caller-off, but for music Sargent Brothers orchestra of Springville is a capable standby.

The Thursday night entertainment begins at 8 o'clock, with the dancing competition as the high light. A new platform has been built for that feature also for the assisting instrumental and vocal performers.

The Show is in three buildings, the seed department and a fine display of exhibits occupies the main building. Two others are set aside for farm implements and a lecture hall discussion of farm subjects, with the grass silage panel the main topic Thursday afternoon with Ken Fallis as chairman.

Arbitration

Seven of the welders did go back to work on the 27th; the others testified to the board they thought they still had to the 28th to comply with the company demands.

(The board found that Hector McKenzie, manufacturing superintendent, had warned the men the morning of the 27th that they'd be fired if they didn't go back to work. Spokesman Anderson is then reported to have said: "That puts a different light on it".

(Anderson is then reported to have told the men to go back to work and file a grievance. Says the arbitration finding: "Anderson didn't follow his own advice and neither did the other 10 men".)

Official Firing

On Jan. 2 the 11 were officially informed they were fired. They were: Rowan J. Chute, Carl E. McAlister, Gordon F. Lister, A. W. Chandler, C. F. Leahy, Roy Ballantyne, Raymond Mundell, William G. Anderson, Cec. Harvey, R. E. Bertrand and Alex Elliott.

Five of the other seven men who had returned to work walked off the job again Jan. 3 when they heard of the firings. They were George Laing, J. Petticrew, Clinton Magee, G. Hughson, and Martial Stoycheff.

They were fired Jan. 9.

Commenting on this "protest" walkout by the five welders, the board said: "If the orderly procedure provided for by the agreement between the company and the union is to mean anything at all, then it is difficult to think of any reason to support the union's contention that this discharge is not justified".

"The board does not feel that these men are entitled to the same compassionate treatment as the others, but on the other hand, these employees also are welders with substantial seniority and are good welders".

Titoist Movement

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 26 (AP).—A circular issued under the name of Brazil's No. 2 Communist leader today announced a Titoist movement among this nation's outlawed Communists. The circular bore the name of Jose Maria Crispim and appealed to the Communists not to submit further to "foreign direction."

Nova Scotia Discusses Tax Offers

By The Canadian Press

The Federal Government's "tax rental" offer under which provinces turn over certain taxation fields to Ottawa in return for subsidies was discussed in both the Ontario and Nova Scotia legislatures Tuesday.

In Halifax, Premier Angus L. Macdonald said the province may have to make payments to the Federal Government because of an over-estimation of population in an old tax agreemnet.

He said the date of signing a new federal-provincial agreement still is indefinite.

An old suggestion that the maritime provinces unite under one government was revived in the New Brunswick legislature. G. W. Perry (PC-Carleton) suggested that individual governments were too expensive for the people to maintain and that they could exert more influence united.

Proud Of Budget

In the Newfoundland legislature, Premier Joseph Smallwood predicted a budget debate in two weeks would show that the province is in a financial position of which it could be proud.

Opposition Leader P. J. Cashin said a pre-confederation surplus was already overdrawn and challenged some of the premier's figures.

F. A. Dewhurt (CCF-Wadena) speaking in the Saskatchewan legislature urged parity prices for agricultural products to allow farmers to lan production in security on a long-term basis.

The Manitoba legislature defeated a C.C.F. civil rights bill introduced by M. A. Gra (CCF-Winnipeg North) for the 11th consecutive year. The vote was 32-17 with seven Progressive Conservatives and three independents joining the C.C.F. group.

QUICKER METHOD

The shoe-making industry was revolutionized in 1949 when a Massachusetts shoemaker invented a machine for sewing leather soles.

TRAINER SOL RUTCHICK, who missed a plane and failed to see his colt win the Kentucky Derby last year, is mapping his plans more carefully this year. Here he vies for camera position with Master Fiddle (left) and Count Flame, his two prospects for 1952 Derby. Count Flame is owned by Jack Amiel, whose Count Turf won the '51 classic. The Myhelyn stable, New Rochelle, N.Y., owns Master Fiddle. Rutchick and his horses, just in from Florida, are working out at Jamaica where New York's racing season begins April 1.

James P. O'Reilly

WARKWORTH, March 26 — (ENS)—Requiem mass for James Patrick O'Reilly, 87, who died Saturday at his home in Brickley, was said Tuesday morning at St. Jerome's Church, Warkworth.

The Rev. H. J. Fitzpatrick, assisted by Msgr. P. P. Butler of Peterborough and Dean J. J. Garvey of Hastings, celebrated mass.

Pallbearers were Leo Lonergan, Fred Barry, J. P. Doherty, James Lamey, William McFadden, Leo Armstrong. Burial was in St. Jerome's Cemetery.

Fire Fighters Dissatisfied With Salary Arrangements

A statement from Peterborough Fire Fighters Association reviewing their discussions with the city council deals chiefly with the question of salaries for 1952. As basis for the other classifications, the first class fireman's salary is considered as convenient and representative.

"The salary requested for 1951 was $3,015, or an increase of $365 a year. By a compromise on our part, the settlement agreed upon was $150 a year increase, plus a cost of living bonus of 1 per cent for every full point rise in the cost of living index, retroactive from Jan. 1, 1951, adjustable every quarter.

"First cost of living bonus was received in May 18 pay (our pay is biweekly, once every two weeks) calculated from April 6 pay for a nine point rise (172.5 to 181.8). A further increase in cost of living index from 172.5 to 187.6 netted us an additional 6-point rise on our pay cheque of July 13, or a total of 15 points. On our October 5th cheque, two more points were added (172.5 to 190.4) or a total of 17 points. The total cost of living bonus received for the last nine months of 1951 (January, February and March were excluded) was $292.75.

"The government index increased a further two points (172.5 to 191.5) from October 1 to December 31, which we did not receive but were entitled to, according to our agreement.

Received Cut

"Instead, on our Feb. 8 (1952) pay we received a cut of five per cent. This was protested immediately by registered letter stating the city council had broken the agreement signed by them with our Association.

"The two uniformed units in the city have agreements. One is verbal and the other signed. When the above cut was instituted in 1952 the pay cheques of the unit with a verbal agreement all had a notice affixed stating the reduction was temporary, pending negotiations. But, the other unit with a signed agreement was ignored until after the cut was received and protest registered. Our membership feel that this was a deliberate breach of our contract with the city.

Could Consult Toronto

"Under the Fire Departments Hours of Labor Act our association could have applied to the Attorney-General to have the Ontario Government's grant of 15 per cent withheld. That would have amounted to better than half a mill in the tax rate.

"The cost of living index of 19 points on our basic salary would give us, if it was incorporated, a basic $3,332 a year or $64 a week for a 56-hour week, which is only $1.14 an hour, with no remuneration for general alarms or working beyond our shift change.

"Other municipalities paid their fire fighters a basic wage in 1951 that compares very favorably with the salary we are requesting for 1952: namely, Forest Hill, York township, Scarborough, North York, New Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie, Cornwall and Chatham.

"The following cities have offered their fire fighters increases for 1952 that will bring their salaries on a parity or greater than our incorporation would be. For example, Sarnia, Kitchener, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Port Colborne, Hamilton, East York, Oshawa and St. Thomas.

Not Satisfactory

"The city's last offer of 18 per cent of living bonus and continuing cost of living bonus of 55 cents for every two points rise from the September, 1951 government index of 189.8, and 1 per cent decrease for every one point drop from 189.8, adjustable every month is not satisfactory for several reasons.

"The 18 per cent is still cost of living bonus, and could, if the index drops, bring our take home pay to less than the fire fighters of the aforementioned cities.

"Furthermore, the 18 per cent offered us is only $28 a year less than our request. Therefore in so far as the city's tax rate is concerned, the above percentage offer has already been allocated into it, —so, why should incorporation be regarded with disfavor?

"The tax rate would not be increased. Secondly, the 55c for every two points is very low. This is only 27.5c a point, and it would be necessary for the index to rise two points before any benefit is secured to help offset partly the increased cost of living, and our standard of living would decrease much more than is the case now.

"Finally, the salary clause of our 1952 agreement was honored in our March 21 pay cheques in 1952."

B. Nicholls Leads

B. Nicholls led lasses in the City Bowling League at Duffus' this week with a 295 single and 779 triple. Curtin's topped teams in singles with 1,136 while Black's 3,070 pinnage was high. The blind score of 756 went to J. Snape with 765. Black's blanked Sevenaires as 2-1 wins went to Aces over Dickson's, Bassel's over Curtin's, Collis against Arcos, and Marines over Cardinals.

Good singles were: B. Nicholls 295 and 276, J. Castle 289, L. Vincent 281, B. Morrow 277 and 259, N. Ephgrave 277 and 269, J. Snape 273 and 272, B. Akers 270, D. Martin 261 and 252, M. An estimated 250,000 persons who do not pay a penny will watch next Saturday's boat race between crack eights of Oxford and Cambridge Universities.

Boat race day is London's big outdoor carnival as the rival crews pull the gruelling 4½-mile stretch along the Thames Putney to Mortlake in London's southwest suburbs.

This year's race will be the 98th in the series that began in 1829. Cambridge has won 52 times, Oxford 44. The 1877 race was a deadheat. Next Saturday Cambridge will bid for its sixth straight win.

Apparently Joe Louis is as popular is ever around the world. The portly Brown Bomber said Tuesday in New York he plans to make an exhibition tour of eastern Canada late in June. The itinerary hasn't been completed but Joe said: "I'll probably appear in 18 or 20 places, spaced over a month."

Fans in the Far East want him back for another trip, too. Joe toured army camps and hospitals in Japan and Korea last year. Promoters in the Orient want him to appear in Hong Kong, Japan and Singapore, among other places.

Bob Dillinger, sold to Philadelphia Athletics by St. Louis Browns two years ago for $125,000 headed for the minors Tuesday. In Tucson, Ariz., Chicago White Sox, who obtained the 33-year-old third baseman last season from Pittsburgh for the waiver price of $10,000, sold him to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League for $10,000 and a player yet to be named.

Henry Blanchard, 34-year-old Truro, N. S., insurance agent who skipped Nova Scotia's rink in the Canadian curling championships at Winnipeg this year, died suddenly Tuesday in Truro.

Dr. N. A. M. Mackenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, said Tuesday in Vancouver "We simply have not the available space" on the university grounds for the 40,000-seat stadium proposed by the British Empire games committee for the 1954 games. He said the university would agree only to a temporary structure and not the $600,000 stadium proposed.

George Agar of Calgary Stampeders won the Pacific Coast Hockey League scoring championship in a breeze, statistics released by the league office in Seattle showed Tuesday. Agar compiled 38 goals and 55 assists for 93 points, eight more than Eddie Dorohoy of Victoria Cougars and Gord Fashoway of New Westminster Royals, who tied for second place.

Y-Jacks Get Cage Tilt Over Penguins, 37-24

Penguins and Y-Jacks presented a preview of next week's Y.M.C.A. house league semi-finals Tuesday night as they finished the regular schedule. The Jacks were too strong, winning 37-24.

Next Tuesday the teams will play a sudden-death game in the league's semi-finals, the winner advancing to meet Y-Knots in the finals. Undefeated this season, Y-Knots received a bye into the final set.

The Jacks from the start showed too much power for Penguins. Groves, Huntley, Spragge, Whithard and Flowers, all Jacks, contributed points in the first quarter as they ran up a 13-4 score. They slowed the pace in the second quarter, finishing at the half 19-8.

Thanks to a seven-point scoring effort by Outram, Penguins managed to stay close to the Jacks in the third quarter. But Huntley, Spragge and Whithard scored enough to outpoint Penguins 9-7.

Jacks were pressed by Penguins in the fourth as the birds began to hit the hoop. Whithard, Spragge and Huntley staved off the others' attack, tying the Penguins on the quarter nine-all.

Penguins' Outram and the Jacks' Whithard shared scoring honors with 12 points each.

Line-ups:

Penguins (24) — English 6, Hurrle 3, Payne 1, Outram 12, Browne 2.

Y-Jacks (37)—Groves 8, Huntley 7, Spragge 6, Whithard 12, Flowers 4.

Police Ask Paper To Omit Racing News

NEW ORLEANS, March 26 — (AP).—The Times-Picayune announced today it will omit racing news at the request of police superintendent Joseph Scheuering who said the lack of information would mean "a knockout blow" to bettors.

In a front page story, accompanied by Scheuering's letter of request, the Times-Picayune said it disagreed with the police official but would drop racing results, entries and selections "for a reasonable period to permit his theory a trial."

The paper also printed the names and addresses of more than 100 local purchasers of federal gambling stamps and said it believed "a real 'knock-out blow' to illegal gambling could be dealt by superintendent Scheuering's department if it would close the handbooks."

Ontario Considers Question Of Giving Ottawa Tax Field

TORONTO, March 26 (CP). — The question of whether Ontario should join other provinces turning over certain taxation fields to Ottawa in return for subsidies was raised Tuesday in the Legislature.

Harry Nixon, former Liberal Premier and now the opposition financial critic, said the latest federal "tax rental" offer would be "very advantageous." It would give Ontario $137,000,000 in the first year of the five-year agreement period starting April 1.

He moved a Liberal motion of non-confidence saying the house "regrets" the government has not initiated discussions on the latest federal offer. The motion will come to a vote at the end of the budget debate but stands no chance of passing the dominant government majority.

The house today will deal with estimates of the Attorney-General's department. It passed $10,500,000 in supplementary estimates Tuesday for capital grants to hospitals and universities, for the teachers' superannuation fund and for home building. The money will be paid before the end of the month.

Actions Differ

Mr. Nixon said Premier Frost's actions ran counter to his recent statements which sounded favorable to a tax agreement with Ottawa.

Ottawa was facing heavy defence expenditures, and it would be "infinitely better" for Ontario to join other provinces in an agreement to help shoulder the burden.

T. D. Thomas (C.C.F.-Ontario) said the housing shortage had been made worse by the government's policy of relying mainly on private builders of homes.

The private builder "cannot build for those whose need is greatest, but only for those who have the most money," he said. The solution was "large-scale direct building" by the government.

Asks Additional Payments

He also asked for additional payments for old-age pensioners, and said that only half of the $5,000,000 saved by Ontario under the new pension law, with the federal government carrying more of the load, would pay for $10 monthly bonuses to pensioners to help meet the cost of living.

Mr. Nixon said the province was "doing very well" in income from liquor, and urged the government not to allow further expansion of liquor advertising.

The Liquor Control Board had built up some $42,000,000 in reserves as a fund to stabilize revenue, he said, but the Legislature had been given no accounting of it.

He also criticized the payment of nearly $95,000,000 of the $99,000,000 estimates of the highways department through statutes, allowing the Legislature to vote only $4,500,000 of the department's total estimates.

The government should not pass any more statutes involving annual expenditures without telling members they were "robbing themselves of the right to vote the money in the future."

Watch Net Debt

The province's net debt, which had to be paid from direct taxes, totalled $569,000,000. It had increased $47,707,000 in the last year, a fact which "should be brought very emphatically to the attention of the province."

The debt position was worse than in 1943, the last year of Liberal government, when net debt was reduced by $3,853,000 and therre was an over-all surplus of $20,700,000.

The province in the last year had taken $18,500,000 more in corporation taxes than it budgeted for a year ago, and was "profiting and fattening on the expenditures for defence purposes made by Ottawa."

In its corporations tax, the government "seems to feel that this is manna from heaven—that corporations have no souls."

Mr. Nixon also criticized the government's borrowing on the New York bond market. Similar borrowing before had brought "sad experiences" when the loan had to be paid in a period when U.S. dollars were at a premium.

He also urged the government to expand its new policy of giving grants in lieu of municipal taxation on government property to include taxes on power transmission lines.

Praises Dunlop

He also praised a speech by Education Minister Dunlop criticizing "useless spending" in schools. One school in Toronto had spent $53,000 on equipment for a stage.

Premier Frost said the province's net debt had been kept from rising too quickly because of "buoyant revenues" which allowed payment each year for some of the capital costs incurred that year.

He told the House that the province's indirect debt — loans which it has guaranteed — will likely be doubled in a few years to $1,000,000,000 due to borrowing by Hydro-Electric Power Commission for its Niagara and St. Lawrence River projects.

Mr. Frost said the government would prefer to float loans in Canada if it could, but it found "very favorable" interest rates in New York at a time when the Canadian market for new bonds was difficult.

SHOPPING BY BOAT—Housewives in Bangkok paddle to the river markets in their sampans. The stilted combination houses and stores are but 20 minutes' journey from the downtown part of the city. The atmosphere, with cocoanut palms, sampans and quietly flowing river, recalls the Malayan backwaters.

1,000 Prisoners, 100 Survived

VICTORIA, B.C.—(CP)—A German immigrant, who survived six years of starvation in a Russian prison camp calls that country "land without mercy" and plans to publish a book under that title.

Heinz Schmidt, 39, of Dresden, arrived in Canada last December. He came here after working in a Quebec logging camp to pay off his government-lent steamer fare.

Nine years ago he was Corporal in a Panzer division on the Russian front near Orel. Captured he was sent to a camp to work in asbestos mines and forests.

"Prisoners were given a choice of life or death," he said. "The more work they turned out, the better they were fed. For those unable to produce there remained only death.

"Conditions were terrible. Nine of 10 men in the camp died over a six-year period. Men died of cold and starvation because they were too weak to work.

"Treatment of prisoners was bad—not only by Russian guards but by Germans placed in key positions in camp to supervise work."

Of 1,000 sent to the camp, only 100 survived when he was repatriated in 1949.

Motorists Must Slow Down When Passing Elephants

By BILL BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand, March 26 —(CP)—Anything can happen in Bangkok. If it does, not an eyebrow is disturbed.

Where else is one compelled to slow down on a paved road to pass a couple of elephants?

Where else is everyone on a first-name basis—no Mr., Mrs. or Miss, with surnames used only to differentiate between individuals who have the same first name?

Where else does hospitality extend to the stranger who hears the noise of a party, and, without invitation, joins the fun?

Animals abound in Thailand. Families keep gibbons for pets. A stroll may confront one with anything from dogs to water-buffalo.

The countryside is so flat it reminds one of the Netherlands, and it is laced by canals, called klongs. Housewives are as apt to paddle to market in a sampan as to walk or take a bus.

Twenty minutes from the heart of Bangkok by car or boat are coconut groves where dwellings on stilts, splashed by the water, remind one of motion-picture versions of the Malayan jungle backwaters.

Lead Simple Life

Life in such communities, if picturesque, is simple. Whole families live and transact whatever business keeps them alive in the two or three rooms the buildings on stilts afford. Their sampans keep them in touch with the world.

Yet a 2½-cent bus fare returns one to the heart of downtown Bangkok with modern hotels, office and government buildings, and a skyline glittering with the spires of 400 temples. The city of almost 1,000,000 population is only 200 years old.

It is impossible to look down a street, into a park, anywhere without spotting the orange-saffron robe of a Buddhist priest. There are between 25,000 and 30,000 in Bangkok alone, 130,000 in the whole country.

Buddhist thought and Buddhist practice are the keys to life here. They account for the cheefulness and courtesy of the Siamese whose behavior is consistently serene.

By night the city is alive with business, especially in Chinatown whose residents control the country's trade. Shops are open, celebrants drive to the cabaret in foot-powered, tricycle "taxis" called pericabs (they're lit like a mobile juke-box with as many as 15 colored lights) and the haunting, vibrant music of Siamese orchestras is everywhere.

Bangkok is a never-never land.

The newspapers carry headlines across the front page, and the story is as likely as not to turn up on the back page. An appointment or a business understanding with a Siamese are matters for patience.

But that's part of the charm of the country. There is a delightful fatalism about life here. If it doesn't happen today it may tomorrow or the day after—and if it doesn't come true in this life—well, maybe it will in the next.

Labor Dispute Cripples Papers

ROCKFORD, Ill., March 26 — (AP) — Rockford's two daily newspapers, The Morning Star and The Register-Republic, were affected today by a labor dispute.

Rockford Consolidated Newspapers, Inc., publishers of both dailies, said more than 70 A.F.L. printers went on strike Monday in a dispute over handling of Press Association teletypesetter perforated tape.

Both newspapers, produced in a single plant, published Tuesday. A.F.L. pressmen, stereotypers, engravers and C.I.O. mailers were not affected by the work stoppage. An emergency crew worked in the composing room.

Teletypesetter is a composing process in which news matter is transmitted by wire to a perforated tape. The tape is fed into typecasting machines which deliver type ready to be placed in forms for printing.

The Rockford newspapers have been receiving Associated Press teletypesetter tape since last September and that of United Press since January.

"This tape was handled by union printers up to last Wednesday when a union ultimatum was issued saying the tape would no longer be handled," a publisher's statement said.

Report Ontario Has More Men Than Women But Girls Have Edge In Four Cities—Census

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP).—Ontario has more men than women, but women outnumber the men in four centres.

This was disclosed Tuesday by the Bureau of Statistics on the basis of the 1951 census. Total population in the province is 4,597,442, with men outnumbering women 2,314,170 to 2,283,372.

Women outnumber men in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and London.

Women trying to catch a man apparently would have a better chance in the northern part of the province. Sudbury has 2,672 more males than females and Sault Ste. Marie has 1,060 more.

Other male and female comparisons are: Brantford 17,903-18,824; St. Thomas 8,647-9,526; Kingston 15,717-17,742; Owen Sound 7,804-8,619; Belleville 9,255-10,264; Chatham 10,195-11,023; Sarnia 17,589-17,108; St. Catharines 18,798-19,186; North Bay 8,820-9,124; Oshawa 21,286-20,259; Woodstock 7,431-8,113; Stratford 9,019-9,796; Peterborough 18,426-19,846; Cornwall 8,194-8,705; Ft. William 17,684-17,263; Port Arthur 15,862-15,299; Galt 9,286-9,921; Kitchener 21,815-23,052; Waterloo 5,866-6,125; Niagara Falls 11F,047-11,467; Welland 7,656-7,726; Guelph 13,085-14,301.

Ask Wine Restored

PARIS, March 26—(AP)—By unanimous vote, the National Assembly Tuesday asked the government to restore the traditional daily pint of wine to every French soldier. Before the Second World War, the pint (half a litre) was the standard Army ration. Then it was halved as an economy measure.

Credit Curbs Blamed For Jobless

C.C.L. Asks Abolition Of Controls; Suggest Labor Code

OTTAWA, March 27. (CP)—Credit restrictions have had the chief effect of increasing unemployment, the Canadian Congress of Labor said to the government today.

The 360,000-member Congress, in its annual legislative brief to the cabinet, asked for the abolition or the easing of the credit curbs and replacement by direct price-rent controls.

The Congress also was critical of the government's anti-price-fixing measure of the 1951 fall parliamentary session, saying there is "not the slightest evidence" that it has had any effect in holding down prices.

Instead of these measures, the Congress asked the cabinet immediately to reimpose price controls, subsidizing essential goods, roll back prices to the "lowest possible levels" and impose an excess-profits tax to discourage profiteering.

Trying Cut Living Costs

The steps it proposed were aimed at cutting down the cost of living. Up to now, the Congress said, the removal of the wartime price-rent controls has cost Canadians "billions of dollars" in living costs.

Like the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, before the cabinet Wednesday, the C.C.L. recommended a series of measures for dealing with current unemployment. These included:

1. Steering of defence production to areas where unemployment is most prevalent.
2. Development of new industries or public works projects in unemployment areas or, failing that, transfer of workers to other areas.
3. Admission to Canada only of immigrants who can find work.
4. A public assistance program to help those not covered by unemployment insurance benefits and those whose benefit payments have been exhausted.
5. A sharp increase in the rate on unemployment insurance benefit payments.

The C.C.L. recommendations on unemployment were contained in a supplement to the main 5,000-word memorandum of the Congress, which called for govern-

$35,000 WAS LOST in building, equipment and cars early today when fire gutDick Ouimet's restaurant on Highway 28. Besides the building and its contents, four cars were completely destroyed. The fire was noticed shortly after 2 a.m. and the owners stood by helplessly while the flames ripped through the building in an hour, but continued to smoulder seven hours later. North Monaghan has no fire department. The burning garage and restaurant were like blazing furnaces (top photo) shortly after the fire was noticed. Within a half hour, the entire building (lower photo taken at the south side) was beyond saving.—(Examiner Staff Photos.)

Service Station Restaurant Lost In Fire

Fire that broke out shortly after 2 a.m. today gutted Fred Stenson's service station and Dick Quimet's Bar-B-Q on the Port Hope highway, just outside the city limits. Damage is estimated at $35,000.

Because the building, owned by Mr. Stenson, is outside the city in North Monaghan Township, the city fire department did not go out. There is no agreement between the two municipalities.

Not more than a dozen or so spectators stopped at any one time to watch the blaze.

Cause of the [illegible]k is not known. But Gordon Hancock, who first saw the blaze from his Western Ave. home, says the flames centred in the garage part of the building. By the time Mr. Hancock arrived on the scene the double doors of the garage were crashing in flames to the ground.

Second Fire

For Mr. Stenson it is the second heavy fire loss in five months. On October 23 his barn, not more than 150 feet west of the combined service station and lunch counter, burned to the ground. Estimated loss was $8,000.

Only a favorable wind at that time prevented the service station building from going up in flames as well.

"I must have left there shortly after 1.30 a.m.," said Mr. Stenson. "I'd been curling and stopped in for a cup of coffee at Dick's. Before I left I turned the oil heater off for the night."

Mr. Stenson said he had no idea how the fire started, but first arrivals on the scene said it was in the garage.

He estimated that the building itself is worth $21,000 and other equipment would bring the loss up to the $30,000 mark. It is about one-third covered by insurance.

Dick Ouimet, proprietor of the Bar-B-Q, rents from Mr. Stenson. He had no estimate of his loss at press time. When he left the premises at 1:45 a.m. everything was all right.

"Seven months of hard work all gone up in flames", he mused as he watched the flames destroy his eating place.

Four Cars Inside

Inside the garage were four cars—one upstairs and three in the basement being repaired. They, too, were destroyed.

A gasoline tank buried in the ground some 50 feet away from the main building, containing more than 2,000 gallons, was saved.

Seven hours later the ruins of the building were still flaming.

Uneasy Calm Follows Crackdown

2 French Parties To Do Battle On Tunisian Action

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 27. (AP)—Tunisia was ominously calm today but political storms raged elsewhere over Wednesday's sudden French clampdown of martial law and the arrest of four top Tunisian cabinet ministers.

In Paris, at least two major political parties prepared to rake the already-shaky government of Premier Antoine Pinay over the coals for the drastic action.

Two other Tunisian ministers, whose activities in Paris since January had been vehemently protested by the French government, flew quietly out of Paris to Geneva, after going into hiding for 24 hours to escape the fate of their colleagues in the Tunisian capital.

In this capital, the Arab city was in the grip of a shutdown by Moslem storekeepers and workers. The French city appeared normal.

No incidents were reported, although Tunisian Nationalists were openly incensed at the arrest and exile to the interior of Premier Mohammed Chenik and three of his top ministers.

In Paris the powerful Socialist Party and the Mouvement Republicain Populaire—Foreign Minister Robert Schuman's own party—both appeared ready to demand a full explanation from Pinay for the unprecedented action. Schuman's ministry has charge of Tunisia's administration.

Resident - General Jean de Hauteclocque had the ministers arrested, along with a large number of other Nationalists, after Tunisian ruler Sidi Mohammed Al Amin Bey refused a French demand that they be fired as a condition for opening talks on Tunisian demands for self-government.

The French also have been demanding the recall from Paris of Justice Minister Salah Ben Youseff and Health Minister Mohammed Badra, who went to Paris in January to ask United Nations intervention in Tunisia.

Commons Accepts C.C.F. Proposal To Drop 4% Clause

OTTAWA, March 27. (CP)—Canadians with big medical bills may find that when Finance Minister Abbott brings down his budget April 8 they will get a better break in their income-tax deductions. This is indicated Wednesday when the Commons, in a rare and surprising move, accepted a C.C.F. proposal that the Federal government consider abolishing the present four-per-cent floor on the amount of medical bills allowed as a tax deduction. The proposal came from Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre) as a private resolution. It was approved unanimously after a two-hour debate. Approval of the idea came from all sides of the Chamber.

James Sinclair (L-Coast-Capilano), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, raised some mild objections to the proposal, but said Mr. Abbott, now in the midst of preparing his budget, accepted it so far as giving it consideration went.

The chamber's approval of the motion was taken as a possible hint that Mr. Abbott plans to make such a change in his budget. Normally, the government would promise to consider an opposition proposal, but ask that it be withdrawn.

Thinks Time Has Come

Mr. Sinclair also said—with perhaps another hint—that "perhaps the time has come to raise" the existing ceilings on the amount of medical expenses that may be deducted from net income for tax purposes. At present, they are $750 for single persons, $1,000 for married and $250 for each dependent.

Mr. Knowles did not ask that the ceilings be abolished because that would benefit the rich rather than the poor—a point on which he and Mr. Sinclair agreed—but he did suggest they might be reviewed.

Forfeits Right To Remain Chief Of Tribe

LONDON, March 27 —(Reuters)—The government said today the failure of Seretse Khama, chief of the African Bamangwatos, to consider his people when marrying a white girl had cost him forever his place as head of the tribe.

Khama, exiled in London for two years, retorted tonight by turning down the government's offer of a post in the Jamaican government.

Today's government announcement, made by Lord Salisbury, Commonwealth relations secretary, is the latest chapter in Khama's fight for control of the tribe since he married Ruth Williams, 27, a London stenographer, in September, 1948.

Britain's late Labor government exiled him for five years because his marriage threatened to cause serious trouble among 100,000 tribesmen in the Bamangwato Reserve of Bechuanaland, a British African protectorate.

The tribe will be invited to nominate another Chief in place of Khama or his uncle, Tshekedi Khama, present Regent of the tribe who led the opposition to his nephew's marriage to a white girl.

100 Cars In Cortege At Tong Funeral

TORONTO, March 27 (CP)—Eddie Tong, the Toronto detective shot down by suspected bank robbers, was buried Wednesday. More than 100 automobiles escorted by 10 motorcycle policemen accompanied the hearse in a mile-long procession to the cemetery. Present were representatives of Peterborough, London, Guelph, Lindsay, Brantford, St. Catharines, Grantham Township, Windsor and Sudbury police forces.

Woman's Body Found On Shore

ALBION, N.Y., March 27—(AP)—A young woman's body, found nude and battered on Lake Ontario shore near here, was to be viewed by an Ontario policeman today in an effort to determine if the body was that of an Ontario girl missing since Feb. 23.

Inspector Charles Wood of the Ontario Provincial Police was expected to examine the body which was extricated from shoreline rocks at Oak Orchard Wednesday night. It was found earlier by an Albion man.

Coroner John G. Ellis said the body bore a scar apparently left by an appendectomy. The missing girl, Violet Pollock, 20, of Niagara-on-the-Lake, had her appendix removed about two years ago.

Charles Hart of Albion found the body near his cottage at Oak Orchard, about six miles from the place where the headless, nude body of another woman was found on the shore March 13.

Ellis said the body found Wednesday was that of a woman between the ages of 20 and 25 and that it had probably been in the water from three to four weeks.

Miss Pollock left her Niagara-on-the-Lake home to take a walk the night of Feb. 23. Her sister Dorabelle, 24, went out to look for her and was injured fatally when she was struck by a train.

Mother Rescues Three Children

TORONTO, March 27 (CP) — A plucky Toronto mother today rescued her three children from a blazing west-end apartment house and was praised by firemen for her courage.

Firemen saved a crippled girl and an 82-year-old woman as flames forced six other persons from the two-apartment building.

Mrs. Walter Reynolds, carrying her baby, rushed her son, 2, and daughter, 8, through a sheet of flame and down through dense smoke from the third storey.

Damage was estimated at $1,650.

Iran Dropping Plea For Loan

TEHRAN, March 27—(AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh said today Iran is dropping its request for a United States loan to help meet financial difficulties caused by a loss of oil revenue.

The U.S. state department said a week ago a loan could not be justified as long as Iran refuses to reach a settlement with Britain for reviving the dormant oil industry.

The vast operations of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company ground to a halt after Iran nationalized her oil resources a year ago. Efforts to reach a settlement with Britain have failed.

Mossadegh said that with the state department announcement of Nov. 20 "we have come to realize that the U.S. Government does not have a favorable attitude with regard to this question, and the Iranian government will not pursue it."

UK Woman M.P. Suspended After Commons Argument

LONDON, March 27. (Reuters)—Leaden-eyed members of parliament today wound up a 23-hour debate on ways to check unemployment which threatens the textile industry. The all-night sitting — longest since the Second World War—saw the suspension of one of the 17 women members of parliament—210-pound Mrs. Margaret (Bessie) Braddock—after she had a hot argument with the deputy speaker.

The sitting, forced by M.P.'s from the Lancashire mill country to focus national attention on the textile trade's peril, beat the previous non-stop debate of Nov. 27 by two hours and 40 minutes.

Even so, Labor members protested long and loud against halting the debate, but they were outvoted by the Conservatives.

They left the chamber at 1:27 p.m. for a quick shave and bite to eat before reconvening at 2:30 p.m. for what promised to be another war on controversial government proposals to impose charges on certain services in the free national health scheme.

Wake Up In Hurry

The uproar over Mrs. Braddock started when she protested she was being forced out of the debate. One of the chamber's most colorful members, she one day asked if she could throw an egg at a Tory M.P. and another time did an impromptu jig on the floor of the house.

Dozing members sat up when she leaped to her feet to complain:

"I've been sitting here since 1:50 a.m.," she said. "I say I've been deliberately ignored. I do definitely protest. It's most unfair."

"Sit down," said deputy speaker Sir Charles MacAndrew. Mrs. Braddock refused.

"If you will sit down . . ."MacAndrew said.

"I will not sit down. I'm making a protest. Am I permitted to make a statement?"

"No," said MacAndrew. After another exchange he said: "Perhaps the lady will withdraw from the house."

"No," said Mrs. Braddock.

Amid shouts of "shame" from Labor members, Harry Crookshank, a Conservative, moved Mrs. Braddock's suspension.

MacAndrew sent for his chief, Speaker W. S. Morrison.

More shouts of "shame" came when Col. Morrison put the suspension motion and it was carried by 125 votes to 67. Mrs. Braddock stalked out of the house crying, "I do this under protest."

Suspensions of this kind are usually enforced for five days.

Italians Ready Liberate Trieste

ROME, March 27 (Reuters). — Italian Nationalists today threatened to send "liberation battalions" to regain Trieste, now occupied partly by Britain, United States and partly by Yugoslavia.

The right-wing Italian Nationalist party said the men would "free Trieste from any foreign danger."

Secretary - General Vincenzo Caputo said the battalions are already being formed.

The threat came as the latest development in a week of rioting in the free zone and in major Italian cities.

Caputo told Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi in a letter today that Italian Nationalists "will not tolerate foreign influences on he sacred Italian soil of Trieste."

Riots took place in Trieste after last Saturday's pro-Italian demonstration, staged on the anniversary of the western powers' declaration of intention to return the free territory of Italy.

Caputo said: "At the first sign of danger to Trieste—from Tito or anyone else—the Blueshirts (Nationalists) will rally from every part of Italy to help their Triestini brothers."

Wives Fed Up

BIRMINGHAM, England, March 27—(AP)—Forty-two gamblers, some of whose wives "squealed" on them, appeared today on gaming charges. Police said the men, members of a social club, were found playing poker for high stakes. The prosecutor said police were tipped off by the wives. The fine: £10 apiece.

Volcano Rocks Soar 4,000 Feet In Air

MANILLA, March 27—(AP)—The Philippines' underwater volcano is blowing rocks 3,000 to 4,000 feet into the air, a Manilla Evening News survey party reported today.

The party's boat stayed a mile away from the rumbling volcano—30 miles from the northeastern tip of Luzon—because the ocean in the immediate vicinity "fairly sizzled." Huge boulders tumbled about the rim of a volcano cone, the News said, and smaller rocks shot high into the smoke cloud.

Photographs indicated the cone still rose 250 feet above the water but covered a larger area than when viewed from the air March 19.

BULLETIN

A fire was reported burning in a boys' camp in Jackson's Park at the northwest corner of the city this afternoon, but at press time, no details were available.

Check On Keys In U.S. Robbery

DANVERS, Mass., March 27 (AP)—F.B.I. agents today began a roundup of all former employees of the U.S. Trucking Corp., owner of the armored truck robbed of $681,000 in Danvers Square Tuesday while its three guards sipped coffee about 20 feet away.

A source close to the investigation expressed belief the F.B.I. hopes to determine if one of the former employees kept a key to the truck when he left the employ of the armored car service or divulged how a key could be obtained.

At the same time, Boston police swooped down on all known gangsters—"petty and big-time alike"—and made them account for their time Tuesday morning.

Boston police took that action after it was revealed the keys to the company's armored trucks were kept in an unlocked drawer just inside the entrance of a garage in Boston's north end.

Some police officers have expressed the opinion there might be a connection between the armored car robbery and the still-unsolved $1,219,000 Brink's headquarters robbery on Jan. 17, 1950.

The U.S. Trucking Corp.'s armored trucks are kept in the same waterfront garage that houses Brink's Boston headquarters.

Continue Air Search For Missing Transport

HALIFAX, March 27 (CP) — The R.C.A.F. continued its air search for a missing transport plane today while waiting a report from a fishing vessel sent to check a single clue sighted by a search plane Wednesday.

A report was expected soon from the vessel, investigating lumber floating three miles south of Bonaventure Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Poor visibility, which has hampered the air search during the last four days, kept most of the force grounded again today. However, at least 11 planes took off from Greenwood, N.S., and others were expected from United States bases in Newfoundland.

Killer On Loose

Two-Gunman Murders 3 On Ranch In Nebraska

MERRIMAN, Neb., March 27—(AP)—Three persons were shot to death and two others wounded at a ranch five miles south of here early today by an unidentified assailant who used two guns.

Dead were George Mensinger, about 30, his 24-year-old wife, and a neighbor, Deo Gardner, about 50. Wounded were the Mensingers' 10-months-old son and another neighbor, Cliff McDonald, about 35.

Roadblocks were thrown up in northwestern Nebraska and six planes were being pressed into the search for the slayer who fled in a car.

First speculation by authorities was that the slaying was done by someone carrying a grudge, or by someone gone berserk.

Police said the assailant apparently had not entered the Mensinger ranch home, but shot through doors and windows.

Mrs. Mensinger apparently was felled as she stood by the telephone, trying to summon help.

McDonald, who lives about a mile away, heard Mrs. Mensinger's general call (a series of short rings on a party line, designed to call all subscribers to their phones).

As McDonald approached the farm, he apparently encountered the slayer in his car. The assailand shot him in the neck.

Gardner, another rancher living 2 miles away, also heard the telephone call and headed for the Mensinger ranch with his son and a hired man, Frank Ellis. They spotted a car and stopped to inquire about the trouble. The assailant shot Gardner and fled. The son and hired man were not hurt.

Hansen said Gardner appeared to have been killed with a pistol although all the others were shot with a shotgun.

There was nothing to indicate that robbery might have been a motvie.

The Mensingers operated a ranch of about 3,000 acres, raising purebred Hereford cattle.

Flowers Won't Co-operate

White House Has Lost Big Battle Of the Tulips

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP)—The White House admitted today it has lost "the battle of the tulips."

There just won't be any tulips in bloom when Queen Juliana of the Netherlands arrives April 2 for a three-day visit with the President and Mrs. Truman.

The President succeeded in hurrying up carpenters, painters and movers in getting the White House ready, but the thousands of tulips, planted in the grounds especially for the occasion, are taking their own bloomin' time.

In fact, these tulips are causing a lot of worry to the White House, the Netherlands Embassy and in high official greenhouse circles.

The tulips are Dutch immigrants. They are a new variety in a special shade of orange—Juliana is a member of the House of Orange and they have never been exported from the Netherlands before.

R. J. Benkenkamp, agricultural attache at the Netherlands Embassy, and the Associated Bulb Growers of Holland, decided it would be a nice gesture if bulbs of this new variety were sent here to plant in the White House grounds and at the Embassy.

It was hoped they would be blooming during Juliana's visit.

But the bulbs had landing trouble. They reached New York last fall during a longshoreman's strike and couldn't be unloaded. They were returned to Holland, shipped back a month later.

Gardeners at the Embassy planted their bulbs immediately and they will be in bloom by the time of the Royal visit. But White House gardeners were further delayed by the remodelling going on there.

They planted about 5,000 around the fountain on the Pennsylvania Avenue side and an equal number in the South Garden. They will be flowering around Easter.

The gardeners potted about 2,000 bulbs and speeded up their growth in greenhouses. These will be ready for decorating the White House interior.

Bad Weather Grounds Planes In Korea

SEOUL, March 27 — (AP) — Stormy weather over North Korea grounded Allied planes early today. On the 155-mile battle front only light, squad-size Communist thrusts were reported.

Far East air forces planes mounted 925 sorties Wednesday. During the night Japan-based B-29 Superforts dropped 60,000 pounds of air-bursting bombs on the front. Light bombers in night attacks knocked out 25 Communist supply vehicles.

U.N. naval aircraft and surface craft pounded both Korean coasts Wednesday. Pilots from the U.S. carriers Philippine Sea and Valley Forge reported they blasted 256 new gaps in Red rail lines.

Won't Start Crime Inquiry Again

Nothing Produced To Warrant It, Legislature Told

TORONTO, March 27. (CP) —A crime investigation in Ontario will not be undertaken again. Premier Frost told a stormy session of the legislature Wednesday that the crime committee, dissolved before last November's election, will not be constituted because nothing was produced to warrant such action during the committee's sittings last year.

"We are not going to be a party to constituting this committee and creating in the public mind a feeling that something is wrong with the administration of justice," he said.

The question was raised during consideration of the attorney-general's department's estimates.

All estimates were not passed and the balance will be brought before the House today, together with estimates for the departments of health and education. A night sitting is likely.

Other developments in the House included:

Introduction of several government bills including the previously announced measure to pay pensions of up to $40 a month to totally and permanently disabled persons between the age of 18 and 64. The payments will be based on a means test.

Agriculture Minister Kennedy introduced a bill which would prohibit any ice cream made from vegetable oils or other substitutes for dairy products being called "ice cream."

Wants Doubts Settled

J. B. Salzberg (Lab.-Prog.—Toronto-St. Andrew) urged that the crime committee be called again to settle any doubts left by its sudden dissolution.

Noticeably angry, Premier Frost replied: "If the honorable member for St. Andrew wishes to make charges, let him do so and stake his seat on these charges.

"Until someone wants to make such a charge, and stake his seat and reputation on it, this government is not going on a fishing expedition and cast doubts on the administration of justice."

Mr. Frost said the question had been raised in the fall of 1950 by E. B. Jolliffe, then leader of the opposition. The government was willing in the 1951 session to set up a crime committee if any definite charges were made.

There were no charges but there were inuendos which could be classed as "slimy insinuations." That was the reason for the calling of the committee, but its inquiry revealed nothing to cast doubt on law enforcement in the province.

Inquiry Torpedoed

William Houck (L., Niagara Falls) is a member of last year's committee, said the investigation had been "torpedoed."

W. J. Grummett (C.C.F., Cochrane South), only other opposition member who was on the committee, said the investigation was not one-third completed when it was automatically ended with dissolution of the House before the election.

Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver suggested that when the government set up the committee it knew an election would be called.

"When the water began to get a little too deep, that coincided with an opportunity to dissolve the House and also the committee."

Attorney-General Porter said he had not known of the impending election until the last week of the committee's hearings.

He said there were no recommendations from the committee, and that little was revealed to require action.

Mr. Grummett said statements made before the end of the commitee by Mr. Jolliffe showed the importance of continuing the inquiry and making a report.

Stresses Vindication

Mr. Porter replied that the government's actions were vindicated by the majority it received in the election.

Mr. Grummett raised again the question of the United Emergency Fund for Britain, brought up last year in the Legislature by Mr. Jolliffe, who charged that of $593,000 collected by the fund only $1,000 was spent for food for Britain.

Mr. Grummett asked if an investigation by the public trustee had been completed and a report filed.

Mr. Porter said an investigation was begun immediately, but auditors were still at work. They would not complete their audit for two or three months. At that time a report would be filed.

Wilson Drops Plans For Steel Talks

WASHINGTON, March 27 — (AP)—Defence mobilizer Charles Wilson today dropped plans for a top-level parley of government officials concerned with the threat of a steel strike April 8.

Instead, he talked separately with the various price-and wage-control executives and ruled out any announcement today of what he may do to head off a strike.

Wilson has declared the recommendations of the wage stabilization board, proposing a 17½-cent-hourly pay increase and other benefits for the United Steelworkers' Union (C.I.O.), are inflationary and too high. This statement stirred up retorts from C.I.O. president Philip Murray. The union said that if the steel industry doesn't accept the W.S.B. recommendations, the responsibility for a serious strike will be on the companies.

Hint Resignation

Wilson talked for 20 minutes this morning with economic stabilizer Roger Putnam, then had a talk in his own office with Nathan Feinsinger, W.S.B. chairman who has upheld his board's recommendations as non-inflationary and justified.

The situation was such that it even appeared possible that, with President Truman due back from his Florida vacation in late afternoon, someone in the mobilization hierarchy may quit soon.

One thing appeared certain: The steelworkers, headed by Philip Murray, will get nowhere in negotiations with steel firms until the administration makes up its mind. The companies said they will need price boosts of $12 a ton if they grant the W.S.B.-recommended terms.

Watch Washington

Bargaining talks between the United Steel Workers and U.S. Steel Corp. and Jones & Laughlin Steel began Wednesday in Pittsburgh, but nothing was accomplished. Both sides looked to Washington for guidance.

The administration's real task was two-fold: To decide whether Feinsinger's W.S.B. over-stepped itself in its suggested solution, and whether steel firms will require any price boost to keep them in the black if the wage boost is granted.

Wilson's fears were based not on steel, but on possible effects to the economy generally. John L. Lewis is waiting to see what Murray does in steel before trying to drive new wage bargain for coal miners. In short, a new wage pattern is in the making, at least in Wilson's view.

Back of that, if steel firms raise prices, a whole host of other industries will be breaking down the doors for higher prices, too. In other words, Wilson's group fears a new burst of inflation.

Suggest MP's Read Dictionary

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP) — Senator Arthur Marcotte (PC-Saskatchewan) said Wednesday those who favor the word "realm" rather than "dominion" to describe Canada should check the dictionary. One is a synonym for the other.

Speaking in the throne-speech debate in the Senate, he noted certain statements made recently in the Commons in which dominion was described as meaning "obedience, servitude, slavery, subjection, subjugation, submission."

Actually, Senator Marcotte said, those words are the antonyms of dominion—they mean the opposite of that word.

The word realm, he said, has become "dear" to some, including Prime Minister St. Laurent. The dictionary gave as the definition for realm "the dominions of a reigning sovereign; a region under the rule of a monarch especially a kingdom" and said the synonym was the word dominion.

Ratify Decision To Dismiss Constable

MONTREAL, March 27—(CP)—Police director J. Albert Langlois today ratified a decision of the discipline board dismissing a constable who fell asleep while guarding Toronto bandit Steve Suchan.

Constable Jean-Louis Proulx was found asleep by a superior outside Suchan's room last week the report revealed. The next day the discipline board recommended he be dismissed.

New Service

LONDON, March 27 (AP) — British Overseas Airways Corporation announced today it will launch a new once-weekly service from Germany to Japan within a week. The nationalized airline said four-engined Argonaut airliners will set out from Frankfurt April 3, calling at Rome, Cairo, Basrah, Karachi, Calcutta, Rangoon, Bangkok, Hong Kong and Tokyo.

Toronto Market Prices Turn Slowly Upward

TORONTO, March 27. (CP) — Stock market prices turned slowly upward today in early afternoon stock dealings.

Western oils and penny golds drew most speculative interest while a few metals also showed activity. Industrial dealings remained mainly in leading issues. Volume for the first three hours was 1,789,000 shares.

Miscellaneous issues led industrials with a wide list of fractional advances. Banks, constructions and manufacturing companies drew firm support but utilities, foods and textiles remained weak.

Western oils posted a slim majority of gains. Anglo-Canadian, Central-Leduc, Dome Explorations, Federated Petroleum, Model Oil and Pacific Petroleum edged upward.

Base metals were mixed as Eureka, Castle, Hudson Bay, Mindamar, Ontario Pyrites and Steep Rock strengthened while East Sullivan, Labrador, Quebec Copper and Quemont weakened.

Senior golds sagged. Bralorne, Hollinger, Lake Shore and Malartic drifted lower. Secondary issues made little headway. Selected leading junior producers were strong.

ment action over a wide range, most of it recommended at the C.C.L.'s annual convention last September in Vancouver.

National Labor Code

The C.C.L. urged the adoption of a national labor code—broader than the present federal legislation—which would take in more industries and provide uniform labor legislation across the country.

Amendments to the act, as sought by the C.C.L., would include the outlawing of "company unions"—those dominated by employers—and the inclusion of the statutory check-off of union dues when sought by employees.

Proposals of the C.C.L. on unemployment insurance included increased benefit payments to jobless; reduction now and eventual elimination of the waiting period for the start of payments, and extension of coverage to worker categories now under the act.

It already is understood that the waiting period is to be cut to five from nine days.

The C.C.F. member did feel, as did other speakers, that such things as drugs and eye-glasses might be considered as deductions, but Mr. Sinclair ruled out that possibility.

On his main point, Mr. Knowles said people with heavy medical bills should have the same break as those who make contributions to accepted charities. There is no floor on the amount which may be deducted for charitable contributions.

Fears Futher Concessions

Mr. Sinclair said he felt the abolition of the four-per-cent floor might open the door to demands for further tax concessions. That was something the government must consider, along with the amount of revenue that would be lost.

But he said Mr. Abbott would consider the proposal and the members, when the budget was brought down, would have ample opportunity to "approve or disapprove the changes, if any, which occur . . ."

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC-Hamilton West) suggested the exemption be extended to include funeral expenses for relatives.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) suggested there is no reason why drugs and eye-glasses should not be allowed as a deduction.

Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf), a doctor, said the proposal would help both doctors and patients.

C. J. Henry (L—Toronto Rosedale) and E. T. Applewhaite (L—Skeena) also expressed approval.

Grand Jury Urges Repairs In Institutions

An inspection of six county buildings was made by the Grand Jury at the present sitting of the Supreme Court.

The jury were favorably impressed with what they saw and reported to Justice A. M. LeBel that the "staffs at all these institutions were very hospitable and appeared to be capable and extremely interested in the welfare of their charges."

Some comments were:

Anson House: Cleanly and sanitary; the inmates appear content and happy; a conscientious staff. Repairs needed, include plastering throughout the building. A particularly dangerous crack in the plaster was noticed in the women's dining-room.

St. Vincent's Orphanage: A "spotless" interior, indicating "a high standard of housekeeping, with adolescent children about." Recommended improvements: Two large holes in the cement floor at the foot of the basement stairs need fixing; the verandah needs repairing; and general repairs are needed on the outside of the building.

Tidy and Clean

Children's Shelter: Seven children were reported under the matron's care. The inside was tidy and clean and the only repairs needed were to some bricks and mortar that had been loosened by weather on the west chimney.

House of Providence: Good supervision and capably staffed. Floors clean but too highly polished for old people to walk on. Because of dim corridors, it was suggested that a study be made of the lighting and color-scheme. The same sort of check should be made on the men's recreation and reading rooms.

The Sister who guided the Grand Jury on its inspection tour said that washroom facilities are insufficient. The home has 78 inmates. As a result of their study the jury recommended further washrooms be installed.

Dust-laden Flags

Courthouse: "One feature which would strike any visitor to the court room is the dust-laden condition of the flags and draperies. A thorough shaking would alleviate this condition, but dry-cleaning would further the intentions of this suggestion."

The jury also reiterated the request of their predecessors asking for improvement to the men's washroom facilities at the entrance to the County Council chambers. Also the court room should be redecorated.

County Gaol: "We were amazed at the well-painted condition and interested capability of the staff." No grievances were heard from the inmates of the jail.

Fire fighting equipment: Adequate fire-escapes, fire-doors, and fire equipment. Suggested that hoses be tested once a year.

Home Found For Recluse, Refused To Leave Hospital

A touchy problem that has confronted Civic Hospital authorities for the past week was solved Wednesday.

A home has been found for Wesley Hall. Last week, Wes was "discovered" still in hospital, 54 days after he had been officially discharged. The problem came to a head Thursday, when county council informed the hospital that they would not be responsible for his hospital expenses after March 20.

Early in the week, a lady phoned Mrs. A. F. Berry, who has recently opening a boarding home for aged pensioners at 417 Sheridan St., and asked her if she would take an elderly gentleman.

Mrs. Berry replied that she would be interested if she could find another man to share the same room. On Saturday she saw the story of the plight of Wes Hall in the Examiner. This was the answer concluded Mrs. Berry and she contacted the hospital to say she would be willing to accommodate him.

Same Man

Her offer was accepted. Then, Mrs. Berry phoned the lady to say she could take the other gentleman. Much to her surprise, she learned that Wes Hall was the man the lady was asking about. However, Mrs. Berry stood by her offer and Mr. Hall moved in on Wednesday afternoon.

It was early in November that Mr. Hall was taken from his cabin on Katchacoma Lake where he was crippled up with lumbago and brought by ambulance to hospital in Peterborough.

By January 23, he had recovered sufficiently to be discharged. He was still unable to look after himself and return to his cabin, and he refused to go to the home for the aged. No suitable accommodation could be found elsewhere for him and he stayed on, but as far as hospital records were concerned he had been discharged.

54 Days Still There

It was 54 days after Wes had been discharged that hospital superintendent John Hornal was informed that he was still in the public ward.

To prevent a similar situation occurring again, Mr. Hornal immediately instructed his supervisors that from now on, he is to be informed within 24 hours, if anyone fails to leave the hospital after they are discharged.

Mrs. Berry's offer to provide Wes Hall with a home has solved the problem to the satisfaction of everyone. She said today, that he is welcome to remain as long as he wishes to do so.

Hunting Licence Price Increased

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — A series of price increases for hunting licences are provided under an amendment to the Fish and Game Act introduced in the Legislature Wednesday by Lands Minister Scott.

Licences for resident deer hunters are raised from $4 to $5, and for resident moose hunters from $6 to $10. Farmers' deer licences are raised from $4 to $5.

Non-residents hunting bear, fox, game birds, rabbits, raccoon, squirrels and wolves will pay $21 instead of $15.50. A licence covering deer, bear, fox, game birds, raccoon, squirrels and wolves is raised from $25.75 to $36 and the licence covering moose, deer, bear, fox, game birds, rabbits, raccoon, squirrels, and wolves is increased from $75 to $101.

Another change will permit control over persons flown into hunting or fishing grounds, and will let the government designate "hinterland" areas which will be closed for hunting and fishing except to residents of the area.

A five-month extension is provided in the length of time that deer, moose and birds may be kept. Snaring of beaver and shooting and snaring of otter will also be permitted.

Guides now will be held responsible for seeing that members of their party are properly licenced. Kenora district is removed as an area in which non-resident hunters will have to be accompanied by guides; Rainy River remains the only district where this rule applies.

India Making Great Strides Since Gaining Independence

India has made tremendous strides in all phases of social and economic development since attaining independence, Miss K. Rukmini, diplomatic secretary to the Indian High Commissioner to Canada declared Wednesday night.

Addressing the Peterborough branch of the United Nations Association, Miss Rukmini said: "One of the finest features of British-Indian history was the way in which freedom was finally attained." She described the manner in which Britain granted India its freedom as an independent Commonwealth nation as the culmination of a passivist struggle for freedom, democracy and independence.

Miss Rukmini termed "the welding of 500 princely states into a consolidated Indian nation without causing a revolt" the greatest achievement the Indian government has accomplished to date. "Fragmentation ceased to exist almost as soon as we achieved independence four years ago."

End Castes In 10 Years

Referring to the Indian caste system, Miss Rukmini said she does not "envisage that there will be much left of this unfortunate relic of past history in ten years. We took the first opportunity of doing away with it altogether," she said by making the anti-untouchability law the first thing that went into the new constitution. It is now against the law to discriminate against anyone because of caste. Miss Rukmini declared that the disappearance of this "deterrent" to Indian progress will be "the crowning achievement of a social process that started decades ago."

Miss Rukmini explained that the Indian caste system began at a time in India's economic development corresponding to the feudal period in England and Europe. In the earliest stages of economic development of any country, history shows there were the slaves, the serfs and the landlords. This is the accepted social pattern which any society falls into in the earliest stages of its development. It begins as a specialization of labor. She said the caste system began four or five thousand years ago in India. Some devoted their lives to study and the passing on of knowledge to other generations, others became soldiers, concerned with defence. A third class, turned to trade and business, and the remainder of the population worked at agriculture and other forms of labor.

Foreign Domination

This system was in the process of breaking up, Miss Rukimi said, when an "unnatural element" was introduced into the natural process of development. If it had not been for the conquest of India from abroad, the system would have been thrown out centuries ago, she said. "Foreign domination was the shackles which crystallized Indian society in the caste system."

The movement for Indian independence was "two pronged," Miss Rukmini told her audience. There was the desire for political freedom, and secondly, the desire to eliminate social ills which were recognized as a great slur on the civilization of India

When India achieved statehood 85 per cent of the population were illiterate. Miss Rukimi said that the government launched a scheme which in 10 years will result in the entire population of 357 million being able to read and write.

The education program is divided into two sections: primary education for children of from six to 14 and social and adult education for everyone up to 40 years of age.

Adults are subjected to a concentrated educational program of visual aids, films, and mobile libraries and "we are attacking the problem with unprecedented zeal now that we have charge of our own affairs."

The land system is being also overhauled, Miss Rukmini said and land is now being distributed among working agriculturists which was formerly held by absentee landlords. "The government however did not expropriate their holdings without compensation. All the landowners have been promised full compensation" she said.

Irrigation

Annually, India is spending $200 million on irrigation and multi-purpose projects, more than was spent in the 200 years before India obtained her independence.

The multi-purpose projects aid in flood control, irrigate large areas and increase the acreage under cultivation. By 1956, the Indian government hopes to have nine million more acres under cultivation and eventually expects to increase the farming acreage by 16,500,000 acres.

These projects will add 1,100,000 killowatts of electricity to power India's basic industries, Miss Rukmini added. Industrial production in coal, gold, steel, and textiles has zoomed from a production index of 47 per cent in 1947 to 120 per cent in 1951, she said.

Refugee rehabilitation is another important aspect of government activity and four-fifths of the displaced persons evacuated from Pakistan are now settled on co-operative farms, "producing prosperity where none existed before.

Research Helping Out

"Research laboratories are being built and operated, so that the needs of science are not being left behind in the race to solve other problems. India's five year plan for increasing food production and developing its resources will require an expenditure of five billion by 1956 in addition to what India is contributing to the Colombo Plan."

Treasury surpluses are not a phenomenon of the Canadian economy alone, because Miss Rukmini said that India had a 926 million roupee surplus last year. "This gives a fair idea of where the economy is moving," she concluded.

Leo Copp was the chairman of the meeting and introduced Miss Rukmini and thanked her for her talk.

"What's so different about leap year? They do it all the time."

This is the nineteenth picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Bad Weather Holds Unemployment Level

COBOURG, March 27 (ENS) — Bad weather which is holding up work at the ordnance depot is keeping the unemployment level at the present figure of 350, it was revealed by Maurice Booth, manager of the unemployment office here. Local factories are busy and on the whole the lay-offs from factories are fewer than this time last year.

Because of the slow start at the ordnance depot, caused by bad weather, unemployment prevails among many who are in the building trade classifications.

Twenty-five men who had been employed making cement tile up near the ordnance depot, were laid off this week because the balance of the pipes will be made at the factory in Toronto and shipped here.

Cobourg Red Cross 'Blitz' Yields $1,800

COBOURG, March 27 (ENS) — The Red Cross two hour "blitz" of Monday night resulted in $1,800 being collected, which is much better than last year, it was revealed Wednesday by the chairman, Dick Parker. Objective is $5,500. Still remaining is the canvass in the rural sections around Cobourg, which will be postponed for a month until the roads clear up. Not included in the $1,800 are the returns yet to come in from industry and businesses. Eighty took part in the campaign on Monday night.

T.C.A. On Brightest Wing -

Hurrah for Trans-Canada Air Lines! When many of the great transcontinental and transoceanic air line companies of the world are belly-landing on their national governments for subsidies to cover deficits, T.C.A. proudly reports to the Canadian Government, its parent, that it had an operating surplus of $3,890,957 last year. Nor is this a matter of profits from one set of operations balancing deficits on another. On its North American Service (chiefly cross-Canada routes) the surplus was $3,843,728, compared with a surplus of $201,206 in 1950. In its Atlantic service (including Bermuda and the Caribbean services) the surplus was $47,231, compared with a deficit in 1950 of $1,526,412.

* * *

That is the shining financial achievement. In the matter of flying itself, T.C.A.'s record is proud. During the year T.C.A. aircraft flew a daily average of 65,320 aircraft miles, taking passengers, goods and mail over 8,641 miles of North American routes and 8,688 miles of overseas routes. (Incidentally, T.C.A. added last year a direct Montreal-Paris run to its overseas schedules.) All this flying was done with one of the lowest accident rates in the world. The scrupulous and even finicking precautions which T.C.A. takes and enforces, the discipline and experience of its crews, and the absolutely top condition of every machine it puts into the air, have given T.C.A. a world-wide reputation for accident-free flying.

* * *

The growth of T.C.A., its reputation, its service in linking the wide-spread parts of this country, and its excellent overseas routes add pride to the satisfaction one feels with its operating surplus. Well done!

Trivial Canadian Painting?

Some professional as well as amateur critics of Canadian painting profess to find much that is contorted in design, brash in colour and sloppy in technique. This sort of criticism is levelled at modern painting generally, by people whose preference is for traditional conventions. These people say, quite simply, that moderns can't paint. They block in a face or a tree or a background because they do not have the technical ability to set down the details.

Quite another sort of criticism has come from the curator of the University of British Columbia galleries. Mr. Rene Boux, writing in the current issue of Canadian Art, does not condemn Canadian painting because it is or is not modern in convention, but because it is "not good enough". His remarks were directed primarily at the travelling exhibit of the Canadian Group of Painters. His letter is reprinted on this page today.

It is the sharpest condemnation of Canadian painters we have heard from a Canadian who knows something about painting. "Low calibre," "casual product of a Sunday afternoon," "only ten whose work displays a painterly proficiency," "relatively few intense or subtle experiences are conveyed," "bulk of the remainder trivial in conception and inadequate in execution." (Under this last critical phrase he includes well-known names in contemporary Canadian painting—Bieler, Muhlstock, Comfort, Edwin Holgate and others.)

Mr. Boux's condemnation is directed, we repeat, at a travelling exhibit of the Canadian Group of Painters. It is not specifically a criticism of all contemporary Canadian painting. However, the Canadian Group of Painters is supposed to be the first-ranking oil men in the country, and it is their stuff which comes under the B.C. curator's wrath. It is they who painted the pictures and allowed them to go on tour as representing their capacities. As Mr. Boux says, if there are some artists among the group whose work is generally better than the canvasses they are exhibiting in the travelling show, "then they are not exempt from criticism, but the more specifically it is directed at them for their needless contribution to the general disgrace."

Criticism of the arts in Canada has suffered by being too namby-pamby as well as ill-informed. Too often the critics are friends and supporters of the people whose works they are criticising. They therefore praise in puffs and withhold censure where blame is due. We predict that this letter in Canadian Art will raise the brush hairs of half the painters in Canada. We agree with much which Mr. Boux has said. It is time to shake some of our painters out of their complacency built on the over-laid reputation of the Group of Seven (predecessors of the Canadian Group of Painters) and to puncture their esoteric self-propaganda.

A Touchy Subject

We are following with interest a correspondence which has been going on in the Montreal papers on the subject of French as it is spoken in Quebec. It appears that a Parisian Frenchman, having lived in Canada for a month, has said some wounding things about Quebec French; he has stirred up as great a hornet's nest as would an Englishman who went to Glasgow and suggested publicly that the local inhabitants spoke in a dialect. He has been told that the French of Quebec is the French of Corneille and Racine—not, it will be noticed, the French of the wicked Moliere—and that if he finds it difficult to understand it is because his Parisian French is affected.

We are happy to have nothing to say on this point. We can understand spoken French pretty well, but we would not dream of suggesting that anybody's accent was faulty. We understand the French of our Quebec friends because they courteously take pains that we shall do so. But some French-speaking Canadians who are not our friends—casual contacts such as taxi drivers and waiters—address us in a tongue which we find difficulty in identifying as French; we cannot even find the words they use in a dictionary. Perhaps this is the sort of French to which the Parisian visitor referred.

We are all sensitive to criticism of the way we speak; we are all equally determined not to make concessions to the critics. We are all aware that the way in which we speak is an important clue to the kind of people we are; we are all convinced that the way in which we ourselves speak is the way in which all really right-thinking people speak. For some years hints have been heard that the way in which English is spoken in Canada could be improved; now there has been some criticism of our Canadian treatment of French. Both sorts of criticism have been resented, but both have brought this important matter into discussion, and that is a good thing.

In As Much

When, during the war, this newspaper co-operated with Mr. Fred Mann by acting as a receiving office for contributions to the British War Victims' Fund, we became familiar with many of the contributors, personally and through the pseudonyms which they used. The pseudonym which appeared most often was "In As Much"; every month for sixty consecutive months it appeared with a contribution of ten dollars. The anonymity of the donor was fully respected, but now that Mrs. Fred Weir has died we feel impelled to make this public acknowledgement of her generosity toward this cause, which was only one among many to which she gave unobtrusive but very real encouragement. Mrs. Weir was not widely known, and her thirty years in Peterborough were not marked by spectacular events, but she was a woman of unusual quality, and those who knew her best, best understood her worth.

We have commented several times in these columns on the trend of modern charity toward a somewhat open and ostentatious form of giving. Money is not the less welcome to a good cause because it is given accompanied by blasts of trumpets, but there is a special charm and warmth about the giving which is quiet. From an income which was by no means a large one, Mrs. Weir gave six hundred dollars to a single cause; we have no way of knowing the extent of her other charities nor would we think of exposing them if we did know. But we have mentioned this single instance in order to call attention to the goodness of heart of a Peterborough citizen who fully lived up to the spirit which was hinted at in her pseudonym: "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

NOTES AND COMMENT

The custom of referring to politicians by their initials, as with FDR and HST, is supended for obvious reasons in the case of Robert Alphonso Taft.

Marlene Dietrich advises girls to forget the modern "pointed bosom" and go back to what she calls "natural curves." This sort of talk could bring about a slump.

A new method of packing meat is said by its enthusiastic owners to "make turkeys and chickens taste like wine." This is going to cause some rather odd meals, unless the L.C.B.O. can rustle up a table wine that tastes like turkeys and chickens.

Somebody called "a Toronto oil tycoon" gave an interview to the Miami Herald in which he said of Canada that "personal income taxes do not exist, nor are corporation taxes high." That wasn't an oil tycoon; that was an oiled tycoon.

Pawnshops Busy In Detroit

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

DETROIT is not an attractive city, although it is one of the oldest in the United States.

Elderly men whom one may meet in its principal clubs will tell you that it had great charm when it was a minor engineering centre in the Mid-West, with its merchants' Georgian houses facing the narrow strip of water which divides Lake Erie from Lake St. Clair—la Place de Detroit, as the early French voyageurs named it. But they add, "that was before Ford came," and since Ford came fifty years ago Detroit has been the headquarters and the symbol of the second, the American, industrial revolution, as Manchester was of the first one.

HENRY FORD developed the standard component and the assembly line; Walter Chrysler—a more original genius in his way—showed how technological inventiveness could be combined with mass production; the more anonymous progenitors of the giant General Motors Corporation harnessed the initiative of the moderate-sized factory to the economies of central control.

Their monuments are not the broad dingy boulevards which seem to converge to nowhere, or the numerous sooty public parks, but the eight great belching chimneys of the Ford plant at River Rouge, the sprawling cathedrals of the Chrysler works, and the 38,000,000 cars and 8,000,000 trucks at present coursing the roads of America. Though Detroit is the third manufacturing city in the United States and makes many other things besides motor cars, it is the moderately priced car and its engineering auxiliaries, the washing machine, the ice box, and the vacuum cleaner, which are its symbols.

DETROIT took the Second World War in its stride. Car production was shut down, and after an initial period of unemployment and dislocation, while its companies converted themselves to war production, the industry worked at top speed producing by mass-production methods the tanks, planes, guns and ammunition which enabled the United States to move in three years from being the least well armed of the Western Allies to being the senior partner in two major wars in two different hemispheres. After the war, and an equivalent period of dislocation, Detroit returned to its civilian role with equal gusto, working at full speed to supply the pent-up demand of the civilian market, and by 1950 produced the incredible number of 8,000,000 cars and trucks.

But the "Cold War" has presented Detroit—and the planners in Washington—with a problem which neither it nor they know how to solve: how to prepare for a prolonged period of partial rearmament. For having been asked to undertake some rearmament and to maintain some civilian production, the town has acquired a hard core of unemployment which is likely to endure and even increase unless the rearmament programme is altered.

DETROIT is an excellent illustration of the complexity and difficulty of carrying through the kind of programme upon which the American Government has embarked. When the Korean war broke out the United States was confronted not with an actual scarcity of weapons, since it still had a large stock, but with the fact that there were virtually no factories still capable of producing a large quantity of arms at short notice.

The Government decided to produce a limited number of new weapons, particularly those like bombers which take years to make, and to build and equip a set of new factories ready to undertake war production at short notice over and above those producing goods for the civilian market. Because the objective was to purchase not victory in total war but security against the outbreak of total war, it was the only decision that could be taken, for it rightly assumed the existence of an unlimited period of international tension in which the factor of civilian morale was as important as weapons in the hands of the soldiers.

BUT there would not be enough raw materials for several years to permit even limited production of arms and the manufacture of civilian goods at the level at which demand was running in 1950 or even 1951. Therefore, it was planned in Washington that civilian production would be cut back stage by stage as the new defence factories came into operation.

It looked a reasonably tidy plan when it was first drawn up eighteen months ago, but, as far as Detroit is concerned, it has developed serious flaws. The automobile companies reduced civilian production according to plan throughout 1951 until by January of this year unemployment had risen to 105,000, at least 70 per cent, of which was among seasoned and skilled workers. If motor-car production is held to its present figure, unemployment is certain to increase. But an equivalent amount of defence work has not been forthcoming, nor does it seem likely to do so. There are two reasons for this. In the first place, the "Big Three" of the automobile industry have erected most of their new defence plants at a considerable distance from Detroit. Aided by liberal tax rebates for new construction they have scattered their new factories all over the country. Cadillac is making tanks in Cleveland, Ohio. Ford is making aeroplane engines in Chicago and bomber wings in Kansas. Chrysler's new factories are in New Orleans and in Delaware on the east coast.

In the second place the defence contracts that have been placed in Detroit are not employing many men because they are not running at full production. Ford, for instance, which has probably placed more defence work in and around Detroit than the others, laid off 25,000 workpeople between September, 1950, and January, 1952, but has only 2,500 men employed on new war contracts. The reason for this is the unstable reluctance of Washington to order full-scale production on any military item until it is sure that it has found the best design.

THE pawnshops of Detroit are doing good business at the moment. Moreover ten good years have made the American industrial worker as unwilling to be mobile as the British worker—a network of ties, homes owned, trades learnt, children's schooling, company pension schemes, have made him unwilling to pick up his roots and move to one of the new defence factories away from Detroit even if they were crying out for his services.

To Walter Reuther, the able and energetic president of the United Automobile Workers, with their sparking new plate-glass and chromium headquarters on Jefferson-boulevard, the problem is both urgent and far-reaching. Either civilian production must be adjusted to take up the sag in employment wherever it occurs, or the United States must reconsider its unemployment and welfare legislation.

In the end, next November's election will probably come to the rescue of Detroit. Unemployed voters are not easy to please, and there is plenty that the Federal Government could do, by adjusting civilian production limits or defence contracts, to take up the slack if it is prepared to gerrymander its original plans a little. The general shortage of raw materials is rapidly easing, but that will only delay and will not solve what may prove to be the central problem of the American economy for a generation to come—how to remain prepared for war without endangering the fruits of peace.

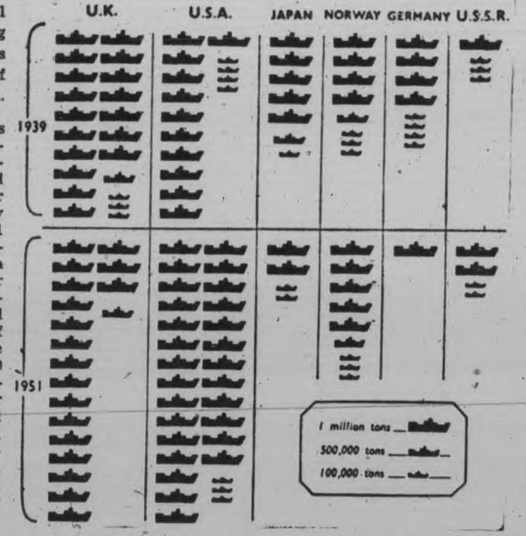
Merchant Shipping by Bip Pares

The world's total merchant shipping of 87.2 million tons now exceeds that of 1939 by 25 million.

Shipbuilding is also being undertaken at a remarkable rate, and Lloyd's Register Annual Summary shows that in 1951 world ship construction reached a record figure, over a third of it launched from United Kingdom yards. Of this British tonnage 45 per cent. (100 ships) was for export, while 62 per cent. is accounted for by oil tankers, many for Norwegian Registration. Germany doubled her production for 1950.



The United States post-war merchant fleet of 32 million tons, now decreased to 27 million, is still the world's greatest. Some ex-United States vessels now sail under Liberian and Panamanian flags for United States interests.

Canadian Paintings Not Good Enough

(LETTER IN "CANADIAN ART" MAGAZINE)

Dear Sir: After a three week visit to the galleries of Los Angeles, one of my first jobs on returning to the gallery at the University of British Columbia was to hang the travelling exhibition of the Canadian Group of Painters.

Probably no one will thank me for my gratuitous comments on Canadian art, but the slight objectivity gained on vacation found me provoked into a particularly vicious mood by the low calibre of this show.

Frankly it is just not good enough; not at all. This is the annual exhibition of a group which should contain the best we have in Canada. The public has a right to expect that each artist will contribute a major work, if indeed he has produced one in the preceding year. Scarcely a third of the paintings in this show qualify as such and far too many of them suggest the casual product of a Sunday afternoon.

Of the thirty-seven painters represented there are perhaps a round ten whose work displays a painterly proficiency. (Among these I would include B. C. Binning, Fritz Brandtner, Cosgrove, E. J. Hughes, J. L. Shadbolt, William Winter and Hawley Yarwood). And even here in this select group we-over-value competency because of its premium, even when relatively few intense or subtle experiences are conveyed.

The bulk of the remainder are trivial in conception and inadequate in execution. They range from the slick formulae of Bieler and Comfort, through student-level works of Schaefer, Muhlstock and Humphrey, stiffly contrived modernites of Edwy Cooke, R. K. Courtice and Marian Scott, to the utter boredom department of Kathleen Morris and Edwin Holgate, down to a smattering of work like Ethel Seath's Shell Rhythms which is so hopelessly disorganized one wonders how it got past a jury.

We see too little of the work of eastern artists to categorize from this basis. It is difficult to know how much the exhibition has suffered from culling and substitution for travelling purposes. If the original exhibition had a standard it is the responsibility of the National Gallery to maintain it in the selection they send out on the road. If there are some artists whose work is generally better than here indicated, then they are not exempt from criticism, but the more specifically is it directed at them for their needless contribution to the general disgrace.

Yours truly,
RENE D. F. BOUX,
Curator, The University Art Galleries,
University of British Columbia.

The Brain Of A Boy

(Windsor Star)

When a cat climbed a large acacia tree in Paris, France, nobody knew how to get it down. Policemen, firemen, tree specialists, a trapeze artist and a spiritualist medium stood chattering among themselves, trying to solve the situation, when a youngster arrived.

Sizing up the situation at a glance, he simply shinnied up the tree and pushed the cat down in front of him, while the assembled brain and brawn watched him in wonder. Which again illustrates the natural ingenuity of a boy.

This recalls the old but true story of a transport truck which got stuck in a highway underpass because the ceiling was just slightly too low. All manner of efforts to pry the truck loose had failed when a small lad, who had been a silent spectator, spoke up. He suggested letting some air out of the tires and backing the truck out. None had ever thought of such an easy solution.

Never under-estimate the ability of a boy to think up ideas.

Television Distance

(Edinburgh Scotsman)

Experts believe that, when the five-kilowatt stand-by (TV) transmitter at Kirk o' Shotts, Lanarkshire, is replaced by the main transmitter of 50 kilowatts—the most powerful in the world—an indoor aerial will give satisfactory reception in most districts within a radius of about 25 miles.

Low-power test transmissions from Scotland's first television station have indicated that the B.B.C.'s estimate of its range—about 50 miles—will be greatly exceeded.

The fears of municipal authorities and property owners that a forest of H-shaped aerials will spring up on the roof-tops are likely to prove unfounded. At distances of between 25 and 40 miles from the transmitter, all that may be necessary is a single dipole, so-called because it is divided at the centre, from which connections are taken to the receiver.

Death At The Falls

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

The interesting of matter-of-fact reports of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests sometimes contain an element of tragedy. For instance the story of the water-fowl destroyed by Niagara Falls.

Sleep traps the birds. Settling for the night on the quiet upper reaches of the river, they gradually drift down the stream. Their wings could lift them from danger in an instant, but in their heavy sleep they drift near the brink.

Some awake in time, and fly away. Others hear the roar of the falls just as the sheet of green water turns downward. The feeble strength of the bird is useless to counter the downward rush.

During the past Winter some scores of waterfowl have drowned in this strange manner.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Take fast hold of instruction; let her not go: keep her; for she is thy life . . My son, attend to my words; incline thine ear unto my sayings. Let them not depart from thine eyes; keep them in the midst of thine heart. For they are life unto those that find them, and health to all their flesh. (Prov. 4: 13, 20-22.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick. (Matt. 14: 14.)

Then he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick . . . And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where . . .

And the apostles, when they were returned, told him all that they had done. And he took them, and went aside privately into a desert place belonging to the city called Bethsaida. And the people, when they knew it, followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God, and healed them that had need of healing. (Luke 9: 1, 2, 6, 10, 11.)

Woman Finds Public, Home Life Agree

(From the Montreal Gazette)

Town of Mount Royal Alderman Joan Storey, by far one of Canada's prettier politicians, sees no reason for public life interfering in the family and domestic life of a woman.

Mrs. Storey is up for re-election as town alderman April 1 and expects to give birth to her second child two weeks later. Her first child, Stephanie, is three.

Thirty-year-old Mrs. Storey, who hopes to have a family of four, finds municipal politics and home life completely compatible. More so, she adds, than any kind of business career because "all my interests are concentrated in my own community".

Women, Mrs. Storey contends, are capable of handling the dual role of politics and home making.

"After all the men aldermen hold two jobs", she says "although I will admit few of them have to worry about baby sitters."

But this isn't too much of a worry either, according to Mrs. Storey, as aldermen are warned of meetings at least 48 hours in advance or "in plenty of time for a woman alderman to find a baby sitter!"

"Women in their thirties have more time to devote to municipal affairs than their husbands", Mrs. Storey contends "as men are too busy making their mark in the business world during this period."

"It never occurred to me not to run again", the expectant mother says.

Her husband, Donald Storey, a mechanical engineer, is her best "ally" Mrs. Storey says.

"He doesn't think housekeeping is a full-time job and is proud of my interest in municipal affairs. I have talked to men who say they certainly wouldn't allow their wives to enter public life but Don doesn't share their sentiments."

A 1942 McGill graduate in arts, Ald. Storey has worked with the Foreign Exchange Control Board and subsequently was named economist to the Commodity Price Stabilization Corporation in Ottawa.

Buddhist Temples Dominate Bangkok, City Of Religion

By BILL BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand, March 27 —(CP)—Sunset is Bangkok's big moment.

Gilt spires and minarets glow and against the scarlet sky the multi-gabled roofs of 400 Buddhist temples glisten as though studded with precious stones. From towering Wat Arun—temple of the dawn —it is a spectacle that takes the breath.

This is a city of religion. Besides the Buddhist temples there are half as many Mohammedan Mosques, Chinese temples, Hindu shrines, and 20 Christian churches, all working side by side and in peace.

The dominant influence is Buddhist. All Buddhist temples are under Royal patronage, built either from the Privy purse or by popular subscription headed by the King.

Some are large, others small. Some are beautiful, others shoddy. Some are spotlessly maintained, others dirty.

But they have points in common.

Siamese like their architecture to culminate in fingers pointing to the sky. The peak of every gable on every temple ends in a Naga, the snake-like God of rain, its head upraised.

Brick and Plaster

Sunset impressions notwithstanding, materials used in the construction of the wats (temples) are usually ordinary brick and plaster, with miniature tiles and even porcelain worked into mosaic for ornament. Apart from the magnificent marble temple and the temple of the emerald Buddha within the grounds of the Royal palace, this applies to all.

Even impressive Wat Arun, a 220-foot tower of brick and plaster, is surfaced with porcelain plates, cups, bowl fragments and even complete tea services set together upside down in the plaster.

The longest Buddha in the world —the sleeping Buddha in Wat Po, 200 feet long—is a brick monument moulded in plaster and covered with gold leaf.

Because of their flimsy construction, constant repairs are needed to keep the buildings in order.

At Wat Arun priests regularly scale the towers barefoot, without ropes or other safety devices, to "wash the dishes."

The Wats are not only centres for prayer and meditation but also for social gatherings. Children play in the grounds. There are social events in the temples on service days. Talking is in normal tones and laughter is not unheard.

Some house relics, such as Wat Arun's copy of Buddha's footprint. It is in a separate chapel, carved in stone. From toes to heel it measures more than five feet.

Temples are built for other purposes, too. They may be monasteries, schools, colleges or hospitals. Most also are boarding houses for students from country districts. There is no charge to the boys, who live with the priests and share their food.

Returning To Nigeria, Speaks At Havelock

HAVELOCK, March 27 (ENS)—A missionary in Nigeria for four years and on furlough in Canada since last June, Miss Edna Menzies of Beatty, Sask., will leave April 5 to resume her duties in Africa.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Menzies of Beatty; her father came originally from South Lake in the Havelock district.

With her brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Roy Menzies of Peterborough, Miss Menzies spent the weekend with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Menzies, and other relatives in Havelock and Peterborough.

Miss Menzies spoke Sunday evening in the Pentecostal Tabernacle, illustrating her address with slides.

Petes Dump Kingston 10-6 For Fourth In Row To Capture Group Honors

Flashing some fancy hockey in the last two frames in Kingston last night, the Petes downed the Sacs 10-6 to sweep their O.H.A. senior "B" group finals in four straight games. They expect to move into provincial semi-finals right away against Stouffville, and should have word on it today. Slightly more than 1,300 fans viewed the fray last evening and had little to cheer about after the first period when Kingston jumped into a 3-2 lead. The Ellis squad roared back for a 6-1 edge in the middle heat to make it 8-4 going into the third. Play was more even again in that windup stanza, each side potting a pair. The losers crowded around afterwards to congratulate the group champions after a clean and decisive series.

It Took Time

It took the classy Petes nearly all the first frame to find their legs again on the large ice surface of Kingston's swell arena. After that, they settled down to play in their usual form with fast passing combinations, hard close-in thrusts and persistent backchecking and blue-line guarding before ace goaltending. The homesters fought back again in the third but couldn't whittle down that margin. They had led 3-1 at one time in the first heat but that shot their bolt. The winners drew four of the six penalties.

Curly Mason was an absentee owing to an injured foot, Chum Fryia is still out but about ready to return, and Ron Horton is out for the rest of the season with his injured knee. Several of the players suffered minor bumps and bruises in some stiff checking in spots, but there were no casualties.

Two Goals Each

Two-goal stars for the champs were rookie Bill Stewart, George Steele and Freddy Garvey, with other snipers being Gus Leonard, Arn Dugan, Junior West and Red Robinson. The latter junior also came up with two assits in a fine effort, Red Peters, Gus and Earl Leonard and Arn Dugan each having a pair of assits, also. West and Steele added an assist apiece to their bag. It was a team effort, the whole squad going well both ways and getting tops in net-minding from Ray Harding once more.

Kingston goals were by Sammy Mulholland, Stan Stewart, Clint Tinkess, Cliff Aitken, Joe Catlin and Bud Goodfellow. Two assists each went to Chevrefils and MacGregor, with singles marked to Goodfellow, White, Murray, Tinkess, Larmer and Mulholland. The K's labored lustily all the way but were out-classed. Sonny MacDonald didn't have too much protection on those that beat him.

A Quick One

Bill Stewart opened scoring in slightly more than half a minute on a nifty bit of in-close combination with Robinson and Dugan, slapping a fast one by MacDonald. White was robbed as play was fast and fairly even. Latimer returned from a cross-checking penalty and Goodfellow cuffed home a rebound from Mulholland and Larmer at the crease edge with Harding down from one stop. A rush by Aitken and White was close, and then West, Gus Leonard and Steele pulled a fancy-dan passing play that almost wound up in the cage. Catlin got in from the side on a fast rush with MacGregor and Tinkess to tally for a 2-1 lead. Robinson and Dugan pulled a nice rush, but Aitken made it 3-1 by backhanding home a passout on a play with Murray and White. Steele got that back near the close with a slap shot on a passout built up by West and Earl Leonard.

Filed It On

The Petes rolled in the second. Gus Leonard opened when he hoisted Steele's forward pass into the hemp. Dugan took Robinson's passout and dipsy-doodled around with the goalie down till he could lift it cleanly past another player into the goal. Tinkess slapped in a corner passout from Chevrefils and Goodfellow with Ray out, and the latter came out again to rob MacGregor. A Steele-G. Leonard thrust was close, and West blazed in an angle drive from Gus Leonard on a feed-up by Earl Leonard with but one man to beat. Wade was back from an interference penalty when Bill Stewart got loose on a long breakaway and made no misatke as he steamed one high to Sonny's left, his weakness. Robinson added another on a fast side rush by Dugan and hot shot which hit the post and trickled in. It cost Goodfellow a misconduct for arguing a man was in the crease. West went over later for holding.

K's Kept Trying

Garvey made it 9-4 in the third on a rebound from Peters' angle backhander. Earl Leonard was off for hooking when Stewart sizzled one into the oven after some fine stickwork up by Chevrefils. Earl returned and Mulholland kept jabbing away in a close-in scramble with MacGregor till the puck slithered across. They kept pressing for a space as play speeded up again, but Garvey wrapped up the tallying at 12.10 when he stole the puck cleanly from Mulholland at K's blue line and romped right in to flip it through the spread-eagled MacDonald. A rush by Robinson and Stewart nearly notched one more. Dugan went over for a bit of high-sticking and Wade missed on a breakaway. Harding was hopping but holding Kingston out at the gong. Teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and E. Leonard; centre, Robinson; wings, Stewart and Dugan; alternates, Peters, Wade, G. Leonard, West, Steele, Garvey, Floyd and Collins.

Kingston: Goal, MacDonald; defence, Stewart and Bender; centre, MacGregor; wings, Mulholland and Larmer; alternates, Murray, White, Aitken, Catlin, Tinkess, Chevrefils, Latimer and Goodfellow.

Referees: L. Lecompte and W. Holway.

A JUNIOR STAR — Bill Stewart, up from the Oddfellows, scored two goals for Petes in Kingston last night as they took the senior "B" group title in their fourth straight. Another junior, Red Robinson (picture not available), counted one and helped on two more in this game.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Boston Bruins have been in Stanley Cup playoffs in 23 of the 28 years they've been in the National Hockey League. And Art Ross managed every one of these teams. Bruins won the cup in 1929, 1939 and 1941. This is the third playoff series in a row for Coach Lynn Patrick of Boston. Big Dit Clapper was prominent for many years with Boston teams in playoffs as a starry forward, later an ace defenceman, and finally coach before he retired to the hockey sidelines. George (Red) Sullivan saw action in playoffs last year when brought up at the last from the A.H.L., and this spring he is a full-fledged member of the Bruins in the big money series.

* * * * * *

Montreal Canadiens are making their 22nd appearance in the cup playoffs. They won the silverware in 1930, 1931, 1944 and '46. Won it back in '24, too, before the expansion of the N.H.L. Dick Irvin has coached 22 Stanley Cup teams, winning three times, once at Toronto and twice in Montreal. Frank Selke has managed the Habs to the playoffs in five of the six years he has been at the helm there. The French-Canadian pucksters have a large following and draw well all around the circuit. They were dubbed "the Flying Frenchmen" in the great years of Morenz et al.

Stanley Cup Facts

Podner, there's gold in them thar spills. The spills and thrills of Stanley Cup playoffs. Yet the largest attendance in the series was back in 1945 when 247,805 spectators paid their way into 20 games. Canadiens, Toronto, Detroit and Boston were in the sawoffs then as they are this year. Longest overtime game went 116 minutes and 30 second, and the latest date for a game was April 23, 1950, at Detroit. All five games in last year's finals betwixt Canadiens and Leafs went into overtime. First U.S.A. team to take the cup was Seattle in 1913. American teams have won it 13 times, a dozen times since the N.H.L. was formed in 1917. Just a few interesting angles on play for this historic hockey mug.

Secretary Jack Christie will be down from Toronto tonight to present the A. A. Morrison Trophy to the O.M.H.A. bantam "B" champs. Brampton and Otonabee Wolves battle it out at 8:30 this e'en in Civic Arena in the third and deciding joust of the titular round. They drew 900 fans last week when Brampton won to sew things up, and another hefty district and city crowd will probably view the windup this p.m. Al Watkins of the O.M.H.A. is convener for the series. This one wraps up minor puck play in the district after a long and successful season.

Senior Group Victors

Group champs in four straight, that's the Petes. Wrapped it up last night in Kingston with a 10-6 win o'er the K's and now go against Stouffville Clippers. Trailed in the first frame but roared back for a big edge in the middle chukker, and held their own against a late drive by Kingston to win handily. Losers congratulated them after a one-sided but pretty clean series. Jim Ellis' outfit looked solid again from the goalie out, and are certainly proving hard to stop. Two juniors, Bill Stewart and Red Robinson, as well as young Red Peters—from the Motor City—are aiding them in their drive toward a provincial senior "B" puck title. Steele, Gus Leonard, Dugan West, Garvey and Earl Leonard were all prominent on the attack, and the rest showed class, too. Wade really flew once to catch a K's breakaway. A lot of class to that club.

* * * * * *

So, it's Stouffville Clippers vs. the Petes at 8:30 tomorrow (Friday) night in Civic Arena. First of best-of-seven provincial senior "B" semi-finals. Second game about Tuesday in Stouffville and possibly third one there, too—depending on a toss tomorrow. With the O.H.A. taking a 15 percent cut off the top from here in, as well as increased pay to refs, and the longer trips looming, the club is hoisting prices a bit. And no one should complain of that in provincial playdowns. The club is well in the hole yet, but did not jack prices in group playoffs, winning both series as quickly as possible. Can't say how good the Clippers are till we see them as they've been playing up Orillia and Collingwood way, but (like Markham) they use a lot of Toronto players. This important Friday night provincial playoff should pack the local arena.

Tommy Tindal Wins Top Player Award

BROCKVILLE, March 27 (CP) —Ray Miron, president of New York-Ontario Hockey League, announced Wednesday that Tommy Tindal is the league's selection for this year's most valuable player award.

Tindal, Gananoque "Gans" forward, wins the trophy in its first year of competition.

Selection was made by the coaches of the five teams in the league. Greg Batt of Clinton, N. Y., was second choice and Ralph Hurley of Brockville, third.

Harrington Wins Tilson Trophy

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Bill Harrington, goalkeeper for Kitchener Greenshirts, is the eighth winner of the Albert Red Tilson Memorial Trophy awarded annually to the player regarded as the most valuable in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Twelve sportswriters in the 10 cities represented in O.H.A. Junior A competition voted in the selection.

The trophy perpetuates the memory of Tilson who played junior hockey in Regina and Oshawa before he was killed on active service with the Canadian army.

Second was Ken Laufman, centre for Guelph Biltmores. Thirteen players were named on the 12 ballots but Harrington was the only player to receive three first-place votes.

Following Harrington and Laufman in order of voting points were: Ken Wharram and Pete Conacher of Galt Black Hawks; Andy Bathgate of Guelph Biltmores; Danny Poland of Toronto Marlboros; Bud Boone and Frank Martin of St. Catharines Teepees; Bob Shropshire of Oshawa Generals; Bob Brown of Windsor Spitfires; Ed Chadwick and Bob Sabourin of Toronto St. Michael's and Chuck Lumsden of Marlboros.

Previous winners of the award were: Glen Hall, Spitfires, 1950-51; George Armstrong Marlboros, 1949-50; Gil Mayer, Flyers, 1948-49; George Armstrong, Stratford, 1947-48; Ed Sandford, Toronto St. Michael's, 1946-47; Tod Sloan, Toronto St. Michael's, 1945-46; Doug McMurdy, St. Catharines, 1944-45.

Biltmores Wallop St. Catharines 8-4 To Deadlock Playoffs

By The Canadian Press.

The question to be decided tonight is: can St. Catharines Teepees make a comeback from an 8-4 beating?

Guelph Biltmores administered the trouncing Wednesday night at St. Catharines, deadlocking the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finals 1-1. The Biltmores outplayed Teepees after the first five minutes of the game.

But the St. Catharines team has surprised the league before. After finishing sixth in the 10-team loop, they came back to win a semi-final series with Kitchener Greenshirts.

At one point in Wednesday night's game, three Guelph men were in the penalty box, but St. Catharines players couldn't muster the strength to balance the score.

The shots-on-goal tabulation tell the story—Teepees just didn't shoot often enough. Guelph shot 41 times for eight goals and St. Catharines 22 times for four goals.

Guelph scored four goals in the first period, with Stewart, Ron Murphy, Chuck Henderson and Bill McCreary putting in the shots. St. Catharines' Al Kellogg scored one.

In the second period Chuck Marshall and Gordy Myles put in two for St. Catharines and Henderson and Andy Bathgate did the same for Guelph.

Guelph widened its lead in the third period with goals by Dean Prentice and Bill Chalmers against a singleton by St. Catharines' Pierre Pilote.

Turk Broda May Appear For Last Time In Playoffs

DETROIT, March 27. (CP)—Pudgy Walter (Turk) Broda, one of hockey's great goalkeepers who has been around in the big time since the 1936-37 season—apart from a stint in the Canadian armed forces—may make his farewell appearance here tonight. That's the gossip going the rounds as Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings get set for round two of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals. If Managing Director Conn Smythe of the Leafs decides that this is the time to use Turk, it will mark his 100th appearance in a playoff game.

Smythe made a promise before a sell-out crowd at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens last Dec. 22—"Turk Broda night" that the weighty netminder, replaced by Al Rollins midway through the 1951-52 season, would be in a playoff game before he hung up his gear. "And I've never broken a promise yet," the Leaf official said Wednesday night.

And if he goes tonight Broda, three times Vezina Trophy winner, will be on the spot. The Wings took the semi-final opener 3-0 in a battling, bruising game that set a record for penalties in a Stanley Cup game—29—and Toronto desperately needs this one.

Out Practicing

Broda, now a weighty 202 pounds compared with his best playing weight of around 190, was out practicing with the Leafs Wednesday and this led to speculation that Smythe, trying to get a winning combination, may decide to use him. Broda was in the Leaf nets only once this National Hockey League season—for half the schedule windup game at Chicago last Sunday.

Detroit, N.H.L. champions for the fourth straight season, is favored to take a two-game edge in the series before a crowd of more than 14,000 at Olympia Stadium.

Two years ago the Leafs and Wings started out with a game reminiscent of Tuesday's. Altogether 20 penalties were called in that contest. And Detroit's Gordie Howe went to the hospital in critical condition and required a delicate brain operation to save him.

The pace didn't slacken in the second game with 19 penalties called. League president Clarence Campbell ordered an end to the rough stuff and only three penalties were called in the third game.

No Edict Yet

Campbell said Wednesday he planned no such edict yet for this series.

This is the 13th straight year that Detroit has reached the playoffs—equivalent of baseball's world series. But in that time they've won only two Stanley Cups, in 1943 and 1950.

One personnel change is certain for tonight's game. Referee Bill Chadwick, who handled the Tuesday game, will be replaced—routine in the playoffs—and the choice is expected to be George Gravel.

Both teams go into the game in good physical shape. They are almost halfway to the record total of 61 penalties for one playoff series, set a year ago by Toronto and Boston in the semi-finals.

Experts Think White Sox Team To Watch

By BOB MYERS.

TUCSON, Ariz., March 27 (AP)—For 41 days Chicago White Sox held the lead in the American League last year.

The Sox may not hold it as long this season, but there are those with the club who believe they'll hold the lead when it counts—meaning the final day.

Much of the optimism is based on the point that Paul Richards is the manager, tactician and brains of the outfit. He worked a small miracle in setting the Sox ablaze and into fourth place in his freshman year as a major league manager.

Most critics think Richards has a stronger club this year.

The principal strengthening efforts were aimed at third base this winter. The White Sox obtained a star from the International League, Hector Rodriguez, to fill the gap. Rodriguez, 31, hit .302 and stole 26 bases for Montreal, as well as driving in 95 runs.

Richards cut Bob Dillinger loose and presumably is going along with Rodriguez, with utility man San Dente from the Senators on hand to back him up.

Catching Improved

Richards' catching is improved too with the acquisition of Sherman Lollar from the Browns to share the job with veteran Phil Masi.

The pitching should be adequate and deep, if not star-studded. Saul Rogovin, Bill Pierce, Ken Holcombe and Chuck Stobbs stand out. And able relief is to be expected from Luis Aloma or Harry Dorigh.

The infield, aside from third, is excellent. Eddie Robinson at first, Nellie Fox at second and Chico Carrasquel at short are fixtures, ranging from Robinson's power hitting to Fox's slashing offence and fine defence, and Carrasquel's brilliance at short.

Big gun of the outfield is Orestes Minoso. The American League "rookie of the year" from Cuba powered the ball for .326, second high in the league.

Three Papers Drop Racing Results

NEW ORLEANS, March 27 — (AP)—Complying with a police request, New Orleans' three newspapers Wednesday discontinued publication of horse race results, selections and entries.

But the Sports Bulletin, a New Orleans race publication published six days a week, was on sale with all the racing information.

Police superintendent Joseph L. Scheuering said he had not asked the Sports Bulletin to discontinue publication of race information. He said:

"Racing information is their life blood, and if I were to ask them not to publish this information I would be asking them to go out of business."

By JACK HAND.

PLANT CITY, Fla., March 27 (AP).—"This is it. No use kidding anybody. It's now or never."

Joe Page sat on the rubbing table in the Syracuse clubhouse.

You remember Joe Page. Old Fireman Joe—the gay reliever—toast of New York in 1947 and again in 1949.

For the first time in his life Joe is outside the New York Yankee organization.

There is no more hope of recall by the Yanks. For the move that brought him to Syracuse from Kansas City was an outright sale, conditioned only by make good—or else.

"I was up in Maine for three months," said the 34-year-old Page. "Hunting, wood-chopping, hoping the shoulder would stop aching. But it didn't. Even when I got back home about New Year's it still hurt.

"I was going to give it up altogether. My wife said I might as well give it a try. So I came down a week ago.

"I don't know whether it's the hot weather but the arm feels good. I haven't cut loose yet but I threw batting practice for 15 minutes and it felt good. I've got all the confidence in the world that it'll come around with a lot of hard work."

SPLENDID SPLINTER SLAMS ONE — Ted Williams is getting in all the baseball he can before he reports to the Marines. Here the large Red Sox outfielder doubles off the right-field wall to drive in a run against Brooklyn in a Spring exhibition game at Miami. Catcher Roy Campanella and Umpire Bill Grieve follow the flight of the ball. Boston won, 5-2.

Curt Simmons Coming Home to Join Phils

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 27 (AP).—Pitching ace Curt Simmons is coming home from the army—and with that announcement the chances of a second National League pennant in 37 years for Philadelphia Phillies went skyrocketing today.

Manager Eddie Sawyer and owner Bob Carpenter said they were notified the slim, dark-haired southpaw would be sent to a port of embarkation in Europe about April 1.

Sawyer immediately began speculating that Simmons might be ready to start the Phillies' season opener against Boston Braves at Philadelphia's Shibe Park on April 18.

"Once he's out of the army," said Sawyer, "it will be only a short time before Simmons is ready to pitch. His youth, the fact that he pitched considerable ball last year and always has kept himself in the best of shape, should enable him to pitch 10 days after his discharge."

Word that Simmons was on his way back to the team, gave the Phillies new life and started training camp talk of the club's pennant chances.

Curt's value to the club was amply shown at the end of the 1950 season.

After Curt donned an army uniform, the Phillies went into a tailspin. They finally squeezed into the pennant on the last day of the season. And last season — without Simmons—they slipped to fifth.

The return of the young southpaw—Simmons will be 23 in May —will give the Phillies one of the strongest hurling staffs in the National League.

Robin Roberts has been showing signs in spring training of repeating his 20-game winning performance of last season. Russ Meyer—picked by Sawyer before the Simmons news as his second starter—is expected to better his past record.

Sawyer also has for good measure veteran Howie Fox, Bubba Church, rookie Steve Ridzik, Karl Drews, Ken Heintzelman and reliefer Jim Konstanty—also showing vast improvement over 1951.

Smiths Falls Loses

Ottawa Senators Wednesday night defeated Smiths Falls Rideaus 9-8 in a benefit game. Proceeds of the game went to Stu Smith, former Senators star whose farm home recently was levelled by fire. He received a cheque for $1,000.

Swim Opening Feature

The annual 10-mile men's swim will be an opening day feature of the Canadian National Exhibition Aug. 22, the C.N.E. sports committee decided Wednesday. The committee approved the usual $5,000 first prize. The women's distance swim will be held Aug. 27.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

The Illinois State Athletic Commission refused to issue a boxing manager's licence Wednesday to Frank Blinky Palermo and continued his suspension pending further investigation. Palermo asked the hearing in hope he could be cleared in time to be in the corner of his fighter, Ike Williams in a bout with Chuck Davey at Chicago. Williams, former world's lightweight champion, suffered a technical knockout in the fifth round of the scheduled 10-rounder. Davey is undefeated in 32 pro fights.

McMaster University has again applied for membership in the Intercollegiate Senior Football League, athletic director Ivor Wynne said yesterday at Hamilton. The application will be considered at a meeting in Toronto Saturday. McMaster applied last year but was turned down.

Wynne said if the application is turned down again McMaster has four alternatives: continuing in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, returning to the intercollegiate intermediate ranks, playing only exhibition games or possibly dropping out of football.

Edmonton Mercurys, Canadian Olympic hockey champions, were beaten 7-2 Wednesday night by Harringay Racers at London.

Howard Leslie of Saint John and Allan McFater of Toronto were matched Wednesday for the main bout of a professional fight card Monday night at Hamilton.

Football referees are in for a rough time this year in Argentina's Corboda Province. A new police code says the whistle tooters will be liable to seven days in jail and a fine if they are "guilty of partiality or negligence" which leads to incidents in the field. The code failed to mention who would judge.

Word from St. Petersburg, Fla., is that American League umpires have declared open season on balkers in 1952. For years some lefthanded baseball pitchers have been able to get away with a pawing half step between first and the plate. Now they have to step directly toward first if they're going to throw to the base.

French swimmers claimed a record of three minutes, 9.6 seconds Wednesday for the 300-metre Medley relay. Russian swimmers held the old mark at 3:11.1 set in 1951.

Ringside seats and centre mezzanine locations for the Sugar Ray Robinson-Rocky Graziano middleweight championship fight at the Chicago Stadium April 16 will cost $20. The Illinois Athletic Commission Wednesday approved the seat sale for the 15-round bout. Second balcony seats will cost $5.

Phariza, a 33-1 longshot, breezed home Wednesday to win the one-mile Lincolnshire Handicap. The winner, owned by C. Olliff-Lee, won by 1½ lengths from Streatley, 40-1, with La Princesse, a 22-1 chance, third. The winner's purse was $7,578.

CUTS HEAD ON STAIRS
Three-year-old Terrance Blewett of Lakefield, fell on the stairs while playing in his home Wednesday morning and cut his head. He was taken to Civic hospital in Peterborough for treatment.

FALL FRACTURES HIP
Mrs. William Welsh, 68 of Lakefield, was taken to Civic hospital in Peterborough for treatment on Wednesday afternoon, after she fell on the ice and fractured her hip.

COUNCIL MEETS
Northumberland and Durham Counties Council will open its spring session in Cobourg on April 1. This is in line with the Council's decision in January to hold four sittings annually instead of three.

COMMUNITY FUND
Latest total released by the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign office is $82,337. The divisions totals are: industrial, $36,150; retail, $15,214; special names, $23,350; women's, $6,977.

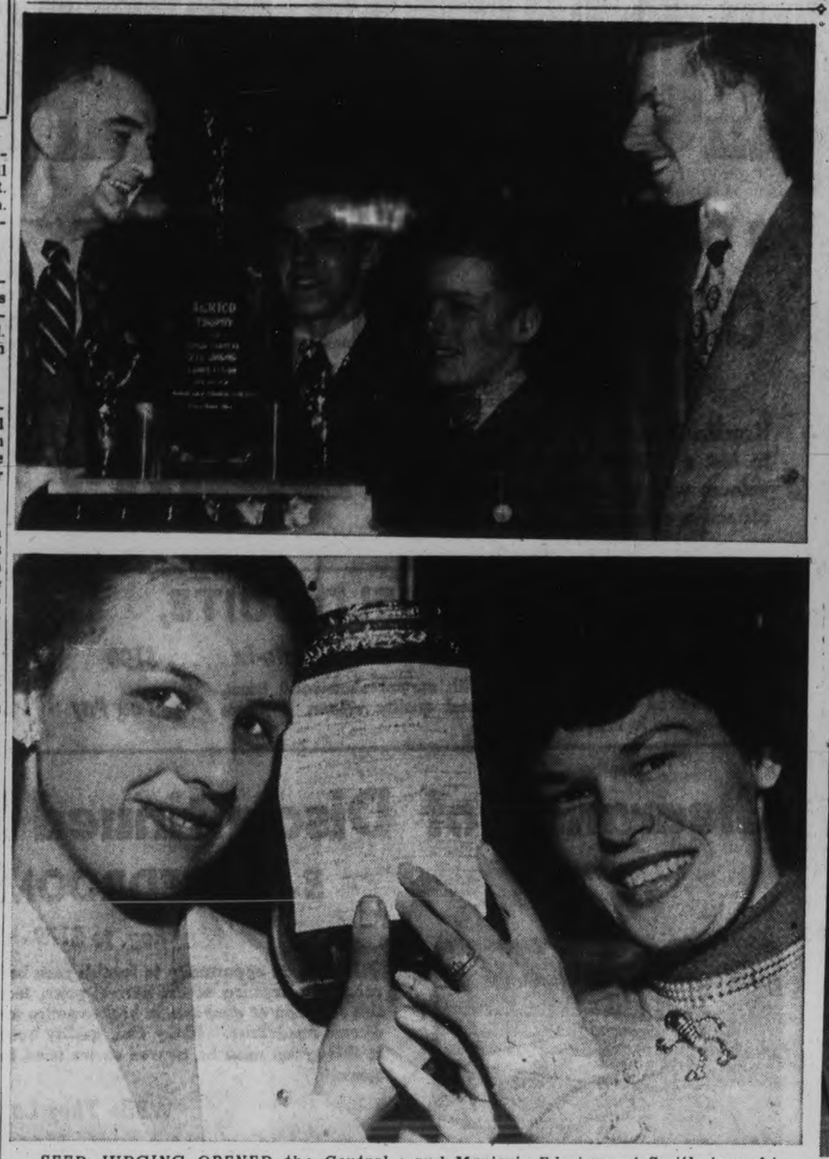
CATCHES FINGER IN SAW
Walter Eddy, 30, Warkworth, caught a finger in a circular saw while cutting wood Wednesday afternoon. He was taken to Civic hospital in Peterborough for treatment and his condition is described as satisfactory today.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS
The funeral for James Charter Harrison, 733 George St. N., who died suddenly Wednesday, will be held Friday at 3 p.m. from the Nisbett funeral home. The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

POINTS ON NIGHT PHOTOGRAPHY
Members of the Peterborough Camera Club viewed 50 black and white slides illustrative of night photography problems on Tuesday night at their club rooms. This was followed by a small showing of color slides. Next Tuesday evening A. J. Chessar will demonstrate lighting for general photographic purposes.

DISTRICT LIONS MEET
Lions Clubs from Bowmanville, Oshawa, Norwood and other points in the district met Wednesday night at the Empress Hotel for their quarterly zone advisory meeting. They compared various methods of solving club problems. Chairman was deputy district governor Charles Knox, of Newcastle.

150 HOME MADE PIES
Junior Farmers received today 150 pies from the women of nine of the Peterborough Forums. That was replenishing their cupboard for the refreshment booth at the Spring Show. As extra special stock it should carry through today, even with an expected big house for the concert and square dancing competition tonight.



SEED JUDGING OPENED the Central Ontario Spring Show on Wednesday afternoon at Morrow Park drill hall and attendance was good in spite of poor weather. Three Durham County Junior Farmers won top points in seed judging and are shown receiving the Agricole Trophy (top left) photo, from M. J. Daignealt, of Port Hope; they are (left to right) Keith Van Camp, Merrill Brown and Ray McHolm. The most apparent display, because of its odor, was grass sileage but in capped jars it could be examined close-up; in (lower left) photo Junior Farmers Jean Bolton of Douro (left) and Marjorie Edmison of Smith township, hold a lethal jar between them. The seriousness of seed judging (upper right photo) is shown as district supervisor of Plants Products Division N. D. MacKenzie, Toronto, works with a reading glass; Agricultural Representative Stewart Bowman of Peterborough (left) and Douglas Wright of Bowmanville watch him.. In (lower right) photo, "Ag Rep" Frank Paterson of Peterborough (left) is shown at the large bagged seed exhibit with Dr. J. D. McLachlan, president of O.A.C., Guelph, who officially opened the show, and Mayor Hugh Waddell. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

IUE Fails In Third Attempt To Sign Up 45 Per Cent Of CGE Production Workers

Number Signed Up Falls Short By 320
I.U.E. Success Would Have Meant Vote Ordered Among Workers By Board

The International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) have been defeated in their third bid to be bargaining agents for 3,600 production workers at the C.G.E. plant. Today is the anniversary date of the two-year contract, signed a year ago by the rival United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America. The contract has another year to run and I.U.E. cannot make another attempt to apply for certification for 10 months.

Had I.U.E. been able to sign up 45 per cent of the eligible production workers the Ontario Labor Relations Board would have ordered a vote at the plant.

Joe Wirtz, I.E.U. international representative, said today that the local campaigners failed by about 20 per cent to sign up the required number of workers.

(If there are 3,600 eligible workers this indicates they failed by some 320 cards to get the required 45 per cent, or 1,620 cards.)

Mr. Wirtz said the campaign failed by a few days only.

Started Late

"If we'd had until Friday we'd have made it easy," stated Mr. Wirtz. "We started to campaign late. One reason for this was that we didn't put out any publicity during the difficulty with the welders. We didn't want anybody to say we were interfering with the welders' rights, or that we were hindering them in any way."

Pro-I.U.E. unionists did not actively begin their campaign in the plant until the second week of February. The so-called hunting season open to them (i.e. the time in which they might make application to the O.L.R.B.) was from Jan. 27 to March 26. Their next opportunity will be 10 months from now.

This time the I.U.E. embarked on a controversial method of getting employees signed up. They waived the $1. initiation fee. Instead of paying $1 initiation fees, I.U.E. supporters signed their cards and took an "obligation"—something similar to swearing allegiance to the union of their choice.

It is the third attempt within the last 28 months to wrest the key Canadian General Electric plant from the U.E.

Split In 1949

After the split in union ranks in 1949 the right-wing I.U.E. started a campaign and made application. After a lengthy hearing the O.L.R.B. threw out the application early in 1950.

Last year another campaign was launched and I.U.E. got a sufficient number of cards for a vote. This was held on June 26 after a long, bitter-fought campaign. Of a total vote of 3,499 the U.E. got 1,909, or a majority of 327 votes over the I.U.E.'s poll of 1,582 votes.

In February the I.U.E. announced their third campaign and called on the C.G.E. workers to support them. Tempers flared briefly a couple of times with the highlight being a fist fight one noon between rival union organizers as they handed out leaflets at the Albert St. gate.

A lull then came in the campaign, terminated Wednesday by the announcement that the I.U.E. hadn't sufficient cards to make an application.

Fred Hannah, I.U.E. representative said this time "the intricate mechanics of collecting cards" restricted their organizing efforts.

"I.U.E. has been dealt a temporary disappointment," he said, "but as a result of that disappointment will emerge bigger and stronger..."

OPP Seize Cache Of Liquor In Chandos Twp.

A substantial cache of beer, wine and liquor was seized by provincial police Wednesday afternoon when they searched the home of Ted Rosebush in Chandos township near Lasswade.

Rosebush was arrested by OPP Corporal Joseph Hanson and OPP Constable John Cawood Wednesday evening as he left the factory in Peterborough where he is employed. They searched Rosebush's car which was parked on the parking lot behind the plant, and seized a quantity of liquor which they found in the car.

Rosebush was charged with keeping liquor for sale and held in the county jail overnight. In police court today, he pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded on bail of $500 until April 3.

O.P.P. Sgt. Stanley Palmateer who laid the bootlegging charge against Rosebush said today that further charges will be laid in connection with the liquor found in his car.

The investigation and search of the Rosebush residence was carried out by O.P.P. Constables Aimey Gaudry and Clive Naismith of O.P.P. District 8 Headquarters and O.P.P. Constable Bert Howden of Apsley.

Hatton Property Tenants Must Be Out By December 31

Tenants of wartime houses on the Hatton property have received letters from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation setting the prices of the houses on the property. Prices range from $750 to $950, and the corporation requires a "security deposit" of $100 in addition to the purchase price. This deposit would be returned after removal of the building.

A resolution passed Feb. 11 by the city council asked the housing corporation to hold to its 1947 agreement with the city as to the removal of the houses.

The terms of that agreement were that the houses be removed from the Hatton property within the six months after Dec. 31, 1952.

Chance To Buy

Central Mortgage is offering the tenants a chance to buy the houses they are living in. The letter sent to all tenants of the property is also designed to serve as notice that the tenants must be out of their homes by the end of December.

Any houses not sold will be offered for sale by tender.

Prices of the houses are as follows. four room small house, $750; four room large, $850; six-room, $950. Central Mortgage is also asking $950 for the six-room one-and-a-half storey farm house on the property.

A tenant who buys one of these wartime houses will have to pay the expenses of moving the house, buy a lot to put it on, and make repairs. A basement would cost so much more.

Could Cost $2,750

One present tenant estimated that it would cost him $2,750 to $3,000 to do these things. He listed his probable cost as follows:

House	$750
Moving	400
Lot	500
Basement	700
Repairs	400
Total	$2,750

"What would I have when I did all that?" he asked. "Still a $750 house with a basement. Those places might be good for cottages, but they're not much good for anything else.

"Frost has heaved them out of line until you can hardly shut the doors and windows. The insulation is pulling away from the underside. There are other things, too.

"We're going to have to move and we don't know where."

One point the tenants are reminded of in the letter is that these wartime houses may not be re-established within the boundaries of the city.

Have Time to Move.

The letter says in part: "The purpose of this letter is to acquaint you with these facts (about the agreement with the city) so that you will have as much time as possible to find alternative living accommodation. As we are obliged to clear the site by June 30, 1953, we must obtain possession of all buildings no later than December 31, 1952, as we will need at least six months to dispose of the buildings and remove the same from site.

"This letter must be taken as our notice to you of termination of your lease, and we require you to deliver up quiet and peaceable possession of the premises which you hold as our tenant on the 31st day of December, A.D. 1952."

Enclosed with the letter is a copy of the city council's resolution holding Central Mortgage to its agreement.

Durham County Boys Show Top Seed At Spring Fair

Durham county boys sustained the cereal leadership of their fathers in the Central Ontario Spring Show here Wednesday. Their team composed of Roy McHolm, Port Hope, Merrill Brown of Newcastle and Keith Van Camp of Nestleton, won the Agricole trophy presented by Agricultural Chemicals Ltd. of Port Hope, in the junior inter-county seed judging competition.

Fifty-two boys competed from the counties of Ontario, Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox-Addington, Durham and Peterborough.

High boys in the individual scoring were: Red clover, Mel Merrill, Northumberland; alfalfa, Ronald Neale, Ontario county; winter wheat, Lawrence Foster, Prince Edward; barley, George Skelding, Durham; oats, Gordon Wilson, Durham; weeds, Ronald Brooks, Durham.

Aggregate scores of the winning Durham team, coached by Ed. A. Summers, Bowmanville, agricultural representative, were: McHolm 797; Brown 795; VanCamp 794; of a possible 850.

Other Results

Other results announce Wednesday of the judging of grain exhibits in the main section of the show were: Classes for juniors, 14 to 21 years: Early Oats, 1, Roy McHolm, Port Hope; 2, Doug Cruikshank, Hampton; 3, Earle Brown, Newcastle; 4 Neil Boyd, Orono.

Late oats: 1, Roy McHolm; 2, Earle Brown; 3, Neil Boyd.

Barley: 1, Earle Brown; 2, Roy McHolm.

Winter wheat: 1, Earle Brown; 2, Donald Dunfield, Claremont.

Special Durham section for adult exhibitors:

Fall wheat: 1, Harold Swain, Nestleton.

Barley: 1, James T. Brown, Newcastle; 2, H. Swain; 3, Garnet Rickard, Bowmanville; 4, Dorrell

Car Rolls Over

A car which went out of control on the Canal Road Wednesday evening, veered to one side of the street, snapped off three guard posts, struck a large tree, and came to rest upside down after rolling down a 30 foot embankment.

The driver, George Moore-Gough, 616 Watt Ave., was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and allowed to return home after X-rays failed to reveal any injuries.

Mr. Moore-Gough has suffered from tropical ailment for some time, and he is said to have "blacked out" shortly after turning on to the Canal Road. He kept lapsing into a coma several times while he was being taken home, after he was examined at hospital.

Did Christ Visit England? Some People Believe He Did

Did Christ Visit England?

Since the days of King Arthur residents of the ancient monastery town of Glastonbury, England have argued as to whether or not Christ actually visited England as a young man.

Weekend readers will be able to form their own opinions after reading David M. Legate's article in the March 29 issue.

Whether you regard the story as fact or fancy after reading Mr. Legate's article and seeing Brian Chirlan's pictures of the people and historical ruins of Glastonbury, the legend is not restricted to England alone.

Thousands of miles away, in the Biblical land of Northern Galilee, there is still the traditional legend that Christ came to Britain as a shipwright aboard a trading vessel when he was a young man.

Not In Bible

Part of Christ's younger life is not recorded in the Bible, and according to the story that has persisted both in England and Galilee for centuries, Jesus visited England on a Phoenician trading ship owned by St. Joseph of Arimathea. A number of ancient and modern historical writers have given weight to the belief that a tin trade was carried on between the Phoenician traders of Tyre and the pre-Christian inhabitants of Britain.

Joseph of Arimathea was the uncle of the Virgin Mary and some of the believers of the Glastonbury legend claim that Joseph was buried in a silver casket in the east of St. Joseph's chapel, destroyed by fire centuries ago.

Not only does the legend claim that Jesus visited England, in some villages in Somerset, it is held that Christ built a church there and dedicated it to his mother.

In addition to the historical evidence supporting the tin trade between Britain and Phoenicia, there is the fact that Glastonbury is the site of a pre-Christian Iron Age settlement.

Holy Grail

Here, St. Joseph of Arimathea is supposed to have brought the Holy Grail, the cup used at the Last Supper. King Arthur and his knights dedicated their lives to search for the Holy Grail said to have been deposited by St. Joseph at the foot of Glastonbury Tor in a well.

A tomb in the heart of ruined Glastonbury abbey is said to have contained the bodies of the mythical King Arthur and his Queen, Guinevere.

Throughout the centuries, fires and looting and destruction by Puritans have destroyed original documents and wiped out grave markings.

Present day Glastonbury residents are by no means all believers of the legend which has survived the centuries, but whether they subscribe to the theory that Christ was the first Christian missionary to visit England or not they all cherish the story which has become as much a part of Glastonbury as the ruins of its ancient abbey.

The timely appearance of Mr. Legate's article in this week's WEEKEND at the approach of Easter will probably provoke the same sentiments among WEEKEND readers as it does among Glastonbury natives—ranging all the way from interest, cautious acceptance, belief and the smug acceptance of the legend as a mere myth.

Rita Hayworth Confirms Divorce Plan

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 27 (AP) —Rita Hayworth says she will take a month's tour of the southwest and then drive to Reno for her divorce from Prince Aly Khan.

The red-haired actress finished work for her picture Wednesday.

In an exclusive interview, Miss Hayworth scotched rumors that she is planning a return to Europe to reconcile the son of the Aga Khan.

Miss Hayworth will retain custody of Yasmin, their daughter. She offered no comment on other terms of the separation. She will not be required to remain six weeks in Reno for the divorce, since she is legally a citizen of Nevada.

"I am a resident of Glenbrook, Nev.," she explained. "I established residence there when I returned to this country. The divorce could be a matter of hours, but I may stay around Reno for a few days. I like Nevada very much."

When I saw her Wednesday night the actress remarked that she was weary from the movie-making routine.

Completely Exhausted

"I started out with six weeks of dance rehearsals," she said. "That left me completely exhausted. After all, I haven't danced for four years. In fact, I haven't done anything for four years."

The picture stopped shooting last week, but she has been posing for photographs to advertise and exploit the picture of "Affair In Trinidad." She is even posing in a bathing suit, proving that princesses are not above cheesecake.

"Now I'm ready for a rest," she said. "I'll rest on the motor trip I'm taking. I love to drive; I've done it on every continent. Once I drove all the way from Algiers to Tunisia.

"I don't know where I'll go on this trip. We'll stop wherever we feel like it, for I do want to get some sun. We'll probably spend some time in Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz."

After the divorce, Rita returns to Columbia Studio, where she will start another picture, "Salome and the Seven Veils."

Get Faint Praise

NEW DELHI, March 27 (AP)—A Soviet exhibit of 200 paintings received faint praise from some of India's art critics. Said the Delhi Express: "Such expensive frames are unknown in India."

OFF THE WATER-WAGON—Light touch to recent anti-UN rioting by Italian Nationalists in Trieste happened when a demonstrator laughingly took a ducking from a police water-wagon. Police use their wagon "guns" to break up forbidden public demonstrations when normal police methods fail.

Permanent Aerial

LONDON, Ont., March 27 (CP) —A permanent aerial through which television would be received and piped into London homes will be erected here soon, Harry Anderson, who plans to end the the city's TV isolation, said Wednesday. Promoter of a scheme to pipe TV into homes over existing utility lines, he said at least 20,000 homes could be served.

Century of Homeless

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Elfan Rees, advisor on refugees to the United Nations and the World Council of Churches, said Wednesday: "This is the century of the homeless man." He told the Kiwanis Club there still are 14,000,000 persons in Western Europe "without passports, work or futures."

Suggests X-rays

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Dr. J. E. Wilson of Barrie said on Wednesday children should be X-rayed at an early age to discover if one leg is shorter than the other. He said 80 per cent of school children in one survey had one leg shorter than the other. Corrective measures in childhood corrects the condition.

Recover Body

THOROLD, March 27 (CP). — The body of Lionel Campbell, 25, of R.R. 3, Goderich, was recovered from the Welland Canal Wednesday night. He was believed to have been climbing the ladder on the S.S. Chicago Tribune to report for work and to have fallen into the canal.

EDITORIAL JOB

The main original draft of James Boswell's "Life of Johnson" found in Scotland in 1940 is one-third large than the published work.

Simpsons, Roebuck Confirm Deal Pending

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Simpsons, Ltd., and Sears, Roebuck & Company are considering some sort of joint operation in Canada. Sears, Roebuck is the biggest operator in that field in the United States.

The fact that the two have been in negotiation was confirmed on Wednesday by the heads of both institutions.

C. L. Burton, chairman of the board of Simpsons, said the discussions "do not involve the sale of any shares of Simpsons, Ltd."

B.C. Legislature Prorogued, Coalition Ended

By The Canadian Press

The unhappy marriage of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives in the British Columbia legislature received its divorce decree absolute Wednesday when the House was prorogued.

The wedding of the two parties into a coalition government took place in 1941 under the threat of then-growing C.C.F. strength. The couple separated last Jan. 18 in a row over the premature release of cabinet financial dealings with Ottawa.

Premier Byron Johnson is expected to dissolve the legislature soon and set the date of an election some time in June.

The next election is expected to be a three-way fight between the parties instead of a two-way coalition versus C.C.F. battle.

The Progressive Conservative-Liberal split followed a charge by Premier Johnson that Herbert Anscomb, then finance minister and co-chief of the coalition, had released details of the federal-provincial tax agreement before it had been considered by the cabinet. He demanded that Mr. Anscomb resign.

Mr. Anscomb and other Progressive Conservatives in the cabinet resigned and the 11-man P.C. group became the official opposition. Other party standings in the House were Liberals 23, C.C.F. 8, Coalition 3, Independent 2 and Labor 1.

Reject Rail Line

Before the legislators left, Premier Johnson's forces voted down an opposition motion to build a rail line from Squamish to Vancouver, a distance of 30 miles. The government plan of a Highway instead was carried.

Prorogation was in the air of the Manitoba legislature, with extra sessions imposed to speed up business. In debate on the budget speech, Duff Roblin (PC-Winnipeg South) charged that the government was extravagant and inefficient in its internal administration.

In the Newfoundland legislature Premier Joseph Smallwood denied opposition charges of graft. He said his government introduced the policy of buying from the lowest tender.

"The strongest opponent the government has gets the business if his price is the lowest."

Proposal For Money

Russell Cunningham (CCF-Cape Breton East) advocated 2 ways of raising more money in the Nova Scotia legislature. He suggested a ton-a-mile tax on heavy trucks and an increase in the present 12½-cents-ton royalty on coal.

A Social Credit member of the Alberta legislature claimed the "whole purpose" of the United Nations is to destroy national sovereignty. R. E. Ansley (SC-Leduc), who left the cabinet in 1948 after a difference of opinion with the government, spoke in a debate on civil defence.

New legislation now before the Saskatchewan legislature provides that a teacher fired by a school board must be given written reasons for the action.

The House also gave second reading to a bill to provide for the province's celebration of its 50th anniversary in 1955.

Christian Groups Visit Y.P.U. At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 27 (ENS)—The inter-church Young People's Group had as guests about 25 young people of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and Peterborough Christian Business Youth on Sunday evening. The meeting was held in St. Thomas' Anglican Parish Hall. It opened with a sing-song, with Joan Sanders and Don Spicer at the piano.

Harold Swanson of Peterborough gave a talk on the Scripture verse, "For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul." Other members of the Peterborough group also spoke briefly.

Miss Rosalen Harris of Toronto has returned after spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke and Capt. Massey-Cooke.

THERE'S SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY in the fashions this spring. For the practical woman, there is a grey worsted suit (left) piped in white pique, worn with white hat and parasol. Then, for the sophisticated woman, the neckline is plunged to a new low (centre) in a white lace dress embroidered in pale green, blue and orange sequins. Coat is white with mink cuffs. For the very young woman who likes simple lines with a flair, a pleated white linen dress (right) is combined with a bright green felt capelet trimmed with white snowballs.

Long Gloves Carry Imagination

Gloves go hand in hand with spring this year. The fresh look of the season is repeated in the glove business, which is 'fancying' itself up too.

"Shorties" and the longer gloves . . . . both in cotton . . . are adding high fashion details in eyelet trim, fagoting, French knots and hand-sewn cuffs.

There's no end to the designer's imagination when it comes to a "new look" for this year's gloves. Pearl edging, whip stitching, appliqued tops and braid treatment are new.

The single button shortie, a long-established favorite, is now dressed up with a large pearl button, either at the wrist back or front. tops with most shoppers, sheer nylon is steadily gaining in popularity. Many of these are shown with lace cuffs and lace back darts.

Lace, too, is popular and many dainty mitts turn up this Spring, fashioned of French lace. Their romantic look makes them particularly right for the "pretty-as-a-picture" bouffant spring dresses.

Colors are riotous . . .a regular country-garden burst of bloom There's red, green, violet, burnt sugar, wheat, pink, gray and purple. White, too, is a leading favorite.

SPOUTING WHALES

Whales do not actually spout water. The spurt often seen at sea is condensed moisture blown from their lungs.

PERENNIAL JERSEY

Pastel jersey stays in the spring picture this year with wonderful orlon the basis for wide, pleated skirts that wash, remain pleated.

'Forgotten Woman' Remembered With Smart Wearables

In scanning the fashion picture for spring, it is evident that this year, the fashion industry has remembered to remember the "forgotten woman"—that woman in the 36-and-up size group.

For years, this group has been offered coats, dresses and suits that first and foremost stressed—size, and last of all—style!

With almost 50 per cent of the women in the 45-54 age group working full or part time, there is a greater need for more flattering, more colorful frocks and wearables for this feminine quota.

Today, slim buttoning lines, dramatic collars, wizard touches of draped detail, tucks and shirring highlight simple dresses and suits—minimizing weight and size.

Newer colors are shown over and over to add interest in the "extra-size" groupings . . . free-form geometrics . . . monotones or tastefully blended prints and colors, all give a youthful outlook to "older" fashions.

This season's coat dresses, coat and dress ensembles . . shapely sleeves . . . upping of the waistline . . . dressmaker suits—mark the high fashion notes that give a more imaginative look and fresh appeal to the half-size and woman's size collections.

Feminine Approach Emphasized In Shoes

Footloose and fancy free . . . that's the look for spring footwear.

Keeping step with the feminine . . . the pretty . . . the definitely fresh look of spring fashions . . . newest shoes are slim, more elegant and with a lacy look.

Patent shines brightly . . . the very new banded look, composed of three patent leather bands, the two upper straps gored at the inside and a slim high heel, beautiful with the new blues, prints and frosted colors.

Mesh rises as a new star for the big moments. One lovely style is a lacy mesh, done in two pale pastels with matching kid-skin strippings . . . a light, airy companion for dainty skirts and sheer dresses.

The jeweled ornament, a sparkling fashion-first in women's wear, is repeated in a black alpaca shantung pump . . . the halter sling balanced with a big, jeweled ornament on the wide, open toe. Dressy and flattering, this sling pump is wonderful with lacy after-five little dresses.

Hitting this stride this year is the tapered toe, often shown with a squared back, which slants inward. Pretty shoes come in palest pastel kids . . . a pale blue, beautiful with the new iridescent shantungs.

The nude look . . . baring heels and toes entirely . . . is the most important trend for spring footwear. It is not the small open toe of the past seasons, but a wide vamp band that leaves all the toes exposed . . . the entire design depending upon good lines, rather than the intricate strippings of other years.

For tailored wear, the classic closed shoe is still good. Luggage tan with high or medium heel, for wear with black, grey, navy, or browns. Spectator sport shoes again favorites but more attractive this spring in gray and white.

There seems to be a trend away from suede . . . with the attention falling on calf and kids . . . nylon mesh . . . patent leather . . . fabrics like shantung . . . linen . . . straw combinations in tricolor contrasts as red, white and blue . . . turquoise, white and grey.

As to color . . . its use is unlimited. From pale pastels to midnight black, colors run riot. Shantungs in turquoise, gold, beige . . . thin, multi-colored strips of fabric, Italian in feeling . . . rosy-red . . . sky blue . . . mauve . . . fashion is putting its best foot forward this spring.

DRESSED FOR EASTER, this smart young couple of the future reflects the pride which every youngster gets from new clothes. She wears a bright red all-wool gabardine coat with brass buttons, slant pockets and a sailor collar with gold emroidered emblems. Her hat is natural straw with a red brim. His attire includes a tan all-wool gabardine suit, white broadcloth shirt and striped tie. His shoes are dark brown.

Call To Colors Answered In Gay Scarfs

If you're up to your neck in fashion, then, without doubt, scarfs are an important accessory in your wardrobe. Chiffon, tie silk, cotton or taffeta—all lend themselves with fluid grace to scarf tricks. The wide squares in brilliant East Indian colors... flower-sprinkled, misty chiffons ...striped or plaid taffetas...all are wonderful with a dark dress or suit, merely draped and flowing from a pocket or a belt. Tied fetchingly around a slim waist, they become little glamor aprons, admirably suited to dressing up a plain skirt.

Narrow, slim chiffon scarfs make lovely, saucy bows to perk up a neckline or fill in the V-throat of a dress or suit. Every woman knows how becoming and flattering a soft scarf is near the face, particularly if it's in a pretty pink to lend that rosy glow to the skin.

For evening wear, scarfs are unlimited in their uses. Sequin sparked, they are worn over the hair or draped becomingly around bare shoulders. Soft white stoles with ermine tails are elegant enough to wear with the most sumptuous ball gowns. Black, fleecy wool is beautiful too, when paired with mink tails. Lovely as these stoles are, they are simple to make at home.

Night club entertainers and stage stars have made the flowing chiffon handkerchief an integral part of the act. Trailing from a dainty hand, waved gently to emphasize a line, the hankie not only distracts the audience from the other actors, it is also both graceful and completely feminine.

Try one flowing from a rhinestone bracelet or caught at the wrist with a nosegay of flowers. Match it with your evening gown or choose a contrasting colour... it's glamor with a French accent.

Norwood W.A. Holds Meet

NORWOOD, March 27 (ENS)—The March group of the Woman's Association of the United Church held their monthly meeting in the Sunday School room. The president, Mrs. A. M. Weir, opened the meting. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Willis Preston and her group. Mrs. Horace Brown gave the topic on "Christian Living in the Church". A reading and various scripture passages were worked in with the topic, parts being taken by Mrs. Richard Patterson, Mrs. George Peoples, Mrs. Robert Doughty, Mrs. Gerald La Brash and Mrs. William Roberts. Mrs Max Scott and Mrs. Earl Bongard sang a hymn.

Fashion Matter Good Form

Remember, this spring, fashion is all a matter of form!

"Hold that line" is the fashion advice this year. For fashion lines are figure-hugging and closer than a lover's embrace. With highlights on the high, round bosom and hand-span waist, milady is viewing with some dismay the contours of a body built by golf and tennis. Femininity is in . . . and nipping it in are the newest foundations by style-wise corsetieres.

Latest addition to the "undercover story" are the waist cinchers but they are not to be confused with the iron-bound, breath-strangling corsets of yesteryear. The new, little nippers are fashioned of wonderful nylon and satin elastic, skillfully wrought to whittle off the inches, but also very comfortable, thanks to their elasticity. They are dainty, pretty and modest in price . . . they are also as implacable as a Panzer division! Those unwanted inches simply disappear.

For the fuller figure the long line bra and girdle are the best combinations for a good silhouette. However, waist cinchers are sold in sizes up to 30, and even in these larger sizes, boning is kept to a minimum for comfort. Newest girdles rise high in front and are closed in the back with a zipper to preserve the smooth look through the waist.

Biggest color for all Spring lingerie is white, with pink, second choice. The trend toward sheer white blouses and lighter colors in spring fashions is responsible for the accent on white.

Sports Shirts Livelier, Are Trimmed

Sports shirts for the coming season are livelier and in greater variety than ever before. Interesting trims, in checks, plaids and tweedy effects, dominate the scene. Materials range from brushed cottons through gabardines, corduroys to acetate nylon.

Cool and handsome are those in a rayon fabric that looks like fine linen. In lime, forest green and rich brown, they have plaid collars and five-inch plaid borders across the chest. The plaid is in a deeper tone of the basic color with white. There are two buttons at the neck opening.

Equally suitable for warm weather are the nylon and acetate shirts. In a wide range of colors, they are long sleeved, with pearl buttons down the front and buttoned cuffs. A pencil-thin stripe, in a lighter shade, forms the pattern on the shirt. The neckline is built-in (can be worn with ties) and the breast pockets are pleated.

A rayon shirt that resembles silk is good-looking in dark green with an overall paisley design of red, yellow, white and black. It is long-sleeved, buttons down the front, and has buttoned cuffs.

Solid-colored corduroy shirts with long sleeves can be worn in the spring and fall. A California manufacturer has some on the market that are eye-catchers. Only design is a crest in a contrasting shade on the breast pocket. There is a four-button closure at the neck. Shades are lime, navy, grey, rust and black.

T shirts of cotton jersey are losing the underwear-like neckline. Collars are becoming important, whether they are turtle necks or sailors. Often collars are in contrasting shades or have a ribbon-width trim of corded material. T shirts are getting away from solid colors and are being shown in fancy weaves, some resembling tweeds or diamond sweaters, and highly colored stripes. Some even have an overall motif print.

THE GLEAMING WHITE SATIN BRIDAL GOWN, loveliest of all wedding traditions is beautifully fashioned in acetate wedding satin available in white or ivory. The pleated panniers, achieve a bustle effect in the back and the back and the wide skirts falls in graceful folds. Pearl embroidery outlines the bodice and melts into the nylon tulle yoke.

Swinging Skirts, Bolero Suits Smart

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—With London and Paris spring fashion shows still a recent memory, British women are already buying factory reproductions of the two suit lines most favored in both cities.

Before the spring shows started, the bell-skirted suits and bolero numbers that form the basis of this year's tailored styles, were already on display in British stores.

Shops are showing such smart outfits as a grey flannel bolero suit with pencil-slim skirt, the short bolero having deep cuffs to the half-sleeve which match the turn-up of the jacket hem. Combined with tucked white lawn blouse such as that shown in Paris by Jacques Fath, long white gloves and wide-brimmed white hat with veiling tucked under the chin, this has a chick French look suited to town wear.

Equally smart and still in the half-mourning colors favored at present in London, is a dark grey suit overchecked in black and white lines, its slim skirt given pocket hem emphasis. A high-collared bolero with swing fullness has short sleeves cut in one with the jacket and a starched white bow wings outwards from the throat. This follows the line of a matching white Dutch bonnet with elongated side brims.

Classy Outfits

Bell-skirted suits have classic jackets with neat waists, roll collars, soft shoulders, narrow sleeves and rounded peplums. The bell skirt is created by a full plain flare or all-round sunray pleating. Up-to-date women who like the latest swing to their skirts, can add reproductions of the new crinoline underskirts for as little as $7.

These suits and many others are priced around $28. Black, navy and greys will be the favorites of business women this summer. Inexpensive Paris touches can so easily be added to these neutral shades, such as dark purple crocuses and mimosa tucked into the pockets of grey suits.

Black, bell-skirted suits can be worn, with rustling white taffeta petticoats, black accessories lightened by one touch of white—a "Quo Vadis" hat of feathers with flat, Roman crown, a duck-tail of trimming curling up from the forehead.

Fashion writers warn British women to forget their conservative preference for shirt blouses this year. The bolero suits give new importance to the blouse beneath.

One intriguing number that would highlight any bolero is in white linen, its upstanding medici collar given added importance by a facing of quilted satin.

Former Baltimore Pair Mark 50th Anniversary

COLDSPRINGS, March 27 (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Linton are in Seagrave, Ont., attending the 50th wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Silas Reynolds. Mrs. Linton, the former Phyllis Ralls, was the bridesmaid of yesteryear.

Silas Reynolds and Mabel Fishley were married at Baltimore on March 26, 1902. The minister who married them is deceased, but the minister's wife is still living, and also resides in Seagrave.

MAGGY ROUFF designs this new spring dress ideal for travelling, from beige Kasha jersey. The bodice is shaped into a large collar at the back. The skirt has pleats opening at the knee. The belt is green and beige.

Judge Turns Playwright

WOODSTOCK, Ont., March 27—(CP)—A three-act play by a former Attorney-General of Ontario had its premiere here this week.

The play, "This Shall Endure," was written by Judge Eric Cross and will be produced by Woodstock's six-year-old Little Theatre. It tells story of the efforts of an Abbot to preserve a medieval chapel from destruction in the Second World War. Judge Cross has built the plot around the destruction of Monte Cassino in Italy.

Well versed in theatre, Judge Cross was first president of the Woodstock company when it was revived in 1946. This year the troupe won top honors in the Western Ontario Drama Festival at Hamilton. Its winning production of "Dear Brutus" by J. M. Barrie, was directed by Judge Cross.

The playwright, actor, director, has been active in Little Theatre activities since shortly after his graduation from Osgoode Hall in 1928. He first practised law at Simcoe, Ont., where he took part in local productions.

Then for some years the demands of the legal world curbed stage ambitions.

From 1935 to 1937 he was chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board and in 1937 was elected to the Ontario Legislature as Liberal He entered the Cabinet as Minister of Municipal Affairs and Public Welfare and later became Attorney-General. In 1944 he was appointed Judge of Oxford County.

Judge Cross claims that an insight into the various problems of stage production, acting, directing, and audience appeal is invaluable to anyone who wants to write a play. His criterion of quality imposes the test of natural development.

"Dialogue or plot cannot be forced upon the characters," he said. "The play must flow naturally as the characters act and react to the dramatic situations which they have created for themselves."

Rundown, Couldn't Eat . . . Had Headaches Every Day

"Syntona was just what I needed," says this woman. Gratefully tells how it helped her.

Whether you are 18 or 20 you may at times begin to feel rundown, nervous and easily exhausted. Digestion is poor, appetite lost, and sleep is neither sound nor restful. At times like this Syntona Herbal Compound has proved helpful to thousands of men and women of all ages. It acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, helps tone up the system and soon you are feeling like yourself again.

Here is what Mrs. Ferd Gurman, 102 Cochrane Avenue North, Hamilton, Ontario, has to say about her recent experience with Syntona.

"After my baby was born I was completely rundown, didn't want to eat my meals, and had headaches every day. My nerves seemed to be all on edge, I was always tired and couldn't get any sound sleep at night. "A few weeks ago I read about Syntona helping other people, so I got some and this medicine has been just what I needed. In a very short time my appetite returned and now I enjoy all my meals, my nerves are calmed down, and I am free of those awful headaches. I sleep well and do not get all tired out as I did before."

MRS. FRED GURMAN

Why not give this Pure Herbal Medicine a chance to help you, too? Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (advt.)

JUDGE IS PLAYWRIGHT — Judge Eric Cross, of Woodstock, Ont., is the author of a three-act play, "This Shall Endure," presented by the Woodstock Little Theatre. Judge Cross, who uses the pseudonym Eric Blake, wrote a number of short stories 25 years ago but published none of them. He long has had an interest in dramatics and in 1946 was elected first president of the Woodstock Little Theatre Group. He has been a judge in Oxford County since 1944.

Dewey Staff Studies Lake Level Problem

ALBANY, N.Y., March 27 — (AP). — Governor Thomas E. Dewey's legal staff is studying whether the state can do anything to help lower high water levels in Lake Ontario, which have hit hard at lakeshore properties.

Dewey's secretary, James C. Hagerty, said Wednesday the governor had received several appeals from persons in the Rochester area, urging him to "see if anything can be done by the state" to alleviate the situation.

But Hagerty emphasized that the lake level was "entirely a Federal problem."

"Whenever we receive such requests we always look into them," Hagerty said.

Churchill's Mother Born In Brooklyn

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)— Brooklyn was officially recognized Wednesday as the birthplace of Winston Churchill's mother, Jennie Jerome, although the Prime Minister himself has indicated she was born in Rochester, N.Y.

A bronze plaque was unveiled marking 426 Henry Street, Brooklyn, as her birthplace.

The plaque, presented by the Brooklyn Eagle, was unveiled by Sarah Churchill, actress-daughter of the Prime Minister and granddaughter of the celebrated beauty.

Banana Layer Cake
(1-Bowl Method)

Before Mixing: Have shortening at room temperature. Grease pans. Set oven at correct temperature (375°F.).

- 2¼ cups sifted cake flour
- 1¼ cups sugar
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup shortening
- 1½ cups mashed ripe bananas (4 to 5 bananas)
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

USE FULLY RIPE BANANAS . . . YELLOW PEEL FLECKED WITH BROWN

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt into large mixing bowl. Add shortening, ½ cup of bananas and eggs. Beat 2 minutes at slow to medium speed with electric mixer or 2 minutes by hand. Scrape down bowl and beater or spoon frequently during mixing. Add remaining 1 cup bananas and vanilla. Beat 1 minute longer. Turn into 2 well-greased, 8-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) about 25 minutes, or until layers are done. Frost with your favorite frosting. Makes 1 cake.

Five Roses

ALL PURPOSE FLOUR

ONLY ONE BRAND NEEDED FOR ANY RECIPE!

Read this unsolicited testimonial

"Orchids to your wonderful Five Roses Flour and sour apples to myself for not having used it before — I probably wouldn't even be using it now if it wasn't due to the fact that my grocer, who incidentally calls here at the house, was out of the brand of pastry flour I always used.

"I was absent at the time, so he left the Five Roses with the stipulation I could change it on his next trip around. When I returned home I was quite provoked because I wanted to bake some individual meat pies for supper — I said, 'Oh, well, I'll have to use the flour but it won't be any good', but please accept my humblest apologies; my pastry was the nicest I have ever made, tender, flaky, beautifully brown. Everyone just simply drooled over the looks of it.

"Now, I can't understand why so many women are under the impression that Five Roses Flour is strictly a bread flour. For four years I worked in a grocery store and women just wouldn't purchase Five Roses for anything but bread making — could it be you don't stress the fact enough that it makes superior pastry to any so-called pastry flour. I love its fineness and another thing I noticed was how clean it leaves the baking board and rolling pin. No chunks of fatty dough to scrape off.

"Thanking you again for a wonderful product, I'll certainly recommend it to all my friends.

Yours truly,
(Signed) Della Knowles

Alberta Hoping To Avoid Embargo Quarrel With B.C.

By The Canadian Press

The Alberta government announced Wednesday night that it doesn't want to quarrel with a good neighbor but it considers British Columbia's livestock embargo "intolerable."

A Cabinet meeting in Edmonton heard the result of Agriculture Minister Ure's talks with B.C. officials. The Alberta minister sought to have B.C. allow Southern Alberta livestock across their mutual boundary as well as north cattle shipments.

"The B.C. government has advised us that they will not give a decision on this matter until they have held further discussions with their livestock producers and game officials," Alberta's Premier Manning said in a statement.

That meeting was scheduled for Thursday. It may decide the fate of the B.C. embargo, clamped on as a precaution against foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan.

Don't Want Quarrel

Mr. Manning said . . . "One does not quarrel with a good neighbor if it possibly can be avoided and for that reason we have done our best to persuade the B.C. government to remedy the present intolerable situation and not to force Alberta into legal action to protect the constitutional rights of our livestock producers.

"The continued imposition of B.C.'s restrictive ban on livestock shipments from this province with the exception of the Edmonton area, is unwarranted and unnecessary," Mr. Manning said.

Two possible courses are open to Alberta if legal action is taken. An Alberta government spokesman indicated earlier that Alberta might seek a court injunction. If granted, it would suspend the B.C. embargo until a court ruled on it.

Another method would be to send a shipment of cattle from Southern Alberta into B.C. that would either force B.C. to prosecute the breach of its regulations or waive enforcement of the embargo.

Would Mean Fight

In Victoria, B.C.'s Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman indicated any such action by Alberta would mean a fight. He believed a court would rule in B.C.'s favor "if we can establish what we are doing is purely on a health-problem basis."

Meanwhile, beside the marketing upsets suffered by Southern Albert livestock men, Dawson, Y.T., found itself with only a month's meat supplies on hand because of the B.C. embargo.

Some beef, lamb and veal were ordered but the 350 miles of winter road over which the shipment must travel is becoming less passable daily with spring thaws. No pork will reach the 1,000 residents of this area until June.

In Vancouver, business men were concerned over the possibility of a trade war between the two provinces.

Alberta buys quantities of B.C.'s fruit, fish, lumber, plywoods and manufactured articles. A legal battle between the provinces might disrupt this trade.

The Federal government came in for some criticism from west coast merchants and also from Premier Manning. Both said the question of embargoes should have been better handled.

Mr. Manning said the Federal government should have "overruled the unconstitutional restrictions which individual provinces imposed on interprovincial trade."

Prison Staff College Opens In Kingston

KINGSTON, March 27—(CP)—The second course at Canada's penitentiary staff college is under way.

The college is established in Calderwood, the 10-acre former estate of Senator W. Rupert Davies, almost across the street from Kingston Penitentiary.

Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, Commissioner of Penitentiaries, said: "Every effort is being made to introduce new and progressive concepts of modern penology into our penal institutions."

Early this month, a 10-day course was given for a group of deputy wardens.

Young PC's Ask Taxes Cut To Lower Costs

OTTAWA, March 27—(CP)—The Progressive Conservative Association of Canada Wednesday urged the Federal government to reduce taxes so as to lower the cost of living and remove causes of unemployment.

At a concluding session of a three-day annual meeting, the Association adopted a series of resolutions, one of them dealing with the question of taxes.

Others called for reform of the Senate, changes in the Election Act, a Commonwealth conference of trade and decentralization of industry.

Besides adopting the resolutions, the Association re-elected last year's slate of officers for another one-year term. George Nowlan of Wolfville, N.S., member of the Commons for the Nova Scotia constituency of Annapolis-King's, was re-elected President.

The resolution on taxes said the price of automobiles, electric and domestic appliances, and other essential articles is much higher in Canada than in the United States and is largely due to excessive and unnecessarily high sales and excise taxes.

It asked that the government be urged to reduce "materially such taxes in order to reduce the cost of living and to eliminate one of the contributing causes of substantially increasing unemployment."

Need Better Markets

On trade, the Association said the maintenance of employment and income in Canada is dependent upon export markets.

It asked that a commonwealth trade conference be called "forthwith to restore our lost sterling-area markets and to open Canada to sterling-area investment."

The meeting re-affirmed the party's support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Another resolution asked Mr. Drew to establish a committee to study the question of senate form.

"The senate as now constituted is an ineffective instrument of government and no longer performs the duties for which it was established by the British North America Act," said the resolution.

The Progressive Conservatives now hold eight of the 102 seats in the senate where appointments are made for life. The Liberals hold 77 seats and there are 17 vacancies.

The other missionaries disagreed and said Chengtu is a "city of tenseness in which thousands are committing suicide."

Buying Suit Points For Men to Watch

When a man buys a suit, he may consider texture and color, but forgets to look for essential points. It is only later, after a few wearings that he realizes he made a mistake in his purchase. As a safeguard against shortcomings on such a buying spree, there are some rules to observe.

1. The suit jacket should hug the shirt collar, exposing at least one-half inch of the collar at the back.

2. There should be proper fullness across the back of the suit jacket, producing a small fold of cloth at each side near the sleeve.

3. The jacket should be loose, and straight-hanging at the back. It should be long enough to cover the seat of the trousers.

4. Sleeves should be comfortably full at the top, tapering gracefully to the wrists. They should be short enough to show at least one-half inch of shirt cuff.

5. Shoulders should not be exaggerated in over-padding.

6. The waist of the jacket should be slightly suppressed while the entire jacket should be loose enough over the chest and hips to be comfortable in any position the wearer may assume.

7. The two-button single-breasted jacket should be worn with the upper button closed, the lower open. The three-button single-breasted model calls for only the centre button closed. The regulation three-button, double-breasted jacket should be worn with the two lower buttons fastened.

8. Trousers should fit comfortably snug at the waist, loose around the hips and across the seat.

READY FOR TRAVEL and for that important business call this well-dressed man wears a lightweight oxford gray flannel suit—a three-button model with pocket flaps and a centre vent. His gray snap-brim hat, blue and white stripe tie and white broadcloth shirt with rounded collar points coordinate to make his first business impression a favorable one.

PREPARED for cool spring breezes is the man who wears this smart natural shouldered, herringbone tweed topcoat with straight hanging lines, fly front and flapped pockets.

HOME-MADE SHOES

Although Brazil's shoe industry is the biggest in Latin America, many rural Brazilians make their own or else go barefoot.

Find Comfort In Corduroy

As a men's sportswear fabric, corduroy has many advantages. It is warm, long-wearing, and has a luxurious feel and lustre similar to velvet.

Sports shirts, casual jackets, and trousers of corduroy are wonderful to wear in spring when you want to be comfortable at home or for hiking and sports.

The very name of the cloth implies an exciting history. Corde-du-Roi is French for "cord of the king"; and that is exactly what corduroy was about 300 years ago. It was spun, woven and processed by hand then and many months of labor went into the making of a single length of cloth.

GRAFTON'S

IT'S A BIG DAY FOR THE FAMILY—Leaving church on Easter morning, mother wears a gray-blue suit in all-wool worsted sharkskin, with a blue shadow plaid silk blouse, a navy blue silk hat and blue leather shoes. Daughter shows off a blue and white all-wool shepherds check bolero with matching pleated skirt, worn with a white organdy blouse, a straw hat with a blue flannel brim and black patent leather shoes. The young man of the family wears a tan gabardine suit, a medium collar white broadcloth shirt, a striped silk tie, a brown snap-brim hat and brown shoes. Dad is dressed for the occasion in a dark grey sack suit, striped pants, a white broadcloth shirt with turned-down starched collar, a black and white-striped silk tie, pearl gray wool waistcoat, a black homburg and black shoes.

Fabrics Ribbed, Cross-Dyed Nubby Surface Of Interest

Though Spring wears a dainty look, mild as a new lamb, and the accent is on the feminine . . . it is interpreted in a series of rough fabrics.

Suits and toppers appear in the fashion picture with a new "slubbed" look . . . which means they are ribbed or cross-dyed. Wool is especially good when ribbed and turns up often in suiting worsted. Even silks are handled roughly . . . the ribbed, heavy silks and excellent choice for the long, flowing coats.

The poodle influence extends even to suiting, though here it is generally combined with a plain fabric. But this is the year of the curly loopy, deep-textured look . . . the poodle with a Spring hair-cut! Little toppers . . . brief hug-me-tights . . . full greatcoats fashioned of the clipped poodle are newer than first love.

Nothing Smarter

When interwoven with white, clipped poodle becomes a frosted fabric. Nothing is smarter . . . nothing prettier than Spring's frosted look . . . enchanting as icing on a birthday cake. The frosty look also lends new glamor to other fabrics besides wool . . . silk cottons, crepes and linens are all dusted with white magic.

As a stand-out for the full silhouette, Spring fabrics are crisp, and staccato, never slick or sliding. Taffeta, sharp and rustling, remains high on the fashion ladder. No other material keeps a profile so bouffant and graceful as taffeta. Skirts . . . dresses . . . and taffeta coats are the very shape of Spring.

Lustrous, flattering silk shantung assumes as many colors as Joseph's coat this season. Shining examples are the irddescent shantungs, beautifully tinted . . . a single hue the basis for a fashion fiesta of color. Here, too, the "slubbed" texture dominates even to the sheerest silks. Shantung is perfect for the pretty dress-up dress . . . the graceful, umbrella-wide skirts . . . the dainty shirtwaist. Wonderful, too, for evening wear, particularly good when touched with gold.

The spring story is well-told in print. But for a different version, these new prints are usually done on textured fabrics such as shantung, surah or crisp taf- . . . sic polka dots give way . . . scattered dots . . . . . ds . . . exotic Sia- . . . erns. Stripes are here . . . nd taffeta, their natural . . . ris comes word that . . . s fashion headlines as . . . fabric. Not only is it a lovely choice for the filmiest evening gowns and stoles, it is also beautiful in new wool lace —when graced with touches of linen. Cotton lace appears often in the smartest daytime costumes. Spring gloves in lace keep company with the alluring feminine look of spring.

Cottons have a head start on spring, for this year they look anything but cottony. It's very likely they may be your first spring dress or suit, for they come in tweedy weaves . . . calico and dimity quilted patterns . . . sculptored piques. Biggest cotton sheer promises to be tissue chambray.

And linen . . . from imported to the linen weaves, in cotton, rayon, nylon and orlon. Whichever you choose, it's fashion right if it's linen In the new bisque shade, highlighted with black patent, it's downright witchcraft!

In silken accents, the texture story is finished. There are more pure silks now than ever before . . . silk taffetas, shantungs . . . silk surahs . . . silk pongée prints . . . silk sheer organdies. Soft, flattering, always adaptable, silk is the mainspring of the spring wardrobe. Like puppy love . . . the first robin . . . silk goes with spring!

It's Springtime at Evangeline

So—come in and have a look see at our spring fashions — we think you will like what you see!

Suit Replacing Dress As Basic In Wardrobes

Suits are replacing dresses in the wardrobe of many Canadian women. Department store buyers and others in the retail trade say that in the last five years in Canada a definite trend toward suits and away from dresses has been noticeable. One buyer states that the "basic dress" is disappearing from the average woman's wardrobe today—to be replaced by a suit.

No one is sure of the exact reason for this trend, but it seems reasonable to assume that the change in the manufacture of suits has had a great deal to do with it. At one time, only a woman who was a "perfect 12 (or 14 or 16)" could be assured of fit in a ready-made suit. For the rest, and they were a majority, alterations were necessary and these were very often extensive and added to the cost of the garment. Today the story is very different: Ready-to-wear suits are now manufactured to fit not only the tall, slim type, but the majority of women—in other words, all shapes and sizes.

Fact and Fashion

A pioneer in this change-over manufacturing is a Toronto man who became interested in the sizing problem when his wife, who is five-feet-four drew his attention to the wide gap between fact and theory in fashion design. Every suit she bought had to be altered, which often destroyed the line of the garment, and she felt this could be overcome if a line of suits were made to fit the average Canadian woman as she is built—not as she should be built.

Accordingly, he set to work compiling statistics which could give him the measurements of the average Canadian woman. Based on his research, he founded a line of suits called the "Perfect Canadian Type," usually abbreviated to "PCT," made for the six out of 10 Canadian women who are five feet four inches and under and weigh anywhere up to 140 pounds.

He found that only about one in 100 is the five-feet-nine fashion model type, and the average height among Canadian women is a shade over five-feet-three, which is approximately one inch shorter than the average in the United States.

The success of the "PCT" line has confirmed his statistics. Women who used to say, "I just can't wear a suit," are finding that they can wear a suit, provided it fits. When a woman five-feet-four or less puts on a suit in a misses' size, she often finds that the sleeves are too long, the shoulders too broad and the waistline too long, which results in the bustline being wrong for her as well; the skirt is too long, but is probably too tight through the waist and hips. Naturally, she can't wear a suit that looks so unbecoming. In the "PCT" line these adjustments have already been made and the suit is built for her figure.

Uncluttered vertical lines are recommended to increase stature, and softly sculptured hips to flatter the waist. Smaller, more restrained textile patterns in soft, becoming shades complete the picture of the small, feminine "Perfect Canadian Type."

BREATH OF SPRING MINK beautifully interpreted in a wrap that will play an important role in your wardrobe for spring. The jacket is softly rounded with elbow length sleeves in the lovely new light-toned mink.

New Middies On Beaches

For loving daughters who follow mother's advice and "don't go near the water", fashion has developed a new "covered-up look". It's the middy blouse, but as different from the old middy (which was worn with long, black bloomers) as the French bathing suit and coonskin coat.

Boxed or belted, Spring's middy seen on the beaches will be in denim, linen, cotton or terry cloth. Newest is made of copper denim, but anything goes.

Cleverly-Styled Knit T-Shirts

T-shirts have become so versatile and dressy-looking that they go blithely forth for all-occasion wear. In addition to their role as active sportswear items they now pair off smartly with suits and skirts.

T-shirts now, go out to after-five soirees with equal grace and casual elegance.

Closely-knit cottons are tricked up with heavy ribbed yokes and cuffs in contrasting colors. Turtle-neck sleeveless blouses crop up in wide-wale cotton ribbing. Pebble knits, with a pique look, fashion into a smooth decollete blouse, for dressier moments.

Bright vertical V's and U's shape themselves across bodices of cap-sleeved T-blouses. Versatile up-or-down necklines go from sun to sedate moments with a flick of the wrist . . . in pleated knit accents.

Horizontally-ribbed terry cloth is fashioned into sleek pullovers of suave cardigans in gay, bright colors.

Yes, there's real variety, color and highfashion detail in the knitted shirts . . . designed this Spring, to suit you to a T.

Silks Of All Kinds Are Taking Shape

As the spring collections take shape in shops, silks of all kinds give shape to the most beautiful dresses, coats and suits in many a year.

Patterned heavy taffetas . . . brocades . . . embroidered surfaces . . . nubby textures—all handle with the finesse of worsteds to create the most flattering and feminine effects in new silk fashions.

Full skirts, sleeve drama, collar fancies and bodice tricks are exciting details that manipulate deftly into the smartest fashions of the season. Striking contrasts are achieved by use of color or unrelated-fabric combinations.

Crisp fabrics in silk spring . . . most exciting novelties—especially in full-skirted fashions! There are fascinating cross-stripes on superb shantungs . . . enormous Scotch plaids or Roman-striped taffetas in gay, bold color . . . tone-on-tone prints . . . all-over prints . . . needlework effects and silk metallics show up in fresh, imaginative inspirations for Spring!

CHRISTIAN DIOR'S afternoon coat is made from a British novelty silk, which looks almpst like raffia. It's a bright yellowish straw color. The coat can be worn easily over a figured silk dress.

Faith Change To Get Trade

When a tailor today complains of failing trade, he may turn to wild advertising promises or slash his prices. But not so the tailor described in an 1852 publication.

An English magazine of that year told the story of a tailor who found business so hard that he had to subordinate principles to policy. He changed his religion regularly to increase the customers in his establishment.

He admitted that he "had successively belonged to the various places of worship in the town, and complained to one minister that he had not been sufficiently supported in his business as a jobbing tailor by the congregation."

SPRING HATS KEYNOTE TINY AND PRETTY LOOK so in, LEFT, rosebuds perch atop a pert shallow sailor of milan-type straw; while next to it is the beloved puddle coat in lumberjacket form with sleeves cuffed in knit ribbing. A shiny navy straw, CENTRE, with minute velvet band and quills and next is a tucked-front blouse perfect companion to tailored spring suits and these hats and at, RIGHT, daisies tell in a smart ottoman straw and draped turban.

Big Revival Of Crystal In Jewellery

Gazing into fashion's crystal ball, surprisingly enough, we see . . . Crystal. Due this year is a great revival of crystal jewelry . . . in necklaces, earrings, pins and bracelets. The conventional diamond-cut crystal bead is now combined with large and small graduated, faceted beads and flat, cabochon effects for the bright look of spring.

New, too, are the crystal colors . . . pale blue, pale pink and a light topaz have been added to the crystal family.

To be fashion-wise, you'll choose pink! Favorite chokers are those done in rose quartz with three and four strands more popular than the usual one strand. These, too, have added glamor when combined with rhinestones or gold . . . with cluster earrings to match. Women will love the rosy glow of pink accents against the skin.

The "dressy" look of spring is responsible for the renewed interest in rhinestones. Pins are big and baroque with matching earrings. One designer is promoting the crescent earring in a leaf pattern that covers the entire outer part of the ear. Out standing example of craftsmanship is the rhinestone leaf with a single gray drop pearl at the bottom. Others combine gold, emerald and ruby stone settings. Prices range from $3.95 to $20.

Colorful and dramatic are the lacquer red beads, good as never before. You'll see them singly or in beautiful combinations of white and color. One of the most effective is a three-strand necklace with stark white, bright bluish aqua and Chinese red.

Another member of the red family, rust, receives favorable mention when combined with crystal beads.

And jewels, too, for man's best friend . . . the be-spangled dog leash. Introduced this year is a leash done in solid rhinestone or for a more plushy look, others are set with emerald or done in tailored gold. Attached bracelet fits the owner's wrist.

SHINY BLACK STRAWS

In the Easter Parade you'll see plenty of shiny black straw hats complementing black patent accessories; you'll see black and white checks polished with patent accents. In fact, if you want to shine in the Easter Parade, you'll be wearing jet patent accents.

JEWELRY TEXTURE

Pick your jewelry pets with texture-frosty, faceted, pebbly or crunchy!—Jewelry makes news with its "poodle" look, too!

POCKET DETAIL

Pocket interest gives endless variety to the new suits . . . buttons run rampant in suit fashions throughout the many collections and velvet is used for every possible suit trim.

Full Shirts Keep Designer's Favor

LONDON, Eng. — Of 24 suits in Hardy Amies' collection, eight have full skirts, either pleated or full and lined with taffeta or horse-hair, or both. Of 21 day dresses only four are straight and Amies has only one straight party dress out of 18 models.

This designer makes skirts one inch longer; that is, about 14 inches from the ground, and jackets a little shorter, about 24 inches.

Wider Brims Feature Hats This Spring

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, —(CP)—Low, wide and handsome is the London and Paris contour for the prettiest of spring hat styles.

Crowns are practically non-existent, brims are wider at the sides than in back and front ,and materials range from the smoothest of shiny straws to the coarsest garden meshes.

There are oyster satin models trimmed with black feather pompoms and tied under the chin with wide-mesh veiling. Basket hats range from woven reeds and grasses to open cane lattice-work.

From the smoothest of delicate straws with shallow brims and trimmings of big ribbon bows, twists of chiffon and loops of veiling, the fashion ranges to rough-weave models sometimes consisting of a straw brim pulled over a turban crown.

Brims can be worn high or low at will and several different crowns are used from black satin juliet caps embroidered in gold beading, to gaudy pirate 'kerchief crowns with a knot of material dripping over one ear under a rough straw brim.

The latest Paris straws are smooth and white, natural leghorn and basket weaves in champagne, grass green, peacock blue, crimson rose, charcoal and parma violet.

What better, say London and Paris designers, than the side droop of these big hats to balance the wide skirtline of slim-shouldered suits and dresses.

Odd Shapes Too

A good example is the shiny straw with pink and green floral trimming, used to top a wide-skirted dress of olive-green Nottingham lace over pink taffeta. The side sweep of the elegant straw balances the rustle of full petticoats and a matching lace-trimmed parasol completes the picture.

Wide hats do not, however, take the full field. For those who dislike hats that can be swept off in crowded underground trains, there are shallow, brimless models with side width, smooth trimmings and stiff veiling.

In contrast to the shallow look there are flower-pot hats with high crowns finished by a tiny curl that merely suggests a brim. Worn low on the head, almost completely hiding the hair, they have wide ribbon trim and are finished by dangling bunches of cherries.

"Quo Vadis" hats are another London line, typical being an ancient Praetorian guard helmet in gold satin with standing Mount of black Ostrich feathers, the visor brim beaded in black jet.

Also in gold satin is "the Legionnaire," a hat with humped thickness to the brimless crown and a horse-tail at back finished by black feather trimming. A resemblance to the beaver caps of early fur traders is heightened by a ridge of black feathers running from centre forehead to tip of tail.

Pretty Limbs Prettier In Spring Hose

The prettiest limbs on the family tree will be decorated with a virtual pageant of color and jewels this spring.

Hosiery makers are in love . . . with spring . . . with milady's legs . . . and have given wings to their fancies. On the heels of spring . . . a blush-red, little heart embroidered on a nylon heel . . . a flower spray climbing a pretty limb . . . jeweled bees and flowers, eye catchers on the newest nylons.

And the colors would melt the heart of a polar bear. There's "Georgia Peach", a sun tone, "Kansas Wheat", a tan-beige, "Vermont Maple", a soft brown-beige, "Florida Sand", a warm, light beige, and "Niagara Mist", a brown-taupe. All the colors show a trend towards lighter shades as perfect complements to Spring blues, rosy-reds and pearl and smoky grays. The desired "beautiful, bare effect" for feet and legs also places the emphasis on light toned hosiery seamless stockings and fine mesh.

Hair Stylists Go To Animal Fair

Hair stylists have obviously "been to the animal fair", for milady's newest coiffures are the "poodle cut" and the "pony-tail".

The poodle cut, with its short, brushed and curled look is responsible for the "disc" hat, which is nothing more or less than a flat disc, which perches atop the curls. Cocktail discs are shown in pastel velours, which are cut low on either side for balance and finished with a diamond clip.

To wear with the ponytail hair style with its accent on the back of the head, is the spring bonnet. Bonnets are side draped and practically backless, but very flattering, particularly in frosty-white or the new, pale, pale pastels.

Past Century Influence In Dresses

Dresses will go everywhere, do everything this spring. For whether designed as a single unit, jacket ensemble or two-piece frock, new lines and details ready the dress to stand alone and hold greater importance in wardrobes than in seasons past.

Simulated effects of boleros, redingotes and gilets appear as cleverly manipulated trims on dresses. Other dresses bloom forth from beneath their jacket companions, with new decorative touches and flattering decolete necklines. Even two-piece ensembles have single unit outlooks with tiny, gently molded jackets, like spencers that end just below the bustline, and skirts that are lined to emphasize their femininity, used generously.

And over all, helping to stress the importance of the dress, appears the return of the turn-of-the-century fashions with frocks, for every hour of the day, strongly influenced by the lady-like designs of that fabulous era.

Also in evidence, and just as femininely pleasing for spring is the princess line, the elongated torso line and the Empire feeling.

Straight And Slim

Typical dresses inspired by turn-of-the-century fashions are those that hang straight and slim at front, and full at back, with great emphasis placed on sleeves just as during that period.

In some instances sheath-slim dresses are created with full-blown organdy sleeves which can button in or out to meet the demands of the ocasion. The importance of sleeves is also seen in ruffed capelet style and oversize puffed designs.

Elongated Torso

Newest of the princess line dresses are those that team with princess line redingotes, both slim from shoulders to hipline, then flared out at the skirt. Lending elegance to the slenderness of princess silhouettes are collarless necklines and newly popular sleeves.

The elongated torso line appears in many guises for spring. Two-piece dresses often have long, moulded overblouse effects with all-round pleated skirts to emphasize the slim lines above.

THE EXTRAVAGANTLY-TUCKED SKIRT makes this dress a standout. It is styled in new rayon black or navy sheer and touched at the collar and cuffs with spirited polka dots.

HARD PILLOWS

Ancient Japanese emperors used hollow porcelain vessels for pillows, filling them with ice in summer and hot coals in winter.

A DOTTED SHEER NYLON dress with full push-up sleeves and flaring skirt, one of the many suits and dresses of the Henry Rosenfeld line, direct from New York, being featured at Pulver's.

So Right For Your New Spring Ensemble

Perfectly matched rhinestones, hand set in precious sterling . . . faultlessly fashioned to impart distinction and eye-filling beauty.

Gibson Girl Newsworthy Spring-1952

In wearing apparel and accessories, the Gibson Girl steps out of the past with an all-important emphasis in newest fashions.

High collars . . . full sleeves . . . waistlines made small and cinched-in, and back interest with skirt fullness, are all copied right out of the Gibson Girl era.

Accessories give special accent to the "G.G. look" with tailored, but clever little ties . . . high, extra collars, cummerbunds and belts in either wide or narrow widths.

Small waists look even smaller with hipline padding and stiffening, especially in the derriere . . . waist cinchers, beneath it all, and full leg o' mutton or balloon sleeves . . . above!

From young teens to their fashion-conscious mothers and grandmamas . . . all of fashion's daughters will find dress-up ideas in the "Gay Ninety" theme— a high point of the Nifty Fifties era!

TOUCHES OF WHITE and side draping are high style points in this ensemble worn by Miss Veronica Shannon, of Zeller's Limited. he dress is of Brucks ticatina crepe and has a short pleated peplum. Her gloves are white duplex fabric slipons with self whipstitching, her handbag a pleated crepe pouch with collared gilt frame and her smart opera pumps have the high Cuban heel. The hat is styled of white Swiss braid.—Duke Studio Photo.

Wasp Waistline Proclaimed Fashion's Whim For Spring

By The Canadian Press

The girl with speading waistline had better diet. Otherwise she won't be able to keep up with 1952 Easter parade styles.

The Canadian Press, in a survey of the bib-and-tucker industry, discovered that spring suits with "that nipped-in, rounded look" are all the rage this year.

But the short, full jackets may create more hips than style to figures already "rounded" by winter fat.

At Edmonton, fashion experts emphasized that spring suits will be more feminine in appearance than last year. There will be more detail in the sleeves. And more bad news for Hippy Hannah—suit skirts will be "very full."

Spring styles at Regina were described as "entirely new, gay and beautiful." Favorite colors with Western women will be "shrimp," a new coral shade, and navy.

Across Canada spring brides ma yforsake the traditional floor-touching gown of satin for a perky cocktail-length model of nylon net. One of Toronto's large department stores has the short wedding-gown in a window display.

Montreal designers are accentuating button-holes with satin and braid. The leather belt is coming back on tweed suits. The long, fitting lines of the "Princess-style" coat also has returned. Many of these garments are lined with bright material.

Anticipate Spring

At Winnipeg, fashion - wise women already are wearing silk prints under blonde fur coats. As soon as the weather grows warmer those furs may be exchanged for white or near-white coats.

Those in the know say dress styles in Winnipeg are "remisniscent of 1929." Dresses have adopted the "middy line," and newest box jackets taper toward the hip-line.

"Bat-wing" jackets, "windmill" jackets, "tucked dickies," and bow-ties will be trotted out for Vancouver's feminine trade.

In the Maritimes, milady will continue to wear the crinoline petticoat made poular last season. In Halifax, fashionable women will wear their dresses 13 inches from the ground.

In Newfoundland, the stores so far have displayed little Easter merchandise. However, it was learned that the new "coat" dresses featuring stiff rayon taffetas will continue to be popular.

Corduroy matched skirts and jackets in vivid shades of lilac, chartreuse and coral also are expected to attract buyers.

Finally, wherever she lives, the little woman probably will buy a hat this year with "back interest." For the benefit of the uninitiated male, this means the most fashionable hats will depend only on the face for decoration at the front.

The back of the hat probably will have clusters of artificial flowers, fruits, veil — perhaps even a feather — to tickle you when she turns around.

New Toppers Briefest Ever

Short cut to high style . . .the new, little toppers, brief as a sneeze! Copied almost exactly from the tremendous, full-length great-coats, these brief coats are long on fashion. . .short only in length.

You'll see them this year with full, stand-up collars. . .big revers . . .buttons. . .wide cuffs and push-up sleeves. . .all the workmanship and fine detailing of the long coats. But they're cropped as high as above the waist or down to fingertip length.

Colors are as various as a rainbow with some manufacturers offering as many as eighteen beautiful colors in one style, palest pink. . .soft blue to deep Peacock blue. . .creamy bisque. . . white and frosted colors. . . choose them as matching companions for your dress or suit or mix their wonderful colors to your fancy.

These little toppers go with big, swooping skirts like little boys with jam!. . .their brevity a perfect choice for the dramatic flare of wide skirts.

Poodle cloth takes to toppers as does the shorter, clipped poodles. Little jackets in these fabrics are snug and wrapable, graceful as a willow in the wind.

You'll find them in soft, fleecy wools. . .basket weaves. . .cashmere. They may be close as a hug-me-tight or loose and boxy . . . but they must be brief . . . briefer . . . briefest!

Norwood News

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hogg and children of Cobourg were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Hogg, over the weekend.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Max Scott were Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Preston and Chris; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fife, Jimmy and Karen Ann.

NORWOOD Y.P.U. MEETS

NORWOOD, March 27 (ENS)—The United Church Young People's Union meeting was held in the Sunday School room with the president, Dorothy Stinson, in the chair.

Walter Clark, missionary leader, took charge of the program. Dorothy McMillan read the scripture. Prayer was offered by Walter Clark. The theme was about missions in one of the hospitals in Canada. Betty Baker played a piano solo. Kenneth Trumpour then conducted a few enjoyable contests.

Full Skirts Remain Most Popluar

While the full skirts remain fashion's darling, they're taking many new turns in a springtime burst of fancy.

There's the popular "cape skirt" with fullness swinging to either side and to the front to form a flange hipline. It's beautiful in pastel or gold flannel, particularly when worn over the flirtatious, crinoline petticoat.

New too, is the full skirt that is slim in front and flared to the back in the Victorian manner, with 12 panels creating a dramatic flare. Front pockets create a pegline.

The always-good gray flannel skirt is given wings by the addition of a buttoned-down panel with gray buttons which flares from the front to the back. The "winged" skirt has a narrow back.

The slim back skirt keeps its fullness swinging out from the points of braid-edged pockets. With fullness accented here or there, back or front, the fashion swing is still to the wide, graceful, swooping skirt.

SPECIAL OFFER

Your Husband will think you're a wonderful shopper when you buy him this "bargain" in good looks and economy . . . a BVD NYLON TRICOT SHIRT. The smooth, attractive nylon tricot fabric keeps a man comfortable in all kinds of weather. The fused nylon collar and cuffs stay good-looking for the life of the shirt—without ironing. In fact, ironing is a thing of the past with a BVD Nylon Tricot Shirt! Laundering is no problem—just a quick rinse—wait a while—and the shirt's ready to wear. Just think—with shirts as easy to "do up" as this, you'll save the price of the shirt in laundry bills alone! What's more—a BVD Nylon Tricot Shirt outwears an ordinary shirt several times over. Buy him one—$12.95—available in white, blue, tan and grey.

The "Heart" Went Out Of Our Home the day the kitchen stove broke down. Right then and there I resolved to get a GURNEY! For a Gurney Range is truly the "last word" in efficient performance. It's a "certain-cure" thing that they had us women in mind when they designed these wonderful stoves. For one thing—the specially designed "Even-Heat" oven keeps the temperature exactly right—automatically—on the sides, the top, on the bottom . . . and even in the corners! But you'll want to see all of the famous Gurney features. Ask your dealer to show you the new Gurney ranges . . . all of them "kitchen-tested" for perfect performance—all beautifully designed with you in mind!

This Is The Kind Of Food News I like to be able to give you! . . . For less than 6c a serving, you can have a main dish for four that takes just 7 minutes to cook! And those are just some of the reasons why KRAFT DINNER is so popular! It's a delicious macaroni - 'n' - cheese combination that your family will love. In every package you'll find two mouth-watering ingredients . . . a special, fast-cooking macaroni and grated cheese for mellow, cheddar cheese flavour. M-mmm! So good! And so handy for "emergency meals" . . . it's off the shelf—into the pot—onto the table. A nutritious main-course dish for Lent. Look for it in the new yellow and red package!

Here's Instant Coffee He'll Really Enjoy. (And he'll enjoy what it does for your budget, too!) That's INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. Economical because there's no waste. Wink-quick and easy to make (takes no longer than boiling the water). And delicious. Yes, you'll fall in love with the flavour of this instant coffee. It's full-bodied—heartwarming . . . gives you a real lift. That's because it's the only instant coffee backed by over 85 years coffee experience. But you don't need to know this to appreciate its hearty, deep-down flavour. Every sip tells you that here is something special. So treat him to a cup of Instant Chase & Sanborn tonight. And serve it when guests drop in . . . it's as easy to make ten cups as one!

Setting-Up Exercises are good for you in the morning . . . and just as important at helping you start the day right is a "Wake-up" breakfast of "CREAM OF WHEAT". M-mmm! Delicious 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" was made to order for early-morning appetites. It cooks in just 5 minutes of boiling to velvety, tempting smoothness. And it's so good for you. For 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" gives you Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements . . . and all for less than 1c a bowl! Particularly good, I find, topped with brown sugar, raisins and cream!

"All Done!" . . . Yes, dishes are done in no time with those grand new chemical soaps. But they are hard on hands, aren't they? So — better keep JERGENS LOTION handy to smooth 'n' soothe your hands. Because it's liquid, Jergens quickly supplies the softening, smoothing moisture that dry, thirsty skin needs. Feels grand when you put it on . . . sinks right into your skin, leaving no greasiness at all. Why not try it? Your husband, for one, will notice how much lovelier your hands are looking. Keep a bottle of Jergens Lotion handy in both kitchen and bathroom — use it after every watery chore. Ask for Jergens—just 15c, 37c, 65c and $1.15.

"Most Used" of all the good things on my kitchen shelf . . . WINDSOR SALT. (Which reminds me—I must order some more right away!) Truly, Windsor Salt is my constant "cooking companion" . . . I use it in the kitchen and at the table to brighten the flavour of all kinds of foods. When I'm cooking omelets or making devilled eggs—I find that Windsor Salt does wonders for their flavour. And cooking green vegetables in "Windsor-salted" water helps to preserve their fresh green colour as well as their flavour. What's more, Windsor Salt is always free-running—whether the weather is damp or dry. No wonder it's Canada's most popular salt!

Bring The "Spirit Of Spring" right to the dinner table with sparkling JELL-O desserts. Desserts made with Jell-O Jelly Powders are irresistible — because the flavour is so fresh and delicious. You see, the flavour is locked right in each tiny particle until you release it by adding hot water to the Jell-O. Seven exciting "locked-in" flavours give you glorious variety. And, did you know — Jell-O costs only 2c a serving! Try . . .

BANANA FOAM
(So easy to make!)

1 package Jell-O (any flavour)
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water
1 banana
2 teaspoons sugar
1 egg white, stiffly beaten with dash of salt

Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Add cold water. Turn into sherbet glasses. Chill until firm. Just before serving, crush banana to pulp with silver fork, add sugar, fold into egg white, and beat well. Top Jell-O with banana mixture. Serves 6.

"Mommy! — It's As White As Snow!" . . . That young man is right—his mother's sheets are sparkling white and the secret, of course, is Blue. Just a swish or two of Blue in the final rinsing does the trick, for it's Blue that prevents clothes turning yellow. There's no pure white without blue in it. (I can remember that from my school-days, can't you?) And, when you think that Blue costs just a few cents a month, it's certainly worth it—isn't it? For Blue is safe as safe can be for your finest fabrics . . . and it keeps them snowy-white!

Yes, for the whitest wash, it's RECKITT'S Blue.

CANADA'S LARGEST SPECIALTY SHOPS

Peacock Blue Leading In Color Role

Blue is new . . . but it's a new blue! Brighter-than-navy is the newest star on the fashion horizon. Replacing last year's navy, this lighter, brighter blue is seen in all fabrics . . . from fleecy wool to tissue ginghams. It is the inspiration for spring suits . . . dresses . . . coats . . . the same wearable, good-any-time quality is apparent in the new blue as in the old navy. From light blue to Wedgwood . . . to bright blue . . . Peacock . . . the blue family plays a leading color role this spring.

To wear with the new blue, black patent is the most dramatic choice.

Beige Color

Second choice for spring: Beige, from light to toast. You'll see it in toppers, greatcoats . . . as a background for prints . . . and especially as a constant companion for white.

Prettiest color necessary: "mushroom" leather.

Still good, still pretty is the No. 3 color: grey. This year it is a pearly, light-toned grey, often cross-dyed with white for a "frosty" effect. Brief little jackets . . . ladylike, soft suits . . . matching sweaters and skirts . . . these are beautiful in frosted grey with almost the look of delicate, feathery cobwebs. Accesories may be "benedictine," a tawny leather, or black or navy.

Gaining prominence are the Frosty tones and white, which promises to be fourth choice for color this spring. Tweeds, worsted suitings, and shantungs all wear a "frosty" look. Perfect accompaniment for frosty tones: stark white. But the emphasis on the feminine this spring makes white a "must" for the smartest wardrobe. In sheer blouses, coats, suits and cotton dresses, white is dainty, fresh looking and impeccable.

There's a new pink this year too. "Shocking" takes the place of pastel pink, mauve is good and a rosy-red replaces sharp red. Prettiest combination for color bright: pink and rosy-red with the brighter-than-navy blue.

Sixth place on the color chart: gold or yellow. Suits and coats favor yellow, often combined with light grey. Playclothes and evening wear are beautiful in gold, particularly when the fabric is interwoven with metallic gold thread. Newest swooping skirts for at-home wear are heavily accented with gold. Even some toppers and longer coats boast lovely gold embroidery as trim. For a dramatic accent with yellow or gold: startling black patent.

Lilac is in but the trend is to a mauve pink and a violet blue mauve. Cottons and silks, often iridescent, lend themselves to the mauve tones and are especially flattering to a bronzed skin. This color tone is very striking in playclothes and beachwear. Mauve is an excellent choice for the fragile blonde or the silver-haired beauty.

Last word in the color course . . . the always-good black, wonderful in anything, very fashionable in denim. (Incidentally, copper denim promises to make fashion news this spring.)

The spring fashion parade is dramatic, completely feminine . . . but above all . . . colorful!

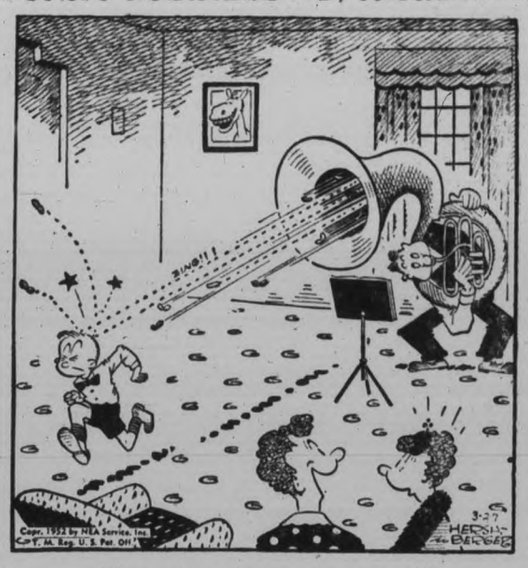
FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger



"Junior dropped peanuts in it again!"

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Thus Endeth Your Search Perfect Chocolate Cake

A pleasant little nudge from Julia V. pushed me into the kitchen on Saturday night after my young people had gone out dancing with their current "loves", and I wallowed in chocolate cake batter.

I had four chocolate cakes before I was finished. I was glad that both my sisters and my neighbours were entertaining on Sunday. True the surplus cakes they were handed were two halves each of four different products. My own favourite samplers had to taste every one. It is now Monday morning as I type this and there isn't a crumb left. Is it any wonder I have to work hard for a living?

Pete and Art liked the chocolate custard cake best. Marianne and I thought the Devil's food had the edge on it for flavour. There's no doubt that the texture of the chocolate custard and mouth-watering. Try them both and argue it out with your family.

Custard Chocolate Cake

First Part: Three 1-ounce squares of cooking chocolate, 2/3 cup sugar, ½ cup milk, 1 egg. Melt the chocolate in a saucepan over low heat, stir in sugar, then the milk and egg, which does not need to be beaten first. Stir over low heat until of smooth custard consistency. Stand aside at room temperature to cool.

Second Part: One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, 2 cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each soda and vanilla, 1 cup milk.

Cream the sugar and shortening in a large bowl until light and fluffy. Add yolks and continue beating for at least 2 minutes. Sift the dry ingredients together and sift 1/3 of them over the creamed mixture alternately with 1/3 of the milk to which you have added the vanilla. Continue until both are used. Fold in the cooled custard, until just blended. Grease and flour or line with buttered paper 2 9-inch layer cake tins. Pour in batter. It is quite thin. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 35 minutes—until cakes shrink from sides of pans.

1952 Devil's Food Cake

Into a large bowl sift 2¼ cups sifted cake flour, 1⅞ cups sugar, 1 teaspoon each salt and soda. Make a well in centre and put in it 2/3 cup very soft but not melted shortening, and 1¼ cups buttermilk, and beat for 3 minutes or until batter is smooth. Beat in 3 beaten eggs and 2½ squares melted chocolate. Beat 2 minutes longer. Pour into buttered and floured or paper-lined and buttered oblong pan about 13 x 9 inches. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 45 minutes—or until cake shrinks from edge of pan a little.

Both of these cakes may be baked in layers.

A wonderful way to finish is to split both layers into two layers. When cool, spread sweetened whipped cream between each layer and top with

Chocolate Milk Icing

Scald 6½ tablespoons evaporated milk. Over boiling water melt 5 tablespoons butter or margarine and stir in ½ cup cocoa. Remove from heat and add 2 2/3 cups sifted icing sugar, the scalded milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla and shake of salt. Beat until thick enough to spread.

SPRING? YOU BET IT IS—Winter, full-fledged, holds sway outside this New York store window, but it's not fooling the lady with the umbrella. She knows that when the new hats appear in the store windows, tulips and lilacs will soon appear in the gardens.

Y's Menettes Elect New Slate

Y's Menettes met this week at the home of Mrs. J. P. Moes, 307 Pearl Ave., and elected a slate of officers for the coming season. Mrs. Grant Gillespie, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following names which were unanimously approved.

President, Mrs. Steve Csumrik (re-elected); 1st vice-president, Mrs. Joe Watson; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Bob Miller; secretary, Mrs. Harry Powell; treasurer, Mrs. Jack Wilson. The project of the Y's Menettes for the coming months is to help the Y's Men equip the hospital room at Kamp Kawartha. April meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Bob Miller, 556 Charlotte Street, at which time the new officers will be installed.

St. James Mothers Meet

St. James' Baby Band Mothers regular meeting was held Wednesday evening with president Mrs. C. Jones in charge. Mrs. E. Bell explained how the mite box money is used in the Vancouver coast mission. Mrs. C. Davis, in charge of the program, read a story, "This Is What Love Can Do," which pointed out how love brings about happy, healthy children. Mrs. F. McGovarin read the scripture and Mrs. H. Stewart offered prayer. Miss Sandra Henwood entertained with a solo. The guest speaker was Mrs. R. Booth whose topic was missionary work in Japan and centred on the bringing up of children in that country. She stressed how much the Japanese depend on the missionaries. The president introduced Mrs. J. Dunkerley as a new member. She also announced a rally to take place at Mark St. Church April 24, and urged members to attend. Mrs. Stewart distributed tickets for the tea being held May 21. A contest was conducted by Mrs. Davis and the winner was Mrs. W. Miller. The lunch was served from a table very attractively arranged with Easter scenes.

Fete Mrs. Parkes' Birthday

Regular sewing meeting of the W.A. of St. George's Anglican Church on Wednesday was also the birthday anniversary of Mrs. S. Parkes, honorary president, who has been on ardent worker in the W.A. for many years. The members were happy to present a bouquet of spring flowers to Mrs. Parkes as a token of their esteem. Refreshments included a birthday cake complete with lighted candles presented by Mrs. E. Smith. During the afternoon the draw was made on a shopping bag which had been donated for talent money, and the winner was Mrs. Marjorie Atkinson, 153 Morrow St.

The all-purpose coat so popular with business girls in the spring is modelled at LEFT by Rita Gibson at Black's of Peterborough. This one is of light grey American sheen gabardine trimmed around the collar, buttonholes and piped pockets with navy and the big buttons are navy too. It features push-up sleeves and is worn here with a matching belt and hat. At RIGHT is Margaret Simmons who wears the "Jonathon Logan" special of imported plaid washable cotton, as seen in leading magazines, and available at Black's of Peterborough. It is set off with white fabric gloves.

Interior Decorating Display Interests Crowd Of 600

The first interior decorating display presented by the Major Bennett Chapter of the I.O.D.E., drew a crowd of about 600 to the Collegiate auditorium Wednesday evening. Quite a few men were in the audience and since there was a demonstration of wallpaper hanging it might be surmised that they are slated for extra work this housecleaning time.

Decorating counsellor Miss Frances James imparted the basic principles of tasteful home decorating and illustrated her lecture with wallpaper, draperies and rug samples. She first went through a supposed older house of the square brick type and then a modern house showing combinations on her easel. A series of slides of room interiors were shown afterward.

Relating Colors

Keynote of Miss James' advice was on relating colors from room to room so that a glimpse of the living room from the hallway or of the dining room from the living room does not startle. But by no means does she intend that the same color scheme be used in each room. She picked up the color of living room walls in the hallway curtains and papered the dining room in a patterned neutral tone in her first home. In the hallway she used a curved pattern wallpaper to offset square furniture. Wallpaper for the den had horizontal and vertical lines which are considered restful in the right combination.

Sunny yellow was advised for the kitchen with a combination of blue or green, but the ladies were told to incorporate red somewhere in the decorating and they would get twice as much work done in the morning.

In the bedrooms the decorator allowed individual choice and in the master bedroom for the first time suggested the use of plain and patterned walls. She advised allowing children to choose their own decorative scheme even to the point of letting junior have red walls if that is what he wants to live with.

Using two distinct patterns in a room is a principle Miss James follows successfully. With chintz living room curtains she used a striped upholstery fabric repeating one of the colors in the chintz and chose a stripe for chairs where there was a floral wallpaper. Where the carpet was colorfully patterned she advised plain draperies and vice versa.

Papering Easy

"Hanging your own wallpaper is easy," said Miss Kay Appleby and she proceeded to demonstrate it so. She first ruled off the walls, then measured off the paper, applied the cement, trimmed the salvage and proceeded to hang it straight and neat with the lines for guidance. Her way of folding the paper top down and bottom up, cemented sides together, made the operation easier. She had several short cuts for the home paperhanger to get around doors and windows nicely and she showed the proper way to cut openings for light switches or obstacles, and of holding the strip so it will not tear.

A total of 26 door prizes were given. Wallpaper bundles went to Mrs. George McKnight, Mrs. F. Rose, Mrs. D. J. Rosenburgh, Mrs. A. Caccavella, Mrs. H. Pearson and Mrs. J. M. Fanning. A wallpapering tool kit was given Mrs. R. Armstrong. Varnish, enamel, paint cleaner and wax were the prizes won by Mrs. W. Beatty, Mrs. K. Baritrip, Mrs. S. Constable, Mrs. H. Hamley, Mrs. Geo. Barns, Mrs. H. Redmond and Mrs. H. Doig. A floor mop was won by Mrs. J. Cullen.

Miss Jean Bulmer won a cup and saucer, Mrs. F. McNeely, Mrs. W. D. Gamble, and Mrs. H. Lambert won pictures, Miss M.Rowan a plastic table centre, Mrs. G. McMullen a rose bowl, Mrs. Ted Simpson a teapot, Mrs. H. A. Mitchell a flower bowl and Mrs. B. Till a serving plate.

Chapter regent Mrs. Don Murray introduced the lecturer and demonstrator and explained to the audience that proceeds of the affair will be used in the I.O.D.E. charitable work. Co-conveners of the display were Mrs. Ken Gibson and Mrs. Harry Hamley.

RALLY

One hundred girls and the group leaders of C.G.I.T. in the city attended a city-wide missionary rally Wednesday evening, held in the Y.W.C.A. recreation doom.

Guest speaker was Miss Mary Haddow who is under the Baptist Foreign Missionary Service, now enjoying a furlough at her home here. She showed pictures from the Peniel Hall Farm Clinic in Bolivia and with a Bolivian doll demonstrated how children are dressed and cared for in that country. Miss Pat Weston, president of Murray St. C.G.I.T. introduced Miss Haddow and she was presented with flowers by Miss Carol Garside. Miss Victoria McKim of the George St. group thanked the speaker and others taking part.

Miss Helen Kelly directed a period of games. Mrs. Leslie McLaren led the girls in a sing song and Mrs. W. L. McNeil played the piano.

The rally was in charge of leader Miss Marion Pogue.

Silver Cross Women's Tea Is Again Well Patronized

Silver Cross Women of Peterborough were again well patronized at their annual spring tea on Wednesday afternoon, though this is not a surprising fact since there are few homes in the city that were not affected by the last war and touched with sympathetic feeling for this group of women. (Wearers of the Silver Cross are the mothers and wives of men who lost their lives in the war.)

President Mrs. A. S. Williams welcomed about 250 ladies to the tea room in the Y.W.C.A. She was representing the army, and also receiving were Mrs. L. M. Freure representing the navy and Mrs. Alex Fitzgerald representing the air force. Mrs. John Allen was receiving the tickets.

An unusual arrangement on the tea table much admired was the work of Mrs. B. D. Hall. She had effectively combined purple stocks with daffodils and arranged them in twin vases of green glass and put yellow tapers in her silver candalabra at the centre.

Mrs. Hugh Waddell and past president Mrs. B. W. Harvey poured tea in the opening hour, and Mrs. M. E. Clarke and Mrs. B. D. Hall took over the duties at four o'clock.

Daughters of the members were assisting with the serving on this occasion. They includede Mrs. Eric Westbye, Mrs. Kenneth Harrison Mrs. Kenneth Hamley, Mrs. Paul Evans, Mrs. J. Morley, Mrs. R. Williams and Mrs. Ed. Weston.

Mrs. J. L. Young was convener of the refreshments and the members assisting her with replenishing and serving were Mrs. E. Pruner, Mrs. J. H. Quirt, Mrs. E. Cowling, Mrs. G. Young, Mrs. R. Kingdon. Mrs. F. Willison, Mrs. A. Williams and Mrs. J. G. Forsythe.

Mrs. James Ellis Sr. played quiet piano music at intervals during the tea hours.

Hostesses escorting the guests to seats were Mrs. N. Fee, Mrs. F. W. Burnham and Mrs. S. Gibbs.

Draw Prizes Attract

Three draw prizes attracted attention at the booths. Tickets on a lovely shawl were for sale by Mrs. Alex. Martin and the winner of this was Mrs. Hamlin, Caddy St. A hamper of groceries was in charge of Mrs. J. H. Coones and the winner was a chapter member, Mrs. J. E. Gynane who was in charge of the candy table which offered a nice box of home made candy as the third prize. Winner of this was Mrs. Thos. Smith, Reid St.

Mrs. Gynane had decorated her table and the candy baskets very prettily in the Easter colors, complementing the tea table. She was assisted with sales by Mrs. E. Brady. Home cooking was selling well with Mrs. F. H. Patterson, Mrs. A. Mason and Mrs. G. Brackenridge in charge.

The bazaar table featured a variety of the members' hand work and was attended by Mrs. W. J. Davies, Mrs. J. W. Ebbs and Mrs. Tom Hendry.

Proceeds of the tea will go toward the latest project of buying some equipment for use of veterans in the Kingston Military Hospital.

Community Centre Opened At Zion

Zion Community Centre opened the doors to a suppressed and enthused gathering last Friday evening. After many years of little interest having been taken in the hall the people of the community got together recently and decided to do something. For two weeks all was hustle and bustle in the small hall. Result—a sparkling interior. "One would never know the old place," said Deputy Reeve Dave McIntyre, who spoke at the opening. After much congratulating had passed from one to another the party got under way and dancing and euchre were much enjoyed by about 150 guests. The doorprize was won by Miss Marina Armstrong. Many dance and draw prizes were given also. Refreshments were served at midnight and the evening came to a close at one o'clock.

HASTINGS

HASTINGS, March 27 (ENS) — The Hastings Home and School Association held their March meeting in the senior room of the public school. The president, Mrs. S. Whitred presided. Mrs. S. Whitred was appointed delegate to go to Toronto for the Federation Convention to be held Easter week. Members discussed sending a carload to the convention for one of the days.

The question of a school radio was once again the topic and it committee to look into this purchase. Members are Mrs. F. Crate, Messrs. D. Thurston and W. J. Johnston made a motion that the movies be started again as soon as possible.

The program consisted of the film "The Age of Dependency" and the male quartet, C. Scriver, R. R. Burnham, F. S. Crate and L. W. Humphries sang a spiritual "Ezebiel Saw De Wheel" and "Nearer My God To Thee", accompanied by Miss Barbara Scriver.

Mrse. C. Baker moved a vote of thanks to the quartet and Mrs. J. Jones to Miss Scriver. The April meeting is to be Father's Night and also open house.

Queen Alex. Daffodil Tea Highly Successful Event

The annual "Daffodil Tea" of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was a lovely event of Wednesday afternoon, though the only appearance of spring sunshine was in the profusion of daffodils decorating the kindergarten tea room and the baking and candy tables. It was very successful financially with proceeds exceeding last year.

More than 200 came to the tea though all ticket holders didn't appear, possibly because of the weather. With benefit of yearly experience the arrangements were very well in hand and the guests were delighted with their entertainment.

Incidental tea music was played for them by Mrs. K. Kingston, Mrs. K. R. McVeety, Mrs. I. C. Morgan and Mrs. I. Ellicott.

The tea table was done by Mrs. E. S. Kingdon who had placed two dozen beautiful daffodils into a gold block which seemed to be floating on clouds of green tulle and she highlighted the arrangement with yellow tapers on either side. The tea cloth was hand crocheted.

Tea poureres were all past presidents. Theye were Mrs. Charlton McBride, Mrs. W. B. Lang, Mrs. O. J. Hayward and Mrs. P. S. Dallin.

Mrs. George Coleman was convener of the tea assistants who were Mrs. C. J. Cadd, Mrs. C. E. Potts, Mrs. R. Sager, Mrs. A. Bacon, Mrs. H. R. Selby, Mrs. F. S. Kingdon, Mrs. K. Telford, Mrs. D. Wilson, Mrs. G. Howden, Mrs. M. Jarvis, Mrs. H. Tewsley, Mrs. C. Fraser, and members of the teaching staff, Misses Hart, Bonnycastle, Staples, Arnold, Connelly and Dafoe.

Mrs. C. Law looked after refilling the tea services and the plates were reprenished by Mrs. F. Shaw, Mrs. J. R. Jobe, Mrs. F. Whitton and Mrs. C. Jackson. The refreshments were convened by Mrs. G. Norris, Mrs. G. Galfield and Mrs. F. Dunfield.

Very delicious things were on the well-stocked home baking table which was under the charge of Mrs. R. Stewart. Her assistant salesladies were Mrs. W. E. Turner, Mrs. H. Ward, Mrs. B. Baker, Mrs. L. Bateman, Mrs. T. Williams and Mrs. T. Pritchard.

The candy table also did a splendid business with Mrs. A. W. Clark and Mrs. D. W. Way in charge.

Welcome was extended by the Association president, Mrs. Arthur Black and her vice-president, Mrs. Dion Snelgrove. Children were taken to the nursery where they were looked atfer by Mrs. E. Outram and Mrs. I. Drain.

Co-conveners of the tea were Mrs. George Cheatle and Mrs. Howard Perry. Ticket convener was Mrs. O. Axford and treasurer Mrs. R. Delahaye assisted her.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Advised To Forget Her Neglectful Sweetheart

DEAR MISS DIX: Last summer, when I was 18, I spent part of my vacation in Washington, where I met a very nice young man, Douglas. He asked me out quite a few times and I became very fond of him. He offered to drive me home, when it was time for me to return here, and I accepted. Mother and father both thought he was very nice. We wrote each other for a while, and soon I realized I was in love with him, and he told me—by letter and on the telephone—that he loved me, too.

He came to New York to see me, and called a few times—then I didn't hear from him for a month. My mother told me to try to forget him, but I couldn't. I did enjoy going out on week ends. Then when I was beginning to forget a little, he called, saying he was in New York and wanted to see me. So everything came back—all the feelings I had for him that I tried to subdue. He asked me if I loved him, and though I tried to evade the subject, I finally admitted I did. He went back to Washington, and I haven't heard from him since. Should I give up hope completely, or write and ask why I haven't heard from him? He says he's not much of a letter-writer.

ALINE E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The answer to Douglas' behavior is simple enough to fathom, but the solution to your personal problem is not so easy. Douglas, it would appear, has a heart that wanders, rather than grows fonder, with absence. His last visit to your city was probably made in the hope that he would find you no longer in love with him, and with his conscience salved, could return to Washington to take on whatever heart interest he has acquired there. This is not a pleasant outlook for you to face, but it would be foolish to fool yourself into believing that he may possibly come back.

May Have Girl At Home

After all, Douglas is far more likely to find a sweetheart on home grounds; in fact, he may even have had one before he met you. While his interest in you was undoubtedly genuine while you were around, it wasn't strong enough to utlast separation. Isn't it better to know a man's inconsistencies before it's too late to do anything about them? You'll have a heartache for quite a while, but hearts at 18 mend much faster than you think. There'll be other boys along, and one, at least, will be fascinating enough to cast all thoughts of Douglas from your mind.

He would have been much more honest had he told you exactly why he stopped writing and calling, but, being gallant at heart, I guess the easiest course for him was departure and evasion.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow past 50 years of age. For several months I have been working in an office and have gotten attached to two men who also work there. They are both nice to me and I can't decide which one I would like to go out with. I don't want to hurt either one of them.

MAY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: When it comes to a delicate point of choosing between two friends, only you can decide. After all, you are the one who knows their personalities, habits, characterisitics. You must figure out which man is more congenial to you. Surely they can't be so evenly matched that it's a tie. Don't worry about hurting anyone's feelings, either. Office friendships usually are not on so high an emotional level that they result in that much disturbance. Go out with the first one who asks you, and if the other asks also, let him wait his turn. Closer acquaintance with both men should easily supply the clues for a solution to your mystery.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going with a man for three years. We are very much in love and he wants to marry me. We have both had an unhappy marriage in the past. We like to do the same things and so far have been able to work out any problem that has arisen. I have a small child whom he adores. In fact, the whole situation is perfect except for our ages—I am 24 and he is 43. Do you think we could be happy?

BEVERLY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The difference in your ages is not such a barrier if all other conditions are as favorable as you say. If you are sure your're both in love, and he can provide for you and your child—go ahead and ring the wedding bells.

6—In Memoriam

BREEZE—In loving memory of Mrs. Margaret Breeze, who passed away 16 years today, died March 27, 1936.
Life has not been the same to me
Since you were called away.
—Missed by her daughter, Mrs. Maud Cavanaugh, 671 Ferry W., Detroit.

SLAUGHTER—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away two years ago, March 27, 1950.
Sleep on, dear mother, for it is true
You suffered much and told so few,
But someone knew you needed rest,
'Twas God above, He knew the best.
—Lovingly remembered by sons and daughters.

7—Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank my attending doctors, the nurses of Peterborough Civic Hospital and all friends who sent cards, fruit and flowers, and visited me during my recent illness—G. D. Mann.

I wish to thank the nurses, sisters at St. Joseph's Hospital for their kindness, also C.G.E. Veterans, and neighbors for fruit and cards during my stay in hospital.—Mr. Y. Brierley.

City Man Wins Bushel Of Oats At Spring Show

H. G. Sanderson, 176 Prince St., was the winner of the bushel of registered oats given as a door prize at the Spring Show Wednesday.

"I hope you have a big crop, Mr. Sanderson," was the remark of Frank C. Patterson in announcing the winner. Just where it is going to be grown, however, was not mentioned.

Mrs. Alex Edmison of Smith won the Ed Summers gladioli for women. Mr. Summers has some of the finest glads in the country. They are a hobby of his, as agricultural representative . . . There is more corn in Egypt for tonight's draw,—or should it be corms?

Presentation of the Agricole Trophy to the three Durham boys who won the inter-county seed judging competition was made by the general manager, M. J. Daignault of Agricultural Chemicals Limited, Port Hope.

Frank C. Paterson was chairman of the luncheon at the Empress Wednesday at which the 52 grain judging boys had an opportunity of hearing Dr. J. D. MacLachlan of O.A.C. Others at the head table were: E. I. MacLaugry, who is liaison officer between O.A.C. and the Ontario Department of Agriculture; the Rev. A. E. Larke of Springville United Church, who invoked luncheon grace; Garnet Rickard, a member of advisory committee of O.A.C.; Mayor Hugh Waddell; Dr. G. P. McRostie of O.A.C.; Mel McHolm, Port Hope, chairman of the Show; G. A. Gillespie, Warden R. R. Stewart; John Dawson, Ottawa, of the plant products division of the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

Others introduced were Warden Harry Campbell of Northumberland-Durham counties; Wm. Newman of Lorneville; two of the grain judges, N. D. MacKenzie of Toronto and George Elliott of Ottawa, and the county agricultural representatives who have done a lot of work for the Show: LeRoy Brown of Victoria; Ralph Banbury of Northumberland; A. O. Dalrymple of Hastings county and his assistant Frank Stone; Lynn Fair, Ontario County; Tom Taylor, Prince Edward; Doug Miles, Frontenac; and Newton Ashton of Lennox-Addington.

Dr. Maclachlan was introduced at the luncheon by Garnet Rickard of Bowmanville.

Dollar Down

MONTREAL, March 27 (CP) — The United States dollar today opened at a discount of ⅝ of one per cent in terms of Canadian funds, down 1/16 from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $0.99⅜ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.79, down 3/16 from Wednesday.

Produce, Livestock Markets

HOG PRICES

STRATFORD, March 27 (CP)—Truck hog prices were quoted here today at $25.25.

TORONTO FRUIT

TORONTO, March 27 (CP) — Wholesale fruit and vegetable prices were unchanged here today.

Potato prices also were unchanged.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, March 27 (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market opened steady here today at unchanged prices.

Graded eggs cases free, delivered Toronto: Grade A large 37-37½; A medium 36-36½; A small 33; grade B 31; grade C 28-29.

Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 40-42; A medium 39-40; A small 36-38; grade B 35-36; grade C 33-35.

Butter solids: First grade 65¼ (nominal); no price established on second or western grades.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 27 (CP).—Prices moved narrowly in early trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. However, a fairly steady undertone was noted in some grains.

Commercial demand was limited, with a few shipper orders in oats and light American buying in rye. Hedging also came out in oats during the dull trading.

11 a.m. prices:

Oats: May 1½ lower 93A; July ⅞ lower 83¾; Oct. ⅜ lower 82¼.

Barley: May 1 lower 1.23½B; July ¾-⅞ lower 1.19⅝B; Oct. ¼ lower 1.17½.

Rye: May 1¾ lower 1.97⅜B; July 1⅞ lower 1.95⅜B; Oct. not open.

Flax: May 2 lower 4.03A; July, not open; Oct. 2¼ lower 3.97¼A.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 27 (AP) — Grains were mostly lower at the opening today, but a couple of wheat contracts managed to make small advances.

Trading was more active than it has been in other sessions this week.

Soybeans and corn showed the widest losses. Wheat hovered around the lows established Feb. 27, but did not break through these resistance points.

Wheat started ⅜ cent lower to ½ higher, May $2.50½-¼; corn was unchanged to ⅞ lower, May $1.84¾-½, and oats were ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, May 85⅜-⅝. Soybeans were ¼-¾ cent lower, May $2.92-2.91¾.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Cattle prices were firm on the small offering at the Ontario Stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 80, calves 10, hogs 420, sheep and lambs 50. The leftover from Wednesday fas 100 cattle.

Good steers were selling at $24-$25.50. Good cows brought $19-$21, with a few tops at $22. Good fed yearlings were at $26.

Calves were steady at $27-$29 for choice vealers with a few common downward to $18.

Hogs sold at $26 for Grade-A, with sows $16 dressed.

A few good heavy lambs sold at $31.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

MONTREAL, March 27 (CP) — Prices were generally steady this week on the Montreal livestock markets, although some of last weeks irregularity was still apparent as prices of some groups fluctuated.

Total receipts for the week were 1,400 cattle, 3,400 calves, 35 sheep and lambs and 7,000 hogs.

Moderate cattle offerings made up mostly of cows moved slowly throughout the week at steady to easier prices on steers, heifers and cows while bulls lost about $1. Mixed loads of good to choice steers brought 26-28, medium 22-26, common 19-22. Medium heifers were 20-24, common from 15-19.50. Good cows sold at 20-22, medium 17-19.50, common 14-17, canners and cutters which were hard sellers 8-14. Good quality bulls made 20-22, common and medium 15-20.

The calf market started to increase and this week, with over 3,400 on hand, sellers had to take a 3-5 loss compared with last week's average. Good quality vealers sold mostly at 24-25, a few choice up to 27. Early Monday whole common and medium ranged from 10-23.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 27 (AP)—Cattle 450; good slaughter cows 21.00-22.00; cutters 18.50-20.00; fat yellow cows 17.50-19.00; canners 15.00-18.00; good dairy type slaughter heifers 26.00-27.00; common heifers 22.00-25.00; sausage bulls 24.00-27.00.

Calves 100; choice calves 40.00-41.00; good calves 34.00-39.00; mediums 26.00-34.00; common 20.00-25.00; culls 14.00-20.00.

Hogs 850; nearby hogs 14.75-16.50; sows 12.50-14.50; boars 7.50-10.50.

Sheep and lambs: Market not established.

Oats Excellent

Dr. G. P. McRostie of O.A.C., one of the judges, said the oat classes were excellent, and would rate high in any show.

Officially opening the Show which continues to Friday afternoon for the concluding sale of exhibits, Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, recommended with significant emphasis the two-year diploma course in the three agricultural institutions of education in the province.

The total number of students in that course at O.A.C. Kemptville and Ridgetown Agricultural Schools was fewer than two for every 1,000 farm families of Ontario, Dr. MacLachlan said.

"This two-year course is designed to give the student a sound foundation in farming and its modern practice and ideas, and also in methods of organization, experience in bookkeeping, public speaking and general personal development", he said. "For the blend of all these advantages that are made available to our young farmers, I would like to see five times as many students in that course at the three colleges. It is sound investment of two years of the student's life, and should be of more value to him than two years' study for matriculation in High School".

Dr. MacLachlan was welcomed on his first visit into this district since becoming president of O.A.C. by President Mel McHolm of Port Hope, Warden R. R. Stewart of Peterborough county and Mayor Hugh Waddell of this city.

He congratulated the directors at their luncheon for stressing practical phases of grassland farming for their first show in succession to the Quinte Seed Fair. This subject was discussed later in the afternoon by A. M. Barr, principal of Kemptville School, who recommended the economy of grass as pasture, hay and ensilage as a means of reducing farm costs particularly in the production of milk.

Cars Collide Say Damage $100

More than $100 damage to the two vehicles resulted when two cars collided at Sherbrooke and Aylmer Sts., Wednesday morning.

Robert G. Hamilton, 215 Reid St., was going south on Aylmer St., and was about to make a left hand turn to go east on Sherbrooke St. As he was making the turn, another eastbound car driven by G. Ernest Gordon, 620 Gilmour St., was overtaking him and the two cars collided.

Mr. Gordon said he did not realize the Hamilton car was going to make a left turn until it was too late to avoid the accident.

Damage to the front end of the Hamilton car was estimated at $91. The front wheels were knocked out of line on the Gordon car by the impact, and both the right front and right rear fenders were damaged.

Constable Gerald Emmons investigated.

High Prices Hit Budget

LONDON, March 27 (AP). — Rising prices have hit the British budget itself. Copies of the 1952 budget went on sale Wednesday for three shillings each. Last year's sold at one shiling sixpence.

Church Young People Hold Rally At George St.

Approximately 100 representatives of all Young People's Unions of the Peterborough Presbytery attended a rally held in George St. United Church Wednesday night by the National Youth Caravan of the United Church of Canada.

The rally began with a banquet followed by a sing song led by Miss Evelyn Lapp, National Young Peoples' Union convener for recreation and culture.

A short worship service was held in the church auditorium conducted by Miss Mary Kennedy of Bobcaygeon. Miss Kennedy used the theme, Are We Seeking the Kingdom of God.

The main speaker of the evening was the Rev. Lloyd Shorten, secretary of Young Peoples' Work of the United Church and leader of the caravan.

Mr. Shorten explained why the youth caravan was organized and its main purposes.

The caravan was organized primarily to share in that witness of what the Christian faith means. To share the experience of this faith. The second reason for its organization was to find out what constitutes a worthwhile program for the Y.P.U. of the church. And third, in the study of this program and organization to discover the true stewardship of life in relation to the church and young people today.

The speaker outlined some of the experiences of the caravan in some of the isolated Prairie communities.

Many Inexperienced

"We found a great many groups made up of high school age people who were inexperienced and did not know how to make their Y.P.U. work effective," Mr. Shorten said. "They had many questions and problems for which they did not know the answers. However they felt a basic need in their lives for something that wasn't there that they felt the church could give them."

The speaker emphasized the need for studying the basic and fundamental needs of the young people in the groups and trying to meet these needs.

Following Mr. Shorten's address and group discussion period was held. The groups were led by Art Dixon, Lloyd Stark, Miss Mary Stewart, Bill Piercy, Miss Lapp and Miss Mary Kennedy.

The questions raised by these groups were how to get young people into union groups and keep them there and the extent of responsibilities of young people to the church.

Start With Members

The Rev. Bob Morris, a member of the caravan explained that the best way to attract young people into the group was to start with the members of the groups themselves. Try and inspire them so that they are enthusiastic and this will attract others.

A recreational period of games and folk dancing was led at the end of the rally by Miss Lapp.

During the evening Mr. Shorten displayed a book exhibit and stressed the importance of reading these books which dealth with all aspects of the church and young people's work.

The caravan members were thanked for coming to Peterborough by Bill Piercy of St. James' United Church and president of the Bay of Quinte Conference Young People's Unions.

The arrangements for the caravan's visit were made by Miss Mary Stewart of St. Andrew's Church and a member of the executive of the Bay of Quinte Conference Young People's Unions.

Obituary

SISTER M. THEODORE

Sister M. Theodore, of the Sisters of St. Joseph died in St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday following an illness of several months.

Sister Theodore, Evaline O'Neill was the daughter of the late John O'Neill and Ellen Daly of Douglas, Ontario. She entered the community of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Peterborough in 1912. She served for a number of years in the House of Providence and then in St. Joseph's Orphanage.

Later in the capacity of sacristan, she served in Sudbury, Campbellford and Cobourg.

She leaves two sisters, Sister M. Adele, principal of Sacred Heart School, Sister Mary Zita of the Community of St. Ann of Hudson, Quebec; four brothers, Brother Gregory of Montreal, Michael J. of Griffith, Ontario, Leslie of Detroit, Michigan, and Joseph of Melville, Saskatchewan. One brother John predeceased her two months ago.

The funeral will be held Friday morning when requiem mass will be celebrated in the chapel of Mount St. Joseph at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Ask Government Increase NHA Loan Share

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Robert Drummond, immediate past president of the Canadian Construction Association, today suggested that the federal government increase its share of loans under the National Housing Act, so that available mortgage money may be spread further.

Addressing the West Toronto Kiwanis Club, Mr. Drummond said the value of mortgage loans for new housing approved by lending institutions last year, was more than 25 per cent below the 1950 level, "and it is understood that no appreciable increase will be made in 1952.

"As a result, even people with the necessary down payment are finding it difficult to obtain a N.H.A. loan. Unless the private lending institutions alter their policy, it is therefore unlikely that an amendment to the N.H.A. reducing the down-payment requirements would result in increased house-building at present, since this would mean larger mortgages per house, and hence fewer houses could obtain mortgages.

"While in many ways it is not desirable to have the federal government become a large-scale landlord, it would appear to be safe to increase its share of the present joint loans under the N.H.A., from the present 25 per cent to a 33⅓ or 40 per cent level, thus permitting the amount of mortgage money available from the lending institutions to be spread over more houses.

Second In Priority

"Housing is second only to defence projects in priority and should not be allowed to fall below production-capacity levels.

Mr. Drummond said that for the first time since the war, the number of dwelling units completed last year did not exceed the number built during the preceding year.

While, he added, defence production programs made heavy demands in 1951, even so, the house-building section of the construction industry was not working at maximum capacity towards the end of the year.

Mr. Drummond said the Canadian construction industry, made up of several thousand businesses, will carry out a program this year with a gross value of $3,500,000,000, of which nearly $3,000,000,000 will be in new construction and the rest in repairs and maintenance.

"This volume of work exceeds that performed by those engaged in agriculture, forestry or, by a large margin, mining. Out of Canada's gross product this year, estimated at around $22,500,000,000, one out of every six or seven dollars created in produce and service, will be a construction dollar."

May End Diphtheria

LONDON, March 27 (Reuters). — Diphtheria may be eiminated from Britain within the next few years, the health ministry predicts. A statement reporting an all-time low for the disease was issued Wednesday. It listed 32 deaths from diphtheria last year compared with 49 in 1950. Credit was given to the immunization program started in 1940.

Raise $426,389

TORONTO, March 27 (CP) — The 16 auxiliaries of the British and Foreign Bible Society in Canada raised $426,389 in 1951 along with $73,212 for a special Jubilee Fund, the biennial meeting was told Wednesday.

Negotiate Loan?

TORONTO, March 27 (CP), — A Toronto paper said in a newspage story Wednesday the Ontario Hydro Commission negotiated a loan of $50,000,000 from a syndicate in which the Bank of Montreal and other banks and financial houses collaborated. Hydro officials would not comment immediately.

Wants Aid from Province

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Controller Louis Shannon Wednesday told Board of Control that the Ontario government with its "bloated" income should shoulder the entire welfare-cost burden. He said: "It is about time we started fighting with Queen's Park to demand relief for the municipal taxpayer."

Better Trees Must Be Grown Experts Declare

MONTREAL, March 27 (CP).— The Woodlands section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association was told Wednesday that more and better trees must be grown although the industry operates on sustained yield.

Gordon Godwin, section chairman, said in his annual report that in the last two years the pulp and paper industry had taken the lead in forest management and "we cut no more than the forest is capable of growing."

"We will have plenty of trees for ever to maintain our industry, but that's not good enough," said Mr. Godwin, assistant general manager for Woodlands of the Ontario Paper Co., Thorold, Ont.

"Our duty as forest managers to the industry and to the nation is to increase the supply of wood fibre to meet an ever-growing demand for pulp and paper.

Spending Big Sums

"We are spending a lot of money and doing a fine job on fire protection, on inventories and preliminary working plans, and on road construction, without which forest management is impossible.

"Now we must engage on a major effort to grow more trees and better trees. The industry should prepare for substantial expenditures on applying present silvicultural knowledge and on getting busy with fundamental research."

C. C. Wright of the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Co., Kapuskasing, Ont., reported on beneficial results from a program of leisure-time study classes. The program was evolved in co-operation with the Ontario Department of Education and includes classes in basic English, citizenship and other subjects for immigrants and other employees as well.

Visitor Suggests Province Erect Agricultural School

"Somewhere in this district we should have an agricultural school like Ridgetown or Kemptville," William Newman of Lorneville suggested Wednesday at the Central Ontario Spring Show.

"Premier Frost has an opportunity of doing a great service for the farmers of these counties, and I think we would all urge him not to let it slip through his fingers.

"One the east, Kemptville Agricultural School is only 2 miles from Ottawa, on the west, Ridgetown is not much more than that from Guelph and O.A.C. That leaves, the long stretch of the province in between those two schools, and I hope our own Lindsay Premier will give it some thought.

Had Wide Effect

"We know from the results around Kemptville that it has had a broad effect on the farming communities and their people in eastern Ontario. G. Howard Ferguson had that school built in his constituency, and it is proving its worth more and more every year. We have seen the general improvement in agriculture in that area, and we feel sure that comes directly from having the Kemptville Agricultural School in its midst.

"I feel confident that Mr. Frost will find general approval for this idea if he looks into it. The agricultural school is no longer regarded as a luxury. Farmers' opinions have changed too much for any old fashioned idea like that.

"No,—it is a question of how much more can be done for efficiency in farming, and to bring the facts closer to the people. In all sincerity I think Premier Frost should consider what the province can afford to do for these central Ontario counties."

De Facto Recognition

Wauketa Sinks At Trenton Dock

LAKEFIELD, March 27. (ENS) —The voyage from Stony Lake to Trenton, taken last October by the Wauketa, may have been its last, according to word recently received from that port.

Well known to Lakefield residents, the 85-foot tug which for 14 years carried Nepheline from Stony Lake to Lakefield, sank at the dock in Trenton where it has been moored since its arrival last fall.

Everything seemed peaceful when the Wauketa suddenly began to sink and in a short time the deck was almost entirely beneath the water. Neither owner nor captain was around when the sinking occurred.

Frog Invasion

US Trade Actions Anger Canada CMA Head Warns

TORONTO, March 28. (CP)—The attitude of the United States in regard to trade restrictions has created disappointment and resentment in Canada, both in official and business circles, Hugh Crombie, of Montreal, said today. Addressing the Toronto Rotary Club, Mr. Crombie, who is president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, referred particularly to American customs practices and current restrictions against cheese imports. He suggested strengthening of Canadian customs laws to guard against unfair competition from other countries.

"The general agreement on tariffs and trade drawn up and agreed to at Geneva in 1947," Mr. Crombie said, "was in effect a charter containing a code of fair practices in all matters pertaining to international trade.

"This was the brain-child of the State Department in Washington. The tariff concessions became effective Jan. 1, 1948, but in respect of provisions which required legislative approval, an understanding was given that endeavors would be made to secure this at the earliest practicable date.

"In 1948, Canada, in good faith, implemented the commercial provisions of the general agreement and amended the valuation for duty provisions of the Customs Act. Today, imports enter Canada more freely than they do any other country, and goods may enter Canada at prices below the cost of production in the country or origin.

"Although the United States agreed to simplify its customs procedure to facilitate imports into the United States, nearly five years have passed and they have not taken any action.

"In fact it would almost appear as if there is even little hope of either the proposed international trade organization or the general agreement on tariffs and trade ever being placed before Congress.

"Not only has the United States failed to carry out its obligations, but its recent quantitative restriction on the import of cheese is a direct contravention of the general agreement.

"One result of Canada's action in amending the valuation-for-duty provisions of the Customs Act, is that as goods have become in surplus supply in other countries and available for export at low prices, there has been an alarming increase in importations, particularly of consumer goods, and chiefly from the United States.

"This has resulted in a reduction in the volume of production in Canada and in loss of employment in certain industries.

"Representations have been made to the government asking that it take adequate measures to reduce the excessive importations of goods manufactured in other countries which compete unfairly with goods made in Canada, owing to dumping or distress selling. The customs law should be strengthened by restoring the safeguards which it contained previous to the general agreement."

Standing Pat On Ontario Education Plan

TORONTO, March 28. (CP)—The Ontario government is standing pat on its education policy. Both Premier Frost and Education Minister Dunlop re-stated in the legislature Thursday night the government's policy on the controversial Hope report on education.

Mr. Frost said the policy is unchanged from his statement of a year ago—that the government will adopt no policy that would divide the people. He added that greater advances are being made in education than anywhere else in North America and the government is not bound by any recommendation of the Hope Report.

Neither speaker referred to the report's most controversial recommendation, dealing with separate schools.

The education minister said, however, there were some recommendations in the report that were "perhaps more controversial than we care to deal with at the present time."

Never Sidestepped

"We have never sidestepped the question of the Hope report," the Premier said. He had voiced his policy on it during the election campaign "and it was accepted by the people."

In the three-hour night sitting, the House passed estimates for the departments of health and education totalling $113,791,000—nearly half the total amount to be voted this session.

Health Minister Phillips told the House that he would like municipalities to wait for at least another year before beginning fluoridation of water supplies to prevent tooth decay. He said it

Eight Million Near Starvation

NEW DELHI, March 28—(AP)—A good ministry spokesman said today 8,000,000 persons in two Southern-India states are suffering from near-famine conditions. He said the central government and state governments are meeting the situation with the determination "not to allow even one peasant to die of starvation."

It is the fifth year of drought in the Madras area. The ministry spokesman said it was the old tragic story of crop failures and lack of drinking water made harsher by its long continuation.

The worst suffering is in the Rayalaseema district of Madras, where 5,000,000 are facing near famine conditions and in Uttar Pradesh state where 3,000,000 are affected.

The spokesman said emergency distribution of food is being made from reserve stocks of 400,000 tons of rice in Madras state which had been intended to tide the area over until November. The Uttar Pradesh Government is tapping a 200,000-ton wheat reserve to feed its hungry.

BULLETIN

CAIRO — (Reuters) — The Egyptian government has unearthed a big attempt to smuggle arms and ammunition into the country for subversive purposes, Salah Mortaga Bey, director-general of public security, said tonight. Large quantities of explosives have already been seized, he said. Martial law will remain in force until further notice "for the safety of the state," Mortaga Bey added.

Feel Canada Not Friend Chiang Says

Asks Why Dominion Often Sponsors Unfriendly Nations

TAIPEH, Formosa, March 28 (CP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said today his Chinese Nationalist government feels it has lost Canada's friendship since it was ousted from the Chinese mainland by the Communists.

In an interview at his headquarters here, he told this correspondent:

"You are the first Canadian to visit me since my government withdrew to Formosa. I want to ask you a question:

"When we were on the mainland we had the closest relations with Canada. We considered Canada our best friend among Commonwealth nations.

"Since then we have come to feel we have lost the friendship of Canada. Some of the unfriendliest motions introduced against us in the United Nations were proposed by Canada. Why is this?"

Amiable Discussion

This reporter and Chiang then engaged in an amiable discussion of the pros and cons of the question of recognition of Communist China, the reporter maintaining that being realistic about a given situation need not be construed as a wavering of friendship.

(Canada has not recognized Communist China, although Britain has.)

Chiang, however, wasn't ready to agree that it was realistic.

"You say realistic. If you are realistic you will realize your business, diplomatic and missionary interests are all harmed by Communist usurpation and that your missionaries — Roman Catholic ones especially—are being maltreated.

"I do not complain. But we did have such friendly relations with your country once that it feels now like having one's friends abandon one in difficult days."

Possible Explanation

In Ottawa Canada's stand on recognition of Red China was seen as a possible explanation for Chiang Kai-Shek's contention that Canada has become unfriendly.

Chiang's statement Canada has proposed "some of the unfriendliest motions introduced against us in the United Nations" only puzzled officials of the External Affairs Department.

One official said he knows of not a single motion by Canada that would fall under that heading.

But, it was suggested, Chiang might be irked because Canada has not joined the United States in saying flatly that recognition of Red China is out. Canada's stand has been that the question should be discussed as part of a general conference on far eastern questions once the Korean war is stopped.

CHANGE INQUIRY DATE?—Judge J. D. MacRae (right) of Whitby who has accepted an appointment by City Council to conduct the inquiry into the circumstances of the Fred Brant case indicated today the inquiry may not start on April 1 as planned. He said he and R. D. Humphries (left) of Oshawa who has consented to act as counsel for the investigation need time to familiarize themselves with the matter.

Fred Brant Case Inquiry Delayed; Judge To Learn Details Of Investigation

A telephone interview with Judge J. D. McRae of Whitby today revealed that it is doubtful if the Brant inquiry will start Tuesday. Judge MacRae has accepted an appointment by city council to conduct the investigation into the case of Fred Brant, the Lindsay youth who has had part of both feet amputated as the result of frostbite. It was announced on Tuesday that the inquiry would start at 11 a.m., April 1, and continue the next day.

Judge MacRae said today he would not say definitely that the inquiry would start Tuesday because he and R. D. Humphries of Oshawa who has agreed to act as counsel for the investigation need some time to familiarize themselves with the purpose of the investigation.

Find Out Details

"What we don't know about the matter is plenty," Judge MacRae said. "We want to know how many people are involved and find out what witnesses will have to be brought before the investigation. We can't say definitely when it will start until we know what witnesses will be required."

Another factor determining when the inquiry will be held will be the days Judge MacRae has available when he is free of his own duties. He said he mentioned April 1 and April 2 because he has both these days free.

"I don't want to delay the inquiry," Judge MacRae said "because delays do not help in these matters."

He added that the question of when the inquiry will definitely be held will have to be decided after he and Mr. Humphries have had a chance to discuss details with Peterborough officials.

Bloody Rioting Erupts In Tehran

TEHRAN Iran, March 28 (AP).—Bloody rioting erupted in Tehran today following a meeting sponsored by Communists to support Russian charges that the United States is using germ warfare in Korea. At least five persons, including a girl and two policemen were reported killed. One unconfirmed rumor said there were about 20 dead.

The number of injured was estimated at 200 Communist youths, and 23 police.

The violent 15-minute battle erupted when a small group of bitterly anti-Communist Pan-Iranians jeered at 3,000 to 5,000 parading members of the organization for democratic youth, a front group of the outlawed, Communist-backed Tudeh party.

Police intervened, bloodying the heads of many of the Communist group. This group had met earlier, with police permission, in Fawzieh Square, to support Russia's germ warfare charges. Then, shouting "Down with America" and praising Stalin they began parading back toward the centre of the city. The police had given no approval for a parade and called out reinforcements.

After the clash, police took truckloads of the wounded away to hospitals.

Most of the fighting was with sticks, fists and stones, but police started firing into the air to bring rioters under control. Assistant Police Chief Gen. Danesh Pour said the Communist-led group started firing at police first.

RCAF Fliers Follow Latest Clue

Officials Believe Story Too Detailed To Be Imagination

DALHOUSIE, N.B., March 28 (CP) — Searchers left this northern New Brunswick town early today to follow up the latest clue to the disappearance of an airplane and its five passengers Saturday.

Three children reported Thursday having found a "big silver plane with red wings" in a gully about five miles south of Dalhousie. A search was begun without results before darkness forced postponement.

A ground search party of Army and R.C.A.F. personnel left the Air Force base at Chatham, N.B., shortly after midnight. The party is headed by FO. Grant Gilbert, D.F.C., of Sault Ste. Marie.

The party is carrying radio equipment by which it will maintain contact with a Canso aircraft sent out from the R.C.A.F. search and rescue base at Greenwood, N.S.

Too Detailed To Doubt

The children, two boys and a girl, all about 10 years old, said "four or five men" were in the plane, seated with their heads "thrown back." One boy said the men "seemed to have something over their faces."

Authorities were at first skeptical but finally concluded the children couldn't have "dreamed up anything so detailed."

The Maritime Central Airways twin-engined Dakota disappeared on a chartered flight from Saint John, N.B., to Goose Bay, Labrador. It was last seen on a radar screen passing Chatham, N.B.

Freezing rain, snow and poor visibility have hampered an air search from a half-dozen bases in the Atlantic provinces and conditions remained dull today.

Wing Cmdr. P. S. Turner of the R.C.A.F. station at Chatham said it was possible the missing craft could be in the Dalhousie area if it had encountered trouble or bad weather and turned back.

McGuire Plans Place Charges

OTTAWA, March 28 — (CP) — James E. McGuire, expelled secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.), let fly today with a series of charges against A. R. Mosher, president of the C.B.R.E. and Canadian Congress of Labor.

Mr. McGuire, whose long feud with his president resulted in eviction from the C.B.R.E. this week, accused the veteran president of "treacherous action" against his membership in wage negotiations and, among other things, of:

"Lazy and ineffectual administration, wasteful and unwarranted use of funds, singular lack of constructive leadership, collaboration with a clique to pay themselves substantial salary increases up to $90 per month without the knowledge of the membership . . ."

Declaring he was "liquidated" by the president and a group of yes-men on "trumped - up" charges, Mr. McGuire said in a 2,500-word statement he plans to place 46 charges against Mr. Mosher before the union's membership.

Second Attempt To Kill Adenauer Proves False Alarm

BONN, March 28. (AP)—A second suspected bomb attempt on the life of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer within 24 hours proved a false alarm late today. Police gingerly opened a suspicious parcel and found inside a loudly-ticking antique clock. Police and populace were jittery after a mail package addressed to Adenauer exploded Thursday night at Munich, killing one man and injuring four others. Police seized all parcels addressed to the 76-year-old chancellor and were especially watchful for Munich postmarks. The package containing the clock was mailed from Munich. Adenauer is a collector of antique clocks.

Police On Alert

Police patrolled sections of West Germany today for the unidentified man who tried to kill Adenauer.

Brought to the police here by two teen-agers, the bomb exploded and killed the German expert trying to dismantle it.

Police questioned and released a man who drunkenly claimed he sent the bomb.

Twelve officers found the suspect drinking beer. They said he was drunk and declared he was the man who handed the parcel to the boys.

The youths described the man as about 30 years old. They said they became suspicious after recalling mail bombings in North Germany last year in which two persons were killed and six injured.

The Bavarian interior ministry said it thought the bomb attempt had a political basis, "provided it was not done by a lunatic."

The ministry considered it might be related to next Sunday's local district elections throughout Bavaria — possibly designed to arouse "horror and terror" among the electorate.

Bomb Explodes In U.S. Building

DAMASCUS, Syria, March 28 (AP).—A bomb blasted the building of the United States Information Service here early today and an Arab radio operator was killed.

Police arrested several suspects but made no announcement concerning an inquiry which began immediately.

George Dyke, a 27-year-old Arab refugee from Palestine employed by the information service, was the only casualty.

Fire broke out following the explosion but was quickly extinguished. The blast smashed windows in buildings within 100 yards of the U.S. premises, including those of the Syrian government's press office next door.

It was not immediately determined whether the explosion was set off by a time bomb or dynamite.

Parents Identify Body Of Missing Girl

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont., March 28—(CP)—Grieving parents returned to their home early today after identifying the body of their 20-year-old daughter.

An unclothed body recovered Wednesday from Lake Ontario near Albion, N.Y., was identified as that of Violet Pollock, 20, who had been missing since Feb. 23.

Her sister Dorabelle, 24, was injured fatally by a train the same day. Police said she was looking for Violet.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pollock said in Albion Thursday night that they were satisfied the body was Violet's.

They did so after an hour's discussion with Dr. Joseph Tannenberg of Batavia, N.Y., who had performed an autopsy.

Dr. Tannenberg said the autopsy showed a piece of the caecum (part of the intestine) had been removed. He said such an operation had been performed on Violet two years ago when her appendix was removed.

Dr. Tannenberg said he had not determined the cause of death.

He said eight other minor points had corroborated the identification. He said the dental work would be checked today with dentists here and in St. Catharines.

It was the second young woman's nude body found in recent weeks on the lakeshore near Albion.

The parents said Violet would be buried tomorrow in Brampton, Ont., where Dorabell is also buried.

Arrest 300 Egyptians For January Riots

CAIRO, March 28 (Reuters).—Police here Thursday night arrested 300 suspects in connection with the "Black Saturday" riots January 26.

Most of them belong to the Socialist Party, while the rest are members of the Moslem Brotherhood.

More than 100 Egyptians have already been sent to jail because of the riots in which about 30 people were killed and hundreds of buildings damaged or looted. About 30 more persons are awaiting trial.

Ahmed Hussein, Socialist Party leader, is serving 18 months on a charge arising from the riots. Ibrahim Shukry, deputy leader of the party, has also been arrested.

U.S. Navy Ready To Operate 3 Kinds Of Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The United States Navy is ready to operate for the first time three kinds of guided missiles that already are coming off production assembly lines.

Disclosure that the missiles will be in service with the fleet in a matter of months was made in testimony on the $52,600,000,000 defence budget made public today by the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee.

The published testimony of Navy Secreatry Dan Kimball, Admiral William M. Fechteler, chief of naval operations, and other officers contains many "off-the-record" blank spaces. But these statements and disclosures emerged from the printed text:

By next year the Navy will have seven different airplanes "superior" to the Russian MIG-15 jet fighter. All but two of these planes now are flying, principally in the testing stage, and some are in production for the fleet.

The Navy has not requested and does not want operating bases in Spain. It is self-sustaining in the Mediterranean area, but could use some ammunition and fuel storage dumps in Spain and anchorage rights in Spanish harbors.

The Navy will be ready for war, if it should start, in the next 12 months in men and surface ships.

Vice Admiral John H. Cassady, deputy chief of naval operations for air, named the new guided missiles that will go into operational use this year as "Terrier 1," "Sparrow 1," and "Regulus." The first two are for defence against planes. The last was listed by the admiral as the first "offensive" guided missile. It will be used by ships against other ships or against shore targets.

(Another admiral recently told a congressional group that the "Sparrow" could knock out an enemy plane three or four miles away.)

Cassady said the three missiles are "being produced by assembly-line methods" but that production is being held to the bare minimum needed to attain the techniques that would be required for all-out production in the event of full mobilization.

Charge Boyd's Brother With Armed Robbery

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—Norman Boyd, 31, brother of Edwin Alonzo Boyd, suspected bank robber, has been charged with armed robbery last November of a branch of the Bank of Toronto.

The bank was held up shortly after Edwin Boyd, Leonard Jackson and William Jackson (no kin) escaped from Don Jail.

Edwin Boyd faces charges of bank robbery. Norman Boyd, a former esmployee of the city roads department, also has been charged with harboring his brother who was captured by police March 15 in a North Toronto apartment.

Meanwhile Bail of $2,000 has been set for Edwin's wife, Doreen, held on a charge of conspiring to commit robbery.

Hit-Run Motorist Leaves Child On Road

TORONTO, March 28. (CP)—Police today sought a motorist they said left Robert Lord, 11, lying on a roadway on Thursday night after his car struck the child.

The boy has been staying with an aunt while his parents are in Montreal. He suffered a broken leg, concussion and possible rupture of the spleen.

His father, G. Ross Lord, is an associate professor at the University of Toronto.

Juliana Plans Simple Visit

THE HAGUE, March 28 (Reuters)—Queen Juliana's visit to Canada April 21, after a three-week tour of the United States, will be "unofficial and simple" in keeping with Canadian mourning for the late King George VI, it was announced today.

The Queen will come to Canada without her husband, Prince Bernhard, who has a New York speaking engagement, April 23, a government information service statement said.

Winding up their transcontinental United States tour in Los Angeles, the Royal couple will part temporarily. Queen Juliana will fly to Ottawa, arriving there the evening of April 21, while Bernhard flies to New York to address the Society of Automotive Engineers, the statement added.

Juliana will stay at the residence in Ottawa of Governor-General Vincent Massey, today"s announcement said.

Charge Reds Delaying Truce Just To Argue

MUNSAN, Korea, March 28 — (AP). — An Allied truce negotiator said today the Communists appear to be "unnecessarily holding up the armistice just to argue."

Col. Don O. Darrow said arguments ranged from the key issue of whether Russia should help supervise a truce down to which words should identify United Nations forces and Korea.

There were indications staff officers would hand the Russia problem back to top-level armistice negotiators.

Deadly Cobra Believed Loose In Denver Burglar Gets Surprise Raiding Car

DENVER, March 28 (AP). — A deadly king cobra was believed loose in Denver today.

The snake apparently slithered out of the automobile of a reptile garden operator during an attempted burglary of the vehicle.

The snake, said to be from five to six feet long, was in a carload of reptiles and animals being transported to Bergen Park Colo., by Scott Lamb.

Lamb said about 400 snakes, including rattlers, boa constrictors and blue indigos, were in cotton sacks in the rear of the automobile.

The cobra was sacked with a blue indigo. The blue indigo was found by a man shovelling snow near bustling downtown Denver.

Appoint Premier Favoring France

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 28 (AP).—The Bey of Tunis today named a new premier, regarded as friendly to France, to succeed Mohammed Chenik, who was arrested by the French for his nationalist activity.

The 71-year-old Bey, the country's nominal ruler, named Salaheddine Baccouche to replace Chenik. The new premier is a big Tunisian landowner and was premier of the country in 1947. He is regarded as a moderate in politics.

(In Paris, a high official of the French foreign ministry commented: "That is good news. Now France should be able to put into effect the reforms she proposed.")

Predicts Shoals Ahead

Chiang Says Truce In Korea Invitation For Red Attack

By BILL BOSS.

TAIPEH, Formosa, March 28—(CP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said today he believes United Nations acceptance of a truce in Korea would be interpreted by the Communists as an invitation to strike elsewhere.

In an exclusive interview at his Nationalist Chinese headquarters, he said that "if an armistice should be reached in Korea I would look immediately for intensification of the struggle in Southeast Asia."

During the 35-minute interview Chiang outlined his current thinking of Asia"s problems, ranging over Korea, Nationalist Chinese aspirations, world policy along the anti-Communist front and probable future Red strategy.

"If the U.N. accepts peace in Korea, in the Communist meaning of the word, it will represent a defeat for the U.N." he said.

An armistice was possible, "but from long experience with them I believe it would be interpreted by them as a U.N. invitation to them to strike elsewhere."

Chiang said "the Communists have no desire for peace—anywhere."

"Their tactics are aimed only at domination, and both an armistice and peace in Korea would be part of such a policy."

Asked whether the Nationalist armies (now training vigorously and apparently well disciplined with good morale) could do the job, Chiang laughed.

"All we need is help in the form of weapons and munitions. We can do it and spare troops to help you elsewhere."

Chiang has 12 armies here, each with three divisions of 10,000 men.

Predicting the Communist moves in Southeast Asia, notably Indo-China and Burma, he said "they can be prevented."

"Let us launch what you call a limited offensive assault against the mainland. It would involve only Chinese armies, not United Nations troops.

"It would not be aimed at regaining the mainland — which would come later as part of the common policy—but would draw in large Communist armies and keep them too much occupied either to resume hostilities in Korea or to increase activities in Southeast Asia.

"We could undertake such operations anytime. Otherwise the only way to handle the situation will be to meet increased force with increased force."

Warns Gov't Against Deal On Formosa

Drew Fears Ottawa May Try To Hand Island To Reds

OTTAWA, March 28. (CP)—The Canadian government was warned in the Commons Thursday night against entering any "secret under-the-table deal" to hand over the island of Formosa to the Chinese Reds when the Korean War ends.

The warning came from George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, with the suggestion that such an arrangement would be no better than the Munich "appeasement" policy which delivered the German Sudetenland into Hitler's hands.

Mr. Drew spoke in a protracted Foreign Affairs debate in which he also served notice that his party will oppose a C.C.F .motion of non-confidence in the government on handling of economic aid under the North Atlantic Treaty.

He suggested the C.C.F. motion could be interpreted outside Canada as meaning the Commons is not fully behind a policy of collective action to maintain peace by strengthening the defences of the treaty nations.

Fears Implication

On the Formosa question, Mr. Drew said he felt External Affairs Minister Pearson earlier in the debate had "implied" that the government might be considering an arrangement to give Formosa to the Red Chinese government.

He drew that impression from Mr. Pearson's statement that no consideration should be given to the possibility of handing over Formosa to the Communist mainland government "while it is continuing aggression in Asia."

If the government adopted such a policy, it would be dealing with the millions of people living on Formosa as though they were "pawns in the game of diplomacy, with the cards being dealt under the table." Canada wanted "no secret arrangements" with regard to any country.

While Mr. Drew declared that his sugestion had nothing to do with support of Chiang Kai-Shek, one of his party members—W. J. Brown (St. John's West)—defended the Nationalist leader against criticism expressed of his regime earlier in the debate.

"Loyal Ally"

Mr. Browne said Chiang had been a "loyal ally" and it is "a disgrace for us, not only to have deserted him in his hour of need, but to malign him at the present time."

Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said he is not convinced that Red China is a satellite of Russia. However, the West must reach a peaceful settlement with China or face the risk of forcing her into the Soviet camp.

Rodney Adamson (PC—York West), who visited Germany last year, urged the government to press for a full partnership for Germany in the Atlantic Pact.

"If we have to fight," he suggested, "we had better have people on our side who know how to fight."

TAFT STAYS ON BALLOT—In a surprise move, New Jersey's Attorney General, Theodore D. Parsons (right), appeared in Trenton Superior Court to announce that the state had decided not to ask that Sen. Robert A. Taft's name be removed from the New Jersey presidential primary, despite Taft's request. Appearing to support the move was Frank I. Casey (left), representing four citizens who wanted the name left on the ballot.

U.S. Dollar Down

MONTREAL, March 28 (CP)—The United States dollar today opened at a discount of ⅞ of one per cent in terms of Canadian funds, down 1/32 from Thursday's close. That is, it took $0.99⅛ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.78½, down ⅛ from Thursday.

The Canadian dollar reached a premium of 1 1/32 per cent at noon, the highest since 1935 when it was at one per cent premium. Back in 1914 the Canadian dollar rose to a premium of two per cent.

Although temperatures have been anything but spring-like for the past few days, this morning's weather charts give promise of warmer weather in the near future. A few clouds will persist throughout the province today, but enough sunshine will occur to send the thermometer up to the 45 degree mark in southern regions and to near 40 in northern sections. This warming trend is expected to continue through Saturday and Sunday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Saturday:

Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake Ontario, Niagara, Haliburton regions; Windsor, London, Toronto, Hamilton cities:

Sunny with a few cloudy intervals today and Saturday. Milder. Winds light. Low tonight and high Saturday at Windsor, St. Thomas, Toronto, Trenton, St. Catharines and Hamilton 30 and 48. Wingham 25 and 45. London 25 and 48. Killaloe 20 and 45.

Summary for Saturday. Sunny and milder.

Brantford Used Reserves To Check Taxes

Brantford city council had to dip into the municipal reserves for the sum of $109,000 to enable them to hold their rate at 63 mills, an increase of seven mills over last year. In 1951, Brantford ratepayers were faced with a similar increase of seven mills over the 1950 rate.

Brantford's budget was based on an assessment of $37,871,325 as compared with $36,742,755 in 1951.

Peterborough's assessment is something over $39 million. Councils of some years ago had good intentions when with hopes of a reserve fund for the rainy day they set aside money two years in a row for a reserve fund. And then it started to rain, but only a light mist compared with later experience such as the estimates of the last few years and the reserve was dug into.

ON FURLOUGH from the R.C.A.F. is Airwoman Jean Peters of Havelock, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. P. Peters, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buchanan. Airwoman Peters, who joined the air force in 1951, is to be transferred to Whitehorse, Alta., soon. She is trained as a radio operator.

Sentence Soldier To Be Hanged

FAYID, Egypt, March 28 (Reuters).—Cpl. Tom Houghton, 23, who shot and killed an officer for "stealing his girl," today was sentenced to death by hanging.

The verdict, reached at the end of a three-day court trial, is subject to confirmation by Gen. Sir George Erskine, general officer commanding British troops in Egypt.

An army psychiatrist gave evidence that Houghton could have been insane or in a jealous rage when he murdered Capt. Herbert Mason, at a canteen party Feb. 9.

The defence asked for a verdict of guilty but insane, pleading Houghton was a good soldier who suddenly turned into "some sort of wild beast."

Witnesses gave evidence that the young corporal, after seeing Mason dancing with Iro Hadjifoti, 20, Greek stenographer employed by the British army identified as "the girl in blue," he ran amok with a tommy-gun.

Three of his comrades were wounded before he pumped seven bullets into the officer.

The girl earlier told the court martial she had twice rejected marriage proposals from the corporal.

15-Year Record High Eases On Exchange

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — Mid-session profit-taking today skimmed strong western oil gains and eased the stock exchange's high. Base metal also eased but index from its record 15-year industrials and golds were firm.

Trading was heavy as active oil speculation boosted turnover for the first three hours to 3,001,000 shares. Base metals and golds also attracted interest but volume was moderate. Petrol Gas was a standout as it climbed pennies in a turnover of more than 230,000 shares.

Oil gains ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Anchor, Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Canada Southern, General Petroleum A, Scurry, Superior and United Oil showed strong gains.

Papers, utilities, steels, liquors, refining oils and manufacturing companies led industrials higher with a broad list of fractional advances. Agricultures and constructions were firm.

Base metal gains were moderate as Barvue Fenimore Iron, Eureka, Golden Manitou, Mindamar, Osisko, United Asbestos and Ontario Pyrites edged upward. Consolidated Smelters and Pend Orielle eased.

Senior golds were quiet. A scattered list of secondary issues including New Dickenson, Pickle Crow and San Antonio added pennies.

Drunk Fined $50

John Whaley, 36, 272 Westcott St., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge in police court today. He admitted a prior conviction on the same charge and was fined $50 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail.

10 More Names On Casualty List

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP) — The army today issued its 99th casualty list of the Korean war, reporting four men killed in action and six men wounded. The last previous list was issued Thursday.

This brought to 737 the number of casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korean action, including 139 dead, 532 wounded, 61 injured in action, four missing and one captured.

One of the men was wounded for the second time.

The list:

District Canners Object To Price

PICTON, March 28 (CP) — District canners, objecting to the increased price for tomatoes set by an arbitration board, are declining to accept 1952 contracts.

The price was set by arbitration in Toronto last week and approved by the Ontario Marketing Board. The price for No. 1 tomatoes increased from $33.50 a ton last year to $40 this year; No. 2 from $23.50 to $30.

"We cannot and will not process tomatoes if we must pay $35 a ton for ungraded tomatoes," a canners' spokesman said after a meeting.

Butter solids: first grade 65¼; no price established on second grade. Western 65½.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 28 (CP) —Prices showed a better tone in early trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange, with quotations fairly steady across the board.

Commercial demand displayed some improvement. There was some export interest in barley. Oats trade was light. Rye attracted buying for American account, but flax was light and local.

11 a.m. prices:

Oats: May g higer 91⅞; July ¾ lower 83⅛B; Oct. unch 81⅞B.

Barley: May ¼ higher 1.22⅜B; July ¾ higher 1.19B; Oct. ½ higher 1.17⅛B.

Rye: May 1 higher 1.96¼; July ⅞higher 1.94⅛B; Oct. unch 1.86¼.

Flax: May 1 higher 3.91; July 2¼ higher 3.90¼A; Oct. not open.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP) — Wheat showed a little strength in an otherwise mixed grain market at the opening today.

There was some buying in wheat following the overnight purchase of about two million bushels of hard wheat by Italy.

Oats were rather weak. This reflected the easier trend at Winnipeg.

Wheat started ⅞-⅝ cent higher, May $2.50⅝; corn was ⅛-⅜ higher, May $1.84¼-½, and oats were ⅛-½ lower, May 84¾-⅝. Soybeans were ¾ cent lower to ½ higher, May $2.91¼-2.90⅞.

Municipal Board Officer Dies

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — W. P. Near, 73, senior vice-chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board for 14 years prior to his retirement last June, died today.

He was well known in motor transport circles. He presided at many hearings for application for public vehicle and public commercial vehicles.

Born at St. Marys, he was graduated from the University of Toronto about 1905 and joined the engineering department of the City of Toronto. Later he became city engineer of St. Catharines, and still later as city engineer of London.

In 1934 he became a member of the staff of the Ontario Department of Highways. He was appointed a member of the Ontario Municipal Board in 1937.

He is survived by his widow, a son and a daughter.

Youth, 22, Charged With Indecent Assault

A 22-year-old youth did not enter a plea when he appeared in police court today on a charge of indecent assault.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw refused to grant Norman Rendell of 107 Aylmer St., an adjournment and asked bail of $2,000. Rendell, who is alleged to have attacked a married woman in Douro township March 27, was remanded until April 3.

Ratify Pact

BAGHDAD, Iraq, March 28 — (AP)—The Iraqui Senate Thursday unanimously ratified a collective security and economic assistance pact among Arab nations. Iraq thus became the third Arab country to give the pact final approval. Egypt and Syria already have done so. It has yet to be ratified by Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Lebanon.

U.K. Passport Cost Up

LONDON, March 28. (Reuters) —A British passport will cost £1 instead of 15 shillings from April 1; because of rising costs, authorities announced today.

Export Jump Credited To Auto Sales

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP). — Canada's exports jumped $77,000,000 during February to $313,400,000. Automobile sales soared to $16,651,000, up $15,800,000 from $863,000 in February last year to help boost total exports by more than 30 per cent from $235,800,000 a year ago, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

But automobiles were not alone in big export strides made by Canada, in spite of a rash of import restrictions imposed by many of her world customers.

Wheat climbed $13,000,000, newsprint almost $9,000,000; nickel $6,000,000; zinc, $7,600,000; farm implements, $5,000,000.

In fact, of 15 major export items only three showed drops and there were relatively small. Wheat flour slipped by $2,000,000. fish by $500,000 and copper by $160,000.

Volume Expansion

In a previous preliminary statement, the bureau reported that the climb in exports, outpacing imports of $282,100,000, gave Canada a foreign trade surplus of $31,300,000 for the month. Details of imports will be disclosed by the bureau in the next few weeks.

Most of the boost in exports, the bureau said, was caused by actual volume expansion. Volume rose by some 25 per cent from last year's total.

A significant point, too, was that the U.S.—Canada's top market—was absorbing more of Canada's goods, but a smaller proportion of total exports.

Exports to the U.S. jumped to $167,800,000 during February, up from $152,400,000 a year ago, but the share of total exports absorbed by the U.S. dropped by 54.5 per cent from 65.1 per cent last year.

Nine Men Marooned On Polar Expedition

SEATTLE, March 28—(AP)—Nine men on a United States Navy Polar expedition are marooned on the ice 700 miles north of Point Barrow, Alaska, because of a plane take-off mishap, a Post-Intelligencer correspondent reported today.

The plane commander, Cmdr. E. M. Ward, radioed expedition headquarters that none of the nine was injured and that they have food for four days. They have shelter and plenty of gasoline for fuel.

Cmdr. V. J. Coley, heading the expedition, said he expects to fly to the stranded group's rescue Sunday after repairs are made on another navy plane that encountered trouble previously.

The navy's expedition, called Ski Jump, is establishing two stations north of Barrow preparatory to landing a party on a floating ice island near the North Pole.

Commission Divided

Mr. Frost said the 21 members of the royal commission, which met for nearly six years under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice J. A. Hope, were divided on certain basic points. On these points the government "should not divide the people".

Mr. Dunlop said there were some "excellent" recommendations in the report. Some of them, dealing with abolition of high school entrance examination, departure from the policy of "authorized" text books and extra stress on such subjects as citizenship, had been adopted before the appearance of the report.

Asks Barren Land Reclaimed For Ducks

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 28 — (AP).—A Canadian sportsman said today millions of acres of barren land in Canada could be converted into a vast waterfowl hatchery that would increase the duck population 400 per cent.

Angus Gavin, general manager of Ducks Unlimited of Canada, told trustees of the United States organization:

"Ducks Unlimited has turned 1,700,000 acres of parched, useless prairie lands into a waterfowl hatchery, but we have not touched more than 10 per cent of those barren lands."

Reclamation and conversion of the waste lands into a giant chain-like region, Gavin said, would produce enough ducks to blacken the skies in the Mississippi valley flyway during the fall-winter migration.

Ducks Unlimited is financed by contributions from United States sportsmen. Trustees, representing 28 States, came here for the meeting.

120 Flee Hotel Fire

CHICAGO, March 28—(AP)—One man died and some 120 persons were routed Thursday night when a $15,000 fire of undetermined origin damaged the eight-storey Raleigh Hotel on the near north side. Several persons were injured slightly. The blaze originated in the basement and was confined to the seventh and eighth floors.

A BLOODHOUND gets the scent of three men who used this car to flee from Danvers, Mass., with more than $600,000 looted from an armored car. Witnesses, not knowing what was going on, said they saw men transferring "bundles" from this car to another in Everett, Mass., before speeding away towards Boston.

Radio To Pay Higher Fees

OTTAWA, March 28— (CP) — The Copyright Appeal Board Thursday announced a new formula for fixing the copyright fees to be paid by Canadian radio stations to the Composers, Authors and Publishers Association of Canada.

The change will mean that privately owned stations will pay possibly twice in fees what they paid a year ago. The amount paid by the CBC also will be higher.

In the case of private stations, the fees, paid for the use of music in the repertoire of CAPAC, will be based on their gross revenue. In the case of the publicly owned CBC, the fees will be based on population, and on gross revenue. The board's ruling is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1952.

The fees of a private station will amount to 1¾ per cent of the gross revenue which it reports to the Transport Department. The CBC which does less commercial broadcasting than private stations, will pay 1¾ per cent of its gross revenue, plus one cent per capita of population.

Plans Quick Visit

LONDON, March 28. (AP) — Clement Attlee today booked passage for a quick visit to the United States. The former prime minister will take off Sunday night on a stratocruiser for New York, deliver an address in Philadelphia, do a quick turnabout and fly home. He is due back in London Wednesday morning.

New Commander

WASHINGTON, March 28 — (AP)—The army Thursday chose Maj.-Gen. George P. Hays, now Deputy High Commissioner for Germany, to be Commander of U.S. Forces in Austria. He will succeed Lt.-Gen. Stafford Leroy Irwin, whose health will require extended treatment.

8,000 Dockers Strike

GENOA, March 28 — (AP) — Approximately 8,000 dockers struck Thursday in this major North Italian port for a 20-percent wage boost. They now get about $5 a day. The strike tied up cargo ships, but workers continued to unload passenger baggage.

Suspended Sentence For Illegal Entry

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 28 — (CP). — William S. Dupuis, 41, of Renfrew, Ont., was given a two-year suspended sentence on Thursday when he pleaded guilty to entering the United States illegally and after an earlier deportation.

Dupuis will go on probation after he has completed a term he now is serving in Terre Haute, Ind., Penitentiary, for impersonating an army sergeant.

Community Fund Short $2,458

The Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign committee were given new hope today, with a new total reported for the Women's Division.

The new total is $7,125—$2,125 more than the $5,000 objective.

Retail Division, co-chairmen, W. Roberts and Ford Warren are very optimistic that their division will make their objective of $17,000. If they do the campaign fund will only be $729 short of making their total objective. At present the retail division have collected $15,271 and the campaign total is $82,542. The objective is $85,000.

The Special Names Division expects to increase its present total of $23,350.

Campaign chairman Alex Elliott said today that he is quite confident that the campaign will make its objective this year if canvassers follow up all their prospects.

Poland Asks Return Of Treasures

Deliver New Blast At Ottawa Over Priceless Relics

OTTAWA, March 28. (CP)—The External Affairs Department said Thursday that Communist Poland has delivered another blast about Canada's possession of the Polish treasures but nobody seemed particularly excited about it. One official reaction was that Warsaw is ensuring that the issue is kept alive.

External Affairs Minister Pearson's reaction was "No comment." An official source said the note will be answered in due time, probably with a reiteration of Canada's stand that the federal government is not responsible for the national treasures, brought here early in the last war for safe keeping.

The government's position is that Poland is free to take action in the Canadian courts in an attempt to recover the priceless and aged relics.

Poles Indignant

The Poles, in a note delivered to the Canadian Embassy in Warsaw, rejected this stand with "indignation" and demanded immediate return of the treasures. They also contended again that they are being moved about and deprived of proper care.

The treasures have been a headache ever since the Reds took control of Poland at the end of the war. The anti-Communist Poles in Ottawa took the treasures away from the federal experimental farm here in 1946 and have refused to return them to the Red regime in Warsaw.

The great bulk of them now are said to be in the provincial museum in Quebec City with the Duplessis Government as their guardian. A few are in a Bank of Montreal vault here and can't, under the original agreement, be moved unless the men who deposited them say so. The men who deposited them are anti-Reds.

The federal government's stand is that they were originally brought here on the understanding that the government would accept no responsibility for them.

Earn 2 Million On Discount

TORONTO, March 28 — (CP) — The Toronto Transportation Commission has earned $2,900,000 on its subway in which trains won't run until early in 1954.

In 1950, when the Canadian dollar was at a discount of 10 percent, a $15,000,000 bond issue in New York was converted into $16,500,000 in Canadian currency. Last year, at a seven-per-cent discount, a $20,000,000 issue was converted into $21,400,000 Canadian dollars.

"The shoe is on the other foot," Finance Commissioner Lascelles commented Thursday. "For years we've been paying a premium for U.S. dollars; now we're getting them at a discount."

He recalled that at one time in the early 30's, the premiums amounted to $1,000,000 for one year alone.

"We hadn't budgeted for it and we ended up with a deficit," Mr. Lascelles added.

RELIGIOUS ART—Theodore Baran, from the Ukraine, came to Saskatoon after two years in Poland and four years in a displaced persons' camp in Germany. Trained as an artist he has done a number of religious paintings in Greek Catholic and Greek Orthodox churches in Saskatchewan since his arrival.

Ukrainian Immigrant Paints Murals In Western Churches

SASKATOON—(CP) — When Ukrainian Theodore Baran came here three years ago he had difficulty in finding work for which he had been trained in his native land—painting religious scenes for church decorations.

But he overcame early obstacles and his ecclesiastical scenes now decorate several Greek Catholic and Greek Orthodox churches in Saskatchewan, among them churches at Prud-homme, Pelly and Yorkton.

At the moment he is busily engaged in paintings for St. George's Ukrainian Greek Catholic church in Saskatoon. He figures it will take two years to finish a number of elaborate murals.

The Barans were originally from Peremyslamy in the Ukraine. But before they emigrated to Canada they were forced to spend two years in Poland and four years in a German displaced persons camp.

The first thing Mr. Baran did when he arrived here was to go to the police and tell them his family was here. He figured that was the proper thing to do. He was not accustomed to a free country and he was afraid of doing and saying the wrong thing in this new land.

He could not forget that his parents and two brothers were in Siberia and he was determined that his small family should find stability and happiness.

Today the Barans are settled in a cottage where Mr. Baran has turned the living room into his studio. The first winter they were here the Barans and their four children lived in two upstairs rooms.

"Oh, it is wonderful to be able to think and to really live again," said Mrs. Baran, a delicate, dark-eyed woman, as she fussed about serving coffee and dainty Ukrainian rogalki and tort cakes.

Pallbearers were: Harold, Ernest and Allen Thompson, Robert Jackson, John Morrow, Dave Proctor. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Alexander Burritt

The funeral for Alexander Burritt, London, Ontario, who died Monday was held Thursday from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. Ivan C. Morgon of Murray Street Baptist Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Chris Hughes, Charles Banks, Donald Rose, Harry White, Earl Mitchell, William Stinson. Burial was in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Arouse Suspicions

MANILA, Marcvh 28 (AP). — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told a press conference Thursday the United States could make its foreign aid policy more effective by "waiting until it is asked" for help instead of trying to thrust it on some countries. She said Syria and Indonesia are still suspicious of American aid because their long history of colonialism leads the people in those countries to fear foreign domination will come with it.

Seeks Asylum

SIMRISHAMN, Sweden, March 27 — (AP). — A man in the uniform of the Polish navy brought a small Polish trawler into this Baltic port Thursday and asked for political asylum. Zdodstaw Skwarczpowski, 24, said he had sneaked aboard a trawler at Gdansk (Danzig), locked up two of the crew, and forced the third at pistol point to help him take the craft to Sweden.

The funeral for Thomas James Brackenridge, R.R. 1 Indian River who died Saturday was held on Tuesday from the Belleghem funeral home. The Rev. W. J. Bingham of Norwood Baptist Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were John and Paul Evans, Fred Fife, William Breckenridge, Joseph Porter, Everitt Pallen. Burial was in Fife cemetery, Otonabee.

Concert Causes Row

CHILLIWACK, B.C., March 28 (CP)—A presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," on Easter Sunday by the Chilliwack Choral Society is threatened with court action under the Lord's Day Act. The Ministerial Association objects to the "commercial" presentation of the oratorio. Tickets are being sold at 50 cents each.

They Don't Fool

MEDELLIN, Colombia, March 28 — (AP). — Governor Braulio Henao Mejia told reporters on Thursday that bloodthirsty bandits cut off the head of a police lieutenant and "carried it away as a trophy." He said the incident occurred about 35 miles from here at Betulia where police have been trying to wipe out bandit activity.

"Mr. Kinsey, I had hoped you would not ask me that."

This is the twentieth picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Toronto Bookbinders Vote To End Strike

TORONTO, March 28 — (CP)—Toronto Bookbinders Thursday night voted almost five-to-one to settlement of their five-week strike. The terms were agreed to by union and publishing company negotiators.

Key issue of the strike of members of the United Brotherhood of Bookbinders (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) is an equal cost-of-living bonus for men and women.

Women make up about 65 per cent of Toronto bookbinders.

The union has increased its demands to the original level—$1.95 an hour for men and $1.10 for women. The employers offered $1.91 for men and $1.03 for women.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE

"GREAT DISCOVERY"

SOUND MOTION PICTURE

Reputed to be one of the best Gospel films ever produced

"Great Discovery" tells the story of spiritual rebirth in these modern days as it actually happens. Colleen Townsend (in real life a recent convert from glittering moviedom) enacts the role of an attractive teen-ager who, unconscious of her spiritual poverty, enters a Christian college mainly to be close to a fine young fellow who has missionary ideas and ambitions. The contrast and conflicts between the worldly and Christian viewpoints are all brought out and the emotional crisis through which this lively young girl passes is movingly portrayed.

Why Are Some People Criminals?

The recent excitement about three Toronto bank robbers has led a few of our contemporaries to speculate as to why these three men were criminals. They are not unbalanced mentally, and hitherto they have lived quietly; they do not seem to be extraordinary or marked men in any way, and yet they are enemies of society. Why?

* * *

It is a symptom of our time that the question of their sanity has been seriously discussed. There is a modern notion that most criminals are in some degree insane; statistically, it has been shown that about 5,500 out of 10,000 criminals who have been carefully examined show some signs of mental unbalance. But we do not think that it can be argued any more effectively that their criminality springs from their insanity than that the reverse is the case, for a man who is unfit for ordinary life does not, by any means, always turn to crime because of it.

* * *

We suffer today from a surfeit of undigested psychiatry. Let it be understood at once that we have a high regard for psychiatry, as practised by thoroughly trained and reputable practitioners. But there is a vast amount of pseudo-psychiatric slop peddled in books, magazines and newspapers which is easy to understand and suits the intelligence of people who like to appear intellectual without doing any intellectual work. It is this sort of nonsense which asserts that people become criminals because they have been unhappy, or neglected, or frustrated in childhood. It must be plain to anybody with horse sense that if unhappiness, neglect and frustration in childhood or at any other time begot criminality, the greatest part of the world's population would belong to the criminal class.

* * *

There does not appear to be any pattern which creates a criminal. They come from all classes and circumstances. But there is one characteristic which is fairly common among them; they are adventurous and ready to take risks in the hope of big gains. The Toronto bank robbers apparently have this characteristic.

* * *

Do they, then, lack an ethical sense? Who is to say? Most of us fall short of perfection in that respect; most of us would be greatly surprised, and perhaps shocked, if we were really acquainted with the modes of thought of people whom we meet every day. We all have criminal instincts, pretty well kept in restraint, but not perfectly so.

* * *

The problem of why people become criminals has vexed mankind for centuries, and even before Christianity evolved the idea of Original Sin, Plato speculated as to whether or not our criminal instincts did not arise from fall of the soul from the celestial sphere into earthly life. We are not likely to solve the problem in a hurry, but surely the time has come to be rid of the childishness of supposing that all men would be law-abiding if they had not been unhappy in childhood? And of the childishness of supposing that poverty necessarily breeds crime, when it is plain to be seen that many criminals come from the well-off classes and that the majority of poor people are also honest? We may not find the answer to the question but at least we can clear away some of the nonsense which surrounds it.

How Are Your Nylons Standing The Smoke?

The drag-days of winter are the best (sic) to judge how smoky Peterborough is. The accumulation of smut and grime from the air is spread in all its dirt on top of melting piles of snow for everybody to see (and track into the house). From time to time the City Council makes a show of controlling the smoke and soot nuisance, but the churches, the trains, the factories, the public buildings, all go right on belching their smut.

Peterborough does not seem to have come to the sorry pass of Pennsylvania station district of New York, although we have heard rumours that local nylons are getting more than the usual number of runs and holes. Recently a score of office girls started off for lunch near Pennsylvania station and all twenty of of them immediately got ten or twelve runs in their nylons. They claimed that they had run into some smoke, which ruined their stockings. We remember a situation about four years ago, outside of New York, when a gust of fumes from a chemical plant crossed the path of lunch-bound female employees. Their stockings completely disappeared.

If Peterborough ladies cannot account to their husbands for the number of runs in their nylons, let them blame the smoke. Who is to disprove their story? Anyway, it would be good campaign tactics to get something done to abate the smoke here in this city.

Skating Club's Large Undertaking

A few weeks ago a Canadian magazine despatched a colour-blind writer to Peterborough, who looked about her, and decided that Peterborough was colourless. The adjective, we feel, is quite unjustified, and in rebuttal we are happy to call attention to the very large ice skating carnival which the Peterborough Figure Skating Club will present twice tomorrow. There will be plenty of colour in that—enough, even to satisfy an observer sated with the Babylonian glories of Toronto.

For the past two years the club has held a show of this kind and has always given far more than satisfaction to its audiences. It takes time and organization and experience to put on an ice show on a large scale, and the local club has done the work to acquire these things. Its carnival is comparable to those seen at the Granite Club in Toronto, or the Minto Club in Ottawa. It is a first-rate job in its field, and it deserves the fullest support from Peterborough people. It is not in the department of entertainments which one attends from a sense of duty; it is in the department of those things which one takes care not to miss because they give great pleasure.

Canada is the country of ice sports, and it is a rare Canadian who grows up without some experience of skating. The local Figure Skating Club does a fine work by making it possible for children and young people to practise the most beautiful of winter sports. The carnival "Skating Around the World" is an exhibition of their skill which will well repay a visit. It is the third in what we hope will be an annual succession of these first-rate, spectacular ice shows.

The United States Wakes Up To Canada

The Detroit Free Press has sent one of its best staff writers into Canada to find out what makes Canada glow, and to tell the Americans about it. A special series of articles is now appearing in that paper—columns of it every day—so flattering to this country, its industry, customs and people that we can hardly mention them without blushing. We have all along suspected, and we have often mentioned our suspicions in these columns, that Canada is a pretty rich, well-balanced and expanding country. The American discovery of these things confirms our own hunches.

Actually, many shrewd Americans found out about Canada several years ago. That is why they already have seven billion dollars invested in this country, and are now investing at the rate of $750,000,000 a year. If the second half of the Twentieth Century belongs to Canada, the quick-footed, sharp-witted Americans are going to get their slice of it. We do not begrudge it; the tremendous influx of American capital is a large cog in the revolving wheel which is making Canadian commerce and industry turn so enormously that the gross national production has quintupled since 1939; from $3,474,784,000 to $17,693,000,000 in 1950.

Tulip Truculence In Washington

We are sorry to hear that the banks of tulips planted in the White House grounds will not be blooming for Queen Juliana of the Netherlands when she arrives in Washington next Wednesday for a state visit. The gardens of tulips would have been appropriate, but the specially imported Netherlands bulbs of a new variety in orange, refuse to burst into colour soon enough to greet the Head of the House of Orange. Americans are ingenious people. They trick hens into laying before their time; make rain fall; create great lakes, turn rivers from their courses and move mountains. Is it beyond their capacity to put the heat to the tulips? When Queen Juliana comes to Ottawa after her United States visit, officials there will undoubtedly be able to show a few pots of tulips on window sills. It is of course not to be expected that tulips will blossom in snow.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A new book has the odd title "Sex Is Only Temporary." But often with remarkably durable results.

Ottawa may soon take control of surplus meat, we are told. Somebody is always trying to hog the bacon.

Canada is to spend $50,000 on seven doors for UN headquarters in New York. Not much, of course, but it all helps get rid of Mr. Abbott's surplus.

The Port Arthur News says sagely that an extravagant woman makes a poor mother and a poor wife. Not to speak of a poor husband.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: I have been wondering if there are any cigar store Indians in town. If I recall correctly, one was in the entrance to a cigar store and barber shop on George St. located across from Grafton's clothing store. It may have been where Morris Duke now has his business. Do you recall what cigar they advertised? if any, or did it indicate a cigar shop?

ANSWER: Mr. Vern Fisk who closed up his cigar and cigarette business on Hunter Street across from the Post Office only a couple of weeks ago, sold then what may have been the last cigar store Indian in Peterborough. It was not a full-sized one; only a bust, and I believe in painted plaster. There may be other cigar store Indians in basements or the backs of shops, but I do not know of them.

Almost every cigar store in Peterborough or even barber shops which incidentally sold tobacco and cigars used to have an Indian outside the door. The shop you mention, opposite Grafton's, was, I believe, Talbot's, later Clyesdale's. Mr. Sam Ray who kept the tobacco shop now vacated by Mr. Fisk used to display a full-fledged cigar store Indian. They did not advertise any brand of cigar, but the fact that the shop sold cigars and tobacco. The usual Indian was three to five feet high, holding out in his hand three cigars. The best were carved in wood. These are now collectors' items, and fetch quite high prices.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE INDIAN was the sign of a tobacconist, as the striped pole is the sign of a barber shop. The barber pole is the oldest and most enduring of commercial signs (to tell people who could not read what business the shop engaged in.) Italian warehouses in Ontario towns used to have a little girl and little boy in Sicilian costume: fine little figures a couple of feet high, done in heavy pottery. Hardware stores displayed buzz-saw blades, but these overhanging signs were dangerous.

Drug stores had, and Lynch's store on Hunter Street still has, two carboys in their windows, one filled with green water, the other beside it filled with red or purple. These jugs with their coloured liquids are quite handsome. Sometimes the drug store symbol was a pestle and mortar; indicating that here drug prescriptions were mixed. I believe Lynch's has one of these outside the door.

Traditional signs for the illiterate are fast disappearing—not so much because everybody can now read, but because they do not look modern enough to suit present commercial chromium taste. Even the barber pole, the most hardy of the signs, is being diminished to a few strips of red and white paint on a flat small board beside a doorway. The only bear now outside a Peterborough furriers, is at Lech's.

There is another class of outdoor sign which has disappeared; these used to identify a particular shop, as Fair's used to be known as "At the sign of the Golden Lion". The Gilded Lion was poised above the doorway. This is akin to the signs English publicans use: "The Lamb and Crown"; "The Mitre"; "Five Bells" and the like.

I shall be delighted to have further information about Peterborough cigar store Indians, and other shop signs.

DEAR SIR: In the Star Weekly, February 23rd, a reference was made to the Sebastapol bell of Windsor which tolls only for the death of Kings. Could you tell me if it tolled at the death of His Majesty King George VI?

ANSWER: I do not know. Perhaps some other readers may. If not, an acquaintance of mine is expecting to visit Peterborough shortly who was in Windsor for the royal funeral. She may be able to give me the information.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR ALPPHA: If I take some boarders to help out the family budget, does the income so derived have to be shown on my husband's income tax return?

ANSWER: I telephoned one of the men in town purposely to answer such questions and to help people fill out their income tax forms. If the Harrassed Housewife keeps only one or two boarders or roomers, neither she nor her husband would have to bother mentioning the income so received; but if she is in the boarding or rooming house business in a biggish way—say taking five or six people—the income from it must be shown on the income tax forms. I suggest that such a housewife go down to the Customs Office where the Dominion Government installed a few days ago a couple of people to help with such difficult questions.

The income should be shown on the husband's tax form, unless the capital (for food, pots and pans, and the house) came out of the wife's income. In this rare case, the wife may file a separate form, as having a separate income.

The income tax advisers will answer questions over the phone: 7889 or 7743; but it is best to go in and see them. They are not put there to sting the public, but to help.

THE YOUNGEST ROYAL DUKE, of the sons of George III—that is, the youngest to live beyond boyhood—was Adolphus Frederick, Duke of Cambridge. From his youth onward he lived a great deal of his life in Hanover, then a principality or kingdom of the Kings of England. When his brother William IV died (William was also King of Hanover) Adolphus returned permanently to England. Queen Victoria could not succeed to the throne of Hanover since the laws required a male heir; Adolphus' next older brother Ernest August, Duke of Cumberland became King of Hanover. Cambridge returned with a wife, the German Princess Augusta (great-granddaughter of George II of England). At their marriage he was 43, she 19. He had married, like his elder brother the Duke of Kent (father of Queen Victoria) in order to do his duty and provide heirs to the throne. Their son was born only two months before Victoria—and when Victoria arrived she put the Cambridge family out of the running.

The Duke of Cambridge was the only virtuous one of the Royal Dukes, sons of George III, uncles of Queen Victoria, whose own father was one of the most magnificently wicked of them. Cambridge was handsome and charming; faithful and devoted to his wife. In his old age (he did not die until 1850) he became somewhat eccentric. His conduct at church was notorious. He had become very deaf and would sit in the first pew, where he was seen by the whole congregation. He had a loud voice, and used it.

It is said that when the clergyman came to the commandment "Thou shalt do no murder", his loud voice was heard in reply "I don't: I leave that to my brother Ernest". Ernest was the fierce military genius of the Hanoverian family—Duke of Cumberland, afterwards King of Hanover. He was popularly supposed to have murdered his valet who had discovered him (the Duke) in bed with his (the valet's) wife.

From his front pew, in answer to the clergyman's bidding "Let us pray" the Duke of Cambridge would loudly and amiably say, "By all means".

In answer to a prayer for rain, his voice would put in "Amen, but you won't get it till the wind changes". When the rector said: "For we brought nothing into the world, neither may we carry anything out", the Royal Duke would loudly reply: "True, true—too many calls on us for that". He was a man of eighteenth century magnificence and forthright speech—not of his own nineteenth century Whiggery or this meek century of the income tax.

The Duke of Cambridge was the only son of George III who could not be called a "wicked" uncle of Queen Victoria, and the only one to live within his income. He was the grandfather of the present Queen Mary.

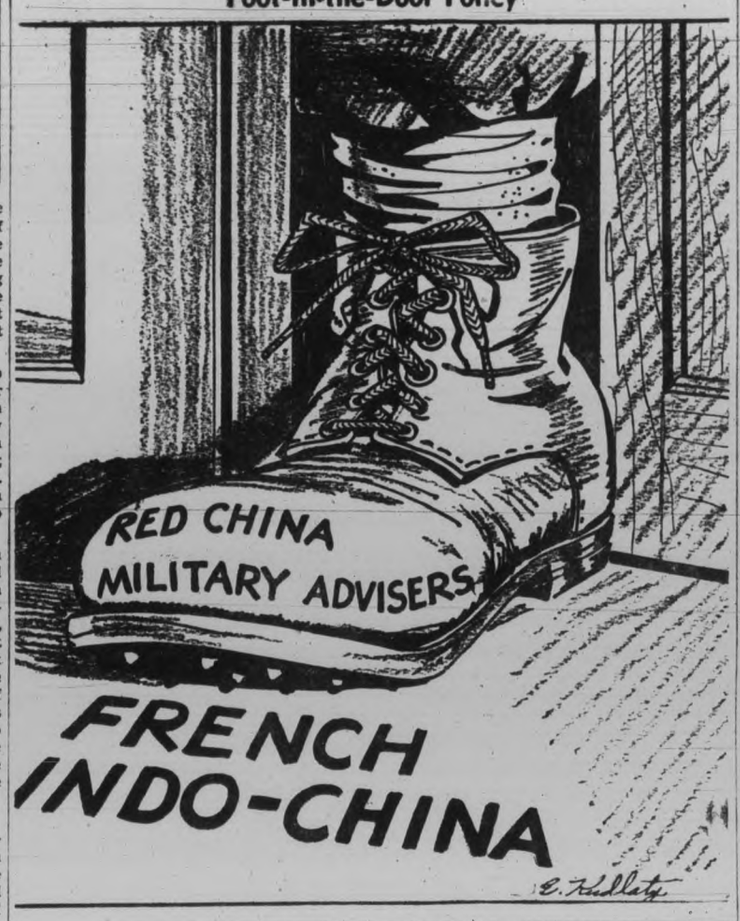
FOR THE RECORD: The original fountains in Trafalgar Square, London, which were designed by Sir Charles Barry, and replaced in 1948, were presented to the National Gallery by the National Art Collectors Fund of Great Britain. I get this pleasing information from the annual report of the National Gallery of Canada. The fountains will be erected in Ottawa as soon as a suitable site is available.

The Annual Report is prefaced by interesting Letters of Delivery. Mr. Vincent Massey as chairman of the National Gallery signs the letter sent to the Minister of Public Works, addressing it "Sir," and closing it "I have the honour to be, Sir, Your obedient servant".

The Minister of Public Works sent the report to the Governor-General (Viscount Alexander), addressing it "May It Please Your Excellency". If Mr. Massey retains the chairmanship of the Gallery, in the next annual report, will he be sending himself a letter addressed: "May It Please Your Excellency" and signing it "Your obedient Servant"?

Foot-In-the-Door Policy



Letters To The Editor

INTER-PROVINCIAL TRADE BARRIERS

Sir: From a strictly provincial viewpoint, there was plenty of optimisim in that feature story in your March 22 issue, opening on the encouraging note: Ontario cattle are free of foot-and-mouth disease, according to the evidence of R. H. Graham, livestock commissioner with the Provincial Department of Agriculture . . . Mr. Graham was endorsing a statement by Prof. A. W. Baker of the O.A.C., Department of Entomology.

On the other hand, to this reader there has been a somewhat disappointing undertone to the purely provincial approach to this nation-wide problem. In this, frankly, I cannot find a deal to criticise the various provincial authorities — whose protective measures, naturally, would be limited to the livestock and the people within their respective boundaries. Under the impulsive pressure of this menace, I presume it was felt necessary—as once did the late (and unlamented) Adolf Hitler—to act with the speed of lightning? Assuredly, the diagnosis mechanism was at the 'slow poke' tempo—an amazing contrast?

Nevertheless, there was food for thought in the following paragraph of the above report: "Since Feb. 3rd," he said, "no cattle from western Canada have come into Ontario". I suppose the same can be said from the viewpoint of Manitoba, British Columbia and, of course, by the United States clear across the 3,000-mile Line between us and our southern friends? This should leave Saskatchewan and Alberta at the "Don't Fence Me In" level, with about 30 per cent of the nation's livestock?

Doubtless some heroic measures have been initiated by the vigorous and resourceful people in those twin areas; but while no one seems much concerned with the basic provisions of the B.N.A., (British North America Act—to readers who can hardly be blamed for having forgotten it), I find my thought nicely expressed by one of your farm contemporaries, thus: "Is Canada one nation, or is every one of the provinces entitled, in a time of national emergency, such as the present, to act as an independent state in imposing barriers against interprovincial trade which are clearly detrimental to the national interests?" (Editorial, "One Nation Or Ten?", Western Farm Leader).

WAKE UP, OTTAWA!

APARTHEID IN CANADA?

Sir: Your strictures on the native policy of the Government of South Africa would carry greater conviction if our own Government did not carry out a very similar policy of "apartheid" towards the Indians.

Incidentally, I noticed that the front page of your issue of 25 March contained the two following headings next to each other: "S. Africa Policy Condemned by Canadian M.P.'s" and "Canada Conducts Bacterial War Research". I would suggest that we put our own house in order before being too free with criticism, however justified, of other countries.

Yours truly,
C. GLEDHILL

(Ed. Note: Canadian Indians are not required to stay on reserves. If they leave the reserve they become as ordinary citizens, with full responsibility for their own livelihood, the right to vote and to pay taxes. If they leave the reserve they of course forego the Government bounties.)

"Don't you like the new car, darling?" inquired the man.

"Like it?" countered the little woman. "After all the trouble I went to learn how to shift gears, and you come home and tell me this car doesn't have any."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

All the kings of the earth shall praise thee, O Lord, when they hear the words of thy mouth. Yea, they shall sing in the ways of the Lord: for great is the glory of the Lord . . .

The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me: thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever. (Ps. 138: 4, 5, 8.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Brethern I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you. (Phil. 3: 13-15.)

Revival Of Snuff-Taking

(B.B.C. London Letter)

NOW that tobacco has become such an expensive luxury for the British smoker, many people are taking to snuff. An ounce of it, at any price from four shillings and sixpence, lasts an average snuffer two weeks, while four-and-six will buy little more than twenty-five cigarettes in Britain. The snuff most in demand today is the same brand as that which tickled the palates of the Regency, a mixture made from fermented tobacco that is prepared, sieved, sorted and then mixed by individual snuff merchants, who use secret recipes handed down for generations.

Sylvia Gray described her visit to the small shop in London's Haymarket where the Regency bucks used to buy snuff and where quantities of it are still sold today. She saw the old books written in copperplate handwriting in faded ink that was itself the colour of snuff. They contained orders for several Kings and Queens, one being for "One pound of His Majesty's morning mixture, ditto evening mixture" for King George IV. Amongst these royalties Queen Charlotte was such a snuff addict that she was disrespectfully termed "Snuffy Charlotte" by the shop's present manager. He told Sylvia Gray that the small establishment had sent snuff to all parts of the world for nearly two hundred and fifty years, and that all kinds of people took it, from the famous Beau Brummel, who liked best a rich, full-blooded brand called "Facon de Paris", to the old London taxi-driver who still comes in once a fortnight for two ounces of S. and P., the workman's blend. Politicians, singers, actors and broadcasters, women as well as men, are taking to snuff nowadays, and there is still a much-used snuff box in the House of Commons. Members going into the Chamber can stop at the messengers' box by the Churchill Arch and, if they wish, take a pinch of snuff. A number of them take advantage of this opportunity.

Mary Hackett: Chimney-sweep

(Edinburgh Scotsman)

Most people would probably say that the callings which are still exclusively male, and unlikely to be invaded by women, include chimney-sweeping. But Mrs. Mary Hackett comes down from an Edinburgh chimney to contradict this.

Although she is believed to be the city's only woman wielder of the long brush, Mrs. Hackett is a genuine whole-time sweep. She and her husband, Mr. Joe Hackett, have been sweeping chimneys together for the past four years.

Mrs. Hackett finds the work congenial. Yet she would probably never have given it a trial but for the lack of an apprentice.

"Boys nowadays don't care for chimney-sweeping", she says. "We had no children ourselves, and when Joe had difficulty in finding a lad for "bottom man", I decided to try my hand. And I liked it so much I kept on the job."

"So we decided to borrow a page from history—form an outlaw band—rob the rich to feed the poor—and so on . . ."

New Queen Plans Changes In Cold Buckingham Palace

By MARIE McGOWAN

LONDON, March 28. (Reuters) —There'll be some changes made when the Queen moves into Buckingham Palace, the vast 614-room castle which still bears the stamp of her 84-year-old grandmother.

During the long years that dowager Queen Mary, mother of the late King, lived there, Buckingham Palace remained a sombre place of gilded magnificence, dark crimson draperies and heavy Victorian furniture. The atmosphere survived after she moved out following the death of King George V in 1936.

Now that Queen Elizabeth, 25, and her handsome 30-year-old husband are getting ready to move soon from their modern apartments at Clarence House, the old castle is in for modernization.

An oil heating system is being installed in what is generally known as the "coldest house in Europe" and £6,000 is being spent to bring the electrical system up to date.

The Royal family actually will occupy only a minor part of the building—their own suites and nurseries for little Prince Charles and Princess Anne. But the presence of youth is expected to brighten the whole court.

Queen Busy

The Queen's taste in interior decorating will be carried out as far as possible, but many rooms in the palace are reserved for formal state functions and offices.

At present the Queen is busy arranging details. Besides deciding what rooms she will need and what decorating she wants done, she also has to pick the staff she wants to take with her—more than 200 servants are needed to keep up the palace.

When Elizabeth and Philip move from Clarence House they will change places with the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret.

Actually, once she is set up in Buckingham Palace, Queen Elizabeth may no longer be mistress of her own home. Not only will she be tied up for up to 12 hours a day with state affairs. But the palace is so large that those who live and work there often do not know what is going on under its roof.

The story goes that when Queen Mary first moved into the palace she got lost. Two hours later search parties were sent out to find her.

Hastings WMS Hears S. American History

HASTINGS, March 28 (ENS)—March meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held at the home of Mrs. H. B. Wilson.

The scripture reading was taken by Mrs. Allan Sherwin and Mrs. J. C. Taylor. The study book on South America was given by Mrs. W. S. Fife, telling of the lives of the natives and the early days of the first settlers in South America.

A humorous reading on "Food" was given by Mrs. Reta Johnston. Mrs. W. Whitred offered her home for the April meeting.

After the meeting an observation test was enjoyed, winners being Mrs. Reta Johnston and Mrs. J. McMillan. Mrs. William Moore on behalf of the members extended a vote of thanks to the hostess for her hospitality.

PCVS Students Tour CGE, Seek Vocation

Interested in engineering as a profession, 27 P.C.V.S. academic students visited the C.G.E. Wednesday afternoon. This group was the last in a series of interest groups arranged through the vocational guidance department.

Howard Moebus, vocational guidance director, said today that the C.G.E. and the Peterborough chapter of the Engineering Institute of Canada co-operated with the department for this group.

The boys met at 3 p.m. at the C.G.E. where they were divided into three smaller groups. Starting in the engineering offices, the boys toured the plant for an over-all picture of engineering.

After the plant tour the boys met with a committee from the Engineering Institute in the factory conference room. There Larry McKeever, plant engineer, Barry Ottewell, C.G.E. engineer, and Albert J. Bonney, Quaker Oats Company engineer, spoke on various phases of engineering. They also answered any questions.

Arrange Interviews

The committee will arrange interviews with engineers of various branches in which the students are interested.

This interest group was the last of the large groups for this term. Others held this year were on teaching, nursing and Ryerson Institute of Technology.

Mr. Moebus explained that interests of other students will be investigated by individual interviews.

A group of academic students interested in apprenticeships will visit the C.G.E. soon. Earlier this term the industrial arts students held a similar group.

RIOT SQUAD—An Italian policeman loses his balance while swinging his club and tumbles from his seat as police jeep makes a sudden stop in front of a group of rioting students near the American Embassy in Rome. Demanding that Trieste be returned to Italy, the students shouted "Down with the United States" and had to be dispersed with tear gas and streams of red-dyed water.

Government Seizes Shipment Of Cheese

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) —The government Thursday announced seizure in Kansas City, Chicago and San Francisco of 6,000 pounds of processed cheese penetrated by a toxic chemical used to protect its wrappers.

The Food and Drug Administration said it was looking for other lots in the same wrapper.

The chemical, dehydroacetic acid, had been used to prevent mold growth on the wrappers. The government said toxicity of the chemical is similar to that of carbolic acid.

Indians Tired Of Bad Film Publicity

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 28—(AP) —The movie Indian is pictured as a howling savage who submits cowboys and pioneers to all kinds of torture, and murders for the heck of it.

And some Indians don't like it.

One of these is Iron Eyes Cody, a Cherokee who is in a position to do something about it. An expert on Indian lore, he has been in the movies as actor and technical advisor since "The Covered Wagon" in 1924.

Indian's Side

"There have lately been some excellent pictures that show the Indian's side," he remarked, naming such films as "Devil's Doorway," "Broken Arrow," "Comanche Territory" and "Navajo."

"But still there are too many pictures which are either inaccurate or put Indians in a bad light.

"For instance, the studios nearly always paint up the Indians like African savages. The truth is that the Indians did not put on paint to look ferocious. They only put on lines of color to represent dreams they had before going into a battle."

Feathered warbonnets were used by only a few tribes, he added, and each feather symbolized an act of valor.

Another thing—not all Indians lived in tepees.

"The Indians lived in everything from mud huts to cliff dwellings," he said.

No Different

Iron Eyes added that the Indians are no more maddened by liquor than any other race.

"It's all a matter of whether a person has built up a resistance to alcohol," he explained. "Some Indians had their own native alcoholic drinks, so the white man's liquor didn't faze them."

Besides advising the film studios, Iron Eyes has his own local television show. He plans to make TV films about the true Indian life.

"My main purpose," Cody said, "is to present the American Indian as what he really was—and is—a human being with high cultural standards." When he had to use force, it was to protect what he felt was rightfully his."

Actress Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP) —Actress Terry Moore has sued football's Glenn Davis for divorce, charging cruelty. In an 18-word complaint filed Wednesday, she said they separated three months after their marriage in Glendale, Calif., Feb. 9, 1951. She said there is no community property and asked no alimony.

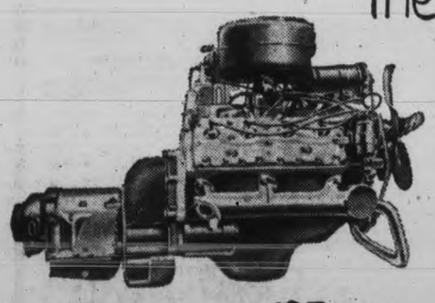
Meet the Most Challenging New Car of the Year and for Years to Come!

the New 1952 MERCURY with MERC-O-MATIC Drive



CHALLENGING NEW 125 H.P. HIGH-COMPRESSION V-8

NOW 125 HORSEPOWER—the economy prize-winning Mercury has been stepped up to give more horsepower, greater power-to-weight ratio and new dual "centri-flow" carburetion delivers more efficient performance and gas economy. It's high-compression V-8 power at its best, with pace, balance and hustle, backed by over 20 years' experience of the world's largest manufacturer of V-type engines.

3-WAY CHOICE in transmissions: Merc-O-Matic Drive, the greatest of all automatic drives; or thrifty Touch-O-Matic Overdrive, (both optional at extra cost), and the Silent-Ease synchronized standard transmission.

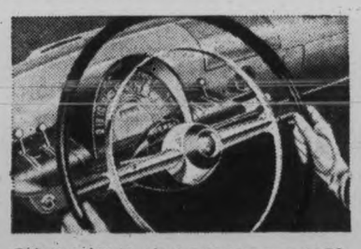
Here's your new car, and we do mean new! . . . the all new '52 Mercury . . . the most challenging new car of the year, or any year. Justly, the '52 Mercury is called the "forerunner" of cars of the future.

Its lines are new . . . refreshingly crisp . . . with "Jet-scoop" hood; bold massive grille; proud sweeping fenders. New "air-foil" side treatment accentuates the flowing lines . . . carries your eye to the attractive rear-end styling. Mercury's sleek top appearance is new, too—with clear-view "Monopane" windshield, narrow corner posts and landscape-wide "wrap around" rear window. Here indeed is styling made possible by revolutionary new techniques in engineering.

"Space-planned" interiors put your comfort first. Everywhere there's something new, something different and wonderfully better.

You'll thrill, pleasantly of course, when you feel the stepped-up pace and steady balance of this beauty. There's more power —125 eager horsepower—better pick-up, more efficiency and Mercury's famous economy.

Be one of the first to see, to "Road Test" and to own a '52 Mercury with the "future features".



CHALLENGING NEW FUTURE FEATURES

The challenging new '52 Mercury offers so many advanced features for your comfort and convenience. Features like the up-front "quick-sight" Interceptor instrument panel, matchless Merc-O-Matic Drive, suspension-mounted "Floor-Free" brake pedal, and the "Hide-Away" gas cap for easy fueling from either right or left. The new 1952 Mercury is your look today at the cars of tomorrow.

The following letter comes from Stan McBride: "Dear Sir—If the city council is going to present crested rings to the curling group for winning a provincial championship, I think they should go a step further and present a like remembrance to a local athlete who was not recognized by Peterborough in 1947 for an outstanding achievement. I speak of Jack Dugan, local boxer who won the Dominion amateur middleweight title in Port Arthur in Canadian eliminations in 1947. I feel quite sure the city fathers will be only too glad to make this belated effort in behalf of a fine local athlete. Thank you." Yes, Stan, we agree. Dugan has now retired from the ring and as athletes get older they prize these mementos highly. We believe the council should have an extra ring struck for a Canadian championship.

We're told that the Stouffville Clippers are a fast, rugged bunch of Toronto puckists. Had a stiff season up north with Midland, Orillia, Collingwood and Markham—and a somewhat similar setup might conceivably include Peterborough another year. Especially if Kingston goes down Ottawa way, as they're thinking of doing. In any case, there is a lot of interest in the forthcoming provincial playdown series between the Clippers and Petes, opening here tonight. Promises to be a dandy duel between two fast-skating clubs in important playoffs before big crowds. Don't pass up the opener of the series.

Writer Rides Writer, Eh?

Quinte columnist says: "When Hawks were in a losing streak, Mike Rodden of Kingston dug deeply into his rich store of adjectives to describe the faltering Belleville seniors. He must have depleted his store of such adjectival comment because with the flying Petes taking Sacs apart, re-assembling them and starting another chore of disintegration, nary an adjective has issued from the Rodden typewriter. There was a touch of gloating in Mike's description of the Belleville squad. He had them 'collapsed, floundering, wallowing, deflated' and whatnot. Now, so to speak, the shoe is on the other foot. And nary a toot from the Rodden Sacs-o-phone. And fans up here wonder what happened to the wonder-boy goalie from the Maritimes. At least the Petes didn't administer such crushing defeats to Hawks as they handed out to Sacs. And with a flock of juniors, Mike. Heluva feeling, ain't it?"

* * * * * *

Be that as it may, the Petes are pointing toward an Ontario ttile—and they'll be hard to stop. Sometime ago, the O.H.A. said this group winner would go into provincial semi-finals. We're not positive of that at the moment, as two Toronto teams are still in the hunt. Looks at the moment like three playdown teams in Western Ontario, out of which sawoffs will come one into the finals. Whether or not the Stouffville-Petes' winner goes into semi-finals or finals we don't know but hope to find out soon from the O.H.A. Barring injuries, the Ellis men don't care whether they meet one or two more.

Otonabee Wolves Howled

Congratulations to George Heron and his Empress-sponsored Otonabee Wolves on capturing the Ontario bantam "B" puck crown. Nosed out Brampton's gallant young gladiators 9-8 in overtime here last e'en to grab the O.M.H.A. championship. A. E. (Bert) Hick, association official, presented the champs with the A. A. Morrison Trophy immediately after the contest whilst some 700 fans cheered. Two fine squads in a tight series, with Larry Lonsberry and Gary Darling the heroes as they combined for the winning goal while a Brampton penalty was being served. The losers' goalie gamely came back after a nasty cut over the eye in the extra inning to play a swell game. The Wolves are worthy champs.

Two shutouts marked second games in Stanley Cup semi- finals last night, Canadiens blanking Bruins 4-0 and Wings yanking out a 1-0 decision o'er Leafs. Rotund Turk Broda came up with a sparkling show in the Leafian cage in a clean, close-checking scrap, but so did Sawchuck in the Detroit net. And he was plenty busy in the final frame. Leafs may make a comeback on home ice Saturday—in fact they'll have to or they're about finished. Bruins, too, will have to snap out of it smartly or they'll be heading for home next week. It still looks very much like Canadiens and Wings in the cup final.

Tag Team Bout Tops Mat Card

A wild and woolly tag team wrestling match features the card at the Brock next Tuesday night. Two towering and rough grapplers, Lord Athol Layton and Hi Lee, tackle the popular and powerful Lu Kimm and speedy Zorra, the French Tarzan. This outstanding bout should produce fireworks from start to finish, and the pair of Kimm and Zorra might be hard-pressed to withstand the villainous assault freely predicted by judo-chopping Layton and the shaggy-maned Lee.

Tag team matches have always proven popular here but none have been served up locally for some time. This is the first time ever for this powerful combination to be tossed into the ring together. Zorra is speedy and hardy with a wonderful physique, while Kimm is one of the strongest wrestlers to show here this year. Layton is a wily ring veteran with a murderous slash and his 'English Octopus' hold, while Hi Lee is as rough and means as they come.

Bobo Brazil, the talented Negro star, takes on a tough customer in Wee Willie Davis, in the semi-final.

Lou Pitoscia, Lord Layton's trainer, will be given a chance to show his stuff in the ring for a change meeting Ray Clarke in the opener.

CAPTURE BANTAM CROWN—George Heron's gallant young Otonabee Wolves, sponsored by Empress, went overtime to do it here last night, but they emerged as O.M.H.A. bantam "B" champions for 1952 by edging Brampton 9-8 in the provincial final. They had a highly successful season in P.M.H.A. ranks, in bantam "C" playdowns and finally in bantam "B" competition. The victors are shown above, back row, left to right: Art Hamilton, Jim Heron, Bob Revoy, Larry Lonsberry and Scott Sayers; centre, Ken Darling, Hayden Scott, Terry McIlwain, Gary Darling, Jim Fraser and Eric Batten; front: Doug Ruttan, Bob Little, Ray Sullivan, Chris Heffernan and Cliff Chase. Otonabee Wolves Get Title And Morrison Trophy Against Brampton Bantams

Edging Brampton 9-8 here in overtime last night before 700 excited fans, Otonabee Wolves captured the best-of-three O.M.H.A. bantam "B" championship two games to one. Immediately after the game, the A. A. Morrison Trophy was presented to George Heron's Empress-sponsored victors by Bert Hick of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. The winning goal came at 7:50 of the 10-minute extra period with Lonsberry slapping in a passout by Gary Darling at close range while Miller of Brampton was serving a slashing penalty. Darling and Lonsberry had starred throughout, and the rest of their mates labored hard in an exciting and close playoff contest. Kendall and McCutcheon were outstanding for the losers, as was their goalie, Savage. The latter suffered a nasty gash over his eye when hit by a puck in overtime, but returned patched up to finish the game.

Early Lead

Brampton rolled to a 3-1 lead in the first period but Wolves came back for a 2-1 edge in the second to let B's lead by but 4-3 going into the third. Wolves finally outscored them 4-3 in a see-saw third, coming from behind several times. G. Darling's goal from Heron at 18:25 put it into overtime. After G. Darling tallied early in overtime from Batten, the game Brampton boys fought back to sew it up once more, but a later penalty cost them the cup as Lonsberry whipped in G. Darling's passout.

Play was quite fast for 14-year-olds, and they were well-matched teams. It was a clean tilt, apart from one fight between Pullen and Revoy in the second, both drawing majors. Some good hockey was served up and it was exciting all the way to wind up a keen bantam final series. The losers congratulated the winners after the game as they lined up for the presentation and pictures while the fans gave them a big hand. Teams:

Brampton: Goal, Savage; defence, Pullen, Loney; centre, Kendall; wings, Mulliss, Thompson; alternates, Rawson, Miller, Armstrong, Cobean, McCutcheon, Coir, Hamada, Smith.

Wolves: Goal, Sullivan; defence, Revoy, Hamilton; centre, G. Darling; wings, Batten, Lonsberry; alternates, McIlwain, Heron, Chase, K. Darling, Scott, Rutton, Heffernan, Sayers.

Cage Tournament At The Collegiate

Ontario bantam and midget basketball championships will be the prizes for teams from Toronto, Windsor, Orillia and Peterborough Saturday in a one-day tournament at P.C.V.S.

This is the second year that P.C.V.S.' Garnet and Grey teams have played hosts to the Ontario districts' champions.

For his bantam team Coach Bev Goulding has turned to the public schools for material. The age limit for bantam players is under 14 years and only six of the 27 boys who turned out for the school team were in that age bracket.

For some of the Garnet and Grey boys the Ontario semi-final will be their first competitive game. This lack of experience has placed them as under-dogs in the tournament.

For the past month Mr. Goulding has been holding a house league for bantam players at noon hours. This four-team league has resulted in the Ontario playdown representatives.

Coach Goulding announced the starting line today as Bob Druery at centre, Bob Hollingsworth and Gerry Montgomery at forward, Les Scharf and John Chesney at guard. He will be alternating Gildo Silvestri and public school students Bill Hendry and Pete Stewart.

P.C.V.S. will meet Toronto's McMurrich playground in the first semi-final at one p.m., while Windsor Sacred Heart will play Orillia in the other half. Toronto and Windsor are favored to meet in the final game at 7.30.

A Strong Entry

Windsor Sacred Heart has played it's second year in Windsor Church League. Last year they were eliminated by Westminster United in the semi-finals. This year they have an undefeated record of eight games, winning the final playoff 88-33, points-to-count two-game series.

The Windsor representatives have three players over five-foot eight inches and on the average have been playing together for four years.

Jack Cullis will lead his junior "B" school team into the Ontario midget tournament. Playing together in school league play the quintet has picked up considerable experience.

Bob Keeting will start at centre, flanked by Doug Ash and Bob McKinney and backed by Neil Cournyea and Paul Davis. Substituting will be John Boorman, Don Lang, Ray Gallagher, Vern Smyth, Elwood Palmateer and Don Stewart.

Toronto's West End will open the midget tournament at 2.15 p.m., playing Orillia. At 4.45 p.m. P.C.V.S. will play either Windsor or Kitchener. The finals will be played at 8.45.

Rookie Crop Hits New High

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—The 1952 major baseball season should produce just about the best freshman crop of the last 10 years.

Of the 122 rookies with the 16 big league clubs, chances are that from 25 to 35 will be in the regular line-ups when opening day rolls around April 15. That's more than double the normal output.

Candidate for the No. 1 rookie of the Grapefruit League in Florida is Andy Carey, third baseman with the Yankees. The St. Mary's college of California alumnus seems a cinch to open the regular season with the world champions. He has impressed onlookers with his power at the plate and his steadiness in the field.

The No. 2 rookie is Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, the colorful left-handed strikeout pitcher from Houston, who is tabbed a sure shot to win a starting berth on the Cardinals. His fast ball is alive and his curve is explosive.

You don't have to be an expert to predict that this kid pitcher will go places," observed Manager Tommy Holmes of the Braves.

CURLING NOTES

Lawn bowlers mourn the passing of James Harrison. The late Mr. Harrison was for many years a faithful member of our lawn bowling club. He skipped a rink and could always be depended upon to team up with the late Ed. Coleman in all tournaments. Although he retired from bowling a couple of years ago, he maintained his interest in the club. James Harrison will be greatly missed.

Brooks May Have Gold In Wade

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 28 (AP).—Brooklyn Dodgers may have hit pay dirt once again in the case of Ben Wade who is striving for a pitching berth at the ripe old baseball age of 29.

Wade, younger brother of Jake who pitched for six American League clubs, is on the Montreal International League roster but he won't be there long if he keeps up his good work.

Thirty years ago the Dodgers gave another old gaffer, 29-year-old Dazzy Vance, a chance after he had been passed up by Pittsburgh and the Yankees. Vance won 18 games in 1922 and 189 during his 11 years with the Dodgers.

The Dodgers struck it rich again in 1939 when they took on 31-year-old Whitlow Wyatt who had failed in previous trials with Detroit, Cleveland and the Chicago White Sox. Wyatt and Vance rank as two of the greatest right-handers in Brooklyn's history.

Wade, also a righthander, has been knocking around the minors for 11 years. He just about clinched a job Thursday as the Dodgers defeated the Boston Braves 3-0 on one hit.

He held the Braves hitless until the seventh inning when Sam Jethroe beat out a bunt for Boston's only safety. Wade left after the seventh and Johnny Schmitz finished up.

Broda Holds Wings To 1 Goal But Scoreless Leafs Drop Second Straight

DETROIT, March 28. (CP)—Tubby Turk Broda, too old to help during the regular National Hockey League season and at least 12 pounds over his best playing weight, may become Toronto Maple Leafs' chief hope of stopping the onrushing Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup playoffs. The 37-year-old Turk made a dramatic return from near retirement on Thursday night and came within an eyelash of unfolding one of hockey's great comebacks. Only a cheap first-period Red Wing goal by a rookie, left-winger Johnny Wilson, robbed Broda of one of his great moments.

It was the only goal of the night and it put the Wings, N.H.L. champions, two games up in their best-of-seven semi-finals. The teams now move to Toronto for the third and fourth games Saturday and Tuesday nights.

The Leafs played their hearts out for Broda who, at 37, is the oldest man in the big time, but they couldn't get past Terry Sawchuk, Vezina Trophy winner this season who now has two straight playoff shutouts. But it was the Turkey's night and he lugged his 202 pounds around the nets in almost-perfect style.

Great Performance

He made his 100th playoff game —incidentally, a record—one of his greatest. And the old performer drew praise from Conn Smythe, the Leafs' managing director, Detroit manager Jack Adams and most of the 15,146 crowd that rocked Olympia Stadium with their cheers for Broda.

The soon-to-be 38-year-old (May 15) goalkeeper, an institution around the N.H.L. circuit since the 1936-37 season had played only 30 minutes this season. That was in the final game of the schedule against Boston Bruins.

At first the crowd thought Smythe's use of Broda was just a sentimental gesture to allow the Turk to play in his 100th playoff game. Sentimental or not, the blue and white team played it with all the stops out but bumped up against one of Sawchuk's better games.

"I thought I had the winning goal blocked," Broda said in the dressing room. Metro Prystai set up the goal with a pass to Alex Delvecchio 20 feet in front of the net. Broda made a great stop of it but Wilson, appearing in his third playoff game, and standing by the net, flicked in the rebound for his second goal of the series.

Didn't Get Second Chance

It came at 15:33, just after Toronto defenceman Bill Juzda was penalized for boarding. And Wings didn't have another decent scoring chance.

Leafs almost went out in front early in the game when Jim Thompson's shot hit the post with Sawchuk out of position and they almost scored in the third period to tie the game.

Max Bentley stick-handled to the Detroit net and passed to Sid Smith who he figured was in slightly better position on the other side of the net. The left-winger blazed one at Sawchuk from a few feet out and the goalkeeper barely got a piece of it.

The Wings' big line of Gordie Howe, Ted Lindsay and Sid Abel was broken up when Abel sat this one out due to a knee injury suffered in the first game Tuesday night. Defenceman Len (Red) Kelly took his place but Abel is expected to see action Saturday.

Kelly injured his left arm when he fell to the ice near the end of the game and he remained here today for X-rays.

Compared to Tuesday's roughhouse, when a record 29 penalties were called, Thursday night's game was tame stuff. Reference Red Storey called only nine penalties, six against the Leafs.

Hornets Advance To A.H.L. Finals

By The Canadian Press.

Pittsburgh Hornets have advanced to the finals of the American Hockey League, accomplishing this Thursday night on Bob Solinger's goal at 1:54 of the second overtime period.

The goal gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 decision over Hershey Bears and enabled them to take the best-of-seven "A" series four games to one.

Pittsburgh, winners of the A.H.L. championship and the western division title, now will meet the winner of the Providence-Cincinnati semi-final.

Providence qualified for the best-of-five series by ousting Cleveland Barons, 4-2, in the deciding game of their best-of-five set.

Bilts Subdue Teepees 5-3 To Lead Series

GUELPH, March 28 (CP). — Guelph Biltmores staved off a late-game St. Catharines Teepees' rally Thursday night to come through with a 5-3 victory in the third game of their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finals. The win gave the Bilts a 2-1 lead in the series.

Holding a decisive edge in play during the opening period, Guelph built up a 4-0 lead by the end of the first 20 minutes. But the Teepees fought the second session on even terms, splitting a pair of goals with the Bilts.

In an explosive third period rally, St. Catharines banged in two unanswered markers as the Biltmores hung on grimly. Outplaying Guelph at every turn, Teepees ran out of time. Their late game drive just came too late.

The victory was Guelph's second straight. They took the second game 8-4 Wednesday at St Catharines after dropping Monday's opener 4-3 at Guelph. The fourth clash is scheduled Saturday back in St. Catharines.

The series winners move against Porcupine Combines — the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions — in an all-Ontario Memorial Cup final.

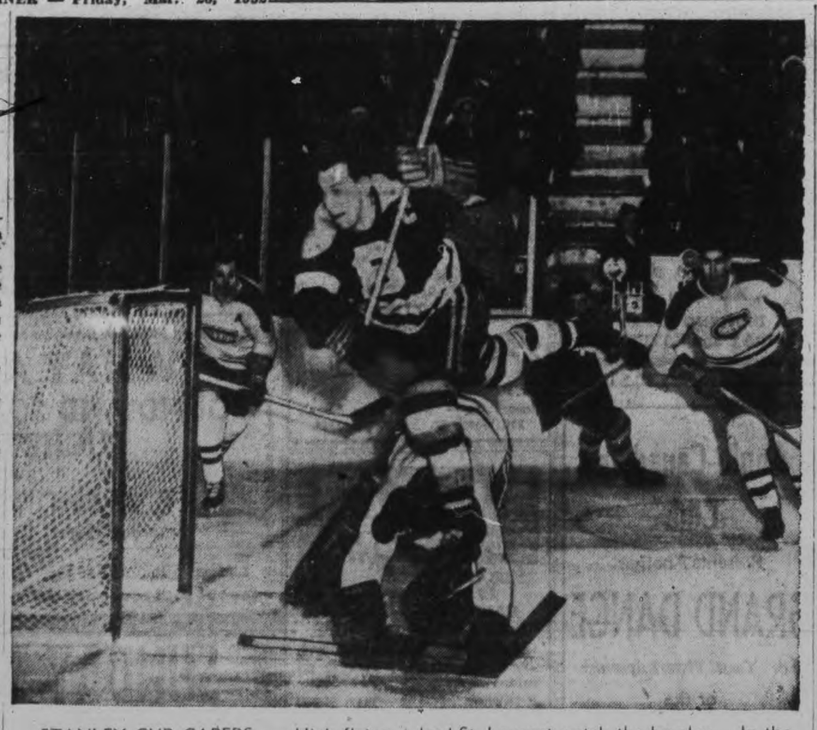
Leads Attack

Jimmy Connelly led the Guelph attack with a pair of goals while Dean Prentice, Andy Bathgate and Ken Laufman garnered singletons. Pierre Pilote, Brian Cullen and Willie Haas scored for Teepees.

Injuries hurt both clubs. Star Teepee centre Buddy Boone — suffering a severely - bruised shoulder—appeared briefly in the first period, but had to retire. Biltmore defenceman Aldo Guidolin was missing, out of action with a charley horse.

Guelph lost the services of forward Ken Laufman midway through the first period when he was checked by Teepee defenceman Allan Kellogg. Laufman twisted his knee. It is not known how long he will be out of action.

Marv Edwards, Teepees' 17-year-old goalkeeper, played another outstanding game for St. Catharines. He kicked aside 30 shots over the three periods while Marv Brewer, in the Guelph nets was called on to handle 16 pucks, most of them in the final period.



STANLEY CUP CAPERS — High-flying Milt Schmidt, starry centre for Boston Bruins, clears the falling Montreal Canadiens' goalie Gerry McNeil as the two teams start their Stanley Cup semi-finals in the National League annual playoffs. Montreal defenceman Doug Harvey, left, and Dollard St. Laurent watch the by-play. In the background is Boston winger Real Chevrefils. The Canadiens dominated play and took a 5-1 victory in the first game of the best-of-seven series. In the other Stanley Cup playoff series Detroit Red Wings blanked Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0 to take a 1-0 lead, adso in a best-of-seven series.

Braund's No. 1 blanked A & P, Loblaw's did likewise to Neill's, while Braund's No. 2 applied the brush to Crowe's. The others were 2-1 victors, Prudential over Bond's, and the Gimblett crew over Utilities.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Ottawa Senators will apply for admission to the American Hockey League at the League's next meeting, the Cleveland Plain Dealer says. At present Ottawa is in the Quebec Senior Hockey League. For years it had teams in the National League and had more Stanley Cup champions than any other city.

The Plain Dealer says: "Tommy Gorman, wealthy Ottawa sports figure and prominent in hockey for 40 years, has written asking the American League to consider taking in his Senators."

In Ottawa Thursday night, Gorman said he had been approached with regard to entry into the A.H.L. but had "no comment" on the Cleveland report.

In another Cleveland report on Thursday, James C. Hendy, general manager of Cleveland Barons, said he definitely will apply this season for admission to the National Hockey League.

Manager Eddie Sawyer of Philadelphia Phillies slapped a $200 fine on third baseman Willie (Puddinhead) Jones Thursday in Clearwater, Fla., for "conduct detrimental to the welfare of the ball club." He declined to elaborate, but reporters concluded that Jones, 26-year-old former Toronto Maple Leafs infielder, had violated the midnight curfew. The fine was unofficially reported the biggest since Miller Huggins tagged the late Babe Ruth for $500 in the 1920s.

Rocky Graziano, former middleweight champion who meets champion Ray Robinson for the 160-pound title in Chicago next month, scored a technical knockout over Roy Wouters of Vancouver Thursday night in the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout in St. Paul, Minn.

Youthful Marilyn Smith and veteran Patty Berg trimmed par with 73s to tie for the lead in the $4,000 New Orleans women's open golf tournament Thursday after 18 holes. Babe Zaharias posted a one-over-par 75 to take third spot after first-round play in the 72 hole tournament.

Giants Release Hartung To Minneapolis

By BOB MYERS.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 28 — (AP).—New York Giants announced the outright release today of Clint Hartung—sold for an undisclosed sum to Minneapolis—thus adding what may be a final chapter in the big league career of one of baseball's most publicized rookies.

President Horace Stoneham made the announcement which ended the Giants' five-year trial with "the big kid from Texas."

His departure was in sharp contrast to the spring of 1947 when the lean, six-foot-4½ figure first checked into the Giants' camp here.

He was the rookie bet of the post-war era. Thousands of words and hundreds of pictures told of young Hartung, then 24 years old.

Not Ready

His fame was based on exploits with an army team in Honolulu. He could pitch, he could hit, he could play the outfield. As it developed, Hartung was not ready for major league baseball. And baseball law can be blamed as much as anything for his failure.

Farm director Carl Hubbell explained it today. Said the old pitching star: "Every year since Clint came to us, we tried to get him waived out of the league. We wanted to farm him out for experience. We never could, until Thursday."

His years on the Giant roster, while he was in the army, despite the fact he had never played in a big league park, or had even seen one, were counted, under baseball law. The Giants couldn't farm him out, for fear of losing him in the draft, or waive him out of the league. So Hartung, at a period when he might have been maturing, or developing, sat on the Giant bench for four seasons.

He began as a pitcher. In 1947 he won nine and lost seven. Next year it was 8-8, then 9-11, in 1950 3-3.

He was shifted to outfield duty. His fielding was poor, but it has improved. He still "hits a good ball," as Stoneham pointed out, but not enough to displace such men as Monte Irvin, Willie Mays or Don Mueller.

"I'd kind of like to try pitching against Minneapolis," Hartung said, "but that's strictly up to Mr. Stoneham. Whatever he thinks is best, that's what I'll do."

Locked Up By Boys

CINCINNATI, March 28 (AP)—Police answering a feeble pounding on a basement door Thursday found Fred Heide, 64, who said boys locked him in last Saturday. He was found to be suffering from malnutrition and exposure.

Montreal Has 2-0 Edge

Hustling Canadiens Blank Boston 4-0

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

MONTREAL, March 28 (CP).—Boom Boom Geoffrion's game-busting hat trick and Gerry McNeil's goaltending wizardry left Boston Bruins with a mountain-size task today if they hope to overhaul the free-running Montreal Canadiens.

The amazing Montreal rookie spaced his three goals through as many periods Thursday night to lead his mates to a 4-0 trouncing of the Bruins and give Canadiens the first two games of the Stanley Cup semi-final.

The best-of-seven series in the annual hockey scramble, with the Bruins decidedly on the spot, now moves on to Boston. The third and fourth games will be played there Sunday and Tuesday.

Geoffrion'sh triple followed a first period goal by Ken Mosdell, centre of Canadiens' checking line. A few minutes later, Mosdell crashed into the boards and suffered a double fracture of the right leg.

Once that first goal was safely stowed away, Canadiens romped merrily along on the Boomer's marksmanship but they needed little McNeil to hold them together when the frustrated Bruins threw all they had into desperate offensives.

There was more vim and vigor to the Bruins' attack Thursday night than they showed Tuesday when they were walloped 5-1.

Shoe Store Owner Born In Lindsay

TORONTO, March 28—President of a large Toronto shoe store, Charles Leslie Owens, 71, died in his sleep Tuesday at his home. Mr. Owens was born and educated in Lindsay.

Before moving to Toronto he spent some time in survey work in the Sudbury district. He moved to Toronto in 1906 and joined a shoe firm.

In 1914, with J. T. Elms, he founded the firm of Owens and Elmes, which has stores in Montreal and Toronto. He leaves his widow, Alma Gertrude Owens and one son, Scott.

Priests In Buddhist Temples Receive Food From Faithful

By BILL BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand, March 28—(CP)—Rev. Prasiddh Kittisiddho, 24, has lived in a Buddhist temple for nine years.

In all that time he has eaten only what food was given to him by Buddhists outside the temple.

"But we do not beg," he said emphatically. "We do accept alms. We accept them in order to live; and we accept them to help others fulfil a spiritual exercise."

Seated cross-legged and barefoot on the floor of his cell, Prasiddh described the daily routine of a Buddhist monk's life. As a novice he entered the temple at 15, became a priest at 20. He had studied English only three months but had a good basic knowledge of the language.

His clothes were saffron-orange color, in three pieces: undershorts, a robe combining a sleeveless shirt and a skirt reaching to just above the knees, and an outer toga. Inside the temple the toga leaves the right shoulder exposed. Outside the shoulder is covered and the toga much reach halfway between ankle and knee.

Bangkok alone—a city of fewer than 1,000,000 persons—has 400 Buddhist temples and 25,000 or 30,000 monks. In Thailand, which has a population slightly higher than Canada's 14,000,000, there are 10,000 monasteries and more than 130,000 monks. Maintenance of the temples is mainly a state matter. The monks are supported by the generosity of the people.

Daily Routine

Between 6 and 7 p.m. while housewives do their shopping (they get it done early in semi- tropical Bangkok) the streets teem with priestly orange. Some Monks walk slowly along the sidewalk. Others stand in semi-circles at particular corners and at street-merchants' counters.

All carry a covered bronze-brass bowl and sometimes a covered aluminum canister. Occasionally the walkers pause at a doorway where the woman of the house is seated behind a table with a great bowl of cooked rice.

As the monks stop, the housewife clasps her hands in prayer, then scoops two or three ladlesful of rice into each priest's bowl. She prays again and the priests move on.

The woman may serve 20 priests from her bowl. A priest may make five or six such calls to get enough rice for his day.

Well-to-do Bangkok housewives make such offerings daily, others once or twice a week.

The monks standing in the semi-circles are grouped about tables at which dealers sell dishes of food. Each dish holds cooked rice, a boiled egg and perhaps a tomato or an apple. They sell for five and 10 cents.

Gifts and Prayers

Housewives doing their shopping, or men and boys on the way to work, stop and buy an offering. Then they kneel before the priest, pray briefly, step forward to empty the dish into the priest's bowl, then kneel to pray again.

Prasiddh said a priest must accept whatever is offered, but when making their morning rounds, they don't call from door to door; they simply stop at households which indicate they wish to give by setting up a table with its bowl of rice.

"That is what I mean when I say we don't beg," Prasiddh said.

It is an unwritten rule that priests don't travel the same routes on successive days.

Each priest provides for himself and eats in the privacy of his cell. There is no community refectory. If he has a student living with him (and some have as many as five or six "non-paying guests"), their food also must come from the alms the priest receives.

Up at 4:30 a.m. for individual prayers, the priest has a light meal on returning to the temple about 7 a.m. His main meal is at 11 a.m., and must be finished by noon. After that no food is permitted, but a priest may smoke and consume non-alcoholic liquids.

The rest of the day is spent in study and meditation. At 10 p.m. he goes to sleep on the floor of his cell, without even a blanket.

THEY MADE IT—Joseph Richard, 51, and his arthritic wife, Rosalind, 40, arrive by plane in Los Angeles where they will make their new home. Richard set out to push his wife to Los Angeles in a wheel chair from their home in Connecticut, but got only 200 miles before an anonymous New York woman volunteered to pay their plane fare.

Happy Home

LEEDS, England — (CP)—An official noticed the cover on an uncompleted sewer installation had been disturbed. Investigation showed someone had established a cosy home in the excavation, complete with bed, food and a ticking clock.

20 Blind Residents Get Driving Licences

LANSING, Mich., March 28 — (CP)—Due to the carelessness of local examiners, some 20 blind Michigan residents were issued driving licences this year, Lieut. C. F. Van Blankensteyn, head of the State Police Traffic Bureau, said Thursday.

His staff had been checking State records, he said, and had found that 10 per cent of persons listed as blind had been issued licences. Most had been renewals of old licences.

The licences were revoked.

Predicts Humans Made To Order With Test Tubes

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE.

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—The day may be coming when human beings will be made to order with test tubes and with women who are not their mothers.

This prediction was made Thursday by Dr. R. W. Gerard, professor of physiology, University of Chicago, at a "conference on the future" held by executives of the Mutual Fire and Casualty Insurance Companies.

The new breeding method already is used on animals. Selected human parents, doing the same, would give their eggs and sperm to a scientific laboratory. There, conception would take place in a test tube. The fertilized egg would be planted in a foster mother and, according to the facts already discovered with animals, the child would truly inherit the qualities of its test tube parents.

The first human step already has been taken in artificial insemination. But Dr. Gerard predicted it would be a long time before we have many made-to-order humans. He said we may not want to, because they will be monotonously alike. Or they may create castes.

He predicted new hearts, by transplantation, and new kidneys similarly. He said the secret of aging would be discovered and used for man's benefit.

Our present crude calculating machines, he said, will become truly brainlike and of great assistance in thinking.

In this world of tomorrow, said Dr. Louis N. Ridenour, Los Angeles physicist, machines with electronic directors will replace clerks. Human routine work will be done by machines.

Warns Ontario Losing Tourist Business

TORONTO, March 28 (CP) — Ontario faces a price war in the tourist business with other areas and is in a poor condition to compete, Tom McCall, deputy minister of travel and publicity, Thursday told the Ontario legislature's Travel and Publicity Committee.

Although another boom year in tourist travel is expected this year, Mr. McCall said "danger signals are up." Rates for motels, which had become a major factor in the industry, are about $2 higher than in the United States.

The department planned to advise motor court owners that they must compete or lose business.

Mr. McCall also outlined the new system of grading tourist accommodation and hotels which will come into effect this year.

Although each place has had to meet government standards to operate, a grading system will be started to give the best places a three-star rating. Standard accommodation would be graded as one-star and intermediate as two-star.

Limit Liquor Licences

Albert Wren (Lib.-Lab.—Kenora) suggested liquor licences be granted only to the top-graded camps. Beer was being sold in camps which had no sanitary conveniences.

J. F. Edwards (PC-Perth) urged co-operative advertising by communities along travel routes. W. G. Noden (PC- Rainy River) asked that more advertising money be spent in the central United States where 40,000,000 people could reach Northwestern Ontario through Rainy River.

Bryan Cathcart (PC-Lambton West), elected chairman of the committee, said tourists are not impressed with the present temporary type of reception centres along the border.

TRANSFERRING THE LEAVINGS—The $100,000 overlooked by three bandits who looted the armored truck at right of $600,000 while the guards were drinking coffee in a Danvers, Mass., drug store is transferred to another vehicle. The robbery was the second largest in New England history. Two hours afterward, two suspects were shot and captured 50 miles away in New Hampshire and a third is hunted in Massachussetts.

WOUNDED ROBBERY SUSPECT—Norman Viele of Boston lies in pain on front seat of car which he and his companion Joseph Kelley of Woburn, Mass., stole in Winchester, Mass. The pair were wounded by a State Trooper when they tried to escape a road block near Madbury, N.H. Both were armed. They are being questioned in connection with the $600,000 armored truck robbery in Danvers, Mass.

U.S. Leading Steel Production

LONDON, March 28. (Reuetrs) —The United States kept its lead in world steel production last year with Russia coming a poor second, a report by the British Iron and Steel Federation disclosed Thursday.

The U.S. produced 93,870,000 tons—an eight per cent increase over 1950—against Russia's 30,800,000 tons.

Countries of the Atlantic Pact boasted a total output of 134,000,000 tons compared with the 40,000,000 ton of the Communist bloc.

But while Russia's production looks low, her rate of expansion equalled that of the United States. Canada, West Germany, France, Belgium and Japan leaped ahead of the U.S. in terms of expansion.

The British industry, in its first year of nationalization and hit by the world shortage, dropped output by 650,000 tons to 15,640,000 tons, but remained the world's third largest producer.

World production topped the 200,000,000-ton mark for the first time, reaching a figure of 206,650,000—54 per cent above the 1937 output.

3 Suspects Held As Poachers

MONTREAL, March 28—(CP)—Arrest of three alleged poachers from St. Charles de Mandeville was announced Thursday by J. P. Bourque, superintendent for the game department in Montreal district.

Detained at Joliette, Que., pending arraignment are Jerome Beausoleil, Ferrier Arsenault and Gratien Arsenault. They were charged with killing five moose, two of them cows.

Game wardens travelled by snowmobile, dog team and snowshoes on a 45-mile trek through the forests to make the arrests after noting the sudden disappearance of the trio from the village of St. Charles de Mandeville in the winter habitat of a herd of moose.

The houses will rent from $40 to $60 a month.

Film On Telephone Shown To 50-50 Club

NORWOOD, March 28 (ENS)—Meeting of the 50-50 Club was held in the Sunday school room. The president, Stanley Flett opened the meeting by reading a poem, "Who Profits Most?" Following the brief business period the group leaders, Wilfred and Yvonne Brown, took charge.

The devotional portion consisted of a piano solo by Clara Telford, a Bible story read by Yvonne Brown and the Lord's prayer sung by Helen Tredree.

H. L. Smith of Peterborough, showed a film "Alexander Graham Bell," after which Mr. Smith gave a lecture entitled "Magic of Numbers."

Lyle and Anna McMillan were then presented with an oil painting. Mary Flett made the presentation as Jack Stewart read the address. Lyle thanked the group and expressed appreciation for this particular painting as it was the work of Mrs. H. K. Wright, the pastor's wife.

Her tresses are five feet long and since 1938 she has been saving strands which come out during combing. She said her hair started coming out when she switched from rain water to city water when washing her hair. She has no idea what she'll do with the saved-up strands, each about five feet long, but intends to continue saving them.

Returned Missionary Speaks At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, March 28 (ENS) —Miss Luella Rorke, a returned missionary from Japan, was guest speaker Monday evening when the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church held their Easter Thank-offering meeting.

Introduced by Mrs. Harold T. Rehill of Peterborough, Miss Rorke gave a most interesting address dealing with both her work in Japan and a resume of existing conditions there at present.

Miss Rorke stressed the need of keeping abreast of the changes taking place in Japan today, and predicted that the outcome of the present unrest would probably influence, in no small way, the fate of Japan for the next century.

In Japan great stress is put on the education of youth for positions of leadership by all political groups and starts as early as kindergarten.

A vote of thanks was tendered Miss Rorke and the others assisting in the program by Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. P. H. Darling. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. W. H. Tonge and prayer offered by Mrs. C. S. Tanner. Mrs. Darling gave a paper on stewardship, "Who Goes There."

Mrs. Donald Hendren contributed a solo and five girls of the C.G.I.T. sang. They were Connie Vallance, Helen Hennessey, Betty Jane Rath, Patty Jakins and Margaret Calberry. Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. M. Kennedy and Mrs. E. Rath.

The thank-offering was received by Patty Jakins and Marion Tretheway.

Expert Warns NZ Of Possible Racial Prejudice

By G. S. ROYDHOUSE

WELLINGTON, N.Z., March 27 — (Reuters)—A new controversy over the racial relationship between New Zealand's native Maoris and Europeans has been aroused by an anthropological expert's warning against the development of a "brown proletariat."

Professor Ralph Piddington of Auckland University recently warned a group of Maori teachers that a blending of Maori and European races could breed "an underprivileged and despised community."

The natural environment of the Maori is rural and if Maoris moved into the cities for unskilled jobs they would be subject to prejudice, he said.

Piddington believes that Maoris and Europeans can best live side by side, recognizing and respecting their differences.

Two schools of thought on the merging of the races have long existed in New Zealand.

One argues that the best future for the Maori lies in rapid assimilation into the European way of life, with the Maori mingling at all levels of society.

The other holds that the two races should live together in interdependence, with the Maori preserving as large a measure of his identity as possible.

The Ngati Poenke Maori Association, composed of Maori civil servants, sees in Piddington's views an inference that there would be better all-around harmony if distinct racial entities were preserved—a philosophy which the Association regards as unacceptable and out of line with present-day trends.

Barriers Broken

Conditions in New Zealand today, a country hungry for manpower, have drawn large numbers of young Maori men and women from their usual communities to the city labor pools, and they have played an important part in all kinds of work. European employers' objections to engaging Maori labor have been largely broken down.

Men and women of Maori blood can be found in every profession in New Zealand today—a development which 20 years ago would have been thought impossible.

The right to equality with the European was promised the Maori in 1840 when the Treaty of Waitangi was signed, and the Maori chiefs ceded their sovereignty to Queen Victoria.

For the last 50 years, there have been instances of a "color ban" and of discrimination against the Maori but they have been broken down considerably in recent years.

The slow population increase of full-blooded Maoris and the increase of half- and quarter-caste Maori population is an indication that racial assimilation is progressing quickly.

May Lift Ban

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—The Ontario government may introduce a bill lifting the ban on coloring of margarine in the 1953 session of the Legislature, Kelso Roberts, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto St. Patrick, reported in a letter he made public here Thursday. The letter was to Agriculture Minister Kennedy and referred to a conversation he had with the minister.

MISSIONARY PRAISES — REDS—L. Earl Willmott, of Toronto, is one of two United Church missionaries who praised China's Red regime when they arrived in Hong Kong, among the last six United Church missionaries to leave Red China. Mr. Willmott and William Small, also of Toronto, both were on the staff of the West China Union University in Chengtu. Both denied there is any religious persecution under the Communists. The other United Church missionaries disagreed with them and said Communist control is based on "fear."

Trumans Move Back Into White House

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) —President Truman returned from a three-week Florida vacation Thursday night and settled down in the gleaming "new" White House for the first time in more than three years.

The Trumans vacated the White House in November, 1948, and moved across the street to Blair House. In the interim, the executive mansion has been rebuilt and remodelled at a cost of $5,671,000.

Now equipped with bullet-proof windows, the old building has been strengthened from basement to roof.

Favors Sweepstake

GALT, March 28 (CP)—Magistrate H. R. Polson said Thursday he favors a Canadian national sweepstake to aid hospitals. In an interview, he said the provincial government received more than $4,000,000 as its percentage from racetracks. A sweepstake with all proceeds going to hospitals would be the "finest thing that could ever happen."

Big Commercial Area

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—Mayor Allan Lamport said Thursday the St. Lawrence Seaway will make Toronto the centre of one of the biggest commercial areas on the North American continent. "Toronto is fast becoming Canada's leading city and Montreal is fast falling behind," he told a meeting.

Wants Canada Send Diplomat To Vatican

OTTAWA, March 28 —(CP)—Raymond Bruneau (L—Prescott) expressed hope in the Commons Thursday night that Canada soon will appoint a diplomatic representative to the Vatican.

He said during a foreign policy debate that the Vatican has 20 centuries of experience with which to assist the freedom-loving nations of the world.

$84,350 Grants

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—Grants totalling $84,350 have been made by the J. P. Bickell Foundation to 23 Ontario charitable and educational organizations. The foundation was set up after the death last year of the Toronto financier and sportsman. The largest grant—$20,000—goes to Toronto General Hospital.

Costs Too Much To Keep People Alive

By ALAN HARVEY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 27 — (CP) — The high "cost of living" may mean more to Britain some day than a few shillings on the weekly budget. In a country where the State has sought to take the financial factor out of medicine, it could mean—if the worst came to the worst—a situation in which the government decided it was costing too much to keep all its citizens alive.

That in effect is the implication of a new book published by Dr. Ffrangcon Roberts, a British doctor who couldn't understand why with all the new medical techniques more and more hospital beds seemed to be required.

Dr. Roberts investigated, and his answer, recorded in a book called "The Cost of Health" (Turnstile Press), is that the application of science to medicine has greatly enlarged its horizon. Medically speaking the sky's the limit; economically speaking, a line has to be drawn somewhere.

New Drugs

The development of expanding auxiliary services—the pathologist, radiologist, dietitian and so on—and discovery of expensive new drugs such as aureomycin have a special impact on Britain in a time of economic crisis.

The background extends to the days when Britain was busy spinning rosy dreams of a post-war era in which things would be better than they ever were before, to the famous 1942 report by Lord Beveridge foreshadowing a cradle-to-grave health service in which every citizen would be entitled to whatever treatment he needed, "domiciliary or institutional, specialist or consultant."

Partly as a result of that report was born the National Health Service, started in June, 1948, under an Act designed to make the best treatment available to all "irrespective of their age, or where they live, or how much money they have.

"Medicated Survival"

Since 1942, the cost of the health service has risen from £170,000,000 to more than £400,000,000, and is going up all the time. Nobody disputes the humanitarian principle of a service free to all (though financed out of taxes) but the question has arisen whether the country can afford to pay for it.

The problem is complicated, Dr. Roberts writes, by the fact that medicine's advances have had the effect of prolonging life, producing an elderly population living in what the author calls a state of "Medicated survival."

The solution as Dr. Roberts sees it is a system of priorities based on economic necessities rather than emotional desirabilities, a system in which first call would go to those whose ill-health prevents them from working whereas a person suffering say from Acne would have to pay for treatment.

NECTAR IN SPRING—During the spring sap run the sweet-tasting syrup tastes best when taken right from the maple tree itself. One unidentified Montreal lad tests the liquid fruits of the annual run and judging from his expression, finds it just as enjoyable as reported.

Eight People Die 'n Farmhouse Fire

SOMERSET, Pa., March 28 — (AP)—Police reported that eight persons were burned to death today in a farmhouse blaze at Milford, eight miles south of here.

First reports said the blaze broke out in the home of John Whipkey, 45-year-old father of 14 children. One boy escaped by jumping from a window of the three-storey frame structure.

How To Make Home Building
The GREATEST THRILL OF YOUR LIFE

It Takes a Heap o' Plannin'
To Make a House a Home!

The answer to every family's dream is a home of its own, and the process that will help most to make the realization a happy experience — happiness not only in lower building costs — but also in comfort, convenience and continued pride of ownership is the time and thought you put into planning it.

So plan before you plunge.

Such advance planning pays — by avoiding errors — by selecting proper materials — by forestalling alterations later, by providing for future expansion.

Most important of all, only careful planning can make your new abode truly a home, reflecting your personality and discriminating taste — a home in which you and your family can enjoy the utmost pleasure and lasting satisfaction.

To enable you to do all this easily, skillfully and fully; to provide the means to picture your new home faithfully; to point out the pitfalls to avoid, and the steps to take, to assure full value — that is the function of the P.L. Home Planning Service. So call P.L. in the morning — let P.L. aid in the pin-point planning which makes your house a home.

DISCOVERS LOOT — Eugene Misener, 13-year-old schoolboy "detective," fished these 71 watches out of a drainage ditch close to Moore school, near Welland, Ont., which he attends. The school principal, Campbell Kreuger, helped him. The loot is part of a $20,000 robbery from a Hamilton jewelry store March 20. Eugene, who had previously spotted one of the sample cases stolen in the robbery, discovered the watches in the ditch.

Horace J. Neath

MARMORA, March 28 (ENS)—The funeral of the late Horace J. Neath took place Wednesday afternoon leaving his late residence, the Royal Hotel, for service in St. Paul's Anglican Church, taken by Canon J. M. Brownlie. The funeral was attended by many friends and was under auspices of Marmora A.F. and A.M. 222 acting for Mr. Neath's mother lodge. Pallbearers were V. Glover, S. Kerr, L. Blue, C. Leach, F. Tracey and W. Gill. Burial took place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery where last rites of the Masonic Order were conducted by P.D.D.G.M. C. H. Buskard, Wor. Bro. Canon J. M. Brownlie and Bro. Rev. G. D. Young.

Says Erosion National Disease

OTTAWA, March 28 — (CP) — Erosion is a national disease, Public Works Minister Fournier reported Wednesday with regret. But he hastily assured a C.C.F. wit that it hasn't affected the Liberal party.

The Minister was talking specifically about river and lake erosion in another Commons exchange that started over the eating-away of the Toronto-area shores of Lake Ontario.

Georgs Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) asked whether a Federal engineer has yet reported on the Toronto situation. Then Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) said things are just as bad in Peel County.

The beleaguered Mr. Fournier said he'll be talking to Toronto's Mayor Allan Lamport next week but otherwise had nothing to report on Toronto. As other requests came in, he lamented:

"We are considering erosion by nearly every river in the country."

Finds Student Standards Lower

MONTREAL, March 28—(CP)—Dr. J. A. Corry, Professor of Political Science at Queen's University, Kingston, said Thursday night the calibre of High School students now entering Queen's is below pre-war levels.

Addressing the Montreal branch of the Queen's Alumni Association, Dr. Corry said he did not seek to be didactic about the matter.

"Perhaps we (the teachers) have grown old and the student body is getting younger," he said. "We wonder if what we see that looks like a certain amount of indifference, is due to the confused situation of the world."

Dr. Corry said the lower standard might be attributed to the greater percentage attending High School and the wider variety of subjects being taught.

One thing seemed certain, there was less concentrated drill on language and mathematics. The English of some of the pupils was so bad the University decided to run a special course.

Lavoie Claims World Record

MONTREAL, March 28—(CP)—Gerard Lavoie, 21-year-old lumberjack from St. Ulric de Matane, Que., set what is claimed to be a world record in winning the finals of the Canadian bucksaw contest Thursday night.

His average for six cuts in 10-inch spruce logs was 7.1 seconds, a second better than the previous mark in the five-year-old competition. He had two remarkable cuts of 6.5 and 6.9 seconds .. ..

P.M. Rejects Request For Higher Pension

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP)—Improvements in social welfare will continue in Canada regardless of what party comes to power in future, Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Canadian Congress of Labor Thursday.

The Prime Minister rejected a request however, for higher old age pensions at a lower age. While that is desirable, he said, Canada cannot afford it in this period of high defence spending.

The Prime Minister was addressing a big delegation from the 360,000-member Congress making its annual Legislative submission to the government. The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada presented its brief Wednesday.

As in his reply to the T.L.C., Mr. St. Laurent was generally noncommittal on the wide series of requests for government measures made by the C.C.L.

He did, though, reject a call for reimposition of direct price controls and subsidies as a means to hold down living costs.

Mr. St. Laurent said the Cabinet does not believe in price controls at this time and cannot do what it does not believe in.

Mine Pickets Stop Night Workers

TIMMINS, March 28 — (CP)—Night workers at Preston East Dome Mines were stopped by pickets when they came on shift Thursday night.

A representative of Local 4438, United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) said the men were protesting the discharge of an underground worker, Paul Proulx, for sleeping on the job.

Mine Manager W. W. Hutchison said: "All we know is that the night-shift crew were stopped at the gate by pickets when coming on shift at 6 p.m. We have not been informed of the reason or purpose for this illegal work stoppage."

Jail Immigrant

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—Immigrant Hubert Roland, 44, with $3,700 in the bank, said in court Thursday he stole $24.75 worth of merchandise when he couldn't find a job, hoping he would be deported to Germany if caught. Roland was jailed for five days.

Will Co-operate With Farmers Mayor Declares

"We are fortunate in having in Peterborough citizens and manufacturers who are willing to support such events as this," said Mayor Waddell in extending Wednesday afternoon a welcome to the exhibitors and visitors at the Central Ontario Spring Show at Exhibition Park.

"We are glad to co-operate with the farmers of our area in promoting their important industry of agriculture, and we sincerely hope that your Spring Show will become a permanent event."

Mel McHolm of Port Hope, president of the show, said that all the preparations had been carried out under the "capable direction of Frank Paterson," agricultural representative, assisted by a committee composed largely of local helpers.

No Charge

"We are grateful to the Peterborough Exhibition for enabling us to hold the Show in their grounds buildings without charge to us. We feel that this show is of real value to farmers, and we hope that it will become established as something to be looked forward to with increasing interest and usefulness."

Warden R. R. Stewart expressed greetings from the county of Peterborough, and urged its farmers to give their active support to the show, especially in attendance on Thursday and Friday. He said the district was honored in having the presence of Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, president of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Dr. MacLachlan spoke of modern agriculture as both a big business and a profession requiring both science and skill.

"Farming today is a complicated business. Three primary factors on which it depends are: outlets for our products; quality of our products and efficiency of operations as essential to reducing costs of production."

"We are thinking of ways and means of carrying through our farm programs, and coming out with some money in our pockets," Dr. MacLachlan said.

The place of agriculture in the world today was recognized in the prominence it has been receiving among leaders directing international affairs. On that level the work and products of farming is given a primary place, even to the extent of aiding in the prevention of war.

From that high position in the aims and purposes of the O.A.C., the college was also concerned in the development of the average and basic farm.

Won't Change Grant For Five-Year Period

TORONTO, March 28—(CP)—Provincial grants to township areas annexed by cities and towns will not be reduced for five years after annexation, Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar told the Legislature Thursday in introducing a bill to adjust Provincial grants.

Townships receive higher grants than cities and Mr. Dunbar said it would be "quite a burden" on cities if grants were lowered immediately after annexation of township areas.

The bill provides that the grant will remain unchanged for the first five years after annexation and will be progressively lowered in the next five years to the level of city grants.

Ask Floor Price Put On Lambs

TORONTO, March 28 (CP)—The Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Association Thursday asked Federal authorities to put a floor price of 27 cents a pound on lambs. They also asked that lambs be included in any meat price-support program.

The association's annual meeting also expressed concern regarding plans to bring some 1,400 tons of New Zealand and Australian lamb and mutton to Canada.

$1,000 Fire Burns Park Cabin

Owned by Rovers; Unknown People Inside Night Before

A short circuit in the wiring of a radio is blamed for a fire which gutted a one-storey cabin in Jackson Park on Thursday afternoon.

The radio was still going when firemen broke into the smoke filled blazing interior of the cabin which is the headquarters of the All Saints' Rover Crew.

Caretaker Bill Hughey who lives at the edge of the park saw three cars pass through the gate on the way to the cabin Wednesday evening. Lights were still on when he went to bed about 11:30 he said, but he did not bother to investigate, because the cabin belongs to the Rover Scouts and he believed they were holding a meeting.

Thursday evening, officials of the group contacted the 14 members and none of them were at the cabin Wednesday evening.

Broken Into Twice

The cabin has been broken into twice this winter and it is believed that whoever was in the party which visited the cabin had no authority to be there.

Assistant Rover Leader Doug Harris said today that the last time the cabin was broken into, entry was gained through a window, but this window was destroyed in the fire and if the same method was used Wednesday night, he said the fire destroyed any evidence. Both doors were locked when firemen arrived.

There was a full case of soft drinks in the building but all the bottles have been taken from it.

The fire destroyed the east end of the cabin, and all the furniture and records of the troop were a total loss.

Wife Gave Alarm

Mrs. Dorothy Hughey, wife of park caretaker Bill Hughey turned in the alarm at 2:30. She was just taking a basket of clothes out to hang on the line in her back yard, when she saw smoke coming out of the roof.

Mr. Hughey said that he passed by the cabin about noon and did not notice anything wrong or any evidence of smoke or fire.

The cabin was built by the Kiwanis Club in the 30's as a camp for crippled children. There were four cabins in the camp originally. It was turned over to the Parkhill Scout Troop which Kiwanis sponsors, about two years ago.

The other buildings were removed, but the two largest buildings were turned over to the local Boy Scouts' Association. The association refinished the interior of the cabin which burned Thursday when they acquired possession from Kiwanis. Cost of the work was about $1,000 and it is estimated that it will require at least that much to rebuild the cabin. In addition to the furniture which was destroyed, records and souvenirs stored in the cabin cannot be replaced.

Thursday night, the Parkhill Scout Troop assisted the Rover Crew in cleaning up the premises and seeing what they could salvage. Until the Rover Crew can rebuild their headquarters, the Parkhill Troop have offered the Rovers the use of their cabin.

Turnabout

Time was—and not so long ago at that—when you could do a fellow a good turn by trading him a United States dollar bill for a Canadian one. Now, however, the situation is reversed because U.S. money is at a discount. (The Canadian dollar reached a full cent premium over the U.S. dollar on the New York market today for the first time in 17 years.) The other day a canteen employee in a local industry refused to accept a U.S. bill. He acted as though it were a Russian ruble carrying foot-and-mouth bacteria. Beverage room waiters are also getting hesitant about accepting American bills, causing great indignation to patrons who are both thirsty and who recall the days when Americans bills were snapped up with alacrity . . . One wag has suggested a new storekeepers' sign: "American money accepted here only at discount."

Otonabee Team Ontario Champs Real Amateurs

Otonabee Wolves, who won the Ontario bantam "B" hockey championship, defeating Brampton 9-8 Thursday night, are amateurs in every sense of the word.

The club was started two years ago by George Heron with the purpose of providing hockey for boys in the county. These boys had little hockey during the poor winters for ice and he arranged to put his team in the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association.

This year the club was composed of boys 14 and under from Havelock, Lakefield, Warsaw and Keene. For practises and games the parents co-operated fully by bringing the boys to the rink.

The high cost of equipment was absorbed by sponsor, Dave Kerr, former star goalie for the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, now proprietor of the Empress Hotel. The Wolves became known as the Empress Wolves. That was the only financial assistance given.

Netted $5.62

Game expenses took every cent from the gate receipts. For example, at Thursday's final game at the Civic Arena, the final take for the Wolves was only $5.62.

For an amateur or minor game the game attendance was large. 740. This was composed of 579 fans at 35c each and 161 at 25c each, a total of $242.90.

But that money was split four ways. The Ontario Minor Hockey Association took 15 per cent. of the gate receipts, $36.44, then the arena and the Otonabee Wolves divided the balance, $103.23 each.

Shrinks

From the Wolves' share Brampton's expenses had to be paid this cut the Wolves' $103.23 in half again. From the remaining $51.60 the Wolves had to pay the referees and the advertising, leaving a balance of $5.62.

Safety Scheme To Begin For Children

P.C. Donald Mackay Appointed To Teach Youngsters

Police Constable Donald S. Mackay was appointed by the Police Commission Thursday to organize and direct a traffic safety program primarily for the protection of the school children of the city.

This project is an enlargement of the original safety plan proposed by the Board of Education and approved by the city council in the engaging of guards to guide children at various intersections which obviously appeared to be dangerous to boys and girls on their way to and from schools.

A brief exposition of the system adopted in Ottawa with a great measure of success was presented to the Commission by Mrs. Paige Rowell, representing with W. B. Gordon the Board of Education.

M. J. Collins was present from the Separate School Board. It is the intention of the Commission, at the outset, to send P. C. Mackay to Ottawa for a week to study the monitoring system that has been set up there.

Use Senior Pupils

This plan appoints senior pupils as monitors for periods of two weeks or more to assume charge of school children at street intersections.

Monitoring teams are each composed of two pupils, one on each side of the street to be crossed. It has been found in present experience that after children leave the care of guards appointed for certain crossings they still have secondary traffic streets to pass over. The new method of appointing monitors who are to be selected by Constable Mackay, in the present considerations, is designed to instill the idea of safety more generally among the ranks of the children of the city's primary schools.

Interest of parents will be solicited, more direct appeal will be made to drivers of motor vehicles, and it is believed that eventually the school children themselves will become adult pedstrians and car operators imbued with a keener and more intelligent sense of the hazards of city street traffic.

Start After Easter

Police Commission expects that P. C. Mackay will assume charge of the school children shortly after Easter vacation, and full effect of the policy will be applied when the schools open in September. Meanwhile the present guards will be retained on duty until the end of June.

The co-operation of Home and School Associations will be sought and it is confidently expected by the Commission that the results which have been obtained in Ottawa will be accomplished here.

IUE 116 Short Of Forcing Vote

The International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) failed by only 116 cards to force a vote at the C.G.E. plant Joe Wirtz I.U.E. international representatives said today.

Thursday it was wrongly reported they had failed by 320 votes.

Had the IUE received these 116 cards they would have signed up 45 per cent of the production workers, said Mr. Wirtz, and the Ontario Labor Relations Board would have ordered a vote.

(There are approximately 3,600 production workers in the bargaining unit at the Peterborough plant.)

Received Others

"By Wednesday at 5 p.m. we had 1,504 cards," said Mr. Wirtz, "and we've received others since." Signees took an "obligation" (a form of oath) but didn't pay a $1 initiation fee.

The I.U.E. has thus failed in its third attempt to become the bargaining agent for the production workers. The first time their application was dismissed by the O.L.R.B.; the second time they got the required 45 per cent and had a vote, but were defeated, and in this third campaign they didn't get the 45 per cent.

Present bargaining agent is Local 524, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America.

100 First Aid Certificates Presented At Safety Rally

More than 100 first-aid certificates were presented Thursday night at the P.C.V.S. auditorium to graduates of the St. John Ambulance Brigade course. The presentations were made at a safety rally sponsored by the Industrial Accident Prevention Association and the St. John Ambulance.

Successful graduates of the course included several Sea Cadets, three city firemen, and the remainder were workers in city industries.

Presenting the certificates was Col. Ian Sinclair, provincial secretary of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. Speaking briefly, Col. Sinclair outlined the history of the corps and remarked that in 1951 the corps looked after more than 18,000 cases of accident or illness.

H added that there are now 164 divisions of the brigade in Ontario.

Guest speaker for the evening was R. G. D. Anderson, general manager of the I.A.P.A., who spoke on the Workmen's Compensation Act and how it tied in with his organization.

Up To Management

The act laid the onus of preventing accidents on management, as only management could supply the stimulus that would make it possible, he said. As well, only management could afford to instal costly safety devices.

Industry was divided into 25 classes, and in each class, most of the industries paid so much money each year into a pool at a rate according to the hazard rating of the class of industry.

In Ontario there were 22 IAPA inspectors, who travelled through the province, inspecting plants and promoting labor-management committees on accident prevention.

Two Awards

Mr. Anderson presented two safety awards to David Leether, manager of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. One was for 200,000 hours of work without a lost time accident in the Peterborough plant. The other was for a year without lost time accidents in the firm's Lindsay plant.

Two other presentations were made by Mr. Anderson. These were Wise Old Owl certificates and pins to two Peterborough men who saved their eyes by using safety glasses.

Both had had accidents in which they would have lost one or both eyes without the goggles. Recipients were Wodie Thirnbeck and Bill Shaw.

20-Year Certificate

Col. Sinclair presented a 20-year first aid certificate to Patrick O'Toole of the Peterborough division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. Col. Sinclair was introduced by Gordon Munroe.

Three industrial nurses—Misses Margaret Scott and Alma Dobbin, and Mrs. Mary Blackmore—discussed with Clarence Corbett methods of preventing recurrence of accidents.

The Salvation Army band played four numbers: Shields, Song of Love, Under the Colors, and Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana. Jim Sharpe recited two poems, the Battle of Trafalgar and the Singing of Magna Charta. Chairman for the evening was J. E. Girven.

Buses Collide Dozens Shaken

Dozens of passengers escaped with a shaking up when two loaded buses collided at George and Charlotte Sts., at 8:30 today.

Only one man was slightly injured. He was seated at the rear of the city bus and left without giving his name.

Passengers in the city bus were sent lurching into the aisles, as the eastbound Charlotte St. bus driven by Bill Hunt and the Millbrook school bus travelling north on George St., collided as the city bus was almost through the intersection.

The school bus was driven by G. W. Shepherd, Juliet Road, Peterborough.

Damage to the right rear corner of the city bus is estimated at more than $200. The front end of the school bus was damaged considerably.

Low Rates

HALIFAX — (CP) —Under the Nova Scotia Housing Commission regulations it is figured that a house can be financed for as low as $29 a month, despite the fact the Commission recently increased its mortgage interest rates from 3½ to 4½ per cent.

Newcastle Man Top Winner At Seed Fair

James T. Brown of Newcastle carried off the major honors of the Central Ontario Spring Show Thursday afternoon.

For the highest aggregate score in the grain classes, he was presented with the silver trophy inherited from the Quinte District Seed Fair which has been succeeded this year by the Spring Show whose territory comprises the nine counties from Frontenac to Ontario, inclusive.

Mr. Brown also won the silver tray and relish dish, gifts of the T. Eaton Co., for the most points in registered oats, barley and winter wheat.

Feature of the Thursday program was the panel discussion on grass silage, conducted by Ken Fallis, Toronto, of the plants, weeds and seeds division of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. With him were Prof. George E. Raithby of O.A.C.; George McLaughlin, Oshawa; Claude Kennedy of Dunsford; James T. Brown of Newcastle and R. J. McAlpine of Lorneville.

300 Attend

More than 300 farmers attended the afternoon session of addresses and motion pictures. This program in itself fulfilled the slogan of the show: "Grassland Farming for soil building and profit", and in the response of visiting farmers it justified all the effort that went into preparations.

The panel talks were neatly and effectively balanced by Prof. Raithby's account of the experimental work in the ensiling of grass at the College, and the practical experience of his associates.

For different reasons they all recommended the comparatively new practice of ensiling grass, and more or less advised a degree of caution by farmers who have not yet adopted it in their own work. Grass silage was endorsed as cheap feed, especially for dairy cattle, and thereby as a means of reducing cost of production.

Mr. McLaughlin has been ensiling grass for 11 years, is convinced of its advantages to him as owner of Elmcroft Farm, and has not grown any corn for the last four years. He explained his method of using molasses as a preservative, and said he has had no objectionable odor from the

CGE To Buy Waddell Estate In Rumored Land Exchange

The Canadian General Electric Company is buying the Waddell estate on the west side of Monaghan Road opposite the company's plant extending from the east side of Monaghan Road to Park St.

That's the major phase of a realty rumor on main street today stemming from a report that Gordon S. Matthews has purchased the new house at 686 Hopkins Avenue from Ald. T. D. Miller.

That transfer has set in motion two other rumors. One of them is to the effect that Mayor Hugh F. Waddell has bought the home residence of Mr. Matthews at 488 Hunter St. West.

The rest of the highly interesting report in real estate circles is that Mayor Waddell is moving out of his own place by necessity of sale to the C.G.E. Company.

Has 15 Acres

The Waddell property extends from Monaghan Road up the slope to High Street, and comprises slightly more than 15 acres, the Waddell residence near the centre of the block, and a second house near the gate at Monaghan Road. The frontage on Monaghan Road is about 505 feet.

Canadian General Electric Company already own the land of the D.V.A. Hospital which was destroyed by fire. The city purchased the land from the Dominion government a few years ago, and eventually sold it to the company.

In turn C.G.E. sold a parcel of that property facing on High Street for one of its new electric substations, now complete and in use.

950-Foot Total

The present C.G.E. frontage on the west side of Monaghan Road is some 440 feet. With the Waddell property, the two adjoining parcels have a total frontage on the west side of Monaghan Road of nearly 950 feet

The reported acquisition of the C.G.E. will enlarge their holdings from Park St. to High St., and almost within the extension of the lines of Albert and Wolfe Sts.

TOWNSHIP OF OTONABEE

NOTICE TO CATTLE OWNERS

Mr. George Carey, R.R. 8, Peterborough, Phone, Keene 12 R 21, has been appointed Inspector to enforce Warble Fly Control for 1952 in the township of Otonabee. Two treatments will be necessary, either by spray or brush, first to commence April 1st and the second May 1st.

The cost for spraying will be 15 cents per head per spray and the cost of inspection of brush treatments will be five cents per head. All charges payable to the Inspector.

Powder may be obtained from either the Inspector or at the Township Hall, Keene, at wholesale price. Those using the brush method must notify the Inspector as soon as possible.

J. M. McCARTHY,
Clerk, Township of Otonabee.

Balanced Diet For Plants In Fertilizer Bag

A plant uses at least fourteen foods in its growth. They are nitrogen, phosphorus, potash, calcium, oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, magnesium, iron, sulphur, boron, manganese, copper and zinc. Soils generally are most frequently deficient in the first three.

It is for that reason that commercial fertilizers are generally used to supply these three foods either singly or in combination. Those containing all three ingredients are known as complete fertilizers.

To most experienced farmers the numerical fomula is well understood. To the amateur gardener or those less familiar with fertilizers, it is often something of a mystery.

The figures represent the percentage of nitrogen, phospheric acid and potach (always in that order) in each one hundred pounds of fertilizer. Thus a 100-lb. bag of 10-5-10 fertilizer contains ten pounds of nitrogen, five pounds of available phospheric acid and ten pounds of water soluble potash in the elemental form.

What effect do these chemicals have on the growth of a plant?

Nitrogen promotes particularly the development of stem and leaf and is required during the early stages of growth. Too little nitrogen results in stunted growth with yellowish foliage; too much may induce rank growth, delay seed formation and ripening, tend to make plants subject to disease, and cause lodging of grain crops.

Phosphorus stimulates root growth in the early stages and promotes seed or fruit formation in the later stages of growth. It promotes fruitfulness and in some measure hastens maturity. It is therefore, specially important when early ripening of a crop is required.

Potash is essentia to the formation of the starches of potatoes and grains, the sugars of fruits and vegetables, and the fibrous matter of plants. It promotes increased yields of better quality and is particularly required by clovers and other legumes. An ample supply of available potash in the soil helps to prevent disease and to lessen the effect of excessive nitrogen.

As each ingredient has an important function in the growth of the plant and must be in balance one with the other, the analysis of the mixed fertilizer needs careful consideration and should be suited best to the plant's need. Help in the choice of fertilizer mixtures can be obtained from district representatives, experimental farms and agricultural colleges.

Bomb Sent In Mail

MUNICH, March 28 — (CP) — A bomb aimed by mail to kill West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer exploded Thursday night in Munich Police headquarters. It killed a demolition expert and injured four other persons.

Pioneer Printer Dies

LETHBRIDGE, March 28 (CP) — A pioneer printer, Thomas Evans, 67, died here Thursday. He was a member of the Lethbridge Herald staff for 41 years. Mr. Evans broke into newspaper work in the job printing department of the St. Thomas Journal. He came west in 1907.

Hormones Boost Multiple Births In Sheep Tests

By J. C. GRAHAM,
Canadian Press Correspondent

HAMILTON, N.Z., March 28 — (CP) — Hormone injections for sheep may increase New Zealand's lamb exports. Injection tests aimed at increasing multiple births in ewes are showing remarkable results at the government animal research station at Ruakura.

Describing one experiment, Dr. L. R. Wallace, a research scientist, said a group of 197 ewes were tested. Half of the flock was injected with 1,000 units of P.M.S. hormones 12 or 13 days after mating. The other half was left untreated as a control group.

The number of ewes which did not lamb was about equal in both groups. Among those which lambed, there were 48.8 per cent of multiple births in the treated group, and 6.4 per cent in the control group. In the treated group there were three sets of quadruplets, seven sets of triplets, 32 sets of twins and 44 singles. In the untreated group there were no quadruplets or triplets and only six sets of twins, but 87 singles.

In the control group, the total number of lambs born, expressed as a percentage of ewes lambing, was 106.4, compared with 164 per cent for the injected animals.

Mortality Higher

Mortality among lambs was higher in the injected group, but the group produced a much higher percentage of lambs reaching weaning age. The injected group achieved a final percentage of 110:6 per cent, compared with 86.4 per cent for untreated animals.

Even more remarkable results were obtained with smaller groups of sheep injected with hormones. In a group of 20 ewes, 190 per cent of lambs were born. In another group of 37 ewes, 224 per cent of lambs were born, and 157 per cent were reared to weaning age.

Dr. Wallace said there were difficulties standing in the way of immediate application of the technique to farming practice. The cost of the material is high but not prohibitive. At today's prices th cost would be 42 cents for a single dose of 500 units of P.M.S., and it required an average of four doses to produce an extra lamb.

Another difficulty was the considerable amount of labor involved in giving the injections. However, he believed the technique could ultimately result in a considerable increase in lamb production.

Hustling Canadiens

Their front lines worked better, they bored deep into Montreal territory with more consistency but they couldn't beat the agile little goalie who dived headlong to the ice at least half a dozen times for sensational saves.

Canadiens soon found their defence in front of McNeil wasn't impregnable. At that, it was better than Boston's. Up front, Canadiens' speedier forwards buzzed around the lumbering Bruins, missing few chances to strike quickly when opportunity came.

Mosdell's loss is a blow to Canadiens. He is the second centre man lost in less than a week. Johnny McCormack suffered a broken arm last Saturday night while playing against Detroit Red Wings in the second-last game of the regular season.

Ed Sandford of the Bruins piled into the boards with Mosdell. Both fell while racing for a rolling puck that was headed toward the Montreal goal.

Has Problem

Coach Dick Irvin now is faced with the problem of changing his front lines or calling on one of his farm hands. Thursday night, rookie Dickie Moore was moved from his left-wing spot on the third line with Richard and Elmer Lach to replace Mosdell at centre on the third line.

Irvin hinted that he may try out young Gerry (Dutch) Edmundson who hails from Grande Prairie, Alta., and played with the Kitchener, Ont., juniors this season.

Coach Lyn Patrick of the Bruins indicated Thursday night he had no immediate plans for replacements to bolster his team. But now that Hershey Bears are out of the American Hockey League playoffs — eliminated Thursday night—it wouldn't be surprising to see some farmhands hurriedly called to Boston.

Chairman Resigns

BRANTFORD, March 28 (CP) —George P. Fox, chairman of the board of governors of Brantford General Hospital, resigned Thursday coincided with a warning from Jessie M. Wilson, superintendent, that overcrowding has become dangerous. She said that last weekend there was not room to cram in one more bed. Mr. Fox's resignation was a protest against the city council's slashing the hospital's 1952 budget by $80,000.

Dates Announced For A.H.L. Semi-Final

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)— Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League, Thursday night announced the dates of the semi-final best-of-five series between Cincinnati Mohawks and Providence Reds

Jack Kearns, manager of light heavyweight Joe Maxim, said Thursday in Chicago that he has signed with London promoter Jack Solomons for a title fight this summer at a guarantee of $100,000. Kearns said Maxim would meet either Don Cockell or Randy Turpin in London June or July.

Marty Furgol, 34-year-old professional from Lemont, Ill., on Thursday equalled the course record with an eight-under-par 64 to lead a mass assault on par in the opening round of the $10,000 Azalea open golf tournament in Wilmington, N. C.

Annual Visit

PORT ROWAN, March 28 (CP) —The annual visit of the Arctic-bound whistling swans is under way. The first thousands en route to their nesting grounds arrived in the last three days. Visitors gathered on the shore of Long Point Bay to watch the spectacular wedges moving in from across Lake Erie. The snow-white birds, whose wingspread is seven feet, fly from Chesapeake Bay, Md., and the Carolinas.

TELEPHONE WORKERS PICKET—Members of the Telephone Workers Union picket New Jersey Bell Telephone offices in Newark as 6,900 plant and accounting workers in the state went on strike when wage negotiations collapsed. Many operators added to the strike's impact by refusing to cross the picket lines.

Accuse M.P. Of Being Sympathetic

By The Canadian Press.

The political climate across Canada was as variable as the springtime weather Thursday.

In the Newfoundland Legislature a member accused a Federal Cabinet minister of having Communist sympathies and escaped official rebuke.

In Saskatchewan the Speaker threatened a member with expulsion for saying: "That's a nice ruling."

Nova Scotia Legislature decided to permit the press to cover its committee meetings any time it feels like it.

And in British Columbia the founder of a new political party invited all other parties to withdraw their candidates from specified ridings in the forthcoming provincial elections to give his group a chance to get started.

Peter Cashin, fiery Leader of Newfoundland's Progressive Conservative Opposition, broke a lance with an old political opponent of pre-Confededration days when he told the House Secretary of State F. Gordon Bradley "belongs in the Kremlin instead of the Federal Parliament."

Without giving examples, Mr. Cashin said during the Throne-Speech debate that Mr. Bradley had made statements "which could only be construed as showing Communist sympathies."

There was no immediate comment in Ottawa from Mr. Bradley, Federal memebr for Bonavista-Twillingate and an old feuding partner of Mr. Cashin's.

The excitement in the Saskatchewan House arose when G. Herman Danielson (L-Arm River) stood up to comment while another memebr had the floor and was told by Speaker Tom Johnson to sit down.

"That's a nice ruling," said Mr. Danielson, but sat down as the speaker ordered him to withdraw the remark or face disciplinary action. A wave of furious desk-pounding closed the incident.

The Regina Legislature found time to consider a report by the province's health survey committee which recommended a comprehensive health insurance program.

"Without regard to the individual ability to pay," the program would provide doctors' services, optical and home nursing services, drugs and medicines and introduce partial payment fee for every patient admitted to hospital.

Members of the Prince Edward Island legislature voted to increase their pay — sessional indemnities—from $700 a session with expenses of $300 to $1,000 a session and $500 expenses.

The Manitoba Legislature heard an announcement of a "rainy-day reserve" clause in the provinces tax-rental agreement with Ottawa. Under this clause, part of the money which normally would be received by the Province will be held back.

If in any year Federal grants are sharply reduced, the Province will receive money from its deferred revenue reserve. The press was given a pat on the back in the Nova Scotia Legislature. Speaker G. E. Romkey ruled that newspapers have the right to report proceedings of House committees unless requested not to do so by a committee member.

"The press has always been fair," he said.

BUNNY BEAR-HUG—Smiling Bunny Mason holds two youngsters during their stop-over in Winnipeg on their way to New York. The bear cubs, captured by a trapper in northern Manitoba, are headed for a game farm.

Prove Water Bombing Helps Stop Forest Fires

MONTREAL, March 28—(CP)—Water bombing of forest fires has proven effective in retarding or stopping the spread of fires, Q. F. Hess, district forester, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, said Thursday.

"Experiments have shown that if properly employed, this technique is very successful in combatting fires, which, with insects and disease, consume more of Canada's forest wealth each year than does the billion-dollar pulp and paper industry."

Mr. Hess, who comes from Sault Ste. Marie, said his department is conducting tests in which specially-made paper bags, holding 3½ fires from aircraft at a height of firest from aircraft at a height of 300 feet. On hitting the ground, they not only wet the area, but add water vapor to the air, thus retarding the advance of the fire.

He spoke a a session of the 34th annual meeting of the woodlands section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

Francois Matte of Quebec, chief forester of Donnacona Paper Company Ltd., outlined selective cutting used in a pulpwood forest tract of 757 square miles in Quebec's Laurentide Park.

"To achieve sustained yield, a forest must be so managed that pulpwood can be cut perpetually in equal quantities and the annual harvest is replaced each year by the annual growth," he said.

A forestry extension service to assist farmers and others in the proper management of their woodlots, was described by M. F. Wilson, resident manager of Canadian International Paper Company's tree farm at Grenville, Que.

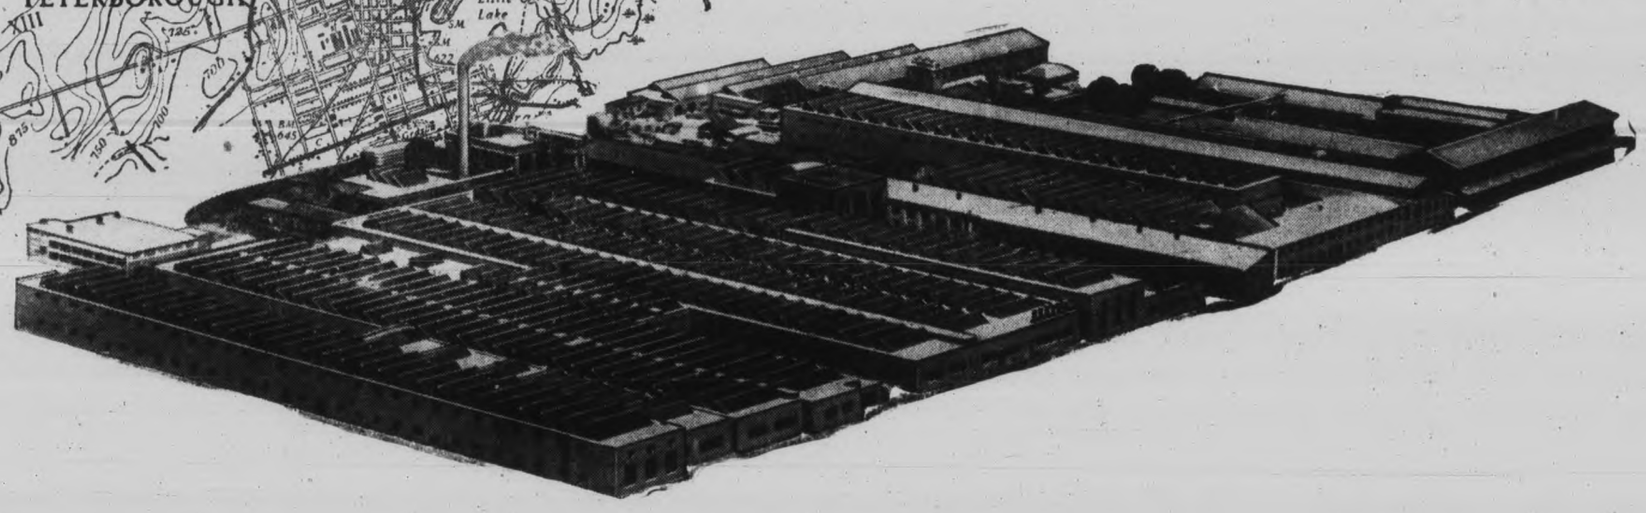
On this our Sixtieth Anniversary...

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC presents a progress report to our neighbours in Peterborough

1892

TODAY



It is sixty years ago this year since Canadian General Electric opened its first modest plant in Peterborough. During all those years this Company has played an intimate part in the life of the city. The products that have been made in our Peterborough Works have carried the fame of this proud city into every province in Canada and into many countries throughout the world.

The year 1951 was again one of continued progress.

Improvements to plant and machinery—as well as manufacturing methods—were carried out during the year. New items of machine tool equipment were installed throughout the plant. We are continually increasing our manufacturing facilities to take care of the ever-growing demand for our products.

Because of our extensive production knowledge, allied to our manufacturing facilities, the Government is again calling upon Peterborough Works in 1952 to handle its share of vital defense work.

J. E. Given

MANAGER, PETERBOROUGH WORKS

Job Dividends—Upon reaching the retirement age, all C-G-E employees completing twenty years or more of service receive a pension for the rest of their lives. The Company's 1951 contributions to the Pension Trust amounted to $1,800,000.

Employees do not contribute to the pension fund. Total contributions by the Company to the Pension Trust now amount to $10,580,000. This fund, which is set aside solely for the benefit of C-G-E employees, is invested in first class securities, including a large block of City of Peterborough bonds.

During the year, 10 Peterborough Works employees went on pension. We now have 79 employees on retirement pension and 9 of them have been receiving their pension for ten years or more.

In addition to retirement pensions, our employees enjoy many other job benefits. These include Group Life Insurance, Employees' Mutual Benefit Society, paid statutory holidays and paid vacations. They also share a modern cafeteria which provides good meals at reasonable prices.

The Peterborough chapter of the Quarter Century Club continues to grow and at the moment has 335 members. Another item from which Peterborough employees benefit is the Suggestion Plan which has now been running for a number of years. During 1951, over 1,800 suggestions were received from employees for a total payment in awards of $13,084. One employee received $4,600 for a single suggestion.

Apprentices—During the year many young men took advantage of the Peterborough Works Apprenticeship System to set them off on the first steps of a successful career. In 1951, 149 apprentices were in training and 26 completed their training during that time.

Since the Apprenticeship System was started, 1,125 young men have been "signed up" as indentured apprentices—63 of them in 1951. Many of them have risen to hold top positions in Canada's electrical industry.

Payrolls—Employment continued to rise at Peterborough Works during 1951 and $15,185,940 was paid out by the Company in wages and salaries. This huge payroll is a record in the history of our plant and, naturally, contributes to the prosperity of this city.

Despite product changes and the slowing down of certain items of manufacture, the Company created more jobs throughout the year and we finished up the year with 4,866 employees as compared with 4,770 employees the year before.

Compared with latest available statistics, the average weekly earnings at Peterborough Works are $2.66 above the average for the electrical apparatus industry, and $8.72 above the average for all industry in Ontario.

In the 1951 Canada Savings Bond Drive, Peterborough C-G-E employees purchased well over one million dollars' worth, through payroll deductions alone. This was in addition to the cash purchases made at their own banks.

C-G-E...a Safe Place—We are constantly striving to make our plant the safest place in the community in which to work. Every possible safeguard is provided to protect the health and safety of employees including emergency medical service by a staff of competent nurses, operating in modernly equipped dispensaries. We continually strive to reduce our already very low accident rate and during October 1951 we established a new outstanding record of 1,000,000 man hours without a lost time accident.

Plant—1951 was a year during which we consolidated our operations following the many millions of dollars spent at Peterborough Works on our postwar expansion program. Over $1,000,000 was spent on plant developments and improved working conditions during the year, which included the start of the construction of 122,000 square feet of additional manufacturing floor space for the new carpentry and pattern shop and an extension to the punch press and structural steel department. We have further developments lined up for the year that lies ahead. This modern equipment and production facilities, the result of an eleven million dollar post-war expansion program at Peterborough, enables C-G-E employees to produce first quality products and helps maintain steady employment at the plant.

Community—We are proud of the participation of C-G-E men and women in all activities of the community. Their contributions to the civic life, to church groups, and to all community programs cannot be measured in dollars and cents alone—they have a definite influence on the progress and stability of Peterborough.

The Company, also, played its part in civic affairs; as Peterborough's largest single taxpayer and largest employer, it contributed greatly to the economic life and progress of our city and our community.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Should Not Resent Hours Husband At Work

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think it's right for a young mother to be left alone 16 hours a day while her husband works to get ahead? Is it worth losing the happy times of youth together? My son-in-law is working very hard to get their own home, but I think it would be better if he didn't leave his wife alone so much. After all, nothing can take the place of the companionship of their early life. The sacrifices they are making will never be appreciated by their children.

Mrs. ALMA T.

ANSWER: While youth is undoubtedly a wonderful time for companionship, romance, and gaiety, it is also the time of life when a man works best. If your son-in-law wants to put in his hard work now, while he has the strength and opportunity, it would be very unreasonable to nag him into stopping.

Whether children ever appreciate the sacrifices of their parents is a moot point; the fact is that parenthood entails sacrifice. Creating and maintaining a home is not an easy job—which is why I don't recommend it for teenagers. The difficult, early years are soon gone, and if they have been carried with patience the rewards are great. The leisure time may come a little late, but it will be more thoroughly enjoyed for the waiting. Don't encourage your daughter to be a petulant wife, bemoaning the fact that her husband isn't around for courting all day long.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dangerous Age

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for almost twenty-one years and have a daughter 17. My wife and I had an argument about two months ago, and she packed her things and went to her mother's. Now she says she has forgotten me and our daughter and refuses to come home. Of course I'm not allowed to see her and she has gone to work. Should I try to forget her, or do you think she will come back? A. E.

ANSWER: Your wife is probably going through the vicissitudes of middle age and is enjoying a spurt of independence. Be patient, and she'll come back with her bag just as suddenly as she left. Of course she hasn't really forgotten you or her child; she just needed a change of scenery. Has it occurred to you that in the bitterness of the quarrel you may have said some things that hurt her deeply? An apology may be in order.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a boy of 14, a student in junior high. My aunt doesn't like the friends I bring home, calls me to one side to tell me about them. This is very embarrassing, especially as I think the boys are nice.

ANSWER: While your aunt is not exactly diplomatic to take the particular opportunity she does to censure your friends, she is right in taking an interest in your associates. Ask her to save the criticisms until they have gone home, then listen to her with an open mind. If you think her objections are right, abide by them; if you think she's judging too harshly, talk the matter over. I assume that your aunt is responsible for you; if so, don't make her job too hard.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Twenty-two years ago I was left a widow with three small boys. Two years later I married, and from then on have had things very hard. My boys are now all married and nicely settled, but my husband, who has always been lazy and shiftless, is worse now than ever. Through all our married life I worked to care for my children. Now the doctor says I must take things easy as I have a cardiac condition and am very nervous. There's nothing I can do with my husband. He won't work, I can't go to see anyone or have anyone call on me. My boys want me to go live with them but if I do my husband comes after me and makes trouble for everyone. He's even broken windows in their home.

M. T.

ANSWER: There certainly is no reason for you to go on supporting a worthless man, and if either you or your sons had an ounce of spunk you wouldn't do it. Leave him, go live with one of your sons, and if your husband comes around to make trouble, call the police. After all, you are entitled to protection, but you can't expect the law to make your husband work. All the angels in heaven couldn't accomplish that miracle.

Nurses Say Medicine Man Hinders Progress In North

WINNIPEG (CP)—Modern medicine has made great strides among Manitoba's northern Indians but it still has a tremendous obstacle to overcome in the form of the tribal medicine man.

That is the opinion of 20 nurses from the Federal government's Indian Health Services who met here recently for refresher training.

The nurses, who operate nursing stations in the bush, say the power of the Indian medicine man varies from tribe to tribe.

"But you never know what you are going to find when you go to a new district," warns Mrs. Wilmer Raynor. She runs a station at Norway House, 280 miles north of Winnipeg.

Ina Broadfoot, director of Manitoba's Red Cross Nursing Services, say not all the practices advocated by Indian medicine-men are unsound.

An enthusiastic traveller in Canada's north land, she urges nurses to persuade the Indians to keep those customs which are old and good.

One of these is their habit of not washing a new-born baby for the first 10 days of its life.

"White people are beginning to regard that as a sound principle," says Miss Broadfoot.

Another is the use of dried moss as disposable diapers. Mrs. Raynor says the moss is excellent material and she has never seen a case of diaper rash among Indian babies when moss was used.

Miss Broadfoot warns against leading Indians to believe everything the white man does is superior to what they do.

"Remember their racial pride and teach them how to improvise equipment out of the things they have," she says.

During the refresher training, she displayed a cover-all apron made by an Indian woman from a man's shirt. Also on hand was a bedside table made of an orange crate and a mask made from a paper serviette, two safety pins and two pieces of string.

Woman Lives Eskimo Style For 15 Months In Arctic

OTTAWA (CP).—Many of civilization's so-called necessities aren't really necessary. That's the word from a 30-year-old housewife who spent 15 months in the Arctic.

Dark-haired Vivian Wilkinson formed the cook-business manager end of a trio that travelled the Arctic to take pictures of Eskimos for the National Film Board. C[illegible]ions were her 32-year-old husband, Douglas, and Jean Roy, 23, of Montreal, cameraman.

The former Vivian Jean Latremouille of Toronto says she is one of the few white women to live, act, talk and think like an Eskimo.

The trio joined an Eskimo camp headed by Idlouk and composed of four families. The women of the camp taught Mrs. Wilkinson to cook "iwnut"—Eskimo style. Idlouk father of eight children, disclosed the secrets of seal hunting and camp lore.

Scenes shot in the igloo included the birth of a baby boy early in the spring. He was called Aliak.

From Chesterfield they went to Pond Inlet, on the north shore of Baffin Land, with Idlouk. It was on this trip that Mrs. Wilkinson lived Eskimo-style.

Sense of Humor

"I really got to know the Eskimo and was astounded by their intelligence, warmth and terrific sense of humor," she said.

"Dressed in two layers of clothing, one outfit with the fur inside and the other with the fur facing outward, we were as warm as toast. Our faces got cold, but a frozen nose is nothing in the Arctic."

The expedition started at Chesterfield Inlet, an R.C.M.P. post a few hundred miles south of the Arctic Circle on the west coast of Hudson Bay.

At the end of the trip the team had shot more than 30,000 feet of sound and silent film. The film is being divided into two 30-minute shorts. Tentative titles are "Eskimo Hunter" and "The Life of an Eskimo."

Mrs. Wilkinson set up house at Chesterfield in an old wooden home abandoned years ago. She fashioned furniture [illegible] packing cases and tasted Eskimo food for the first time. That was late summer of 1950.

The life of an Eskimo was filmed there. They built a huge igloo to hold elaborate film and lighting equipment. Around it was constructed four smaller igloos opening into the main house. These were used as working bays, from which they could take shots in the big igloo.

Clever Actors

The next job was to find actors. Mrs. Wilkinson held a "tea party" and her husband mingled with the guests, studying them in their natural habitat.

"I picked out the ones I thought best for the job and they turned out to be wonderful," he recalled. "They weren't in the least temperamental and did their best all the time we were shooting."

MISS K. RUKMINI, diplomatic secretary to the High Commission of India at Ottawa, and her hostess this week, Mrs. C. M. Scott, were visitors to the Examiner Thursday afternoon. They were pictured as they read the latest news coming in by wire from press services covering the world. Miss Rukmini came to the city at the invitation of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., and she spoke at the annual dinner last night. Other organizations taking advantage of Miss Rukmini's presence were United Nations Association and Kiwanis Club, who made arrangements through the I.O.D.E. representative, Mrs. Scott.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Native Indian Lady Speaks To IODE Municipal Chapter

A colorful ceremony opened the eighth annual dinner meeting of the Peterborough Municipal Chapter I.O.D.E. held Thursday evening in the recreational room at the Y.W.C.A.

To the strains of the traditional "Land of Hope and Glory" played by Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Mrs. Wm. Nash, Municipal standard bearer, led the way as standards were carried into the banquet hall.

About 100 members sat down to dinner with the regent, Miss Mary Medd and municipal officers occupying the head table places, also two past regents of the Municipal Chapter, both Municipal life members, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall and Mrs. A. W. Turner now of Stouffville, and the special guest for the occasion, Miss K. Rukmini from Ottawa.

Mrs. W. A. Burrell was in charge of the arrangements and Mrs. C. L. Upper had charge of decorations. The tables were lovely with a centre arrangement of red, white and tinted blue carnations flanked with the same colored candles and small flags.

During the program Miss Elizabeth Taylor played two beautiful selections at the piano.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. C. M. Scott, executive member of the National Chapter of Canada, introduced the guest speaker Miss K. Rukmini, diplomatic secretary to the High Commisioner of India at Ottawa.

Miss Rukmini, a native of Bangalore, India, received her primary education at the Maharanis College, her Masters Degree at the Presidency College in Madras. In 1948 she took a postgraduate course in international relations at the London School of Economics and was selected for Indian Foreign Service that year.

While in England Miss Rukmini was attached to the political department of the Indian High Commission in London until September 1951 when she took up the new post in Ottawa.

Miss Rukmini in her speech said India is actually a republic, yet she's a member of the commonwealth and a member of the great community of nations bound together in a valuable and lasting friendship.

India recognizes the Queen as the head of the commonwealth.

The 1947 Act of Indian Independence has rendered firmer and stronger than ever before the friendship between Britain and India. There is estimated to be more British people in India today than during the 200 years that went before.

Miss Rukmini traced briefly the achievement of India since August 1947, outlining the important features of the great democratic constitution her people have framed which guarantees fundamental rights and freedoms to every Indian citizen and provides equality and opportunity for all, irrespective of sex, cast or creed. The fundamental rights are safe guarded by the Supreme Court. The constitution also decrees a secular state. In India, positions of the highest honor and trust are given to Moslems, Christians and Sikhs.

Miss Rukmini also spoke of the great democratic elections that have just been concluded in India, of the vast irrigation and multi-purpose schemes for agricultural improvement, of industrial expansion of the social security scheme, of refugee rehabilitation and of the successful manner in which India has averted any threat of famine.

She spoke too, about the significant role played by the women of India in recent years.

Annual Reports

A wide range of work was revealed in the reports presented. Mrs. C. L. Upper, educational secretary reports 13 schools adopted by the chapter, $44.97 spent on libraries for these schools, $20.00 for refills and magazines valued at $25. Flags were sent to adopted schools at cost of $18.42. Other gifts amounted to $173.22.

$200.00 was spent for monetary assistance to students. Chapter scholarships $50. Chapter bursaries $200. Contribution to provincial scholarship $170. and provincial bursaries $27. Educational prizes amounted to $53.85 and $55. given for educational work in general. Total amount of expenditures for education was $1,006.06.

Mrs. G. Groombridge, post-war convener reported total sum of combined chapters of post-war services for 1951 was $2,289.78. 187 food parcels valued at $757.92, 866 knitted and sewn articles valued at $563.90, 312 articles of good used clothing, 20 pairs of filled Christmas stockings were all packed and shipped overseas. Donations of $323.00 were sent to National Post-War Fund and $125.00 for Provincial Post-War Fund.

Report of Mrs. Ralph Clark for Child and Family Welfare showed 116 members gave their services consisting of driving twice a week to Keene for a polio victim taking swimming lessons at the Y.W.C.A. Eighty-three individuals received help and $85.00 was spent on goods distributed for the needy. $518.66 was spent of relief.

Film convener, Miss June Fraser, reported 17 films were shown during the year and plans are being made to purchase a large tripod screen for permanent use of all chapters.

Other reports were presented by Mrs. R. S. Allin, organizing secretary; Mrs. R. Wilson, ex-service personnel convener; Mrs. Wm. Nash, Municipal standard bearer; press and publicity convener, Mrs. W. C. Boate; Empire and world affairs, Mrs. Thomas Chaplin of Lakefield; echoes secretary, Miss Jean Hamley.

Officers for 1952 were installed by Mrs A. W. Turner of Stouffville, first Municipal regent. They are:

Regent—Miss Mary Medd; 1st vice-regent—Mrs. George Barns; 2nd vice-regent—Mrs. Max Clark; secretary—Miss Elizabeth Taylor; Assistant secretry—Miss Louise Spriggs; treasurer—Mrs. Bryon Roberts; organizing secretary—Mrs. R. S. Allin; educational secretary—Mrs. C. L. Upper; echoes secretary—Miss Jean Hamley; standard bearer—Mrs. Wm. Nash.

Faludi City Plan Presented To C.A. Study Group

The Women's Study Group on Civic Affairs held its monthly meting in the City Hall Thursday evening, Miss M. Mulloch presiding.

Immediately following the reading of the minutes the guest speaker, Mr. James S. Craig was introduced.

The subject of Dr. Faludi's plan for the city of Peterborough was thoroughly presented to the group in a mannner that left no doubt as to the wisdom of such a plan being adopted to control the use of the land and guide the development of the city to the ultimate advantage of all.

Mr. Craig stated "The purpose of the plan is to serve as a guide in bringing about the orderly, efficient and economical growth of the city in order to create a pleasant environment in which both the present population and the future generation may work and live."

This, however, cannot become legally effective until a zoning bylaw has been passed and approved by the Ontario Municipal Board. The main difficulty still remaining before the city council is how to acquaint each taxpayer with the complete information before such a bylaw can be drawn up.

The proposed zoning bylaw would divide the city into four types of residential area according to density of population, four types of commercial area, heavy and light industry, as well as necessary parks and green belt areas.

Industry Desirable

The speaker stressed that desirable industry is a most important part of development since industrial areas provide 54 per cent of the employment, and are necessary for the financing of other projects of benefit to the citizens.

Problems of re-routing traffic to avoid congestion, and suggesting improvements regarding railroad lines, also come under the scrutiny of the Town Planning Board. It is more difficult to try to remedy conditions already existing in a city, than to plan a new one from the beginning.

After a stimulating question period Mr. Craig was thanked by Mrs. D. B. Rogers.

Mrs. J. A. Nornabell gave a concise report on Mr. D. M. Graham's recent address on "Education for What?" in Queen Mary School.

Interesting data from the first in a series of lectures on Civic Affairs being presented to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was given by Mrs. G. B. Lathangue.

Observers' reports for city council meetings were read by Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy Mrs. J. E. Wattets and Miss H. Gerrard, while the Board of Education meeting was covered by Mrs. W. E. Fanning.

A brief discussion of the reports followed.

Stewart Hall Baby Band mothers met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Massey on Wednesday evening with a good attendance. Theme of the opening worship service, led by Mrs. R. Post, was Easter. A short reading given by Mrs. Kenneth Savigny was followed by meditation by Mrs. Post. The hymn, "Christ the Lord Has Risen," was sung. Mrs. H. A. Dawson led in prayer, and took a short missionary period. Four members, Mrs. Massey, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. George Oliver and Mrs. Walter Bristow, were appointed to look after the recreational period at the rally to be held in Mark St. Church on April 24th. A sewing project was discussed. Next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. George Oliver. After adjournment delicious lunch was then served by the hostess.

Study Liquor Advertising

Monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held Thursday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. with president Mrs. W. A. Poast presiding. She opened with prayer and a hymn for spring "This is my Father's World." Devotional period was taken by Mrs. H. T. Rehill and Mrs. A. B. Cunningham. The program was presented by members and included a short talk by Mrs. E. Alton, a delightful solo by Mrs. W. Boorman who was accompanied by Mrs. James Ellis Sr., and a reading given by Mrs. G. Rowe. Several members took part in the clip sheet exercise which is the regular educational feature. The topic was "The question of liquor advertising." Announcements were made of the County Convention to be held in Gilmour Church in May and the Provincial Convention at Hamilton in June.

American Federation Head Visits Local Soroptimists

A dynamic little woman, Miss L. Grace Nicholls of Toronto, who is the president of a federation of exactly 500 Soroptomist Clubs, was the guest of Peterborough Soroptimists at their dinner meeting Thursday evening in the Empress Hotel.

A member of her executive was at the same time representing her in Grosse Point, Michigan, to present the charter to the 500th club of the American Federation. This covers the area from Brazil to Alaska, Hawaii to Nova Scotia, and Miss Nicholls has now visited all but two regions during her term of office.

She recalled the charter night of this club when she, as regional director, said to the members "It is out of the new wood that blossoms come." The growth she referred to was "the throwing out of prejudices, etc., and bringing in something bright, new and worthwhile."

The objective of Soroptimism is to seek the best for women, but they should also look for the worst in a community and do something about it Miss Nicholls says. She complimented the local Soroptimists on holding the banner of women's service work high with their fast-growing Golden Mile Club.

"Stir up and keep faith alive in the world today," said this speaker. "That is part of defence." She cautioned: "Remember we are fighting something which has in reality a religious fervor. We've got to out-think the Communists, out-do them and out-love them."

Suggests Weapon

A statement often made by Miss Nicholls was repeated here: "Service clubs should not only comfort the afflicted, but they should afflict the comfortable." She said this method if continued is an effective weapon.

With inspiring enthusiasm she urged a "Boost Canada" campaign From a statement "If all freckles would get together we'd have a glorious tan" she coined another to fit, "If all Canadians would get together we'd have a glorious future."

Though community service is the first consideration of each club, much is being done for women on the federation level. A fund has been established through anniversary subscriptions to provide a $3,000 yearly fellowship for women and another is now nearing the sum which will provide $2,000 yearly for a woman to train in the American Women's Medical College.

A great deal has been done for UNESCO on the consultative basis which Soroptimists hold. Aid has been given the Philippines, radios sent to India, help to German schools and rehabilitation work in Greece. In Canada 75 per cent of the clubs are working with the older women as they do in Peterborough. Toronto is now also helping cancer patients.

Establish "Eye Bank"

An "eye bank" has been established in a southern United States region which is similar to a blood bank. Enough cornea are now available for 7,000 blind persons. Another region is working quietly and on a highly confidential basis at rehabilitating women criminals.

One of Miss Nicholl's personal interests is poetry and she punctuated her talk with very lovely verses and closing by reciting an entire poem "I'm Content With Canada."

Neither her club nor her numerous hobbies are allowed to interfere with her business position as managing director and secretary of an insurance company home office in Toronto and she is often called Canada's "first lady" of the life insurance business.

Advice To Women

Miss Nicholls feels that a woman must work a little harder than a man to advance in business. Her favorite advice on this subject is "Learn to climb ladders and ignore signs 'For men only' in business affairs." She feels that, while equality of opportunity and pay for women is by no means universal in practice, women have been recognized and must now assume more responsibility. At her office she works with drive and force. She expects work well done but never asks her subordinates for more than she contributes herself. "Men and women in partnership must work together, for both are needed to solve today's problems," she advises.

Miss Verna Johnston expressed the delight of the Peterborough members in having their busy president as a guest. It was felt that she had given the club needed incentive. Miss Grace Sargent referred in her introduction to the many trips Miss Nicholls made to this city in order to organize the club.

Another guest was Miss Muriel Gladman of Toronto Club who assisted greatly with the organization, and also present was her sister Miss Florence Gladman of Peterborough. Members' guests included Mrs. P. Jameson, Miss E. Robson, Miss Leith Johnson, Miss Gladys Green, Mrs. H. Staunton and were introduced in turn by president Miss Alice Curtis.

Hear Broadcast Of Baby's Birth.

STOCKHOLM, March 28 (Reuters)—Mrs. Maud Naesstrom said Thursday she was "gripped" when she heard a broadcast description of the birth of her baby—a month after its arrival.

The 50-minute recording was broadcast Wednesday night and has divided Swedish motherhood into two camps, pro and con.

Some women criticized the broadcast for "giving men the impression that having a baby is as easy as sneezing." Others welcomed the program.

The commentator, Dr. Verner Westberg, gave a running commentary from the initial doctor's examination until the baby's first cry went over the airwaves.

The broadcast was 33-year-old Mrs. Naesstrom's own idea. She works for Sweden's non-commercial broadcasting corporation.

"This was my third child," she said. "I thought a broadcast of my experience might help other mothers.

"I listened to it myself and I was gripped."

Said Dr. Westberg: "Mrs. Naesstrom did not have a particularly easy birth. There was very little anaesthesia.

"It is obvious, however, that the program was not suitable for women who want to turn motherhood into martyrdom."

I.O.D.E. News

COLONEL AGNES NEILL CHAPTER

Meeting of the Colonel Agnes Neill Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held Tuesday evening in the Y.W.C.A. Regent Miss Marjorie Benson was in the chair. As the chapter's standard was being brought forward by Miss Eleanor Cameron, Miss Eleanor Taylor, the chapter's pianist, played "Land of Hope and Glory."

Mrs. Mary Roberts is to represent the chapter at the annual provincial meeting at Hamilton in April. A picture of Queen Elizabeth is to be purchased and presented to the adopted school. An instructive paper on the founding of I.O.D.E. was read by Mrs. Roberts.

Final plans were made for the Spring Tea being held in the Green Room, Y.W.C.A., on Saturday April 5th.

Miss Mary Medd, Regent, and Mrs. R. Allin, organizing secretary of the Municipal Chapter presented a Primary Charter to the Chapter.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by Miss Dorothy Franks and her group.

Of Interest to Women

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Canadian Women Should Buy Only What's Needed

By KAY REX,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian women owe it to themselves—and to the economy of their country—to "buy only what they need, not what they want," says Mrs. Allan Turner Bone of Montreal.

As President of the National Council of Women, Mrs. Turner Bone has special interest in measures calculated to cut living expenses. For the last five months the council has been urging its 600,000 women to economize.

Mrs. Turner Bone explains that this Thrift Campaign is an anti-inflationary effort. The Council doesn't want its members to forego spending—but to curb it, and restrain it, and delay it.

The N.C.W. president expressed her views to the Canadian Press after she was asked for her opinion about current high prices and how she meets them in her own home.

The council head practises what she preaches. Enclosed with her letter were recipes for two inexpensve dishes, favorites with the Turner Bone family.

Cold Meat In Overcoats

This, says Mrs. Turner Bone is an excellent way to use meat leftovers.

Ingredients: one-half cup flour; one-quarter teaspoon baking powder; one-quarter teaspoon salt; one egg; milk; thin slices of left-over meat (ham, beef, etc.)

Mix dry ingredients. Add egg and enough milk to make a thick batter. Beat well. Dip slices of cold meat in batter. Fry in greased pan.

Mrs. Turner Bone's Poor Man's Pudding is a fine dessert for chilly weather.

Ingredients: one cup brown sugar; one cup raisins; one cup sour milk (or buttermilk); 2½ cups flour; two tablespoons butter; one teaspoon soda; spices to suit taste.

Steam in mold for two hours.

More Thrift

"Thrift" suggestions from the National Council include the following recipe for an inexpensive spot remover.

Ingredients: one-half ounce alcohol; two ounces concentrated ammonia; one-half ounce ether.

The above items should be measured and mixed by a druggist. Then, cut three-quarters of an ounce of castile soap into small pieces and dissolve in one cup boiling soft water. When thoroughly dissolved add six cups soft water. Add the drug-store mixture, bottle and cork tightly.

If soft water is not available use rain-water or melted snow. The latter may need to be strained through cheese-cloth until clear.

For general sponging dilute with equal parts water.

FASHION IS JUST AS ESSENTIAL to the happiness of a small girl as it is to that of her older sister or her mother. Any small girl would be happy to go strolling on a bright spring Sunday wearing a coat as shown here (Left) in navy worsted gabardine. It ha sa small nipped waist and full, flared hem. There's a big, double detachable coachman's cape collar of gabardine and powder blue faille. With this collar off, the coat becomes tailored and classic. Another coat (Right) is lilac-and-yellow all-wool plaid in a pyramid design. Double-breasted, it has yolk back, inset sleeves, slot pockets and removable faille revers and cuffs. The matching plaid-faced turnback hat has a long faille streamer.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Suggested Diet For Weight Reducing

Question: Here is another reader coming for help. I have found you column just wonderful—it is the first thing I turn to. The Dr. has just told me I must lose about 50 lbs., so you see I have a big job ahead. Please send me calorie booklet. Tell me what this means: 44 calories 17 gram slice. I do not know what gram means. Do you think 1 piece bacon, 1 fried egg, 2 slices hollywood bread for breakfast, 4 slices hollywood bread made in sandwiches of meat and lettuce for lunch and 1 cup vegetable, meat and dessert for dinner is too much—tea with milk only. What should my weight be? I'm 44 years and 5 ft. 4 in.—E.M.B.

Answer, you will have to change your menu E.M.B. That is a gaining routine, not a reducing one. The average ideal weight for your height and age is 125 lbs. If you have to lose 50 lbs., you must follow a strict diet such as below:

(This is for Mrs. Geo. H. P.; A Constant Reader, Augusta; Mrs Gordon H.; Leah V.; Angelina S. C.; Mrs. Mary F.; Mrs. John P.)

Breakfasts

1. 8 oz. freshly squeezed orange or grapefruit juice; 1 poached (not fried) egg on half slice whole wheat toast unbuttered; 2 cups clear coffee or coffee with 2 oz. cold or 4 oz. hot whole milk.

2. One-half large grapefruit or 1 large orange; 1 coddled egg or egg cooked in shell with ½ slice unbuttered whole wheat toast (½ inch thick is taken for granted for clices of whole wheat bread). Cafe au Lait without sugar. (Cafe au Lait is a great comfort to reducers. It is double strength boiling hot coffee with an equal quantity of very hot whole milk.)

3. A 6 or 8 oz. serving of any of the fresh fruits coming into season—these include imported grapes, fresh pineapple, strawberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches, plums, blueberries, pears, apricots without sugar. One egg scrambled in 1 teaspoon butter and served on ½ slice unbuttered whole wheat toast. Sugarless tea or coffee.

Lunches

1. 6 or 8 oz. serving thin clear non-fat soup; salad of lettuce, tomato, carrot, cottage cheese, celery and 1 teaspoon mayonnaise; 1 slice whole wheat bread with ½ pat butter; 8 oz. glass skim or buttermilk; ½ medium banana.

2. Sandwich 2 slices unbuttered whole wheat bread with ¼ inch thick slice lean meat with green relish pickle and 1 leaf lettuce; 8 oz. skim or buttermilk; medium apple.

3. Unbuttered toasted cheese sandwich on w. w. bread; celery hearts and carrot sticks; 8 oz. skim or buttermilk; whole orange. 4 p.m., 8 oz. glass tomato juice.

Dinners

1. 4 oz. lean beef not fried but broiled—this may be ground beef, beef tenderloin, beefsteak, 6 oz. each cooked carrots and Brussels sprouts; ½ grapefruit; cafe au lait.

2. Broiled salmon or halibut steak ¾ inch thick; lemon; stewed tomatoes or chopped spinach (undercook the spinach); 6 oz. canned baby limas; baked apple without sugar; cafe au lait.

3. Broiled baby beef or calves' or chicken liver—4 oz.; 6 oz. broccoli or cauliflower with grated skim milk cheese; diced new beets with salt—no butter; 20 malaga grapes or 1 banana or fresh pear; cafe au lait or tea with whole milk.

10 p.m.—Glass tomato or sauerkraut juice or 1 whole orange or apple.

If this seems to be too strict, write to me and I will help you get used to it.

6—In Memoriam

GUERIN—In loving memory of William Guerin, who passed away eight years ago today.
Youre not forgotten, father dear,
Nor ever shall you be,
As long as life and memory last,
I shall remember thee.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

LITTLE—Mrs. James Little who passed away March 28, 1947.
More and more each day we miss her,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
—Lovingly remembered by son and daughter-in-law, Russell and Margaret.

MAXWELL—In loving memory of my dear mother, Eliza Ann Maxwell, who passed away March 28, 1940.
Dear mother you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with me,
As you always were before.
—Sadly missed by your daughter, Elizabeth Montgomery.

70 Witnesses Offer To Give Testimony

BERLIN, March 28 (AP). — Seventy men and women who claim to know some facts about the Katyn Forest massacre of polish officers in 1940 have offered to testify in Berlin before a United States Congressional committee investigating the case.

The West Berlin League of Human Rights said today it will have at least that many witnesses for the U.S. committee when it arrives here sometime in May and will have written depositions from perhaps as many more persons.

The U.S. committee already has received testimony that Russian executioners shot the Polish officers in the Katyn Forest in the spring of 1940 and later blamed it on the German Wehrmacht.

Junior Farmers Compete In Square Dance Contest

It was "a la main left" and "dos-a-dos" as the junior farmers took over at the Central Ontario Spring Show Thursday night. A program of musical entertainment, highlighted by a square dance competition drew a crowd that overflowed the seats in the centre of the main building.

The set from Hastings took the hoedown honors but it was a close race, with the four couples from Peterborough county running them a close second.

Farm lads and lassies from five counties — Peterborough, Hastings, Durham, Northumberland and Victoria—decked themselves in colorful costumes and went through the lively changes, called to old time music that has become the traditional folk music of rural Ontario.

After being relegated to the back concessions for more than a generation, square dancing is staging a comeback and is enjoying increasing popularity in both city and country.

Thursday night, the county young peope drew applause from the rural-urban audience as they went through the lively changes to the toe tapping rhythms reeled off on the piano and violin.

All Superior

"The square dancing we have seen tonight by all the groups was pretty superior," said Quirt McKinney in announcing that Hastings had won the unanimous nods of himself and and the other two judges, Mrs. James Wharry and Herb Mullen, for the scroll, presented by the officials of the Central Ontario Spring Show.

The competition was so close that the judges had Hastings and Peterborough go through a second change before they made their decision. By the time the judges made up their minds, the crowd was taking sides, and the clapping, mingled with boos and cheers, rivalled the enthusiasm of a hockey crowd at a playoff game.

The dancing was judged by 50 per cent for general over-all effect, 25 per cent for costumes and 25 per cent for the form each dancer in the set displayed in going through the figures.

"It was tough for the judges," said Mr. McKinney. "If the Peterborough group had danced as well the second time as they did the first time, they might have won," but he added the Hastings caller (Lee Ray) was also in costume.

The couples from Hastings, Peterborough, Durham and Victoria were dressed in the traditional square dance garb, with the boys sporting plaid shirts, bright neckerchiefs and wearing blue dungarees, while their partners looked neat and attractive in white blouses and bright colored swirling skirts.

Dress of 90's

However, the four couples from Northumberland, their caller and piano and violin players were all attired in the formal party clothes that grandma and grandpa donned when they stepped out in the 90's. The girls wore chin strap bonnets, long full skirts with the inevitable bustle, while their squires doffed their black bowler, before pulling down the tails of their black Prince Alberts, and bowed from the waist before starting the dance.

Between the square dance numbers, musical and dancing selections added variety to the program. Dr. H. Worton was master of ceremonies and kept the show moving with different acts and entertainers. The Sargent Brothers' old time orchestra provided several selections of modern and old time dance music and Peter Imrie played a violin solo. Two tiny tap dance troupers from Cobourg, the Houlihan sisters, Harriett and Janet brought down the house with their dance numbers and were called back for encores. A 16 voice male choir from Curtis billed as "The Durham Harmonizers," completed the program.

The four prize winning couples making up the Hastings set were: Howard Elliott and Marilyn Hodgen; George Clare and Joyce Lott; Allen Lott and Dorothy Hodgen and Fred Ray and Lois Sills.

For Peterborough County, Blanche Quinn and Jack Matchett; Mary Wood and Burritt Mann; Doris Jopling and Orland Brown and Doreen Bowles and Neil Cameron were runners up in the inter-county hoedown. Bruce Sargent did the calling for the Peterborough set.

Jack Ogden called-off for the Durham set of Irma Beatty, Williard Beatty, Marjorie Finnie, Gordon Wilson, Elda Wilson, David Wilson, Betty North and Cameron Irwin.

Victoria brought along their own music for dancing. Hugh Imrie did the calling, while Peter Imrie sawed the fiddle and his sister Alice chorded on the piano.

The Victoria dancers were: Gordon Murray, Eva Thornbury, Clarence Baker, Joyce Hopkins, John Lambert, Isobel Budd, Cecil Snodden and Mary Nicholls.

The four Northumberland couples: George Linton, Delores Huffman, Ross Derry, Mary Skuce, Don Ferguson, Phyllis O'Connell, Neil George and Adele Varkle did their dancing to the music of Fay Adams on the violin and Evan Adams on the piano, while Gordon Adams called off.

Mrs. D. J. Armstrong, R.R. 7 Peterborough and Mrs. William Robson, R.R. 3 Peterborough won the evening door prizes of gladioli bulbs. H. Robinson of Bridgenorth won a bag of flax seed, donated by Warden R. R. Stewart and Rod Blackwell won the other gentleman's door prize of oats.

Ronald Osborne, R.R. 2 Bowmanville, won the lucky draw for the Beaver Lumber Company's $15 merchandise certificate, while the name of Mrs. Henry Little, R.R. 2 Lakefield was drawn for the $10 merchandise certificate donated by the company. Mrs. H. Collins, R.R. 8 Peterborough, Ken Tink, R.R. 2 Bowmanville, and A. C. Curtis, George St., each won a self storing ironing board donated by Beaver Lumber.

Winners of the afternoon door prizes were: Miss Amanda Tourigney, Lakefield and Mrs. James B. Thompson, R.R. 3 Indian River, gladioli bulbs and David Eastwood's name was drawn for the gentleman's prize of oats. Bruce Fisher of Bailieboro won the registered barley donated by Warden R. R. Stewart. The oats won by David Eastwood were donated by M. McMahon. Ed Summers donated the gladiolis.

34 Years Of Work In Laundry Ends For Lee Kam

The long, weary hours of toil in his small Hunter St. laundry which he has operated for almost 34 years, ended suddenly this morning when Lee Kam died in Civic Hospital.

The merry-faced laundryman who has suffered many disappointments in the past four years, died before he could make one more effort to bring his family from Red China. Four years ago, when his petition for Canadian citizenship was granted, Lee was very happy. Not only was he a citizen of a country he had come to love, but he confidently planned to bring his wife and small family to Peterborough.

But after more than 40 years in Canada, fate held another blow in store for him. The family escaped to Hong Kong and waited many months as red tape and a deluge of applications for residence held up their trip to join him, Finally inflationary costs became so high that the three had to return to their Communist-dominated village . . . their last hope of escape cut off.

Lee Kam had long been interested in the western world. When he was a small boy growing up in the Chinese village of Toi-shen near Canton, his father operated a jewelry store in San Francisco. But before he was old enough to join him, his father died.

Followed Brother

Later a brother came to Canada and when he was established he sent for Lee Kam. Lee spent nine years in Hamilton and then moved to Peterborough where he has been operating the Lee Sing Laundry ever since.

He liked his new home so much that he wanted to share it with his relatives. As soon as he was able, he sent for two cousins, Lee Hung and Lee Gar-sun, who arrived in 1912 and 1913 and who have operated the Lee Hop Laundry, George St. for many years.

The proudest moment of his life, Lee said, was in December 1948, when he, along with Lee Hung and Lee Gar-sun was granted his petition for citizenship. At that time, L. J. Pettit of Grimsby, but formerly of Peterborough who operated a class for Chinese youths for many years wrote to Judge S. L. Smoke:

"Of all my boys, I think perhaps these three were the best. I know they will make fine citizens."

So Lee will be buried in Canada, while his wife and two boys take up another burden of their already heavy load, in China.

The body is resting at the Belleghem Funeral Home and funeral announcements will be made later.

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES MEET—George Nowlan, right, of Wolfeville, N.S., was re-elected president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada at the annual meeting in Ottawa. Sybil Bennett, seated, of Georgetown, Ont., was re-elected president of the Women's Association and Leon Balcer, standing, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Three Rivers, Que., was re-elected president of the Young Progressive Conservatives.

Many From City Made Homes In Winnipeg

Mayor Waddell has received from the Hon. R. F. McWilliams a copy of the item in the Winnipeg Free Press reflecting the trek from the east to the prairie provinces in the early 80's.

The Examiner had received from another source a similar clipping and made recent editorial reference to it. It was from the Free Press column Looking Backward, corresponding with the Examiner's How Time Flies.

Apparently Winnipeg had theatre accommodation in its city hall, just as Peterborough combined stage and municipal facilities in a market building that once faced on Water St. south of the old police station.

79 From East

On the eve of the demolition of the Winnipeg city hall theatre a former Peterborough man stood up during an intermission and counted in the audience 79 other persons like himself from the old home town in the east.

Lieutenant Governor McWilliams himself a native of Peterborough, and mayor, commented in his letter to Mayor Waddell: "You will see that there were a lot of enterprising people in Peterborough who went out to make their fortunes in the supposedly Golden West in its early days.

"I knew there had been some from Peterborough and district among the pioneer settlers, but had no idea there were so many people in Winnipeg at that time.

"A man who came from Millbrook, as one of an early group of settlers and later was a member of the Legislature for 20 years, died just a few days ago. That reminds me that your grandfather came from Millbrook, I think, and might have known this Mr. Breakey's family.

"I was very much pleased to hear of your election as mayor. It is a special compliment when a member of a family which has been in a city or county for three or four generations is elected mayor. Too often the public gives its preference to comparative strangers.

"When I was down for the opening of the City Hall I was impressed with the fact that several members of the council were members of families whom I had been associated with in the council forty-five years ago."

It was interesting to note that the reading habits and scope in Government House, Winnipeg, is like that of so many other folks, giving the daily newspaper a thorough perusal. Such is the appeal of the daily news and its presentation in type.

Bigger Tax Exemptions Asked In Brief From CCCL

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP)—The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, in a 12-page brief presented today to the federal cabinet, asked for bigger income tax exemptions for workers and higher old-age pensions.

It also requested price controls and curbing of what it termed "mass immigration."

Written in French and English, the brief was divided in two parts—a summary of demands and renewal of suggestions made previously.

The labor organization asked for old age pensions of $50 a month for men at 65 and women at 60, income tax exemptions of $1,500 for a single person and $3,000 for married persons, plus $400 for each child.

It also asked the Government to use its budget surplus to defray costs of a vast housing scheme in order to alleviate the housing situation and provide work for the unemployed.

The proposed income tax exemptions would result in decreased revenue, but "could easily be made up by a maximum tax on excess profit."

Claiming a membership of 90,000 workers in Quebec Province, the C.C.C.L. attacked monopolies in a renewal of its demand for Government price controls. It named the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, Ltd., in particular, as a monopoly.

In regard to higher family allowances and unemployment insurance payments, it said that these should be gauged on increases in the cost-of-living index.

A 20-point increase in the cost of living in 1951 showed that wages should have been boosted by a proportionate $10 a week. Instead, statistics proved the weekly wage hike was only $5.

The labor group, headed by Gerard Picard of Montreal, claimed that monopolies exist in almost all heavy industries due to unfair or lack of competition and lack of free enterprise.

For that reason, Government price controls were required to combat the current inflation. In the United States where such controls exist, the brief said, the cost of living increased only 3.3 per cent., while in Canada it soared 11 per cent.

Murray St. Club Presents Farce

A large audience filled the hall of Murray St. Baptist Church Thursday night to enjoy a three-act farce staged by the Married Couples Group of the church.

The play is entitled "Aunt Hetty Hits Her Stride."

Harry Doughty, president of the club welcomed the audience to the play. Davis Graham played the piano before the program began and during intermission Gar Beath entertained with a puppet show and Barry Willis played several piano selections.

Taking part in the play were Jean Lamers, Orland Kidd, Olive Smoothy, Olga Middleton, Marjorie Trotter, Helen Mullen, Hilda Doughty, Lillian McNabb, Iris Osborne, Gary Beath, Bob Richardson and Harry Doughty.

Those who helped behind the scenes were Ted and Nora Naish, Leonard Wilson, Max Middleton, Kinsmen Beeler, Fred Trotter, Helen Boorman, Hope Harwood, and Marney Beath. Dorothy Hayward directed the play.

The play will be presented again tonight.

Mariposa Pair Wed 60 Years

LINDSAY, March 28 (ENS) — One of Mariposa township's oldest couples—Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Noble—celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary recently. Both are 85, and they have lived on their farm on the seventh concession since they were married in 1892.

As a sideline to farming, Mr. Noble for many years had an apiary, from which came some of the finest honey in the district.

Mr. Noble is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Noble, and Mrs. Noble is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Prosser of Keswick. They were married at the Prosser family home by the Rev. Saul Prosser, Mrs. Noble's uncle.

Friends and relatives called on the couple during the celebration of their anniversary. They have no children, and their only close relative is Mrs. Archie Glenney, Albert St., Lindsay, a sister of Mr. Noble.

Peterborough Play Staged At Norwood

NORWOOD, March 28 (ENS)—A capacity crowd welcomed the play "A Pair of Country Kids," played jointly by the Ever Awake Bible Class and the Young Men's Bible Class of St. James' United Church, Peterborough, and sponsored by the choir of Norwood United Church. It was presented Wednesday evening in the Norwood town hall.

The three-act comedy was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. During intermission and while the crowd gathered, Ashton Fife entertained with piano music. Between acts, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Hepburn, of Peterborough, sang two duets.

Woman Lives

"At Pond Inlet we moved into a double-walled tent. Doug followed the Eskimos' example and built a snaw sleeping platform covered with furs. I took care of the kitchen—all I had was a small oil stove and some canned vegetables.

"The four families of the camp lived as one. We didn't have modern conveniences, but the Eskimos didn't miss them and I eventually forgot all about them.

"The boys ate well. I couldn't roast anything, but I had plenty of meat to fry over my little oil stove. It's surprising how good fried seal liver and onions with canned vegetables can be.

"Narwhel, a small whale, was one of our favorites. We never touched the meat. The Eskimos fed that to the dogs. But the skin was wonderful boiled or fried. For fish we had Arctic char. It was just like salmon when fried. We didn't have any bread, but I made bannock from flour, lard, baking powder and raisins."

silage and only slight loss from mould.

Used In Fall

Mr. Brown has also had extensive experience with grass silage, but has confined its use to the late summer and fall when pastures declined. He suggested that the average farmer might profitably consider custom cutting and ensiling, the plan he has been following.

Claude Kennedy's contribution to the discussion was mainly his experience as custom operator in Victoria county. Mr. McAlpine has been steadily using grass for only four years. He displayed a simple device for measuring the moisture content of grass.

Variety of experience injected a great deal of interest into this discussion, and the rural audience, filling the temporary lecture hall to standing room followed raptly the group of speakers for an hour and three-quarters.

Most of the crowd remained for the illustrated talk on the selection of grasses and clovers for pastures by Doug Parks of Kemptville Agricultural School.

The Thursday afternoon program left an impression that the panel discussion feature would likely be continued in the future if the Spring Show becomes, as planned, a permanent feature with Peterborough as headquarters.

Admits Killing Family

TRENTON, Mo., March 28 — (AP)—Officers said a 61-year-old man admitted setting a fire Thursday that took the lives of his wife and teen-age daughter. Wordson H. Myers said in a signed statement he could not explain why he poured gasoline on a bedroom floor and ignited it.

Won't Return Airmen

BELGRADE, March 28 (AP).—Yugoslavia has bluntly rejected Romania's demand for the return of five Romanian airmen. In a note to the Romanian Embassy on Thursday Yugoslavia said the five fliers had been granted asylum in acordance with international law. The refugee fliers said they fled their country in an army plane two weeks ago to escape "intolerable, living conditions" and Russian domination.

Housewife Turns Red

LONDON, March 28 (Reuters). —A 38-year-old British housewife turned a bright shade of red after being bitten on the hand by a kitten—and was probably the first victim here of "cat scratch fever" which is common in France. In the medical magazine The Lancet, Dr. Oliver Garai says the woman was ill for more than two months, and the fever was almost certainly caused by an unknown virus.

Broadcast From Ship

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 28 (AP)—The seagoing Voice of America, aboard the 5,600-ton Courier, arrived Thursday at Laguaira, first stop on a Caribbean shakedown cruise. U.S. Ambassador Fletcher Warren and Venezuelan officials will broadcast an hour-long program today. The ship then will go on to other Latin American ports before heading for the Mediterranean to send broadcasts over the Iron Curtain.

Carry More Insurance

ALBANY, N.Y., March 28 (AP) —After June 1, young owners of "hot-rods," jalopies and other motor vehicles must have more liability insurance in New York State. Governor Dewey signed a bill Thursday providing for the added protection to the public from car owners under 21 years of age. The measure boosts from $9,000 to $10,000 the coverage that must be carried by the young drivers for injury to one person and from $10,000 to $20,000 the amount for injuries to two or more persons.

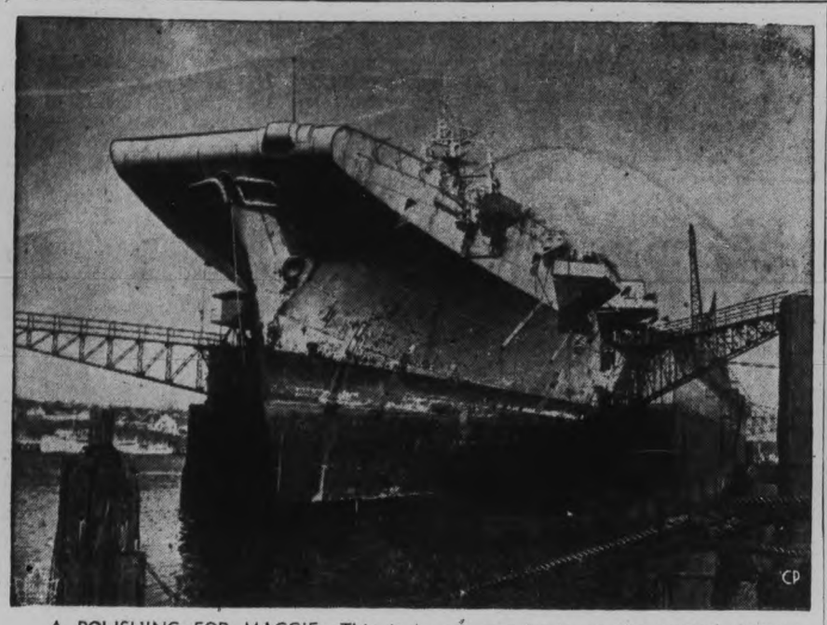
J. E. Ayrhart Charged With Theft Of $65,200



A POLISHING FOR MAGGIE—This is Canada's only capital warship, the 18,000-ton carrier Magnificent. It is shown in Halifax drydock with the dock raised so work can begin on the carrier's bottom. Each spring the Maggie is painted and refurbished throughout, then she sails away on a summer cruise.

Steelmen Ask For Talks With Murray

Move Spurs Hopes Of Averting Strike, Talks Start Monday

—WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP)—A sudden peace move by the steel industry spurred hopes today that a scheduled April 8 steel strike may be averted.

The industry's six largest producers arranged to begin meetings Monday in New York with C.I.O. President Philip Murray, head of the United Steelworkers of America.

The fact that the bid for the meetings came from the companies and that they are willing to take the unprecedented step of bargaining as a group with the union seemed promising.

This indicated possibly the industry had been passed the word that the government was ready to give it the price relief industry has said was needed before it could make a wage deal with Murray for 650,000 basic steelworkers.

Murray is standing fast on the basis of Wage Stabilization Board recommendations calling for a 17½ cent pay boost, plus other concessions, including the union shop. Only 12½ cents of pay boost would apply right away, with 2½ cents on July 1, and another 2½ cents next Jan. 1. The workers now earn about $2 an hour.

The steel industry has claimed it will take a $12-a-ton price boost to pay for this but government officials have figured it would take $4 to $5 a ton. Officials have said the industry has only $2 a ton coming under existing price rules.

FORMER MAYOR of Campbellford J. E. Ayrhart who pleaded not guilty to 10 charges of theft involving $65,200 in Montreal court Friday. He was mayor of Campbellford in 1946 and 1947 and again in 1950 and 1951.

Says Innocent Of 10 Charges Out On Bail

Business Man Lays Charges In Montreal Against Ex-Mayor

MONTREAL, March 29. (CP)—J. E. Ayrhart, 54, mining prospector and former mayor of Campbellford yesterday pleaded innocent to 10 charges of theft involving $65,200.

Preliminary inquiry was set for Wednesday and the accused was released on $950 bail.

The complaint was signed by Jean Philippe Toupin, a business man of St. Johns Quebec. No details of the alleged thefts were given.

Mr. Ayrhart is a prospector of long standing and was recently reputed to be a multi-millionaire and business magnate.

In 1945 he returned to Campbellford and decided to settle down in the town. In the following weeks he acquired timber rights, a sawmill, planing mill, lumber yard and a large hardware store with $100,000 stock.

He located an unoccupied factory building and secured a tenant.

Ayrhart by this time was a great Campbellford booster and his interests continued to grow in his home town. He was elected mayor and served four years until his interests in Montreal forced him to vacate the chief magistrate's chair.

In 1939 Ayrhart wielded a pick and shovel in Toronto. Then he enlisted and served until April, 1940, when he was discharged on medical grounds.

In March, 1944, he struck into the bush with his partner Eddie Alford and $1,000 grubstake. In less than a year they emerged as millionaires after a succession of strikes in Tiblemont, Figuery and Duverney townships. They incorporated Goldvue, Duvernay, and later Doris Yellowknife companies.

Canada To Harness Atomic Power Within Five Years

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, March 29. (CP)—A Crown company will take command next week of Canada's atomic effort, empowered to map plans for what has been described as "greatly-increased activity" in this vital field. The big target is the harnessing of the atom for power, something Dr. C. J. Mackenzie — Canada's Mr. Atom—sees coming within the next five or 10 years. The shift in command will come Tuesday, April 1, with a minimum of fuss and formality. However, it is an important milestone in the 10-year Canadian courtship of the atom. It means the greatest expansion in Canada's atomic program is beginning to take shape.

With work already started on the new Chalk River reactor or nuclear furnace, Dr. Mackenzie says he now will be able to devote himself full-time to "preparing for the greatly-increased activity" that will swing into full stride when the reactor is completed within the next two years. The increase in activity, he told a reporter, is already "coming along rapidly."

On Monday Dr. Mackenzie will step down as president and chief executive officer of the National Research Council, the government's big scientific organization which has been directing Chalk River.

On Tuesday he will go to work as head of the new Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., the crown company which is taking over direction of Chalk River, 125 miles north of Ottawa. He will move out of the big, handsome N.R.C. headquarters and set up shop a few hundred yards away in the headquarters of the Atomic Energy Control Board—which he also heads.

Dr. Mackenzie has been the over-all boss of Chalk River and will continue in that role. The big difference is that he now will have no other duties.

Brilliant Chemist

The new N.R.C. chief is Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, a brilliant, internationally-known chemist rising from the post of vice-president.

Dr. Mackenzie will continue to head both the key bodies in the atom effort. One is the control board, the top advisory body for

Coldest Blizzard In 36 Years Lashing Europe

LONDON, March 29 (CP)—The coldest spring blizzard in 36 years lashed the British Isles today and snow and cold gripped most of Europe.

Shipping in the churning English Channel was virtually at a standstill. A number of small boats sent out distress signals.

Road and rail transportation in Southern England was blocked in many places by drifts piled as high as two feet. Three double-decker buses overturned on icy roads but no deaths were reported.

Air transportation into London was slowed. One plane from the United States was five hours late after bucking gale winds.

Mid-Atlantic gales delayed the 13,000-ton liner Parthia, due at Liverpool today from New York. She was expected to dock tomorrow morning.

Maximum temperature in London Friday was 36 degrees Fahrenheit, lowest for the date since 1916. The mercury dipped below freezing in most of Southern England early today.

Weather observers gloomily predicted more of the same for the next few days. They blamed a cold front sweeping across Northern Europe and Scandinavia from the Siberian "ice-box."

March, which entered like a lamb, roared out like a lion in other countries, too.

A blizzard swept most parts of Holland, threatening the endless acres of tulip bulbs which were just beginning to bloom.

Strong winds and heavy snow were reported in Belgium and Germany. Moscow radio said the Russia capital had its deepest snowfall in 10 years.

Ontario Seeks To Control High Lake Levels

TORONTO, March 29 (CP). — The Ontario Legislature hopes to find means of controlling floods and high water levels along the shores of the Great Lakes.

The Legislature Friday appointed an 11-man three-party select committee to study the problem and report next year. Its work is expected to parallel that of a similar investigation announced this week by the Federal Government.

Premier Frost, in moving for appointment of the committee, admitted the province has no jurisdiction over the international lakes. The committee's job would be to "obtain the best advice we can," find out what controls are exercised by states bordering the lakes and recommend any action that can be taken to control fluctuations in the lake levels.

At the same time Mr. Frost said the committee would not be concerned with relief to flood victims of recent storms along Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

Immediate Aid

In reply to Opposition demands that the province give immediate aid, the Premier said assistance is available from Ontario wherever the Federal Government declares an emergency.

Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver said Ontario had sent $200,000 to Winnipeg flood victims and "should not shove off to one side the responsibility of our own people."

Arthur Reaume (L-Essex), Mayor of Windsor, said homes at Windsor and nearby Riverside were "actually floating away."

A second select committee also was set up to study the operation of election laws passed last year, in the light of last Noember's election. It also will meet between sessions.

With the two committees set up Friday, the Legislature will have four groups of members meeting between sessions. Committees were appointed earlier to study rent controls and a new companies act.

Premier Frost reasserted his policy that the government will not pay cash relief to those at present unemployed. The question was raised by Mr. Oliver, who referred to a brief presented earlier in the day to the Premier by a delegation from the self-styled Union of Unemployed Workers.

The Premier said unemployment was mainly due to Federal credit restrictions.

"The Federal Government took direct action to stop production in certain industries," he said. "Why not then extend the provision of unemployment insurance to take care of workers laid off?"

Florida Jury Asks Lemay Appear At Inquiry Into Wife's Disappearance

KEY WEST, Fla., March 29. (AP)—What really did happen to Huguette Lemay, the young Canadian beauty who vanished so mysteriously in the Florida Keys? A Monroe County grand jury believes she may have been killed and would like to have her husband George, a 26-year-old Montreal real estate dealer, appear as a voluntary witness "and waive immunity when so doing." The 18-man jury feels this "could materially aid in the solution of the alleged disappearance."

(In Montreal, however, Lemay said in a statement to the press he has decided not to return to Florida. He said the decision was made after consultations with his lawyers and other advisers. It added that he might make a further statement later.)

Mrs. Lemay, 21, petite, brown-haired and French-speaking, was fishing with her husband on a bridge on the overseas highway between Miami and Key West the night of Jan. 4.

George said she was cold and went back to their convertible to put on warmer clothing. The distance was between 100 and 150 yards. It was dark and swift water swirled under the bridge.

Never Returned

The husband said she did not return and that he never saw her again. Police searched for weeks under the direction of sheriff's deputy James O. Barker. Her brother, Raymond Daoust, a Montreal lawyer, and a private investigator, joined her husband in the hunt for three weeks.

The jury began its probe March 21. It heard testimony by investigating officers and others and drove out to Tom's harbor bridge No. 4 where the couple had been fishing.

The jury reported Friday that testimony indicated "Huguette Lemay may be dead, and if dead, she met death as a result of an act of violence."

"It is the opinion of this body that Geoorge Lemay, husband of Huguette Lemay, could materially aid in the solution of the alleged disappearance of Huguette Lemay if he would voluntarily appear as a witness before this body and waive immunity when so doing."

Lad Dies In Fire

VAN NUYS, Calif., March 29 (AP)—A four-year-old boy was burned to death in a dog house Friday while his mother, unaware of the tragedy, watched as neighbors put out the fire. Firemen called to the home of F. H. Cousins found the body of James Cousins, who had gone outside to play after his afternoon nap and crawled into the dog house.

Pool On Secrets Of H-Bomb Said Successful

LONDON, March 29 — (CP)—Britain's atomic chief was reported today to have met some success in attempts to arrange for pooling of British and American atomic secrets, including the projected H-bomb.

Sir John Cockcroft head of Britain's atomic research establishment, has spent two weeks in Canada and the United States, holding discusions aimed at overcoming the difficulties preventing renewed atomic co-operation.

The London Daily Graphic declares that the secrets of the hydrogen bomb will be revealed to Britain by the U.S. under a "new plan" for exchanging information.

The Conservative Daily Mail, while less definite, says "it seems likely, once the barriers are removed, that there will be a free interchange, even including exchange of information on atomic weapons."

Expect Statement

The Mail adds that when Cockcroft, who sails from New York today aboard the Queen Mary, returns to London there will be further discussions and "it is expected that a detailed statement will be issued in London and Washington early next month."

The only recent official reference to renewed British-American atomic co-operation was made on Thursday when the Earl of Birkenhead, a government spokesman told the House of Lords that the two countries have been pooling their knowledge in research on atomic power for ships.

Commenting on the London newspaper reports, a Supply Ministry spokesman said today:

"Although such co-operation could be of great value, we have no information yet on what steps have been taken to bring it about."

He added that "it is difficult to see how a full exchange of information could take place without revision of the (U.S.) McMahon Act of 1946 which prohibits the exchange of atomic information

Ike Supporters Claim Victory

BANGOR, Me., March 29 (CP)—The supporters of General Eisenhower today claimed a victory in the campaign to win the Republican presidential nomination for him.

Maine's delegation to the party's national convention was chosen Friday and of the 16 votes, Eisenhower can be sure of nine and possibly 11. The other five are held by delegates supporting Senator Robert Taft.

Eisenhower's campaign chief, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts described the selection as a "notable and significant victory," while Taft said the outcome was "about what we expected."

Crossing Crash Kills Three

MATHESON, Ont., March 29 — (CP).—Three persons were killed early today when their automobile collided with a freight train at a level crossing a mile north of here.

Dead are Adrien Grenon, 26; his 21-year-old wife; and Jenny Jaworski, 17. All are from Ansonville, 20 miles northwest of this northern Ontario Asbestos centre.

They were on their way home from a dance.

Matheson is about 40 miles northwest of Kirkland Lake.

Provincial Constable Joseph Kavanagh of Matheson said both women were thrown out of the car by the impact. One fell beneath the wheels of the train and the other was crushed as the car flip-flopped along the tracks.

Grenon was pried from the crumpled car 80 feet from the crossing. Bits of wreckage were strewn more than 100 feet.

U.S. Firepower Up 50 Per Cent, Collins Reports

WASHINGTON, March 29 — (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins says the United States army has increased its firepower by 50 per cent over the Second World War and is making "superior weapons to those of the Soviets."

The army chief-of-staff told Congress the Korean campaign proved this superiority.

Collins said the American arsenal of weapons—from artillery to tanks—now would be "tremendously effective—against a mass Russian attack in Europe.

In the future, he said, "atomic artillery and guided missiles with and without atomic warheads will greatly enhance the power" of forces trying to hold back a mass assault.

Collins and other top officers testified last month before the House of Representatives Appropriations Subcommittee on army requests for $14,200,000,000 of new funds in next year's 52-billion-dollar military budget. Their testimony was released today.

Maj. Gen. G. H. Decker, chief army budget officer, said the army's share of the Korean fighting averages about $380,000,000 a month, even during the "twilight war".

He said the army cost was around $7,000,000,000 at the end of last year and probably would reach $9,000,000,000 by next June 30, if fighting continues.

The subcommittee also was told:

1. Army draft calls will jump to around 50,000 a month after July 1, more than triple the 15,000 scheduled for May. New recruits will be needed to replace between 600,000 and 700,000 inductees who will be released from service before June 30, 1953.

2. Anti-aircraft defences around key Americans cities and industrial areas have been more than doubled but are not yet sufficient, Collins said. However "our new rockets and missiles are showing great progress and will materially strengthen the defences of our cities against enemy air attacks."

Americans Ride Islands Of Ice

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP)—Three Americans rode a floating ice island on top of the world today while nine others, stranded in a thrust at the North Pole, awaited rescue.

Maj.-Gen. William D. Old, Commander of the Alaskan Air Command, reported to the Pentagon last night that an Air Force C-47 landed successfully March 19 on an ice island floating 60 to 100 miles from the North Pole.

Eight men made the landing but only three were left behind. The operation completes the first phase of a small expedition to set up a semi-permanent station to gather weather and scientific data.

Meanwhile, some 40 miles from the North Pole, a Navy RD-4 plane equipped as a flying Arctic laboratory damaged its landing gear on an attempted takeoff. The mishap left nine members of the Navy's "Operation Ski-Jump" stranded on the ice, but unhurt and well-stocked with fuel and provisions.

Teachers' Blacklist Illegal, Boards Told

KINGSTON, March 29 (CP) — Eastern Ontario school trustees were told yesterday that blacklisting of school boards by the Teachers' Federation is illegal.

Harold Wagner of Waterloo, vice-president of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association, told delegates of 26 boards of education to ignore blacklisting by the Ontario Secondary School Tteachers' Federation.

Delegates unanimously commended the Trustees' Association for its brief to the minister of education this week, calling for an end to the closed shop in the teaching profession. The brief objected to the fact every teacher must join the Federation.

Cayuga Joins Attack On Korean Coastline

SEOUL, March 29 (CP) — The Canadian destroyer Cayuga took part in an attack off the west coast of Korea Friday.

The Cayuga, participating in heavy attacks which hit Red positions, started a large fire with an attack on a boat concentration.

Also taking part were marine pilots from the United States carrier Bairoko whose planes strafed Red road and rail lines and gun positions from tree-top level.

The weekly Airforce summary, released today, said the U.S. Fifth Air Force lost nine planes over North Korea in the week ended Friday. Two were lost in combat with MIG-15 jets.

McGuire Charges Mosher 'Purge'

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — A feud within Canada's biggest transport union exploded Friday in a series of charges by James E. McGuire, expelled secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees C.C.L., against A. R. Mosher, veteran president of the C.B.R.E. and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

McGuire blasted the president with about a dozen accusations of maladministration and other counts, and said later he will press for the removal of Mr. Mosher from C.B.R.E. office at the Brotherhood's September convention here.

He said he had been kicked out of the C.B.R.E. by its executive board for insubordination in a Mosher-instigated "purge".

Late in the day, president Mosher issued a denial of the McGuire charges, saying they had "no foundation in fact".

For 'Paralyzing' Slap

Flynn Gets £5,000 Award

NASSAU, Bahamas, March 29 (CP)—Movie actor Erroll Flynn was awarded £5,000 and costs by a Bahamas Supreme Court jury Friday for the face-slapping Canadian millionaire Duncan McMartin gave him in Nassau bar.

Defence counsel A. F. Adderley indicated he would appeal the decision to the Privy Council.

Flynn, who sued for £80,000, said McMartin gave him a "vicious blow" on the face last March which aggravated an old back injury and kept him from filling a $200,000 movie contract.

McMartin contended the blow was "light and friendly."

The Canadian is the son of the late Duncan McMartin, one of the original owners of the fabulous Hollinger Gold Mines. He inherited a reported $10,000,000 from his father's estate.

After deliberating three hours, the jury came in with these replies to the chief justice's questions:

1. The jury members did not feel that the slap was either friendly or hostile.

2. The relationship between Flynn and McMartin was not so close as to justify a slap.

3. They believed the actor's spinal injury was aggravated by the slap.

4. They were not sure whether the spinal aggravation was solely responsible for Flynn's inability to fill a contract to make the picture, "Lydia Bailey."

After hearing the replies, and noting the doubt expressed in answering the last two questions, the defence lawyer claimed a verdict in favor of McMartin.

However, after further discussion the court allowed the jury to reconsider the last two questions. It returned with a decision that the slap caused Flynn to lose the contract.

Italian Workers Stage First Undersea Strike

GENOA, Italy, March 29 — (Reuters)—A gang of 38 Italian construction workmen, staging what is probably the world's first underwater strike, were locked in a concrete chamber 50 feet below sea level just off Genoa today.

The men, building a new pier, climbed into one of the underwater foundation chambers Friday when their employers turned down demands for more pay.

They have threatened to stay there until their claims are met.

Savings Double In Nine Months

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP) — Personal savings have doubled in Canada during the last nine months, Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Friday night.

He reported the increase as the Chamber approved a grant of $10,000 made to the National Council of Women last year to promote a thrift campaign. He said that if the increased savings were attributable to the campaign, then it was great success.

Julian Ferguson (P.C., Simcoe North) observed there had been a great move to accustom the people to higher taxes "and now we have got to spend $10,000 to tell them how to save."

"My gosh!" he exclaimed.

Recognize Batista

HAVANA, Cuba, March 29 — (AP)—Colombia, Costa Rica and Belgium recognized the Batista government of Cuba. Twenty-four nations, 14 of them in the America including Canada, now have recognized Batista.

Germ Warfare Survey

Iron Curtain Countries Doubt Charges

By The Associated Press

Soviet charges that the United States is waging germ warfare in North Korea and Red China are meeting in general with disbelief outside the Iron Curtain countries, an Associated Press survey showed today.

It is impossible to tell what effect the Soviet charges are having on the populations in the Communist countries. They get the Soviet side of the story.

One of the chief aims of the Soviets is to sell the millions of people in southeast Asia the idea that the Western Powers have no compunction against using germ warfare to further "Western Imperialism."

The United State and Britain demanded that the International Red Cross or the World Health Organization be permitted to send experts into Communist China and North Korea and report what they found. The Communists replied with a scornful "No."

British Foreign Office officials believe the Communist refusal to permit such inspection has blunted the effect of the Red propaganda on the minds of Asian peoples. But the officials admit that counteracting the "big lie" tactics of the Soviets is a tough task, and the Communists will have a victory even if they raise doubts in enough minds.

Newspapers in French-controlled sections of Viet Nam, where the French are heading the fight against the Communist-led Vietminh, view the germ charges as ridiculous.

Saigon newspapers have pointed out that the Chinese Communists killed off many of their best physicians in purges, are undoubtedly short of medical supplies and are undergoing epidemics

In India a top-level official summarized his government's reaction to the Soviet charges as "incredulous horror".

Some followers of Mohandas Gandhi, however, are inclined to give the Chinese Reds the benefit of the doubt until an inquiry is made.

Indonesia's press, concerned with a cabinet crisis, has paid almost no attention to the Communist charges.

Responsible observers of public opinion feel, however, that the constant Red reiteration of the charges has aroused "widespread doubts" among many Indonesians, who usually tend to be suspicious of western sincerity.

In western Europe, as expected, officials and the press—with the exception of the Communist organs—ridicule the Soviet germ war charges.

British officials and the press have hammered at the Red charges as baseless lies intended to win a propaganda victory in Asia. Official Italian reaction has been the same.

The French officials and U.S. embassy officials in Paris think the French public, as a whole, does not take the Red charges seriously. One leftist, non-Communist paper even has satirized the reports in a cartoon showing North Korean soldiers equipped with flit guns.

Crazed Killer Loses Freedom For Love, Escaped 2 Yrs. Ago

VANCOUVER, March 29. (CP)—Love of a 19-year-old raven-haired girl cost Killer Melville Wilkie his freedom Friday. And it was the girl who put the finger on him. Wilkie, 42, squat and dark, escaped from the Ontario Hospital at Penetanguishene, Ont., for the fifth time July 19, 1950. He had been committed to the hospital for the criminally insane for the arson murder of his wife and child at Owen Sound, in 1933. Police said Wilkie went to Winnipeg and took the name Andy McBeth.

PRETTY AND J.P. TOO — Pretty Margaret Dolmage, 22, has been appointed a justice of the peace for Waterloo County. She is the first woman to hold the position in Kitchener court office and it is believed she is the youngest J.P. in Ontario, if not in Canada.

In a boarding house there he met the dark beauty whom police identified only as Shirley. The two lived together and three months ago came to Vancouver.

Three days ago, police were tipped off that the couple were living in a one-room shack in Vancouver's squalid east end.

They went to make the arrest but Wilkie was not at home. When Shirley was told Wilkie's true identity, police said, she agreed to act as bait for a police trap.

Wilkie, knowingly, walked into the trap four times to try to persuade the girl to escape with him. Three times in a row the trap could not be sprung because police feared the girl might be caught in any exchange of gunfire.

Spotted Alone

The fourth time, Wilkie was spotted alone and the net fell on him. His car was overtaken after a 90-mile-an-hour chase through Vancouver streets and he surrendered meekly.

Ontario police are to fly here to return Wilkie to the hospital. His jailer said last night Wilkie had spoken only two sentences: "Please close the window. I have had pneumonia three times and I don't want to die in the city jail."

Wilkie drove up to his home Thursday and spotted an empty police car outside. But he decided not to run.

He telephoned and arranged a street-corner redezvous with the terrified girl. Two such meetings were held, the girl talking through the car window to Wilkie each time.

Police Watch

Armed police watched the meetings but made no move.

Late Thursday night, Wilkie drove up to th ehouse and the girl went out to the sidewalk to talk with him. He yanked her into the car and sped off.

The couple drove around for about two hours. She still refused to leave with him. Wilkie let her out a couple of blocks from the house.

Police spotters managed to pick up the trail and police cars screamed after Wilkie. They forced his car into the curb after a three-mile chase.

Neighbors said Wilkie, who ran a car repair business in his back yard, was "very quiet and respectable." He was "a darn good worker."

The girl was "slim, very nice, very reserved and very attractive."

The couple never entertained friends though the girl has several friends in Vancouver. Though they never entered the house, she used to talk with them out front.

P.C.V.S. Band Plays In Ottawa

P.C.V.S' concert band, under the direction of Albert Croasdale, has accepted an invitation to present a concert April 4 in Ottawa's Fisher Park High School.

This will be the first time in the band's five-year history that they have performed outside of Peterborough although they have become well known in other Ontario centres.

In the past the Ottawa high schools have presented band and choir concerts for the students on exchange basis with Ontario and United States high schools. The Fisher Park band will present a return concert at P.C.V.S.; no definite date has been set.

Mr. Croasdale said that the band, composing seven girls and 24 boys, will go to Ottawa with a large repertoire. He added that the program as yet has not been arranged; they're waiting until their arrival in Ottawa when they expect a large number of request selections.

Hope For More

"This is the first time the band has played an invitation concert outside Peterborough and we hope it's not the last," said Mr. Croasdale. "The visit will not only be entertaining but educational for the students."

Actually the visit will be two days, Friday and Saturday. Arriving in Ottawa at noon Friday the band will attend a luncheon with G. K. Fraser, (M.P.—Peterborough-West).

From there they will go to Fisher Park for the concert which lasts from 2:30 p.m. until 4.

The Saturday schedule calls for a visit to the parliament buildings and a sight-seeing tour of Ottawa.

The band will be travelling by charter bus and will be billeted with Ottawa high school students Friday night. The expenses will be shared by the P.C.V.S. band and Fisher Park High.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Two alarms were put in to the fire hall this morning. One was a chimney fire causing little damage to the residence of F. Lang, 685 Stewart St. And the other, a false alarm from the Mark St. box.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS

The funeral for Kam Lee, 232 Hunter St., who died Friday will be held from the Belleghem Funeral Home to Murray St. Baptist Church, Tuesday at 3 p.m. The Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Korean Peace May Mean U.N. Defeat

Chiang Feels Reds Would Misinterpret Possible Armistice

By BILL BOSS

TAIPEH, Formosa, March 29. (CP) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said Friday that "if the United Nations accepts peace in Korea in the Communists' meaning of the word, it will represent a defeat for the U.N."

An armistice is possible, said Nationalist China's president, "but from long experience with them (the Communists) I believe it would be interpreted by them as a U.N. invitation to strike elsewere."

Chiang, referred to in this Nationalist bastion as "The Gimo", gave his views on the Korean War, the Communist problem and world affairs in an exclusive interview with this reporter.

Chiang said his government's policy is unreserved co-operation with the West against the Communists and it recognizes that Nationalist China's return to the mainland must be part of a coordinated effort by all anti-Communist countries, But he also realizes this may mean years of preparation.

"But once it is started I believe the mainland can be regained from the Communists within three years," he said.

Chiang Confident

He expressed confidence that if his forces invade Red China the people will join them in a revolt against the Communist Peiping regime.

"Once we establish a grip and hold it for six months—which will inspire confidence among the people there—the rot worked by Communists will work as a self-liquidating process, helping us as effectively as our armies themselves. I am sure that 90 per cent of the people, once they see we are back to stay, will rise up to help us."

Chiang is so confident of his 360,000-man army that he believes he can launch an invasion of the mainland and help out on the Communist front elsewhere—if he is given the weapons and munitions.

"A limited offensive assault against the mainland" would draw off much Communist manpower "and keep them too much occupied either to resume hostilities in Korea or to increase activities in Southeast Asia."

"We could undertake such operations anytime," he said. "Otherwise, the only way to handle the situation will be to meet increased force with increased force."

N.Z. Jaycees To Use Gilt Haystack Needle

LONDON, March 29. (Reuters) —The Junior Chamber of Commerce in Napier, New Zealand, thinks 22 minutes and 15 seconds is a long time to take in finding a needle in a haystack.

It figures to improve on the time, set recently by a London nurse in a stunt launching the National Needle Arts Bureau Sewing Week in Britain.

The New Zealand haystack hunters plan to try the same competition to open a trade fair at Napier.

They will use a three-inch darning needle, gilded to distinguish it from ordinary needles.

The Winnah!

BUENOS AIRES, March 29. (AP)—The pro-government Writers' Union proposed Friday that the Argentine National Culture Commission award its grand prize for literature to Mrs. Eva Peron for her autobiographical "The Reason of My Life." The union said the book by President Peron's wife deserves the prize because of its "deep moral value" and other virtues.

Cancer Society Sets $500,000 As Target

TORONTO, March 29 (CP). — The Ontario Division of the Canadian Cancer Society has announced a campaign to raise $500,000 next month to help control cancer.

"We in Ontario have undertaken a heavy financial obligation as our part of the important health program of the Canadian Cancer Society," said E. S. Welch, division president. "But in so doing we are sharing in a program which has made Canada one of the foremost centres of cancer research in the world."

Quebec Loan-less

QUEBEC, March 29 (CP) — An unaccustomed air of serenity Friday pervaded city council, scene of many a stormy budget debate, as city fathers balanced their budget for the first time in 10 years without the aid of a loan. The city treasurer estimated revenues and expenditures would come out even at $9,083,120 for the next fiscal year starting May 1.

Nine Die In Crash

ANTANANARIVO, Madagascar, March 29 (Reuters). — Nine persons were killed and 14 seriously injured in the French island of Great Comoro, north of Madagascar, Friday when a truck crashed from a bridge and fell into a deep gully at Morini.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 29 (CP)— Prices were irregular but showing a better tone in moderately active trade Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Flax was the weak spot in the trade. Selling in oats, barley and rye was not on as large scale as in recent sessions. July and October flax dropped to new seasonal lows.

Export loadings of wheat included 220,000 bushels to the United Kingdom and 75,000 to the Republic of Ireland. Class 2 wheat and I.W.A. prices were down one-half cent.

and materials with any other country."

The lack of British-U.S. atomic co-operation has long been a sore point in Britain, partly as a matter of national pride and partly because of a feeling that mutual confidence should have flourished with the developpment of the Atlantic defence partnership.

If progress is being made now, two developments may have tipped the scales:

1. Prime Minister Churchill's announcement last month that Britain has produced the atom bomb.

2. Recent tightening up of Britain's internal security regulations which would give the U.S. more confidence that its atomic secrets would be safe in British hands.

Hold Lo Dolce Without Bail In O.S.S. Slaying

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 29 — (AP). — Carl G. Lo Dolce, accused by the Defence Department of participating in the wartime cloak-and-dagger slaying of a major in Italy, was arrested Friday and held without bail on a charge of being a "fugitive from the justice of Italy."

Judge John Knight of U.S. District Court, denied bail because of the "seriousness" of the case. He scheduled a hearing for next Wednesday.

The former army sergeant was taken into custody at his home in Rochester.

In Pittsburgh, the Italian vice-consul said he was awaiting word from his government before starting similar action against Aldo Icardi of Pittsburgh, accused of being Lo Dolce's accomplice.

The Italian Government wants to extradite Lo Dolce and Icardi, a former lieutenant, and try them for murder in the death of Major William V. Holohan, leader of a U.S. Office of Strategic Services mission behind German lines in 1944.

Judge Knight ordered the warrant for Lo Dolce's arrest at the request of the Secretary of State and on the basis of affidavits from the Italian Consul-General in New York and the Italian consular agent in Buffalo.

Lo Dolce and Icardi previously have denied the accusation of murder.

The Defence Department says the major was killed after he and Icardi argued over how much U.S. aid should be given to Communist and non-Communist bands of Italian partisans. The Department said Icardi felt that the Communis elements should get immediate help in fighting the Germans. Holohan favord holding up aid and investigating.

Time For Textile Strike Not Now, Howe Says

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)— Trade Minister Howe suggested Friday to a labor delegation that this is not a good time for a strike in the textile industry

He made the suggestion while the cabinet heard annual representations of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

Mr. Howe said he was not one to give advice to labor organizations. He felt, however, that it was not a good time to strike when the textile industry was not in a healthy position.

"I suggest you might string these negotiations with Quebec mills along a bit until you get a more healhy industry to strike against," he said.

'Candid' Sweet Spuds Dish At Truce Talks

PANMUNJON, Korea, March 29—(AP)—The atmosphere of frankness which prevails nowadays in the secret war-prisoner talks today invaded the armistice mess tent.

The "Panmunjom dining room" lunch menu listed such items as baked ham, chilled fruit and hot coffee.

Smack in the middle of the menu was this tasty dish: "Candid sweet potatoes."

Not Leprechauns

CARRIGTWOHILL, Ireland, March 29. (AP)—Incensed villagers decided Friday it isn't the leprechauns but hooliganism that has bedevilled Carrigtwohill the last two years. They voted to form a vigilante committee to aid police in tracing down those responsible for blocking the sewer system, poisoning wells, burning crops and cutting telephone wires.

Tough Germs

LONDON, March 29 (AP) — The Communists gave a new twist Friday night to charges that Americans are waging germ warfare in chilly Korea. The Red China's radio said the Americans are dropping insects "specially reared and conditioned" against cold.

Casualty Lists Thought Clue To Heavy Action

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — Canada's 25th Brigade is believed engaged in the toughest Korean fighting encountered in at least the last three months.

Army headquarters here agreed with that interpretation of a rash of casualty lists, but a spokesman said headquarters could not say what is going on.

The basis for the belief was the army's 99th casualty list of the Korean War, issued today, and the fact that it was the third in three consecutive days.

In those three days, headquarters reported 35 casualties, including nine men killed, 25 wounded and one injured in action. The spokesman said that indicates action tougher than anything since December.

The list embraces all three infantry battalions as well as supporting units, indicating that pretty well the whole brigade is involved. The battalions are the 1st Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and the 2nd Battalions of the Royal Canadian and Royal 22nd Regiments.

The action, during the armistice negotiations, emerges in the last weeks of Brig. John (Rocky) Rockingham's regime as brigade commander, Brig. M. P. (Pat) Bogert of Toronto is due to leave Canada within the next two weeks to succeed him.

It also comes at a time when many of the men who have been in Korea since last spring are set to come home or have already started home under the one-year abroad rotation plan. They are being replaced by fresh men and units from Canada.

The 35 casualties reported since Wednesday have included 15 members of the P.C.C.L.I., 10 of the R.C.R., five of the Royal 22nd, four artillerymen and one man from the armored squadron of the Lord Strathcona's Horse.

It has been the practice to announce Korean casualties promptly after next-of-kin have been advised. Since December, the casualty lists have been brief, often containing a single name.

The last previous fairly heavy run of casualties came in mid-December when headquarters announced 47—including only one man killed—in two days. The casualties total 737, including 139 dead, 532 wounded, 61 injured in action, four missing and one captured.

Alexander's Earldom Brings Out Oddity

LONDON—(CP)—Field Marshal Earl Alexander's reintroduction to the House of Lords was a notable occasion.

The patent and writ of summons which marked his earldom were the first of the kind signed by the new Queen—and the first to bear the signature of a Queen for more than 50 years.

Britain's defence minister was raised from viscount on resigning as governor-general of Canada. His new titles are Baron Rideau of Ottawa and of Castle Derg in the County of Tyrone, and Earl Alexander of Tunis.

The ceremony of reintroducing Lord Alexander to the House of Lords, necessary under a quirk of procedure, marked the first time within memory when everyone participating was associated with the Order of the Garter, most exalted Order of British chivalry.

Lord Alexander, his sponsors the Earl of Halifax and Earl Fortescue and the Duke of Norfolk who took part as Earl Marshal are all Knights of the Garter.

Also participating were the Garter King of Arms, Sir George Bellew, and the Black Rod, who is Usher to the Order.

Fete Commonwealth Teachers At Mayfair

LONDON, Mach 29 (Reuters)— Sixty-nine Commonwealth teachers, in Britain under an exchange program, were entertained at a reception at the Mayfair Hotel Friday night given by the National Union of Teachers.

The teachers, mostly women, are in London to attend an education ministry conference to be opened at the Imperial Institute tomorrow by Miss Florence Horsbrugh, the minister.

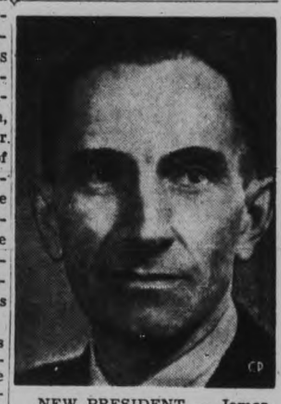
The teachers are from Canada, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa.

Gets Jet Wish

LOS ANGELES, March 29. (AP)—The oldest pilot in the United States, James W. Montee, 89, has had a burning ambition to fly in a jet aircraft ever since they were developed. On April Fool's Day he'll get his wish. Maj. Gen. Vernon Megee, commander of Pacific Air Fleet Marine Force, said permission to give Montee a ride in an F-80 Shooting Star has been granted. Montee, who owns his own light plane, flew from Los Angeles to the Marine field at El Toro, Calif., this week and passed his flight physical there.

Gov't Refuses Commitments On Labor's Appeals

OTTAWA, March 29. (CP)—Union chiefs representing about 1,000,000 workers, making their annual appeal this week to the Cabinet for legislation received no commitments from the government. On scores of individual demands by the spokesmen for the four central labor bodies, the Federal government either assured the customary "consideration," gave non-committal replies or turned down requests outright. The requests, ranging through a wide field of economic, social and other legislation, came from the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, with 90,000 and the Dominion joint legislative committee of the Independent Railway Brotherhoods, which speaks for about 40,000.



NEW PRESIDENT — James B. Harrington, 58, of Saskatoon, has been elected president of the Agricultural Institute of Canada. Head of the University of Saskatchewan's field husbandry department, he succeeds H. S. Fry, of Winnipeg, editor of the Country Guide. Prof. Harrington will take the chair at the institute's annual meeting in Ottawa June 23.

They asked for such things as reimposition of price-rent controls; broader and bigger old-age pensions; national health insurance; restrictions on immigration; measures to cut down unemployment; bigger income-tax exemptions, and action to prevent "dumping" of cheap foreign goods in competition with Canadian products.

The general answer of government spokesmen, in response to the basic request that living costs be brought closer into line with incomes, was that conditions in Canada are about as favorable as in any country in the world.

Hits Peak

Trade Minister Howe said he thinks the cost of living now has hit its peak in Canada and that it should be declining steadily from now on, though perhaps not as quickly as it went up.

He predicted reductions in the next two issues of the monthly cost-of-living index.

On the question of putting direct controls back on, the government rejected requests from the union bodies.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government does not believe they are workable now, and he and his ministers took the view that credit curbs and other indirect anti-inflation steps have done the trick.

On the major proposals for social security measures, the government gave these replies:

Can't Afford Schemes

1. Canada cannot now afford to pay higher old-age pensions at a reduced age with defence expenditures running at their present levels.

2. A national health-insurance scheme cannot be launched until there is more hospital space, though the government hopes that will be in the next few years.

In reply to various suggestions for cutting into the current high winter unemployment, the government indicated it proposes no direct measures, pointing out that heavier unemployment of two winters ago largely vanished with warm weather.

There was a general turn-down on suggestions that winter immigration be shut off. However, Labor Minister Gregg and Immigration Minister Harris promised continued close integration of the influx of newcomers with the demand for labor.

House Passes Bill Easing Crown Suits

TORONTO, March 29 (CP)—A bill to remove restrictions on legal actions brought against the Crown, as represented by the provincial government, was introduced in the legislature Friday by Attorney-General Porter.

It is similar to legislation passed last year by Nova Scotia and Manitoba.

At present the attorney-general must give permission for any legal action against the provincial government or its Crown corporations.

If the bill is passed, the Crown in Ontario may be sued as if it were an individual.

Most Bankruptcies

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — More businesses went bankrupt in Canada last year than at any time since the 30s, the Bureau of Statistics reports. Commercial failures totalled 1,399 compared with 1,303 in 1950 and 1,532 in 1934—the highest year on record. The year's defaulted liabilities were $25,912,000 compared with $24,872,000 in 1950 and $32,954,000 in 1933, the peak year for liabilities in the 30s.

Timber Wolf Seen On Belmont Lake

HAVELOCK, March 29 (ENS) — William Chase, of Belmont Lake, reported seeing a large gaunt timber wolf on Belmont Lake this week.

Mr. Chase was crossing over the ice on the lake to Big Island to get a wagon load of wood for sap boiling when he saw the wolf come off the island. He tried to head it off but the wolf headed away in another direction to a woods.

This si the first substantial story of wolf being seen this year in the area.

The key to the big future at Chalk River is the new reactor which will be far bigger and more powerful than the sensational NRX reactor which has been called the best in the world. The N.R.C. reports, in its most recent newsletter, that excavation and foundation work for it is "well underway."

Chalk River's staff now totals 1,300.

Atom Milestones

The N.R.C. newsletter listed these as the key milestones in Canada's atom career:

1. At McGill University 50 years ago Rutherford and Soddy "first announced the theory of atomic transformation and suggested that the atom contained vast amounts of energy."

2. In 1940 Canada, the U.S. and the U.K. began to exchange information on atomic energy.

3. In 1942 a laboratory was established at McGill and British, Canadian and other allied scientists went to work on practical use of the atom.

4. In 1943, Canada was asked to undertake study of "a new way to manufacture and separate a fissionable material." This was the stroke of luck which assigned Canada the heavy-water field of study and opened the way for building the best reactor or atom-splitter in the western world.

5. In 1944, work began at Chalk River in one corner of a 10,000-acre lot.

6. In 1947 the job was completed and N.R.C. took over.

Cabinet Doubts Gov't Plans Rule Transport

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP). — Federal Cabinet ministers Friday expressed doubt that the central government will assume control of any phase of highway transport.

Trade Minister Howe and Transport Minister Chevrier gave this view on the issue, under controversy for a long time among rail interests, the highway-transport industry and some of the provincial governments.

They suggested it might be impracticable to take control of interprovincial and international highway trucking, even though the Supreme Court of Canada ruled last year that these were in Federal jurisdiction and the Royal Commission on Transportation recommended this control.

The ministers were talking to the Dominion Joint Legislative Committee of the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods, making its annual submission to the government. One recommendation was that such control be assumed, and also that there be general uniformity in the regulation of intra-provincial road transportation.

Mr. Howe said motor transport is a "very difficult matter that should be controlled, but whether we can do it in a practical way is a matter that has not been solved yet."

Mr. Chevrier said he "doubts very much" whether it would be advisable to have international and interprovincial highway traffic controlled by Ottawa.

Other recommendations in the brief of the rail-union committee largely representative of the railroad running trades included:

1—Shortening to three days of the current nine-day waiting period for the payment of unemployment insurance benefits.

2—More Federal aid to education.

3—Increased income-tax exemptions.

4—Reimposition of price and rent control.

5—restricting immigration, except from Commonwealth countries and the U.S. during periods of seasonal unemployment.

6—More labor representatives on public bodies.

7—Higher old-age pensions paid at a lower age.

There were no commitments by the government on any of the points. It turned down some, including price-rent controls, and promised consideration for others.

2 Consolation Prizes

This week the Examiner reproduces four pictures in its baby photo-quote contest. To two of the winners go five dollars each and to the other two, who gain special mention, will go one dollar each.

This is the fourth week of the contest and to date more than 750 pictures of babies have been submitted. The pictures on the whole have been good, as far as straight baby pictures are concerned, but in many there has been no unusual expression on the baby's face. Other pictures have had to be discarded on account of the quote, which in many cases failed to tie-in with the expression on the baby's face.

Oil Trading Leads Market In Buying Surge

By DICK BAIDEN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto's booming western oil market surged to record highs this week as heavy buying brought memories of the hectic 7,000,000 shares-a-day trading of last October.

Oil trading again dominated exchange dealings as, with the exception of a brief mid-week decline, prices climbed sharply in steady buying.

The week's index gain of more than three points pushed the advance for the year to almost 20 points, or about a 17 per cent increase.

For the Toronto market's other sections—industrial, gold and base metal—it was again a quiet week. Industrials and base metals drifted irregularly lower while golds showed sporadic strength.

Professional observers tended to discount the week's movements in all sections except western oils. Oil stocks, they said, reflected the optimism of spring development prospects and reports. Base metal, gold, and to some extent industrial fluctuations, they claimed were affected by the approaching annual audit.

Trade To Balance

As the time for the yearly audit approaches, member firms buy or sell to balance their books and may thereby create daily movements which do not fit the general pattern of the market. Such movements are referred to by technicians as "sidewise" movements.

New York's Wall Street Journal commented: "The market is more or less in a backing and filling movement which Wall Street Conservatives believe will continue for awhile."

Toronto opened the week Monday with strong support as oils, base metal leaders and selected industrials swung upward. Industrials dipped in Montreal but papers were steady.

Golds bucked a steadily declining market Tuesday in Toronto as selected producers climbed sharply. Industrials continued to slip in Montreal but others eased. Thursday's late rally strengthened Toronto's western oils but industrials, golds and base metals remained weak. In Montreal, papers and industrials slipped.

Oils Up Sharply

Oil and industrials pushed sharply upward in Toronto Friday while golds and metals remained mixed. Papers and industrials were steady in Montreal.

New York trading was quiet Monday and prices made little headway. Steels led a slow decline Tuesday but prices steadied Wednesday. Rails and oils led a sharp rise Thursday and continued to advance yesterday.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials down 1.47 at 326.51, golds up 2.24 at 85.60, base metals down 3.64 at 186.80 and western oils up 3.56 at 145.20.

In Montreal averages, banks were down .23 at 29.75, utilities down .8 at 85.4, industrials down 3.7 at 207.9, combined down 2.8 at 167.0, papers down 10.63 at 735.87 and golds down .22 at 64.98.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $1.20 to $102.60.

Story Switch Reveals Playboy As Slugger

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (AP) —Anne Sterling Friday changed her story of having been kidnapped and beaten by four thugs. Instead, she said, she was battered by a Hollywood playboy at his home early last Monday.

The actress made the switch in approved Hollywood style—calling in reporters and issuing a statement naming her asserted assailant.

Police said Miss Sterling did not immediately ask for a complaint against her alleged assailant.

Her lawyer, Jerome Weber, washed his hands of the case.

"I am withdrawing as her attorney," said Weber, "because she disregarded my instructions not to talk."

Miss Sterling was treated for bruises and lacerations "from head to foot" following the altercation. At first, she said four men had kidnapped her from her apartment house, taken her to a lonely mansion and slugged her.

Peace Congress Visit

EDMONTON, March 29 (CP)— A group of 25 persons Friday visited the Alberta Legislature for three hours and asked members if they are in favor of "peace." Members of the group, said to represent the Canadian Peace Congress, refused to tell a reporter what they intended to do with the answers they had been given.

The Struggle Against The Hope Report

Recognizing that a busy politician and a customarily careful man must be permitted some latitude in the way he speaks, we are still somewhat startled to learn that Premier Frost says that greater advances are being made in education in Ontario than anywhere else in North America. He is reported to have said this while repeating his determination to have nothing to do with the Hope Report.

* * *

If what the Premier says is true, education on this continent must be in an extreme condition of debility, for education in Ontario has not had a first-rate full-time Minister, professionally versed in education, since the death of Dr. Duncan McArthur. Premier Drew, who might have been a fine Minister if that had been his only work, combined the portfolio with the premiership; otherwise the post has had no incumbents of intellectual eminence or administrative talent.

* * *

If education is a sausage-machine for scraping in every able-bodied child in the province and subjecting him to a curriculum which is an odd jumble of the advanced with the old-fashioned, the scientific and the merely superstitious, Ontario's educational system will pass. But to declare it the finest in North America—? Perhaps Mr. Frost was speaking hurriedly.

* * *

Unquestionably he was fighting against any mention of the Hope Report. Apparently his government fears that if they touch that controversial document, however gingerly, the Catholics in Ontario will turn them out of office at the next election. We have already said that we think that the Catholics would be prepared to compromise on the aspects of the Report which they object to. And we think that Catholic educationists must be amused by the spectacle of a Government which is scared green whenever they lower their brows.

Love And Money

From time to time warnings, jeremiads and groans are heard from people who feel that the estate of marriage is falling low in public estimation, but it is not often that we read so much common sense about what is wrong with marriage as in a recent brief which the Married Women's Association of Great Britain has submitted to a Royal Commission on Marriage and Divorce.

In the opinion of this body, which includes a large number of professional women, women lawyers, and women prominent in business and charitable work, the great stumbling-block in most marriages is the division of the family income; the wife does not get enough money which she can call her own. This is an old, and undoubtedly real, grievance. It may be said that women are in part to blame; they tend to regard money which they receive from their husbands as exclusively their own, whereas any money the husband has left is a common fund for both. However, it is undoubtedly a fact that a great many married women are deprived of self-respect because they never have any satisfactory sum of money for their own use. This is less often the case on this continent than in Britain, we venture to believe.

The Married Women's Association recommends "enormously increased attention to the vital matter of marriage preparation, which should be tackled from every possible angle—religious, ethical, social, educational and legal." Marriage preparation at present is haphazard, and often boils down to nothing of true value. But nothing can take the place of intelligence and frankness on the part of the couple who are approaching marriage; if they have not the foresight to discuss their prospects, and what they can do with the money they have, and what they really think about domestic life, no amount of advice from other people can do them any real service.

There are people today who laugh at the Victorians, and who appear to believe that Victorian suitors always proposed on their knees, and were accepted with blushes. But in our day we are romantic and soft-headed to a degree which would have outraged our Victorian forebears. The suitor who proposed on his knees had usually had a very frank talk about money with his girl's father beforehand, and he may have made a legal settlement on his wife, if he had any reserve of money. And the blushing maiden brought to her marriage a considerable quantity of household equipment—some of it of her own manufacture—and a training in how to conduct a home. Those people knew what they were doing, and they believed sincerely that marriage was for life. When the Married Women's Association asks for "a complete disclosure by each partner of pre-nuptial liabilities and assets" they are talking along the right lines. In our supposedly frank age we are remarkably foolish and mealy-mouthed about marriage.

Economic Trends In Ontario

The Ontario Bureau of Statistics reviews monthly the economic condition of the Province. These reviews, of only one province in an integrated country, and on a monthly basis, cannot by any means tell a complete story, but they do reveal trends. The report for the month of January (the latest report) shows that while there was a mild deflation in some phases, in general the level of economic activity remained high.

In January 1952, as compared with the same month a year ago, cheques cashed were up 11.8 per cent.; car loadings increased four per cent., and life insurance sales increased 2.3 per cent. Retail sales dropped a little. There was a substantial decrease in the sales of new motor vehicles, appliances and radios—a drop of 45.6 per cent in new car sales, compared with a year ago last January; of 17.2 per cent. in appliances and radios.

A significant item in the monthly review is that although the cost of living index for Canada as a whole was up 11 points from January 1951, the index of wholesale prices for January was up only 1.9 over January 1951. Since the wholesale price index often indicates the level which the retail price index will have a couple of months later, it seems possible that the cost of living index for March—when it is compiled—will show a sizable decrease.

A most interesting item in the review is the index of farm prices of agricultural products in Ontario. That is an index of the prices which farmers actually get for their produce. This stood, in January last, at 307.8. The figure 100 represents the average of 1935-39 prices in Ontario. Therefore, in January 1952, Ontario farmers were getting three times as much for their produce as in an average pre-war month. From the farmers' point of view, this compares very favorably with the cost of living index, which has not quite doubled; it stood at the end of January at 190.8.

Personal Responsibility In Cases Of Cancer

We have been impressed by some words of Dr. R. K. Magee's, spoken when he addressed the Ontario Medical Association's committee on cancer. Stressing the fact that if an early diagnosis could be made, many cancer patients might expect to be cured, Dr. Magee emphasized that it was the responsibility of the ailing person to go to his physician as soon as he thought that anything was wrong with him. We may judge how important this is, for doctors do not encourage people to visit them needlessly; there are far too many hypochondriacs eager to chat about themselves, for that. But there is a difference between nebulous aches and pains which may spring from a dozen causes, and those disturbing symptoms which are now widely known, and which may be early signs of cancer.

However, the world is full of people who fear to know the truth. If they suspect that anything is amiss with them, they do not seek advice; they hope that in time the symptoms will disappear by themselves. They are not easy in mind while they wait for this to happen; they are often disturbed, even terrified. But they fear to know the truth, and they fear to hear the dreadful word spoken by the doctor. Often their delay allows time for a small thing to become a big one. And yet, if they could become more courageous, they might easily find that what they feared was without grounds, or that they indeed had cancer, but could also be cured of it.

It is no small task to root fear out of the human heart. But we must not hope that medical science will find a cure for cancer, if we are not prepared to give medical science whatever assistance lies in our power in fighting cancer. We must do our utmost to think less fearfully about this disease which, dreadful as it is, cannot now be considered the hopeless death sentence which it was even a quarter of a century ago.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Egyptian smugglers are reported to be exporting precious stones in bananas. Considering the hardness of bananas themselves when exported, the gems must be inserted in them with a diamond drill.

An English anthropologist, visiting Hollywood, says that American women are too dominant in their love lives. Oh, come, professor, there are few of them so demanding that they won't take Yes for an answer.

Philip Murray, the CIO leader, has refused to meet with Charles Wilson, the U.S. Defence Mobilizer, because he is "a biased, uninformed big business man." It's always a source of wonder to the unions how some of these business dopes get into big positions.

BIBLIOMANIA

New Fiction, Notable Reprint

CATHARINE CARTER, by Pamela Hansford Johnson (MacMillan)

THIS NOVEL IS so solid a piece of work, so plainly a carefully composed and long-pondered project of its author, that it deserves very careful attention. The author is a lady who has written good and successful novels before this, as well as works of criticism which judicious critics have admired. Further, the book bears the blue band which proclaims it a choice of the Book Society—a body which gives its praise more carefully than most book clubs. And yet to the present reviewer this book seems a failure.

The reason is simple and basic. The author has written a story about a girl who, during the last years of the last century, rises to a position of importance in the London theatre; it is plain that the author knows a great deal about the history of the theatre at that time, and it may be that she knows too much, for too many of her characters and incidents are identifiable. They are very like real people, and like things which really happened, and yet they are not those things. This is not a roman a clef in which the reader may have the pleasure of guessing who is being written about; it is supposed to be a work of fiction. But to one reader, at least, it is not fictitious enough.

◇ ◇ ◇

ONE OF THE PRINCIPLE characters is Sir Henry Peverel, the leading actor of his day, and the lessee and autocrat of the Belvedere Theatre. The inspiration of the character is plainly Sir Henry Irving, of the Lyceum. (The very name, Peverel, hints at Irving's Cornish ancestry.) Peverel is tall, idiosyncratic, myopic, dry in wit, jerky in speech, has long black hair, won't be gainsaid by his underlings—in these externals he is Irving. But in character he is decidedly not Irving. Irving lived for the theatre, and he did not waste his time in love affairs with the junior actresses of his company. Irving was, in his fashion, a great man, and Peverel is a mountebank. As we read "Catherine Carter" we are constantly bothered by the fact that the author has used Irving's body to house her dull and uninteresting hero. It is the old story of the ass in the lion's skin.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHAT OF THE HEROINE, Catharine Carter herself? No doubt the author had some striking effect in mind when she drew this character, and perhaps I have been blind to it. But Catherine never becomes more for me than a fretful girl, given to the pouts. When, at the end of the book, she appears on the stage of the Belvedere as Cleopatra, and is assured by Peverel that she is worthy to stand there with him, I frankly don't believe it. If Peverel is Irving, Catherine would never have played a major part in his company; if Peverel is no more than Miss Johnson has made him, he would never have been manager of a London theatre.

◇ ◇ ◇

A NOVEL ABOUT historical characters may be a masterwork; a piece of good fiction may also be a masterwork. But a book in which fact and fiction are not so much mixed as feverishly scrambled must always vex some readers; people not especially concerned with theatre history may find this book more to their taste than I.

DUMB SPIRIT by Doris Hodges (McClelland & Stewart)

THIS BOOK PUBLISHED in England, is about a spaniel puppy which is the reincarnation of an ineffectual, common man named John Barton who was killed in North Africa during the war. The dog shows more spirit, intelligence and bravery than ever the man had done.

The book is subtitled "A Novel of Montreal". Its author is a Montreal woman who has been in the public eye there for many years. Although this is her first novel, its fluency and style show that she is used to manipulating written words. Her mixture of sentiment, sex, high life and low, show that she knows the ingredients of a popular novel. I expect that the book will have a large sale, particularly since its hero is not merely a spaniel, but one who feels and thinks and talks as a human. It is frustrating to the dog that he must act physically like one, embarrassing his human nature sometimes, and that when he tries to talk all that comes out is a bark.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE DOG WALDO (ex John Barton) gets around a good deal for a dog. He is owned by a Montreal millionaire and his wife, sees their friends, knows the secrets of their hearts, gets into high financiers' offices, becomes privy to big business deals, and even inserts himself into a rich and gaudy party given by the multi-millionaire competitor of his owner. The real, human hero of the book is handsome young Paul Sturt, whose abilities are not yet matched by great worldly success; but as the book ends, success is assuredly to be his. He is in love and engaged to marry an admirable Westmount debutante, and he has been offered a splendid new job by his boss's rich competitor.

◇ ◇ ◇

VIRTUE AND BEAUTY ARE rewarded, peccadilloes and unpleasant traits of character are tolerantly understood. The author's only cruel cut is to wipe from the face of the earth (oh! so deservingly) a besotted couple—in a car crash. The author is determinedly kind to her readers that she leaves two important threads of her novel dangling. We do not know whether or not Paul takes the fine new job (it might put him in an unpleasant light if he deserted his present employer for his competitor), and we are not told whether Waldo the dog dies or recovers. The fabric of the novel requires that he die, but that would be an unhappy end to the dear heroic fellow.

◇ ◇ ◇

SOME READERS MAY FIND the author's mild excursions into sophistication and artistic subtlety paltry, and her whimsy somewhat vulgar and sometimes disgusting. Her dog-sniffs into sexual irregularities have an unpleasant air. (Waldo is very knowing about such things and so male, so human, so adult that he can leer—as a rug-wetting puppy, mind you!—at a good pair of legs.) Other readers may be revolted by the fantasy of a man's spirit, mind, memory and senses being incarnate in a puppy. This reader considers the theme intellectually unpleasant and the treatment of it tawdry, mawkish and mirthless. The book suffers from halitosis of mind and fancy.

NOTES ON A CELLAR-BOOK, by George Saintsbury (MacMillan)

FOR SOME YEARS this most famous of all modern books about wine has been out of print; here it is again, and it is a real pleasure to welcome it. Saintsbury was a great man—a great critic of literature and a man of fine and expansive spirit. Among his other accomplishments, he was a careful eater and drinker, and this book tells about the wines he bought, and served to his friends, and drank himself, over a period of many years.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT IS NOT A BOOK, needless to say, for teetotallers. Nor is it a book for people who swig spirits in order to get drunk. It will please only the judicious, the truly temperate men. For wine is the drink of temperance; it is consumed usually in relation to food—before eating, while eating, and after eating. It is not pleasant or comfortable to guzzle wine, and only a fool drinks it to excess, for a wine hangover is a misery quite unlike the illness which follows too much spirits; the wine hangover is a fitting punishment for a glutton. Nobody with any regard for his comfort ever procures himself more than one wine hangover.

What is more, the appreciation of good wine is one of the continuing pleasures of life. Spirits are always the same; wine changes from year to year and from place to place; to study it is as engrossing as to study the moods of a variety of enchanting women. Wine is for civilized people.

◇ ◇ ◇

SAINTSBURY WAS SUPREMELY civilized. A learned, witty, genial man, he dearly loved to give good dinners, accompanied by good wines. In this wonderful—this golden, refreshing and delightful little book—he tells how he did it. It is sad to read what prices he paid for his wines, for he wrote before governments got into the wine business and decided to show the bootleggers what profiteering really can be, when competition is eliminated. But the book has the bouquet of a fine wine itself, and breathes the spirit of a seasoned, witty, discriminating host—George Saintsbury.

IN STEP

The Delicate Art Of Subtlety

(HALIFAX CHRONICLE-HERALD)

MODERN civilization appears to be ever on the look-out for new methods of easing life, for new ideas to solve the problems of harassed mankind.

The latest boon to the bedevilled is a recent announcement by the C.N.R. that it will issue gift certificates for train travel anywhere. To those irritable souls who are forever wishing others elsewhere this news must surely come as the balm of Gilead. How much more satisfying than the outdated advice to "Go to Jericho"—or elsewhere— will be the presentation of a gift travel certificate, carefully marked for transit to some remote spot such as Kelowna or Kamloops! And also how much more practical!

But a further beauty of the scheme lies in the graceful manner in which such a curt command as "Get out!" may be veiled. Even the most inherently suspicious relative, exhausting a too-long protracted visit, cannot but be charmed by the presentation of a tastefully decorated gift voucher. (And if previous experience of gift certificates is any criterion, the new vouchers may be decorated with anything from primroses to pullmans, from diesels to daisies.) So that even when the gift is discovered to be a one-way ticket (coach class) to Kicking Horse, the subject would still be too overcome with emotion to protest. With any luck, this stupefaction should last at least as far up the line as Moncton, by which time retreat would be no longer feasible.

As a painless method of dealing with painful situations, this seems hard to beat. But the C.N.R., not content with this, go still further to ease the path of the sportively-minded; they intimate that the donor may, over and above the ticket, specify an additional amount to cover meals on the train. The possibilities here for subtle suggestion and somewhat less subtle irony are breath-taking. To present a vegetarian with a food cheque which can be adequately utilized only by eating tenderloin steaks and cottelettes a la reine at every meal, and to imagine the resultant struggle between cupidity and principle, argues a mental cruelty which is sadistic in its refinement. But to present to a gargantuan appetite the price of a cheese sandwich for a day's travel is surely a legitimate way of saying: "You have eaten us out of house and home: now go, you human boa-constrictor, and fast."

If, as has been suggested, half the virtue in rudeness is to be delicately and subtly rude, then this announcement opens up a wide vista of technique.

Will there be queues at the ticket-offices on March 20, when the new certificates will be available?

Blue Moon

(The Hartford Courant)

The non-scientific fellow observes, now and then, that such and such a thing happens only once in a blue moon. But you can't even get away with that figure of speech now. Scientists, who come up with the darndest things, report the occasional appearances of blue moons. These blue moons are always a sequel to blue suns, and have nothing whatever to do with blue Mondays.

According to scientists at a meeting of the American Meteorological Society in New York, the last combination blue moon and the sun occurred in the summer of 1950. They were observed in Europe. This phenomenon was caused by Canadian forest fires. Microscopic smoke particles were carried across the Atlantic and acted as a kind of light filter, so that observers of the moon during that period saw it as blue.

Scientists say there is a possibility on another occasion, that different-sized particles may result in a green moon. We mention this in case anybody had in mind that figure of speech. Don't do it, because the minute you vow once in a green moon, science will start undermining the phrase. It's still uncontroverted that the moon is not made of green cheese. But we could be wrong.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God . . . All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made. (John 1: 1, 3)

◇ ◇ ◇

Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. They answered him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin . . . If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed . . . I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father . . .

Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it. (John 8: 31-34, 36, 38, 44.)

Letter To The Editor

STAYED ON THE SUBJECT

Sir: As justice due nearly 800 citizens of this county, I feel that it is nothing less than justice to report to the readers of the Examiner that, I had asked for a delegation of seven men to attend the County Council Meeting as a delegation to speak on their own particular line of work which dealt with timber in various types of work and what "Restrictions On Cutting Timber" according to a given by-law would mean to the people in general where such passing would be premature.

For reasons denied, those men had to be asked to stay at home and not attend. So it was incorrectly reported that I headed, had or a delegation criticized and opposed that by-law. I did not take or head any delegation. Of the selected delegation of seven men only four were there owing to sickness and pressing work. John Andrew Crowe was not asked by me to be a delegate but I did plead with the council to at least let him express his views and they did. He was not told to stick to his subject so he did wander from it.

My subject was "Don't Bite The Hand That Is Feeding You, Don't Fight The Hand That Is Paying You". That subject covers such a scope that there was no question that I did stay on it. As for the by-law I used it only as a basis. I do believe in modulation when speaking for I had extensive training in public speaking and act according to the crowd to whom I speak. There are bound to the deaf people among a group of eighteen men so why not use modulation?

It seemed depriving people of their Rights when men cannot be welcome in the house where their money pays the taxes and when those who pay none of those taxes be permitted even though they seek thousands of dollars from the tax payers who own and maintain that house; get a warm welcome from those in charge and hand over thousands of dollars belonging to the very people not welcomed in their own home.

My delegation was not wanted even though they asked only for their Rights while a city delegation that pays no taxes there were warmly welcomed when they went to ask for and did get thousands of dollars from the county tax payer.

I thank all who helped me to maintain the Rights of any citizen in this county in their own court house, on their own property, where deeds state "To Have And To Hold".

Last Presbyterian Precentor In Hastings Who Set Pitch With Tuning-Fork; Organ Installation Met With Opposition

By MRS. GERALD MARRYAT

Walter Renwick was the last Precentor in the Hastings Presbyterian Church. The first organ was introduced about 1874-5 during the ministry of the Rev. T. F. Fotheringham, M.A., and the first organist was Miss Jessie Clark.

The use of a tuning fork to set the pitch for congregational singing, with or without a choir, was considered old fashioned as the church added to its numbers, but the older element in the congregation clung to the old ways and there was often a distinct difference of opinion. However Miss Clark soon won the approval of all by her talented use of the new organ, and peace was restored. Miss Clark married Harry Morton

In the Cobourg-Sentinel-Star, May 31st 1951, the story was told of an old elder in Keene who was also a great curler. Although he was one of the bulwarks of the church he was soon to become a discordant note in the session, the majority of whom were in favour of buying an organ and organizing a choir to lead in the service of praise.

Opposed Organ

But notwithstanding his opposition an organ was installed, and on the first day of its use, the old elder, who had walked six miles to church, it being against his principles to use a conveyance, rushed from the church at the first strains of the new organ. The old precentor system was good enough for him.

He that laughs at his own jest mars all the mirth of it.

James Kelly: Complete Collection of Scottish Proverbs, 1721.

But, added the writer of the story, this old elder was also a good curler; he had learned to take defeat at many a bonspiel and soon he gave in and "his vibrant voice mingled with the choristers' voices and the mellow organ notes as the service of praise ascended from that sanctuary".

In St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, the change was made in 1872, and under the heading "Church Music", the newspaper of May 10, mentioned that "The members of St. Andrew's Church in this Town, at a congregational meeting — unanimously decided to introduce an instrument into the church for the purpose of improving and aiding the singing of the congregation."

Previously, in November, 1858, the Review had carried the advertisement—"Wanted—A Precentor for the Presbyterian congregation in connection with the Church of Scotland in Peterborough. Apply to the Rev. J. Douglas."

WALTER RENWICK, last Precentor in Hastings Presbyterian Church.

In Hastings church, Walter Renwick continued in the choir as leader. He was one of the early elders in company with John M. Fife, James Stewart and David Morrison and his early and untimely death cut short a life devoted to the betterment of the community in which he dwelt.

Renwick Family

Mr. Renwick came from Roxburghshire, 15 miles south of Edinburgh, near Melrose Abbey, where he was born in May, 1829, the eldest of William Renwick's thirteen children. Two families of Renwicks came out to Upper Canada by the same ship in 1846 and settled near Keene, where some of their descendants still live on the old farm, a mile and a half out of Keene toward Peterborough.

A boy of 18 when he reached Otonabee, Walter Renwick seems to have adopted the teaching profession and was teaching somewhere between Keene and Westwood years before 1855 when his first recorded school, No. 1 Otonabee, is listed in the returns of the Education Department. He taught there until 1861 and then moved to the Westwood school where he remained until July, 1867, when he moved back again into Otonabee and opened a store at Lang. He married Jane Morgan, third child of James Morgan, a pioneer in the Westwood district, and three of their children, Maggie, Carrie, and William, now of Billings, Montana, were born in Keene or Allandale and baptized by the Rev. Francis Andrews.

Early in the seventies Walter Renwick was principal of Hastings Public school, and many of the boys of that day lived to thank him for the firm foundation in mathematic and classics they owed to his skill as a teacher. The Fifth Class under him prepared pupils for a successful High School education.

The Renwicks lived in the big white frame house that used to stand at the foot of the Victoria St. hill; it was destroyed by fire during the tenancy of Ed. Mouncey. Owing to failing health, Walter Renwick gave up the Hastings school and took No. 12 Percy (Fleming's), hoping for easier work, but he had to give up completely in 1878. He died in 1882 and was buried in the new Hastings Necropolis, or Shearer's Cemetery, but later on, when the cemetery was given up, his remains were moved to the Trent Valley Cemetery. Mrs. Renwick died in Billings, Montana, in 1934.

Cultured Clark Family

Miss Jessie Clark was a daughter of Dr. R. W. Clark who came to Hastings before 1870. Belonging as she did to an educated and cultured family, Miss Clark and her sisters were of great assistance to Mr. Fotheringham, who was first minister of Hastings and Norwood when the Presbyterian Church was formed of the hitherto opposed factions. Her father, although not a pioneer in Hastings district was held in such high esteem throughout the entire countryside that a brief account of his life may be of interest.

A FROST OF CARES

My prime of youth is but a frost of cares,
My feast of joy is but a dish of pain,
My crop of corn is but a field of tares,
And all my good is but vain hope of gain:
The day is past, and yet I saw no sun,
And now I live, and now my life is done.

Chidiock Tichborne: Elegy, c. 1586.

Born at Leith, near Edinburgh, August 18, 1811, he had unusual advantages: his father was a surgeon in the Royal Navy, during the reign of George III, and he, himself, studied at Edinburgh University under such men as Dr. Robert Liston, the renowned anatomist; he had as a fellow student the discoverer of chloroform, James Simpson. A diligent student, Dr. Clark obtained his degree at the age of 21; he was admitted a Licentiate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Glasgow.

Desiring to see the world, he sailed for Canada in 1833, landing at Cobourg, where he lost no time in beginning his life-work. He settled in Seymour and his tales of hardship during the early days gave some idea of what pioneer doctors had to endure. His next move was to Whitby, where he enjoyed the esteem of rich and poor alike; but there he lost his wife, and could not bear to remain in surroundings which had become painful to him. He then went to western Ontario where another crippling blow—the loss of all his effects, instruments, medicines and books, by fire, caused him to turn his steps eastward, and he settled in Percy.

Finding, however, that his practice was extending northward to the growing village of Hastings, he moved here and lived in the double-brick house on the west side of the Victoria St. hill; his office was in the frame building on the present site of the Royal Bank. Here he practised for 20 years. He died in Norwood, where he had moved in 1890, on July 5, 1898, and is buried in the Trent Valley Cemetery beside his son John, who after serving in the store of William Roxburgh, went into business for himself.

The family of Dr. Clark was closely connected with Hastings Presbyterian Church.

MISS MARGARET FOWLDS AND MISS JESSIE CLARK. The latter was the first organist in Hastings Presbyterian Church.

Tax Queue: "Yougotta Fillouta Form"

By BON VIVANT

For some time past I have been embroiled with the bureaucrats of the City of Toronto and the Province of Ontario. I am as a babe in such matters, and despite the rebuffs received from this gentry over the years, approach such things as motor driving licence duplicates, and taxes, with the assumption a simple question merits a simple answer. In the realm of bureaucracy, I'm regretful to state, such is not the case.

My first involvement was with the Commissioner for Taxes, who has his lair in Toronto's City Hall. At one time, in the remote past, I attained to the dignity of an office. It had my name on the door in gold lettering. As a tenant of this I was considered a businessman. It is an amusing thought, but nevertheless I was billed for something called business tax. I being, if not in thought at least in surroundings a businessman, an accountant who sought to keep me informed of how much money I lost each week told me I must pay this tax. This I did.

Time passed. I became a scribbler and can now pursue my trade in odd nooks and crannies, hence I gave up my office and pretensions in the business world. I find I should have taken the Commissioner of Taxes into my confidence, something I failed to do, and he is pretty shirty about my neglect. After sending a number of notices to my one time address, and getting them all back marked, "Not Known Here", he put his spies to work and unearthed my telephone number.

Have you ever tried to explain something to a Commissioner of Taxes over the telephone? A nerve-racking and fruitless job let me tell you. When I answered my phone, and treated the unknown and unseen person at the other end to a dulcet, Hello, I was blasted.

"You owe the City of Toronto taxes", a voice roared, "and don't think sending back notices marked 'Not Known Here' will get you out of it."

"Who is this speaking?" I quavered.

"Let me tell you we are on to you fellows who keep on the move to avoid their just debts," the snarly voice went on.

"I think you have the wrong party," was my trembling reply to this sally.

A man without learning grows old like an ox; his flesh grows, but not his wisdom.

The Dhammapada, XI, c. 100

"When did you give up business, and for what reason?" my unseen interrogator went on, "and why didn't you notify this department?"

"So's your mother's moustache", I shrieked, by this time having recovered my courage and getting peevish.

"What did you say? You can't talk to City Officials that way, and you'd better come down here and explain this before we take action," the churlish conversationalists continued.

"No spika da English!" I yelled, as my parting shot before hanging up.

My encounter with the Ontario Department of Highways was equally unrewarding, but at least I do not face a debtor's prison as a result. I am contemplating a journey, and it was necessary for me to procure duplicate of my licence to drive a motor vehicle, in order that I might be judged a fit person to control such things as passenger motor cars, invalid wheel chairs, electric, internal combustion and hand operated, road tractors, road rolling machinery and steam locomotives. A rather mixed bag, but if I get my foreign licence, these things are all included in it.

To this end I visited the Highway Department licensing bureau at Queen's Park. After standing in line until my feet hurt, and my knees began to sag, I finally reached an iron grill, behind which an employee of the Department was incarcerated.

"I would like a duplicate of my motor vehicle operator's licence," I told him.

"Yagotta filloutda form," quoth the prisoner, shifting his cigarette across his mouth, rolling his gum, and letting me enjoy some second-hand smoke, flavored, I think, with Old Mr. Boston.

"I think you're mistaken," I pleaded. "The last time I applied for a duplicate, my current licence was taken and copied."

"Yagotta filloutda form," was the answer.

Having obtained a form, and filled it out, I again stood in line, until a kindly St. John's Ambulance man, who happened to pass, noted my plight and built a small frame-work around me for support. When at long last I again faced my little-chum-in-the-cage, I handed him my form.

"Jahava licence in fifty-one," he asked.

"Yes. If you will take note the reason for this application is that I want a duplicate of my licence, not a replacement. I hope to travel in foreign parts and must have a duplicate to obtain an operator's licence in the land I propose to visit," I explained.

"Whyjunya say so", he said glaring at me balefully, and treating me to some more cigarette smoke, this time with peppermint flavor, "Fifty-cenz, and standover there."

"Just mail it to the address on the form," I replied, as I forked over my fifty-cents, in the full knowledge another session as a standee would be my last.

As I turned from his cage I heard him growl, inaccurately as it happens: "Rich fella, thinks I got nothin' to do but wait on him and his foreign travel".

I slunk away, under the hot glare of other standees who made it clear they felt the same as the clerk did about "foreign travel", and felt quite nervous as I dodged past two Provincial Police Constables guarding the door, and exchanging "I saids" and "she saids."

Famous Deaths—III.

Nelson

It had been part of Nelson's prayer that the British fleet might be distinguished by humanity in the victory which he expected. Setting an example himself, he twice gave orders to cease firing upon the Redoutable, supposing that she had struck, because her great guns were silent; for, as she carried no flag, there was no means of instantly ascertaining the fact. From this ship, which he had thus twice spared, he received his death. A ball fired from her mizzen-top, which, in the then situation of the two vessels, was not more than fifteen yards from that part of the deck where he was standing, struck the epaulette on his left shoulder, about a quarter after one, just in the heat of action. He fell upon his face, on the spot which was covered with his poor secretary's blood.

Hardy, who was a few steps from him, turning around, saw three men raising him up.—'They have done for me at last, Hardy,' said he.—'I hope not,' cried Hardy.—'Yes,' he replied; 'my back-bone is shot through.' Yet even now, not for a moment losing his presence of mind, he observed, as they were carrying him down the ladder, that the tiller ropes, which had been shot away, were not yet replaced, and ordered that new ones should be rove immediately:—then, that he might not be seen by the crew, he took out his handkerchief, and covered his face and his stars.—Had he but concealed these badges of honour from the enemy, England, perhaps, would not have had cause to receive with sorrow the news of the battle of Trafalgar . . .

An hour and ten minutes elapsed before Hardy could come to him. They shook hands in silence; Hardy in vain struggling to suppress the feelings of that most painful and yet sublimest moment. 'Well, Hardy,' said Nelson, 'how goes the day with us?'—'Very well,' replied Hardy; 'ten ships have struck, but five of the van have tacked, and show an intention to bear down upon the Victory. I have called two or three of our fresh ships around, and have no doubt of giving them a drubbing.' 'I hope,' said Nelson, 'none of our ships have struck?' Hardy answered 'There was no fear of that.'

Then, and not till then, Nelson spoke of himself. 'I am a dead man, Hardy,' said he; I am going fast:—it will be all over with me soon. Come nearer to me. Let my dear Lady Hamilton have my hair, and all other things belonging to me.'

Presently calling Hardy back to him, he said in a low voice, 'Don't throw me overboard:' and he desired that he might be buried by his parents, unless it should please the King to order otherwise. Then reverting to private feelings: 'Take care of my dear Lady Hamilton, Hardy: take care of poor Lady Hamilton.—Kiss me, Hardy,' said he. Hardy knelt down and kissed his cheek: and Nelson said 'Now I am satisfied. Thank God, I have done my duty.' Hardy stood over him in silence a moment or two, then knelt again, and kissed his forehead. 'Who is that?' said Nelson; and being informed, he replied, 'God bless you, Hardy.' And Hardy then left him—for ever.

CAPITAL LUNCHEON CAKE THAT WILL KEEP SIX MONTHS (and save the trouble of frequent Making).

TAKE two pounds of flour, one and a half pound of treacle, half an ounce of ground ginger, quarter of a pound of sugar, quarter of an ounce of ground caraway seed, and candied lemon-peel, cut very small. Mix all well with the flour; warm the butter, and mix with the rest; then warm the treacle; dissolve in a little boiling water a large teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, and stir it well into the treacle; add to the other ingredients; work all well together, and bake in a buttered tin two hours, in a rather slow oven. Wives whose husbands are professional men, having frequently only time to take a snack and a glass of sherry in the middle of the day, will win admiration by making these cakes, and sending them to their husbands' offices.

MOTHER: "No, George, you must divide the cake honorably with brother Charlie." George: "What is 'honorably' mother?" Mother: "It means that you must give him the larger piece." George: "Then, mother, I'd rather Charlie should be honorable."

Get Tools Ready For Spring Lawn Repair

By HENRY FREE NEA)

A surprising number of spring-care lawn inquiries come daily to the old gardener. This year should permit the home-owner to get going early on his lawn because there is little frost in the ground and other than infestations of snow mold lawns are in pretty good shape.

Some poet once wrote "at the first peep of the crocus or the sound of the woodpecker, it's time to get busy on the lawn."

Do you have the sturdy, sharp-toothed garden rake that you will need to scarify those bare spots? A spading fork is good to open up hard, compact areas. A comb-type rake is handy to clean the lawn. What about a spreader for applying seed and food evenly and without waste?

If you can borrow a roller when you return the neighbor's snow shovel, all well and good. If not, you may want to buy one but be sure to get a water ballast type as most others are too heavy.

Unless oil is sandy or gravelly it may be harmed by heavy rolling. A roller is NOT to be used to level a rough lawn—only to firm heaved grass roots back into the soil.

Removal of the fall and winter accumulation of leaves and other debris is one of the first jobs after the ground thaws. At this time patches of dead crabgrass should be raked out. If general feeding and seeding have not been done before, they should be next in sequence.

The amount of seed required varies from three to five pounds per 1000 square feet, depending upon thickness of turf and the amount of bare places.

When all the frost is out of the ground, the surface fairly well dried and seeding completed, rolling is in order. A water ballast roller only partly filled avoids packing or puddling the soil. A firming of the surface is all that is desired.

Some lawns need lime no oftener than every third or fourth year and a soil test should be made to determine the amount to be applied. The maximum application at one time is five to seven pounds per 100 square feet. Raw, ground agricultural lime is the best form, but if hydrated lime is used, reduce to three to five pounds.

Be sparing in your use of a roller. Ill-advised rolling will pack the earth and ruin your lawn.

Many gardeners recommend fertilizing the lawn while the ground is frozen, but a later application is all right. The important thing is to put on the proper nutrients to stimulate growth and color, and to force deeper rooting.

Fertilizer is not scarce—but do not apply more than two pounds per 100 square feet. If feeding is late in spring be sure the grass is dry.

Gardening Questions

Q—Will any bush fruits produce berries in a shady backyard?
— T. N.

A—Currants and gooseberries are somewhat tolerant of shade and may be grown on the north sides of buildings or among grapes and fruit trees. All other berries require full sun.

Q—How does one distinguish poisonous from non poisonous sumac?—A. S.

A—There is only one poisonous Sumac on this continent, rhus vernix. It has gray fruits; all those with deep red fruits are non-poisonous. Incidentally poison ivy is a sumac, rhus toxicondendron, and it too has gray berries.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

During a dinner assignment the other night at the Mystic Order of the Zouaves of Zanzibar I found myself at a far corner of the board with four Zephers. They all sat there without pre-arrangement and they were all avid trout fishermen. Seedman Harold Inman, furrier Cyril Lech and gentleman Chris Graham, all of Peterborough, were pumping another of their Order from Arnprior about fishing in the Upper Ottawa Valley.

I marvelled that they ever got through their meal for they talked trout from Grace to burping time. They flailed their arms all over the place as they "dropped dry flies" in cups of consomme from the Laurentide Park to Mattawa They told their tall tales with poker-straight faces and looked each other straight in the eye while the Zeus at the head table, noting their seriousness, beamed. He thought they were hatching some scheme to raise money for a worthy cause, disillusiond man.

Zepher Inman attributed one trout fishing ven ure to the betterment of quality of a herd of cattle up Calabogie way. Imagine! Happened this way, said he:

"Way back in the dear old dead days beyond recall when guides were content to accept a dollar a day for their sevices, my pal and I wanted to do better for a certain old boy. His poor farm bordered a fine trout lake but he wouldn't accept more than the going rate for his boat or services.

"We hit on the plan of buying him a pedigreed bull calf at a neighboring farm and transported the beast to the old boy's place in the back seat of our touring car; (the crate wasn't leak-proof, we found). The OB was speechless at this gesture and, according to the natural course of events, we heard, the herd increased for the better.

"Each following spring as we labored back and across the OB's pasture with bags of trout on our shoulders, we would stop to rest and admire the fine young cattle. And, so help me, if it hadn't been for us trout fishermen it would never have happened."

Nothing Fishy About This

Don't keep yearning for an extra day or two being tacked to the fore of fishing season dates. Dates will be as per the calendar, was the official confirmation from Queen's Park this week. And none of the dates fall on a week-end. Goes like this:

Trout, all species, THURSDAY, May 1.
Pickerel, also THURSDAY, May 15.
Bass and 'lunge, TUESDAY, July 1.

You deer hunters with bulging deep freezes and lockers full of last fall's roasts, chops and steaks had better lay on a full-dress family banquet before Monday night, March 31. If this is impossible you may obtain a time extension authority from the Lands and Forests office, Lindsay. You must supply the serial number of the licence under which the animal was shot and state the name of the cold storage plant and vault number in which you will keep the meat. The permit is good until August 31 and covers ducks and partridge, too, if you have any.

Smelling Out Smelts

My Grafton Gestapo says that smelt are not running yet in Shelter Valley Creek. Not being a poacher, he was not unduly alarmed that conservation officers had posted the stream (to discourage the netting of a rainbow or two before May 1). Commercial fishermen are lifting few smelts on the Big Lake off Port Hope Watch for flash bulletins in this column when the silver hordes start streaming inland.

Some Flighty Business

Oak Orchard Alexander picked up an item of mine about an airstrip being completed this spring at Skyboro. He wrote hastily from Florida in hope that the strip will be 3500 feet long. Several of his brass-hat guests fly up in DC's and have to land at Malton, Oshawa or Trenton and motor to the Lodge from these points. Mighty inconvenient for them and short-sighted of us not to have accommodation for them.

The powers-that-be inform me the strip cannot be longer than 2,200 feet, unfortunately, but ample room for twin-engined Beechcrafts and such types. We'll settle for practically anything—even a level pasture field—if we can get air tourists to land in the heart of the Kawarthas. More about Skyboro as things shape up.

COME TO POPPA—Stouffville Clippers' goalie, Stunden, with an unconcerned expression holds the puck tightly in his mitt. He came eight feet out of his net and calmly picked the puck out of the air after Gus Leonard blasted a shot at him in Friday's game with the Petes. A large crowd marvelled at his ability to catch the flying pucks which he caught from his ankles up. His steady work plus a stiff defence helped the clippers to a 3-2 win in the first game of the Ontario senior "B" semi-finals.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Clippers Turn Back Petes In 3-2 Overtime Tilt To Open Senior "B" Series

Slapping home the winning goal in 8:45 of overtime here last night, Stouffville Clippers edged the Petes 3-2 to open their best-of-seven O.H.A. senior "B" playoff series. Seventeen hundred and ten fans were treated to close, fast-stepping playoff hockey, the best display of the season at Civic Arena. The next game is Tuesday at Stouffville. Neither side could dent the twine in the first or third periods, both tallying once in the second to send it into the extra inning. Clippers counted twice then and the Petes once. Play was very fast from start to finish, yet a close-checking tilt, and quite even over the distance. Ted Collins twisted his knee in the first frame and was lost for the game, that making a difference as it disorganized the local lines.

Fast And Rugged

The Clippers came up with a speedy, rugged crew of opportunists. They hustled every minute, used their weights to advantage in clean playing, and forechecked well. They were solid from the goal out. The Petes probably played somewhat below their best form in this one, seeming disorganized at times. However, they toiled hard and kept pace all the way with the visitors. Both goalies kicked a flock out, but the checking was so close that neither side had many real close-in thrusts at the net. There were four penalties a side.

Nick Bangay, Jack Watson and George Stark tallied for Clippers with Bud Watson having two assists, one each going to Stark, Hal Gibson and Frank Stephenson. Junior West and George Steele notched the goals for the Ellis squad, Gus Leonard aiding on both, as Earl Leonard and Steele got an assist each. The best checking was shown by Jake Wade in every period.

No Scoring

Bud Watson drew an early hooking penalty but the Petes couldn't cash in on it. Later it was speedy and even. The Clippers used the Toronto style of tossing their weight around, charging and doing some holding, but they broke fast on the attack. West got in a hot shot at the goalie, and Petch made Harding jump on a return rush. The Robinson line hustled for a space and then Collins went off hurt. Machin was gated for holding and the Petes pressed, but in vain. Steele got it next for high-sticking but returned, with no damage done, to test Stunder in the Stouffville wigwam. Wade pulled a good try just before the gong.

Play was quite fast again in the second, even most of the route, and marked with close-checking on both sides. Each team in turn tore in to test the goalie. A Floyd-Garvey thrust nearly paid off and later Dugan pulled a fancy solo rush. They were changing on the fly. Steele finally scored from Gus and Earl Leonard on a pretty standing pattern play, a pass up to the side, a slide across and a quick slap from in front. Steele later went over the wall for slashing but returned with no damage done. Jack Watson was robbed by Ray and G. Leonard nearly notched one from Floyd in real speedy stepping up and down. Stark evened it late in the heat from Bud Watson when they broke from near centre with but one to beat, passed neatly and blazed a hot one from in close. The Petes pressed hear the close but Jack Watson almost scored in the last minute of play.

Scoreless Again

Dugan came close on Jake's rebound to open the lively but scoreless third stanza. Stark was chased for playing with a broken stick and West got in a good try before his return. Then West went away for slashing and it was hot for a space. Nick Bangay got it next for interference but the goalie had none to handle in his absence. The G. Leonard line came up with a good showing and it kept up at a hot clip back and forth. Wade rushed well before he drew an interference penalty. Harding hopped to hold them off and it was even hockey at the bell.

The Petes bored in to open overtime but their goalie was good. Stewart had a nice try from the side and then Jack Watson tallied from Stephenson and Gibson on a corner faceoff, drop pass, hot shot and rebound into the twine from close range. Wade came close as the Petes pressed, and West evened it once more to make the big crowd cheer loudly. He was aided by Gus Leonard and Steele on an in-close bit of combination and quick angle shot. Dugan and Gus came close to getting another but Nick Bangay counted the winner at 8.45 on fast stepping for a rebound and a hot shot after a blast by Bud Watson rounding defence with Stark's pass. That did it, though the Petes tore back hard in the final minute of play. Teams:

Stouffville: Goal, Stunden; defence, Baker and Petch; centre, B. Watson; wings, Stark and N. Bangay; alternates, Minton, Gibson, Bell, B. Bangay, J. Watson, Stephenson, Machin and Rose.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and E. Leonard; centre, G. Leonard; wings, West and Steele; alternates, Dugan, Stewart, Robinson, Garvey, Floyd, Collins, Wade and Peters.

Referees: J. Crombie and M. Walsh.

Summary:

GOOD EFFORT — Big Jake Wade turned in a fine effort for the Petes last night, especially in a defensive role, but the locals were nosed out 3-2 in overtime by Stouffville to open senior "B" puck playdowns.

Patrick Hopeful Bruin Comeback

BOSTON, March 29 (CP). — Coach Lynn Patrick of Boston Bruins remained hopeful today as his team prepared to resume its National Hockey League best-of-seven playoff with Montreal Canadiens here Sunday.

Trailing 2-0 in the series, Patrick said:

"We proved we can come back, and we beat this club in two important games at the end of the season. They'll have a tough time trying to win two out of five."

Although the Bruins looked good only in spots during the first two games in Montreal, Patrick refuses to be panicked into shelving his veterans in favor of youngsters from the Hershey Bears, Boston farm club in the A.H.L.

While he had goalie Red Henry up from Hershey, he appeared ready to stick with Sugar Jim Henry (no relation).

"He was a big factor in helping us into the playoffs. He didn't seem jittery to me, and I don't think there's any reason for any of us to get that feeling."

Probable lineups for tonight's game:

Montreal—Goal, McNeil; defence, Harvey, St. Laurent, Bouchard, Johnson, MacPherson; forwards, Lach, Richard, Moore, Reay, Meger, Geoffrion, Curry, Gamble, Olmstead, Edmundson.

Boston—Goal, Jim Henry; defence, Henderson, Quackenbush, Armstrong, Laycoe, Kryzanowski, forwards, Schmidt, Mackell, Chevrefils, Sandford, McIntyre, Dumart, Creighton, Peirson, Lund, Sullivan.

American Leaguers Bellyachers–Stanky

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 29 (AP).—Manager Eddie Stanky of St. Louis Cardinals of the National League says American Leaguers don't like to play rough.

Instead of indulging in a little give and take on the base paths "they want to cry and bellyache" Stanky said yesterday.

Stanky's remarks were prompted by a double-play incident during an exhibition game which the Cardinals lost to New York Yankees 8-2.

Stanky and Gil McDougald, Yankee second baseman, exchanged sharp words and advanced on one another after McDougald tagged out the Cardinal manager to start a fourth-inning double play.

"I tried to knock the ball out of McDougald's hand," Stanky explained. "He didn't like it."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

President Bill Gunn of the Industrial Fastball League has called the annual open meeting for Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the "Y". Reports, election of officers, and plans for the season discussed. Everyone interested is invited. This is a right lively summer loop which takes in a lot of good city and district softballers, playing fastball rules. Anyone with up-to-date knowledge on fastball as run off in Toronto would be a welcome speaker at this meeting as the officials want to keep abreast of the game. Some fine frays were seen last season over at Quaker Park, a beauty spot in the summer.

We agree with these comments from the Kitchener columnist: "In case you have any illusions about the ability of the average sports enthusiast to fairly judge the merits of two teams, or two individuals, when his own choice rests heavily on one of them, we cite some statistics from last night's wrestling show. In the first round, Yukon Eric used six different kinds of illicit tactics while the crowd cheered him in every instance. He punched with fist, pulled hair, hit his opponent outside the ropes, hit his rival while Layton was lying on the ropes, kicked him in the stomach, and punched him in the kidneys. Layton got the boos every time he even threatened something illegal. It all goes to show that you see only what you're looking for, even if it isn't there."

Yeah, fans are funny

That is true of many fans in other sports, too. The homesters are heroes, the visitors are bums—and the refs are always against us. Be that as it may, the pro matmen dish up a lot of rugged action to rate their large following. Plenty of city and district fans never miss a card at the Brock. Next one is Tuesday night and the top bout is a popular tag team match featuring Layton and Hi Lee against Lu Kimm and Zorra. Naturally, the latter two will get the vocal support of the payees. Regardless of whichever side wins or whichever pair breaks more rules, there'll be oodles of exciting action. The merry matadors never fail us. Two good supporting bouts on the program, too.

Comes an Olympic bulletin dealing with the annual meeting of the C.O.A. at Montreal the end of this month. A financial note points out that to the end of last January a total of $80,893 had been collected. Of this $40,100 came from federal and provincial goverments, $39,593 from corporations and individuals, and $1,200 from the marksmen and figure skaters. Balance to be raised was $45,000. In the Winter Games at Oslo, Norway, Canada won out in hockey but it is not likely this country will do too much at the Summer Games in Helsinki, Finland. However, the nation believes in international athletic competitions.

A Swell Senior Scrap

Civic Arena was nearly packed for last night's senior "B" playoff game, and the customers saw a swell scrap. A nifty 3-2 overtime win for Stouffville and a real toughie for the Petes to drop. Just a tossup between the clubs on the night's play, and they were certainly stepping. Very fast throughout and a lot of good hockey served up. Despite the sustained speed, checking was quite close and the goalies weren't so busy as might be expected in a low-scoring struggle. Each side counted once in the second stanza and that was that till the 2-1 overtime win for Clippers. Ted Collins' knee injury hurt the Petes plenty as it left them a man shy after the first frame in fast play and it disorganized their lines.

* * * * * *

Yes, it was one of the best puck battles we've seen here this long semester, and it'll be a swell series. The Petes are by no means out of it yet, as they're just as good as the Clippers in every way. But they're going to have to hustle from bell to bell against these speedy Toronto puckists, and keep out of the sin bin. They will probably hit their peak form Tuesday in Stouffville—the ice surface is almost the same as here—and square the sawoffs. The local production line last night was Gus Leonard, Junior West and George Steele. Best defensively were Ray Harding and Jake Wade. Clippers' first line was plenty good, too.

It was the Red Wings' second straight win in the Stanley Sup semi-final series. For the 37-year-old Turk, who had played only 30 minutes all season, it was the 100th playoff game. He lugged his 202 pounds—12 pounds overweight—in perfect style except for the pictured miss.

Senior Crown To Neill's In Cage Loop

Five months ago Neill's team in the Girls' City Basketball League were practically conceded the senior championship. On Friday night, the shoe store lasses made the season complete with a perfect record, undefeated and senior city champions.

Neill's drifted lazily to a 36-25 victory over Lindsay Merchants to easily sweep the two-game points-to-count series. Last week they walloped Lindsay 51-25 in the first game, thus winning the title 87-51.

Friday night's victory for Neill's was more difficult to grab than last week's. But their scoring was well distributed among all players as they quickly passed the ball around, working in for scoring opportunities.

Depend On Two

Lindsay, on the other hand, relied upon the efforts of Marj (Mooch) Owen and Shirley Algar to provide their points. Owen whipped in 12 points on field baskets and three more on foul shots, while Algar dropped in seven points.

Polly Stewart, Wilma Byers, D. Smith, Sue DeWarga, S. Bestard, Mickie Callan and Joan Dunk all counted points for Neill's in the first half as they took a 13-9 half-time lead. Owen was Lindsay's only effective scorer.

Wilma Byers went on a scoring spree for Neill's in the second half for eight points out of the team's 23. Owen, Algar and Isobel Green scored 16 for Lindsay.

Lineups:

Lindsay (25) — Copp, Cullis, Vanstone 1, Owen 15, Meath, Algar 7, Green 2.

Neill's (36)—Stewart 3, Byers 10, Smith 7, DeWarga 4, Bestard 4, Callan 3, Dunk 3, Gillen, Borland 2.

Brockville Leads 2-1 In Ottawa Senior B

BROCKVILLE, March 29 (CP) —Brockville Magedomas Friday night took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five Ottawa District Hockey Association Senior B semi-finals by downing Richmond Royals 2-1. The fourth game is slated here tonight.

Cliff Baldwin and Billy Godwin were Brockville's scorers while Jim Regan scored the lone Richmond marker.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Johnny Bratton, Chicago welterweight, was suspended yesterday by the Montreal Athletic Commission, which charged he is side-stepping a bout there March 31 with Pierre Langlois of France.

The Commission says Bratton "ran out" on the Montreal fight in favor of a match with Rocky Castellani Friday night in New York's Madison Square Garden. Castellani, 18-to-5 underdog, won the fight with a unanimous 10-round decision.

Before the fight, Bratton's manager, Hymie Wallman said in New York that his boy was forced to postpone the Garden fight from March 14 until Friday night because of an injured hand. He said he had asked the Montreal promoters to put off the Langlois bout until April 8.

"I thought it was all straightened out," he added. "Now they are threatening legal action. So Johnny and I will go up there Monday."

The return heavyweight title bout between champion Jersey Joe Walcott and challenger Ezzard Charles will be signed and sealed in Philadelphia Monday for probable delivery June 9. Promoter Herman Taylor said the two Negro boxers will meet in a 15-round bout in the huge Municipal Stadium in South Philadelphia where 120,757 persons watched Gene Tunney win the heavyweight crown from Jack Dempsey in 1926.

Pitcher Bob Alexander, who won 15 games for Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League last year, has been returned to Montreal by Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League, it was announced Friday in Melbourne, Fla.

Patty Berg, who has played more than a dozen years of professional golf, shot a par 74 Friday to take a six-stroke lead in the New Orleans women's open tournament. Babe Zaharias posted a 78 to remain in second place.

Vancouver's bid for entry into the Western Canada Football League in 1953 was shelved Friday until the annual meeting of the league next January. Promoters of the Vancouver team had sought a decision by May 1.

Jack Crawford, coach of Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League Friday announced his resignation. He said it was unfair to his family to transfer them twice yearly between Hershey and their Boston home.

Russian swordsmen Friday were admitted to the International Fencing Federation. Michel Sesliak of Russia attended the meeting in Paris and thanked the delegates.

Boost For Marmora In Trent Loop Play

Dear Sir:

We have read the "Boost for Havelock in Trent Loop Play" by a writer using the name "The Rocket," after the fourth game in the semi-finals. The name "The Rocket" was probably well chosen as the writer apparently was up in the air without any idea where he was going. He forgot that Marmora also had a team in the game, which at least was good enough to eliminate Havelock and outscore them 40 goals to 35 in the series.

The result in the game referred to was largely due to the fact most of the Havelock team were playing on their home ice while Marmora team was playing on the rink for the first time and over half were playing on artificial ice for the first time.

"The Rocket" appears to think that the fact Havelock team was made up mostly of Peterborough players was something to be commended. The people of Marmora and district, on the other hand, are particularly proud that their team is made up of local players, the majority of whom have lived all their lives in Marmora. In fact about half the team is still eligible for junior hockey. Havelock has a good team or the Marmora team would not deserve so much credit for elminating them. We feel our team is at least worthy of mention. Its team work and combination was particularly effective. — Vaughan Glover, Manager, Marmora Hockey Club.

Playoff Schedule

The following playoff schedule for the Petes-Stouffville series has been arranged:

Second game at Stouffville on Tuesday, April 1. Third game at Peterborough Thursday, April 3. Fourth game at Stouffville Saturday, April 5. Fifth game, if necessary at Peterborough Monday, April 7. Sixth game, if necessary at Stouffville Wednesday, April 9. Seventh game, if necessary at Peterborough Friday, April 11.

Under a new O.H.A. ruling, teams in inter-group playoffs toss to decide where the odd game is to be played. The Petes won the toss which took place at Friday night's game.

Question Of Who's In Goal Stirs Toronto Fans As Leafs' Home Games Start

By CRAIG SWAYZE

TORONTO, March 29. (CP)—The biggest question stirring this hockey-mad town today is not just who is going to win tonight's third game of the Detroit-Toronto Stanley Cup semi-finals, but whether or not the fabulous fat man, Walter (Turk) Broda, will be launched upon his second century of playoff goaltending. A couple of weeks ago, any suggestions that Broda would play more than once—and then only to fulfil General-Manager Conn Smythe's promise of 100 playoff appearances—would have brought forth loud jeers from even the staunchest of Maple Leaf supporters. However, now that the unpredictable has occurred, what's to stop a rebirth in the tubby hero's career?

The fans—and no doubt his teammates—are rooting for the 37-year-old veteran of 14 National Hockey League seasons.

Maple Leaf officials are keeping mum about who will don the big pads tonight, the Leafs first home ice chance to whittle down the two-game edge the Red Wings hold on the best-of-seven series. Both Smythe and coach Joe Primeau admit the decision has been made, but no one else will know the answer until the dressing room door opens and either the Turk or Al Rollins—the club's regular goalie—leads the club up the ramp to the ice.

Will Ice Same Team

Aside from the netminders, the Toronto club is expected to ice the same team that bowed 1-0 to the Wings Thursday at Detroit. That would mean centre Cal Gardner would again sit it out with Tod Sloan filling in at Gardner's pivot spot and rookie Jim Morrison available as a utility man.

With the Leafs working out at St. Catharines, Detroit moved into Hamilton Friday, their headquarters for the Toronto end of the series. With them came their star centre and captain, Sid Abel. He benched himself Thursday after suffering a knee injury when the Wings took the Tuesday opener 3-0.

May Miss Kelly

However, there is more than a good chance the Detroiters will be without the services of Red Kelly, one of the most important cogs in their offensive and defensive machine. Equally at home up front or back on the blue line, he suffered a severely sprained wrist in the second game and may be on the sidelines tonight.

But the Red Wings still have Terry Sawchuk in goal. Considered by many as hockey's top goaltender, he will be striving for his third successive shutout. In pulling off another whitewashing job tonight, Sawchuk could tie ex-Leaf Frank McCool's record set in 1943 against Detroit.

The record for the most shutouts in a playoff series—four—is held jointly by McCool and Dave Kerr, the former New York Ranger great.

A curfew could raise its head tonight, just as it did in last spring's semi-finals with Boston Bruins. Because of a Sunday blue law in Ontario, the game would be halted just before midnight should a tie and overtime carry play that far into the night.

Indians, Hounds Tie 2-2 At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 29 (CP).—There has been much talk of late concerning the relative strength of teams competing in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League and those in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit.

Northern fans were confident their Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, the N.O.H.A. champions, would run wild against Stratford Indians, the O.H.A. Big Six champs. There were just as many Southern Ontario fans who thought the Indians would take the best-of-seven Allan Cup quarter-finals in four straight.

Friday night both clubs fooled them all by playing to a 2-2 overtime tie in their opener before 6,000 at Sault Memorial Gardens. The second game is scheduled here tonight and the third at Stratford next week.

The Indians took a 1-0 first period lead and held it through the middle session before giving up two straight goals to the Greyhounds. Stratford deadlocked the issue late in the final period and an overtime stanza failed to change the score.

The two clubs were evenly matched through the first two periods with the checking close. Stratford held the edge in play throughout the final session despite the Greyhounds' two-goals-to-one margin.

Mickey Roth opened the scoring for Stratford at 16:15 of the first period. Gunnar Telkkinen knotted the count at 1:24 of the third and Husky Hodgson gave the Greyhounds their lead at 5:31. Stratford's tying goal was netted by Billy Flick at 14:39 of the third.

Centre Shortage Troubles Irwin Despite Edge

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

MONTREAL, March 29 (CP)—That down-the-middle nerve centre of Montreal Canadiens comes in for critical examination today.

Although Canadiens hold a two-game margin over Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup semi-final, the centre-man cordon holding the physical hockey machine together is worn and frazzled. Two centres have been lost.

Coach Dick Irvin called out the full squad for practice today. He will try different forward-line combinations.

The team leaves tonight for Boston where the third game of the best-of-seven series will be played Sunday, the fourth game Tuesday.

At the moment, Canadiens are riding high, needing only two wins in five games to reach the final against either Detroit or Toronto. The Bruins are on the spot even if the next two games are on their home ice.

Hooraw Tempered

But the hurrah over Canadiens' high position is tempered by the loss of Johnny McCormack and Ken Mosdell. McCormack broke his arm last Saturday night. It was the second-last game of the regular National Hockey League season.

Mosdell, just recovering from a broken shoulder helped out in the 5-1 beating of the Bruins Tuesday night. He scored the first goal in the 4-0 trouncing Thursday night and then was carried from the ice with a broken leg.

Two veteran centres are left, Elmer Lach and Billy Reay. Rookie Dickie Moore was moved from the wing position on a high-scoring line Thursday night to centre the third line, a checking, defensive trio.

If Irvin wants to take a chance, with a two-game cushion, he may try a junior, Garry (Duke) Edmundson, a husky youngster who comes from Grande Prairie, Alta., and played this season with the Kitchener, Ont., juniors.

A Lowe Call?

Or the call may go to Ross Lowe, a former Bruin and a strong rushing defenceman, who has been called on a few times for emergency front-line work.

Or at the last moment Irvin may decide on Moore, figuring that's the safest move.

The Bruins will have to get along with winger Dunc Fisher who came out of Thursday's game with a cracked bone in his left big toe. But they expect to have Fleming Mackell back. He was left at home with a sharp attack of the flu when the team came to Montreal.

Farmhands will also join the Bruins in Boston. After the sorry showing of the team here, a call went to Hershey Bears, just knocked out of the American Hockey Association playoffs.

Four were summoned: goalie Gordon (Red) Henry; forwards Leo Labine, who played 15 games with the Bruins this season; and Jerry Toppazzini; defenceman Bob Armstrong.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins won their first Stanley Cup by defeating New York Rangers 2-1 at New York 23 years ago tonight for the second victory in the best-of-three final. Bruins had won the first game 2-0. Bill Carson was the hero of the last game, firing the winning goal.

PAINTING RESTORED — Nardo Di Cione's 14th-Century masterpiece, "St. John the Baptist," is shown at the half-way point in the restoration process being applied to 14 Italian Renaissance paintings which will be placed on exhibit at the Yale Art Gallery, New Haven, Conn.

Luke Gave Most Complete Record Of Gospel Story

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Saint Luke, author of the Third Gospel, was not one of the Twelve Apostles. But to him we owe a great deal of our knowledge about them.

For the history of the early church, we again depend upon St. Luke, whose Book of Acts is a valuable supplement to the Pauline Epistles.

Of the Gospel incidents, Luke was not an eye-witness (Luke 1: 2), but in relating what eye-witnesses told him Luke brought to his Gospel the same power of narration so vividly displayed in his reports of things of which he was a part.

Could his power of description in the story of Paul's shipwreck in the Book of Acts be surpassed by any story of the sea? Or could his story-telling skill in the narration of the Parables of Jesus be excelled?

Two parables of Luke's are notable: the Prodigal son, recorded only by him, and the Lost Sheep.

Though Man thinks in terms of numbers—we estimate the seriousness of a calamity by the number of lives lost—Luke, following the master, reveals God's concern for a single soul in his unforgettable parable of the Lost Sheep.

Of Luke, himself, we have a limited knowledge. References in Colossians IV indicate he was a Gentile convert.

That he was the companion of Paul in much that he narrates is implied in passages where "we" appears.

There is a conjecture that he was the companion of Cleopas on the famous walk to Emmaus, of which he tells in Luke 24. It does seem starngs that Luke should name Cleopas and not the other.

It is reasonable to believe that he may have modestly refrained from naming himself. However, if this were true, it would have made Luke a disciple before the Resurrection of Jesus and before the conversion of Paul.

It seems more probable that Luke became a Christian through Paul, and it is possible that his education and training as a physician may have been at Paul's former city of Tarsus.

What is certain, apart from all conjecture, is the place that Luke occupies in preserving for all time the most complete record of the Gospel story.

He has given the world the life and work of Jesus, from the manger in Bethlehem to the Cross and the Resurrection; and with this, also, the vivid story of how Christianity spread from Jerusalem to Antioch and to Europe.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CIV. No. 76 — SATURDAY, MARCH 29, 1952

MAIN STREET TOPICS

MAY BE 70-MILL RATE

Sarnia's tax rate may reach 70 mills when the city's budget is passed April 7. It was 61 mills in 1951. A definite figure for this year has not yet been determined but civic rumors mention a possible 70 mills.

PERMISSION TO BUILD

Mrs. Myrtle Lester, 427 Parkhill Road, has been given permission by the council to build a house on the east 38 feet of her property. Plans must conform with the requirements of the building bylaw and City Engineer.

WAS KNOWN HERE

W. P. Near, 72, member of the Ontario Municipal Board from 1937 to 1951, died in Toronto Friday. Failing health caused his retirement a year ago. Mr. Near was in Peterborough several times in the last few years on local issues referred to the board.

FROM PENS TO PENS

Wildfowl at the Filtration Plant winter quarters were released on Friday to river pens amid great noise and flutter. Geese, ducks and swans, after being cooped up inside since last November, are still revelling in clear cold water and fresh air after 24 hours outside.

25 ORCHIDS FROM HONOLULU

Mrs. Lavenia Jameson, 544 Harvey Street, who passed her 92nd birthday on Tuesday, received Friday by air cargo, a circlet of 25 orchids from Honolulu. The beautiful pale mauve blooms were arranged in the traditional Hawaiian 'lei' form. They were sent by an old Canadian friend, Mrs. Irene Houston, who has been living in Honolulu for many years.

WILL TALK ON WATER CONTROL

James P. McGrath of the mechanical staff of the Trent Valley Canal will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association on Monday evening at the Public Library at 7:30 His topic will be "Water Shed Control."

CUT HOSPITAL BUDGET

George P. Fox, chairman six years of the board of governors of Brantford General Hospital, has resigned in protest of the city council's slashing the hospital budget by $80,000. He contends that federal and provincial governments should provide larger hospital grants. "Look at any big city in Ontario, and you will find it is having trouble with its hospitals," Mr. Fox said Thursday.

STUDENT WINS AWARD

Fourth-year mining and metallurgy student Allan Lee, formerly of P.C.V.S., has won an award in a student's paper competition at Queen's University. Allan is president of his class year, past-president of Queen's M and M Society and member of the basketball team that won the intermural championship. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee, R. R. 11, Peterborough.

OVER-SUBSCRIBED

By six o'clock Friday afternoon every avilable membership in the Peterborough Community Concerts Association had been subscribed for, and the membership campaign was closed a day before schedule. Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, campaign chairman, said today that subscriptions were still coming in and that a waiting list had been established. Directors of the association met this afternoon to choose the artists for next season.

Payrolls Up 2.1, Employment Down 5.7 Points

Employment in industries in the Kawartha region, which for statistical purposes includes Peterborough, Victoria, Durham, Northumberland and Ontario counties, fell off 5.7 points in January, compared with the number employed in January, 1951. This is the estimate of the Ontario Bureau of Statistics, just released. However, payrolls in the Kawartha district showed an increase of 2.1 points.

Employment in the region was 104.1 points higher than in 1939—that is, more than twice as many people were employed this January as in January before the war. Payrolls were 530.2, or more than five times as great as in January, 1939.

Second Highest Average

The average weekly wage and salary in the leading industries of this district during January was 57.77. This was the highest wage and salary rate in southern Ontario, except in Windsor-St. Clair river areas. The average weekly wage in Toronto and its metropolitan district was $53.20 in January.

The high level of business, employment and wages, even in January, when industry and business had a lull, is shown by the fact that $27,000,000 worth of cheques were cashed in Peterborough during the month In January, 1941, the average monthly amount of cheques cashed was $10,000,000.

The Ontario Bureau of Statistics figures show that there were no business failures in the five Kawartha counties during January.

It is also reported that only $171,000 worth of defence contracts were awarded during January to plants in the district which includes Peterborough, Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa. By comparison, the metropolitan district of Toronto got $15,991,000 in defence contracts. However, the bureau's figures do not include contracts valued at under $10,000, nor orders not made public for security reasons. Nor does the figures include increases in orders placed earlier.

CUT ON HEAD

Gordon Wiley, 37, of Arndon Ave., was given outpatient treatment at Civic Hospital early today for a deep cut in the forehead. He fell on a railway track and besides opening up a cut on the forehead he injured his right eyelid.

Large Model Covered Wagon Whittled With Penknife

When a heart condition forced Herbert Deck, 552 Rogers St., to retire from boatbuilding, it wasn't unusual when he turned his hand to woodwork. For years, whittling and fretsaw work had provided him with a hobby he enjoyed. His retirement moved the hobby up to the level of a part-time job.

Not One Power Tool

His workshop, at the rear of the frame home where he lives with his wife, is without a power tool. A small pot-bellied stove heats the shop, and above the worn, L-shaped workbench, racks are filled with handtools.

Looking over some of the tools brought memories of the boatbuilding trade back to Mr. Deck's mind. A canoe hammer, forged at the William Hamilton plant here, was one.

"You can't buy that hammerhead now for less than five dollars," said Mr. Deck. "And then you'd have to order 100 of them to get that one. That one's driven many a nail."

A drawknife, made by Bartons in the United States, had only a quarter inch of steel left in the blade. Only a thin line marked the point where the steel joined the iron.

In a back shed hang the cardboard patterns Mr. Deck uses in his work. All are drawn freehand to his own design.

In the living room of the Deck home are at least a dozen examples of Mr. Deck's work. Two coffee tables, a lamp base, a footstool, cigarette boxes and ash tray stands are some

Carver's Masterpiece

His masterpiece is a covered wagon, complete with oxen, a dog and the man and wife. It is carved from walnut and hickory, and stands on a base about 26 by 12 inches.

The base has wagon tracks impressed in it, with ox-hoof marks stamped between the tracks to make a replica of the soil covered wagons passed over in their western trek.

The two oxen drawing the wagon are carved of walnut, with hickory blazes inset in their foreheads. Their horns are hickory, tipped with brass knobs. Holding them in harness is a yoke, carved of hickory and walnut, and marked with brass straps.

Body of the wagon is made of walnut, with hickory hoops supporting the cloth covering.

"I didn't know how many there should be when I made it," said Mr. Deck. "I put in 5 hoops, and then saw a picture of one of the old-time covered wagons. It had five hoops, and I was right."

On the wagon seat, a gun in her hand, sits the pioneer woman, a bonnet on her head. Her husband, complete with broad-brimmed hat, stands beside the prairie schooner, whip in hand.

On shelves projecting from either side of the wagon are water barrels. These are carved from sumac, a yellowish-green wood with a pronounced grain. From the rear of the wagon hangs a water bucket, of walnut.

A chain leading from the left rear corner of the wagon is attached to a collar on the neck of a walnut dog. Wheels of the wagon are carved from single pieces of walnut.

The brake treadle, located at the pioneer women's feet, switches on a light inside the wagon when it is pulled forward. The wagon can be taken apart into its original pieces, as only a few are permanently held together.

Carving of the animals and humans with the wagon is formalized, with no excessive detail. The same holds true of a horse Mr. Deck carved from a piece of walnut.

"I suppose if a fellow carved enough of those, he'd do better, but I didn't get around to doing many," he said.

Started 1909 To Build Boats

Mr. Deck, who started in the boat building trade in 1909 with the Lyle boat works, joined the Canadian Canoe Co. for a time, and then the Peterborough Canoe Co. Except for two years in a garage during the First World War, he has been in boat work.

In 1949, he retired from the Peterborough Canoe Co. when his heart went back on him.

"It's a good thing he has his woodwork to keep him busy," said Mrs. Deck.

"I don't know what I'do without it," her husband said.

Men Must Work To Raise Living Standards

Our standard of living is our total production divided by the number of people that work, James G. Wharry, vice-president of Quaker Oats, said Friday night.

Mr. Wharry was the guest speaker at the annual ladies' night of the Peterborough branch, Canadian Life Underwriters' Association. About 160 insurance men, their wives and other guests were present.

The subject of Mr. Wharry's address was "Men Must Work."

There are two classes of unhappy workmen in the world, he said.

The first of these are men who have jobs that satisfy their creative and energy needs but do not provide what they desire in the way of monetary reward or social life.

Feel Fenced In

The second are those who work hard and earn a good living but have jobs that give them a "fenced in" feeling. This feeling is common to persons whose ability is denied expression and whose talents are unrecognized, said Mr. Wharry.

In addition, there are people who believe work is something to be cut to a minimum.

But nothing can raise our standard of living without work, said Mr. Wharry.

The greatest disservice to our age is any preaching, whether by sentimental humanitarians or by agitators, of the gospel of reward without effort."

Peter J Mather introduced Mr. Wharry and he was thanked by Kenneth Wilson. David Schellenberg was in the chair.

A social evening followed the supper and the main address.

Garage Workers To Change Union

Garage employees in Peterborough are going to change their union.

In line with other garage employees all over Ontario they are switching to the United Automobile Workers' Union (C.I.O.-C.C.L.). A special meeting of Local 234, Industrial Union of Automotive Employees (C.C.L.), is being called next week to discuss the switch.

At present there are some 85 employees in the unit from 11 city garages.

Form Policy

Ron Bishop, spokesman for the union, said that one of the first jobs will be to form a joint policy committee. It will draw up plans for a contract that union members hope will bring their wages and working conditions in line with other U.A.W. contracts and in line with other industrial workers in the city.

Automotive mechanics and stockkeepers will have special provisions made in the contract to cover their part in the trade.

Eventually, the garagemen hope to have a standard policy and contract covering the whole province

Jim Murray, C.C.L. representative, and Ralph McBride, U.A.W. representative, are working jointly to bring about the union transfer.

County Taxes Up $129,634 Smith's Share Highest

County ratepayers are going to have to raise $129,634 more this year than in 1951. The bill for county purposes s $309,817 compared with $180,183 a year ago. The levy is 18.185 mills, 3.724 mills more than 1951. Smith township pays more than any other municipality. Its share is $59,939, $22,525 more than last year.

The breakdown for the other municipalities is as follows: Asphodel $29,495, Belmont-Methuen $17,632, Burleigh-Anstruther $6,131, Chandos $3,112, Douro $28,656, Dummer $31,184, Ennismore $9,875, Galway-Cavendish $4,477, Harvey $10,874, North Monaghan $12,437, Otonabee $49,677, Lakefield $20,957, Norwood $10,581, Havelock $11,530.

Pay For School

Two municipalities outside Peterborough county are also billed because they form part of the Norwood District High School Area. They are Hastings village $2,570 and Percy township, S.S. 9 $691.

A breakdown of the tax bill: current municipal purposes $93,698; county roads, $99,162; bridge construction and maintenance, $5,572; Civic Hospital debentures, $10,052; Chemong Causeway debentures, $7,380; education, $13,379; Norwood District High School debentures, $29,982; Lakefield District High School debentures, $25,369.

Four of the northern townships are not members of the county roads system and therefore are not taxed. They are Burleigh-Anstruther, Chandos, Galway-Cavendish and Harvey townships.

The item of $13,379 for education is divided among four municipalities that do not belong to a school area: Douro $4,794, Dummer $5,519, Ennismore $1,954 and Galway-Cavendish $1,112.

Record High

The record-high estimates were caused by the county assuming responsibility for paying for two high school district debentures (Norwood District High School Area $29,982 and Lakefield District High School Area $25,369). Also county council is budgeting to wipe out a $19,000 deficit — $12,100 incurred during 1951 on roads and bridges, and another $6,900 on the current account.

The county has initially backed the high school debentures so as to sell them as cheaply as possible on the money market, but actual payment will only be on those municipalities in the high school districts.

A detailed breakdown of each municipality's share of the 1952 tax bill is shown on page 12.

Application Denied To Erect Service Station

The application by the Imperial Oil Company to build a gas station on the northeast corner of Water St. and Parkhill Rd. was turned down for a second time in two years by the city planning committee at a meeting Friday night.

The motion, as passed by James Hamilton and seconded by Hubert Sills, was that the committee did not find sufficient reason for changing its former decision made in 1950.

The meeting was attended by a delegation of approximately 15 residents of the area led by W. B. Gordon who opposed the Imperial Oil Company's application. They presented a petition which also requested that the area not be rezoned to admit any commercial establishment on the stated corner.

Mr. Gordon explained that there had been no material change in the area since the company first made its application one and a half years ago and repeated the arguments used at that time against the erection of such an establishment at this corner.

These included the fear of the corner being made unsafe for children going to Inverlea Park and in this respect Mr. Gordon referred to the erection of the garage as a "dangerous type of commercial endeavour."

He also said that residents in the area had purchased homes there with the understanding that it would remain a residential area.

James Dutton, acting chairman of the board, explained that the matter had been brought up again because the Imperial Oil Company didn't feel they had had a fair hearing following its first application.

Robert Carley, representing the applicant company, argued that a petition was before the committee containing 17 names of residents with the majority in the immediate vicinity of the proposed station, stating they did not object to the erection of the service station. He referred to the Ontario Municipal Board's practice of notifying only residents included within a 200 foot radius of the area proposed changed.

"The names of residents outside the radius should be disregarded," he said.

Mr. Carley also argued that the character of Water St. had altered considerably during the past 10 years and that it could no longer be considered a residential area.

He also mentioned that there were commercial establishments at the three other corners of the intersection and claimed that discrimination was shown by allowing this situation and not agreeing to a similar use of the fourth corner.

He explained that if the company were allowed to go ahead with its plans it would erect the station well back from the corner and as a result make the intersection a safer one by allowing better visibility.

R. R. Baker, district manager of the oil company, explained that this site had been chosen because of the increasing amount of traffic on Water St. as a part of Highway 28. He also said that since the former site of the company on George St. had been handed over to the city for erection of the city hall, the company had been without representation in the north part of the city.

Robert Abbott, a member of the opposing delegation, said that it was not a proper place for a service station to be put in and that there were already three other service stations within a block of the proposed site.

"I don't know whether you are going to be able to continue to maintain present zoning in that area in view of present conditions," Mr. Dutton said.

This view was held by the majority of the members of the board, but it was felt that there had not been sufficient change in the area since the oil company's first application to warrant a change in the board's decision.

Four In Family Miss Death By Foot As Car Crashes Into Bridge, Nearly Topples

Driving West On Stony Lake Road Car Swerves, Strikes Bridge Nearly Falls Into Swift Flowing River

Four of a family missed death by a foot Friday night when their car crashed into a bridge on the Stony Lake road and nearly toppled into the fast-moving waters of White Creek, 20 feet below. In Civic Hospital are: Charles Dwyer, Jr., 35, of Erskine Ave., S., the driver of the car. He has cuts on his head and one knee, and bruises. His father, Charles Dwyer, 60, of R.R. 2, Lakefield, facial cuts and a chest injury. His mother, Mrs. Charles Dwyer, 60, a badly bruised left leg.

And a brother, George Dwyer, 36, of King St. He is suffering from a cut on his forehead and left leg and also from shock.

On Stony Lake Road

The four were travelling west on the Stony Lake road, a mile and a half west of Crowe's Landing, when a tire blew out. The 1934 model car swerved sharply to the right and crashed into the north-east abutment of the cement bridge.

Had it gone another foot the car would have plunged its passengers over the rocks into the creek some 20 feet below. At this time of year the water is deep and swift and there is little likelihood any of them would have survived.

All the occupants were cut by the flying glass from the left windows. They were taken to Civic hospital by ambulance.

Charles Dwyer had gone to Dummer township to bring his parents into the city for the weekend. He was the owner and driver of the car which is now a complete wreck.

OPP Constables John Cawood and George Louth investigated.

Rockets, Guns To Let Loose Show Fire Power

Cobourg's rifle ranges will be transformed into a battle field Sunday afternoon; the reserve army units in the district will be holding their first fire power display.

Rocket-firing airplanes, anti-aircraft guns, artillery guns, machine guns, mortars, rifles, and other small arms will be fired. Reserve regiments from the area, east to Napanee, west to Millbrook and north to Lindsay will be taking part.

For the first time, other than at summer camp, the 50th H.A.A. Regiment will be firing one of its 3.7 anti-aircraft guns. Other artillery weapons will be fired by units from Brockville, Lindsay, Belleville and Cobourg's 33rd Medium Regiment.

Infantry units from Belleville and Port Hope will be taking part, employing the small arms such as machine guns, mortars and rifles.

The R.C.A.F. has joined the demonstration and will provide four Mustang fighter-planes from Trenton. These planes will be firing rockets and machine guns.

The demonstration is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. at the range, situated south of Highway 2, east of Cobourg. Central Command officials have arranged facilities for spectators to watch the guns in action.

Targets for the shoot will be towed to the Cobourg lakeshore by a Port Hope fishing launch under the direction of Major George Mitchell, 33rd Regiment. He will direct the placing of the targets by radio communication.

The targets will be placed at three ranges, the closest 300 yards off shore, the next 500 yards and the third, 800 yards out.

The Department of National Defence has warned any early shipping of the danger there. It has marked off an imaginary line extending 15,000 yards into the lake and 3,500 east and west of the demonstration.

Workers Return To Can Surplus

Dominion government's action in canning surplus pork as it comes to market these days is having effect at the local plant of Canada Packers.

The backlog of meat in Canada resulting from the U.S. embargo and foot and mouth disease threatened to mount to proportions embarrassing the government and the whole meat industry back to the farm. In that emergency, and as announced from Ottawa a few weeks ago, surpluses are being skimmed off by the canning method.

Canada Packers have their own meat canning division. Some of the pensioned employees have been called in to help in present circumstances. For canning purposes, the meat has to be freed of bone and fat. It is understood that the eventual canning is largely in 12 ounce tins.

A similar job for UNRRA was done some years ago when distribution of food was an urgent problem.

Messrs. Harry, Lou and Myer Cherney and their sisters, Mrs. Pottens (Helen) of Peterborough and Mrs. Raxlen (Kay) of Toronto, wish to gratefully acknowledge the many expressions of sympathy received on the passing of their mother in Toronto on Sunday, March 23.

Organize Kitchen Appliances In Three Work-Saving-Centres

The best way to eliminate the doubling back; retracing and circling that add up to endless miles of walking in doing kitchen work is to organize appliances around three "work - saving centres." Modern housewives are aware that a streamlined, planned kitchen gives them minimum walking distance between two given points.

Kitchen planners are now measuring the efficiency of a kitchen by the size of the "work triangle" formed by the three paths between appliances. This distance is usually determined by the counter and storage requirements or by necessary clearance between opposite rows of cabinets.

A well-planned kitchen—and there are many shapes—will have a "work triangle" that doesn't total more than 22 feet walking distance. The triangle is formed by the path between the mixing, cooking and clean-up centres. In smaller kitchens, the pattern can be worked out with a 12-foot walking distance.

Too small a distance between appliances indicates that there is not enough counter; too great a distance means that the proportion or the size of the room results in un-economical use of space. Recommended limits between the different centres are: between refrigerator and sink, 4 to 7 feet; between sink and range, 4 to 6 feet; between range and refrigerator, 4 to 9 feet. While there are of course exceptions to these rule-of-thumb standards, these dimensions will generally give best results.

The Clean-Up Centre—usually placed between the range and refrigerator—is the pivot of the modern kitchen. Completely modern sinks have an automatic electric dishwasher and food waste disposal.

Foods cooked with water are prepared at the clean-up centre. Vegetables, fruits and meats are trimmed and washed, and the scraps and parings put into the disposal to be pulverised and washed down the sink drain. Potatoes, for example, can be peeled right into the drain, keeping the sink free of garbage scraps.

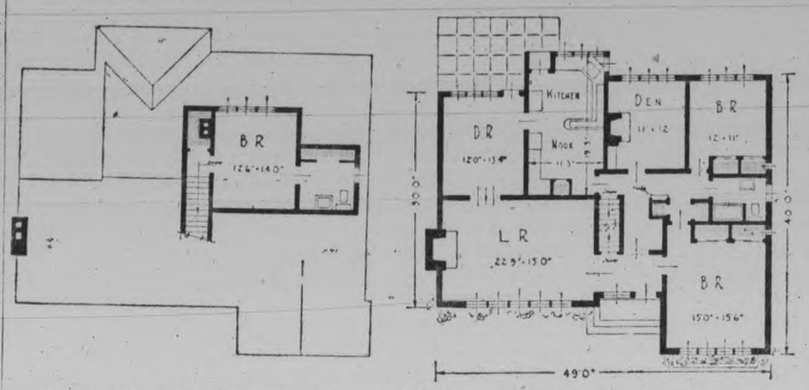
As soiled utensils accumulate, they go into the front opening dishwasher racks, leaving the sink work surface clear. For easier loading, the housewife may want to take the racks out of the machine and place them on the sink. Pots and pans are washed, rinsed, electrically dried at the setting of a dial while the family dines.

Cabinets at this centre should be sufficient to store saucepans, coffee pot, teapot, strainers, brushes and dishwashing detergents, etc. Everyday dinnerware also can be stored here for greater convenience.

The Mix Centre has refrigerator and base and wall cabinets, as well as adjoining work surface. Baked foods, salads and desserts are prepared here. Storage is necessary for mixing bowls and spoons, measuring utensils, sifter, beater, baking pans, etc., and foods used in mixing—sugar, flour, shortening and flavorings. The mix centre should be nearest the entrance where groceries are brought into the house.

The Cooking-Serving Centre is planned around the range. You'll want it near the most frequently used family eating table. Bank either side of the range with work counters. The counter to the left, if no more than 18 inches, is mighty convenient for hot pans, serving dishes, canner loading, etc. To the right you will want at least 2 feet of counter for spreading out baked foods and jars to cool.

A few good rules to remember in placing cabinets are: Top shelves should not be more than 72 inches from the floor, the maximum distance an average woman can reach up and grasp an article; the bottom of the wall cabinets should be about 15 inches above the counter surface; make use of corner space with special corner cabinets.



HOUSE NO. 548—Incorporating many fine features, this modern-style home has a wealth of ideas to offer the prospective home builder. Principal windows overlook the front and back gardens, which permits close neighbours without loss of privacy. Arrangement of rooms is good, and there are ample closets throughout. Two bedrooms and a bathroom are on the ground floor, with a third on the second floor. A private wash room and dressing room is adjacent. For working drawings write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

White School W.I. Learns District Hockey

WARKWORTH, March 29 (ENS) — The March meeting of the White School Branch of the Women's Institute was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Glenn Peterson.

President Mrs. Owen Finlay presided over the meeting.

A donation was sent to the Warkworth library and also a donation was sent to the Warkworth Community Band.

Mrs. Blair Huycke, convener of Historical Research and Current Events was in charge of the following program: Reading by Mrs. M. Skinkle on "Comfort Curtis" and Lawyer Ross Douglas. Mrs. Blair Huycke gave a paper describing how the school sections of Percy township received their names. Mrs. Stanley Brenton gave a reading on "Interior Decorations."

A musical contest on Irish song was won by Mrs. Clifford Skinkle and Mrs. George Grills.

Lunch was served by the hostess and Mrs. Owen Finlay and Mrs. Clifford Skinkle, the lunch conveners.

Learning Bird Calls Fascinating Spring Is Time To Make Study

By PERCY GHENT

Spring is the time to learn bird calls. It's a fascinating game, with the characteristic calls and songs provided by species after species—several hundred of them in Canada alone.

Canadians well know the call of the crow and the rhythm of the robin's song is almost as readily identified. Obligingly, some birds tell you their names in their songs, the whip-poor-will, bobolink and pitpit among them.

In that expanding zone of southern Canada where the cardinal has taken up residence, the high, tuneful whistled call is one of the happiest notes of springtime.

Throughout that wide range from Newfoundland to Alberta, white-throated sparrows tell of their joy at being home again after wintering in the south. "Sweet, sweet, Canada, Canada, Canada," is plainly enough what they are singing, and definitely not "Old Sam Peabody, Peabody, Peabody" as listeners south of the border so mistakenly suppose.

The song-sparrow's song, a tuneful and cherry one, declares he's a "pres-pres-presby-ter-ian," and that affiliation stressing, has doubtless earned the auld kirk's blessing. Should you hear in some woodland an enthusiastic call that sounds like "very, very pleased to meetcha," you may be sure you are listening to a chestnut-sided warbler. "Hip—three cheers," calls the olive-sided flycatcher. Or, as translated by the facetious ones, it's a mildly tipsy, "hic—three beers."

Besides shouting his name all over the spring landscape, that golden-winged woodpecker the flicker, also delights in instrumental music—drumming on any available tin roof.

Nature Lovers

Canada more and more is becoming nature-and conservation-conscious.

Lecturers from the Audubon Society of North America often express their appreciation of Canadian audiences whether the topics they discuss are birds, mammals, insects, trees or flowers.

Toronto was the first city on the continent, they state, where citizens packed a hall as large as Eaton Auditorium on two successive nights to hear nature lectures and see motion pictures from nature. In other Canadian centres they find the appreciation and zest for natural history studies equally evident.

Toronto Field Naturalists' Club, incidentally, with a membership approaching 1,000, has monthly meetings and lectures which pack the theatre of the Royal Ontario Museum.

Footprints In Snow

Hungry mountain lions and grizzly bears came uncomfortably close to Banff and other resorts of the Canadian Rocky Mountains during the winter. Only rarely were they actually seen but their footprints left in the snow and carefully measured by wildlife experts, show them to have been animals of more than average size.

Ayr Store Gutted

AYR, March 29—(CP)—Fire Friday night destroyed William Deakin's general store and meat storage and gutted the adjoining Jones and Ventham egg grading station and feed store. Firemen from Galt, Paris and Plattsville joined the Ayr vounteers but were unable to save the buildings. Loss was estimated at $60,000.

Base Costs Billion

WASHINGTON, March 29 (AP) —The United States army's audit chief, Col. Harry E. Reed, testified Friday that the secret U.S. Polar air base in Greenland is being constructed at a cost of $1,000,000,000. Previous committee testimony had set the cost at only $300,000,000.

Waldorf Suit

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)— Some waiters at the Waldorf-Astoria claim the hotel has short-changed them $3,000,000 in tips in the last six years. In a court suit disclosed Friday, Alias Simadiris asks that the hotel be forced to pay him and other waiters the alleged back pay.

Killed By Own Cross

KLAGENFURT, Austria, March 29 (Reuters)—Karl Coriugg, 32, vowed to give a new figure of Christ to mountain shrine in thanks for his safe return from a prisoner-of-war camp. When he went to replace the old figure Thursday, a cross fell from the shrine and killed him.

Mrs. James Ritchie Temperance Secretary

COLDSPRINGS, March 29 — (ENS)—The March meeting of the Coldsprings W.M.S. was held on Thursday in the Sunday school room. The president, Mrs. A. Jamieson, presided for the business.

The allocation to be reached this year is $400.

An invitation was received and accepted from Bethesda W.M.S. to attend their Easter meeting in Bethesda church on April 24.

The president reported on the National Training School of the the United Church being built in Toronto. A period of two years can be had, to raise money towards this building. It was voted to use the interest on a bond for this purpose, and to be sent at the end of this year.

Mrs. James Ritchie was appointed temperance secretary.

Mrs. A. Taylor had charge of the program, dealing with Europeans in Canada. She was assisted by Mrs. F. Ford, Mrs. W. Teney and Mrs. A. Jamieson. Mrs. N. Lang gave a paper on "Good Deeds Rather Than Words". Mrs. C. Timlin sang a solo. Miss E. Hoskin accompanied for the hymns.

After the meeting, a sale of miscellaneous articles was held for the expense fund. The sum of $23.30 was raised. Mrs. H. McKinley and Mrs. L. McIntosh were in charge of the bazaar table. Lunch was served by Mrs. Percy Davidson and group.

Floods Disrupt C.P.R.

CALGARY, March 29 (CP). — Melting snows on the eastern slopes of the Rockies Friday disrupted the Canadian Pacific Railway's transcontinental line. Elsewhere in Southern Alberta spring flood-waters swelled rivers and creeks. At Medicine Hat, "the "worst runoff flood on record" was predicted unless a cold spell follows the current warmth.

Gas Prices Up

LONDON, Ont., March 29 (CP) Gasoline prices, slashed drastically in a "war" which started late last month, edged up toward normal Friday. Many service stations sold again at the old price of 40½ and 42½ cents a gallon for branded gasoline. Some operators held to prices in the low 30s until they determined whether the upward trend was general.

Movie Column

Everybody Critic For TV Shows

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (AP) People in the television industry are always moaning, "everybody's a critic."

And it's true. Everbody has ideas about what is good and bad on TV. On the theory that enough criticism might bring improvement to the medium, I'm going to get into the act and offer some thoughts about what comes over the home screen. For instance.

When will comedians learn that getting messy with food isn't as hilarious as their writers think it is? The thrown pie was funny when Mack Sennett introduced it. But TV comics have worn the gimmick out.

Last week-end, two young comics strained for laughs by putting butter and jam on their arms and throwing food wildly. Funny? Nope. These two flirt with the borders of good taste more than most others. They're funny enough without seeking comedy from Physical incapacities or imitating girls. That might go in night clubs, but not on home TV.

Talking Commercial

Why oh why do all the soap ads on TV have to be sung? Some day a smart ad man will come up with an old-fashioned talking commercial. It will revolutionize the industry.

One of the most exciting shows on TV is the Ed Murrow program, "See It Now." It emphasizes the fact that TV's greatest worth is in the field of news. But—it is disappointing to see more than half the Murrow show being presented on film. Viewers can see that sort of thing in any newsreel theatre. What they want is news as it's happening.

The "I Love Lucy" show is one of the most amusing of the comedy half-hours. Lucille Ball is undoubtedly the best of the low comediennes (and Imogene Coca the queen of high comedy). But I wish the story situations wouldn't be quite so far-fetched and unbelievable. "My Friend Irma" gets almost as many laughs with plausible happenings and leaves a better impression.

Lowest of the low: The Hucksters who shout at the children in the audience, "now kiddies, go tell your mother that she's got to go to the store and buy the jumbo size box of Crunchie Wunchies."

Foreigners Leaving Egypt To Avoid Nationalist Tide

By GILBERT SEDBON.

CAIRO, March 29 (Reuters)— Egypt's 250,000 foreign residents, faced with a rising tide of Egyptian nationalism, are beginning to move out of the country in increasing numbers and as many as possible are taking their capital with them.

Many of them are seriously considering returning to the countries their fathers or grandfathers left.

Others plan to seek new lives in North or South America, South Africa or Australia.

They see little prospect of a future for them in the country.

The foreign minority, economically important but politically powerless, comprises about 100,000 Greeks, 70,000 Italians, 60,000 French, 35,000 Britons and about 30,000 from some 30 other countries.

They first migrated to Egypt under the rule of Mohammed Aly the Great, founder of the present royal dynasty, shortly after the turn of the 19th century, when he encouraged foreign immigration to promote the welfare of his people.

Heavy Investment

The immigrants were followed by large investments and attendant benefits such as the full development of the country's irrigation and agriculture particularly the cotton crop—Egypt's "white gold," the expansion of exports and trading, the establishment of industries, and a general rise in the standard of living and education.

A recent survey shows foreigners own more than one-third of the $478,800,000 invested in Egyptian companies. However, with the tendency to "Egyptianize" foreign concerns many foreigners have been "squeezed out."

In the Egyptian parliament, senators and deputies have tabled bills for the nationalization of the Suez Canal Company and other giant foreign-controlled concerns including oil, transport and water companies.

The result has been a marked drop in new foreign investments at a time when Egypt should be entering a new era of industrial prosperity.

Prominent Egyptian financiers and statesmen emphasize the dangers of extremism in Egyptian nationalism that may alienate the constructive friendship of foreigners, with disastrous economic consequences.

The Egyptian government is encouraging all foreigners to stay and King Farouk has urged them to resume their full activities and help raise the general living standards of the country.

But foreigners continue to queue outside foreign consulates to get permission to settle abroad.

Dancing Favorite Entertainment For People Living In Aklavik

By JEAN STENTON.

Aklavik on the roof of the world is inhabited by 1,600 people and of these only 150 are white. Although the village edges on the Arctic, it is a place of contrasts. Passengers must fly 900 miles from Edmonton to reach the small N.W.T. settlement, yet Canada maintains a meteorological station, a section of the Canadian Army Signal Corps and a naval base (land). The Hudson's Bay Company trading post does a $300,000 a year business and the Indians and Eskimos can earn $3,000 a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Watt of 555 Chamberlain St., are happy to be back in Peterborough, but they miss their Eskimo and Indian friends on the Mackenzie River Delta; they miss the midnight sun and their 5-pound cabbages; they miss the colorful dances, Aklavik's big social events.

Mrs. Watt, who is a graduate of the Peterborough Normal School, spent 13 months as a teacher in the Arctic, an employee of the Department of Indian Affairs. She worked at the Anglican mission there.

Her husband, Andrew Watt, was one of eight chosen from 400 candidates in Scotland to come to Canada with the Hudson's Bay Company in 1948. He is now a bookkeeper with the Revoy Motors company in Peterborough.

Dancing Popular

Dancing is the most popular event in the settlement. When one section of the population plans to hold one, everyone is invited. There are no racial barriers. The natives are very musical and dearly love a get-together. Their biggest dances are held at Christmas and Easter and the natives pour into the village. The festivities frequently start at midnight and last till 7 a.m.

The Huskies Dance, strictly Eskimo, is held at Christmas and Easter and its colorful movements are enjoyed by the white guests. Their musical instruments are drums . . . skin drums made from a piece of willow forming a circle and caribou skin stretched over it and soaked till tight. It is like a tambourine without sides. A piece of willow, two feet long, is used as a drumstick, Mrs. Watt recalled.

The musicians keep perfect time . . . it's rhythm, not music, she explained. The singing is the musical part and is like a chant. The Eskimos nearly always have gloves on, or in the hands as they act out what is usually the story of a muskrat or walrus hunt. The dancing is actually mostly stamping and moving the arms. The women remain in the background.

The Indians usually hold their dance, a one-hour one, at the same time. After their native dances, they usually switch to other square dances and reels taught through the years by the traders. Guests attend one dance and then switch to the other.

Big Business

Trapping is big business at Aklavik. The Mackenzie delta has thousands of lakes and ponds and the natives are skilled in their jobs.

The muskrat season is from March 1 to June 15 and the natives both trap and shoot. They are excellent shots, almost born with a gun in their hands, Mr. Watt said. The children use bows, arrows and catapults, and are experts. Nearly all have rifles by the time they are 12.

The Eskimos and Indians have no value of money. As soon as they are paid, they toss it away like water, Mr. Watt declared. They are crazy about cowboy pictures and will go to a show every night. They will throw their money away on candy and very gaudy materials for parkas. After June 15, they move into the village's two hotels. Instead of three meals a day, they have about 10 lunches. They may walk downstairs every half hour for something to eat at $1.50 per shot. They act just as they do in their own homes, where they have no regular meals or sleeping hours. They just eat and sleep when they feel like it, Mr. Watt recalled.

"There is lots of gambling with cards," Watt said. "Even small children have a pack of cards and they play their own brand of poker. I have seen thousands of dollars change hands in an evening. Some money goes into trapping equipment, canoes, motors and supplies, but by August 1, they are all broke. From August 1 till the next season they live on debts to the stores which must be paid back.

Don't Like White Diet

"Their food is largely caribou and fish. The natives don't eat fruits, and beef and they hate vegetables. Every season when the children are sent to school, they are deathly sick for about a month until they get readjusted to the diet. The people are great tea drinkers and love ice cream, pie or sweets of any kind," he said.

School lessons have to be adapted to the children living in this northern area. Since they have never seen cars, trains, streets, etc., the subjects are modified to their needs, Mrs. Watt explained. These children learn different types of boats. Where other children learn about factories and industry, they learn fishing, hunting, trapping and trading.

Children Trap

The school children are also allowed to trap. Both the Anglican and Roman Catholic Missions at Aklavik have been allotted a certain number of lakes by the government, where the children are allowed to trap under mission supervision. Time is taken off from school for this important event. Mrs. Watt recalled that each child in the Anglican mission is allowed two traps. They must do their own work completely. They take every afternoon for three or four weeks from March 1 or whenever the season is good and they sell their catch to a trading company. The children must do their own skinning, stretching and bargaining, Mrs. Watt said. The money earned is entirely their own, not the mission's. The staff simply supervises the trapping to get them to the lakes and back safely.

Aklavik is one of several small outposts in Northern Canada. The first building there was the Roman Catholic Mission in 1926. The Anglican Mission today has a staff of between 20 and 25. The residential school has about 170 children who attend from September 1 to July 1. Many have never seen white people till they come to the school.

"There is just one thing that makes Aklavik different from many other parts of Canada," Mrs. Watt said with a twinkling eye. "In Aklavik, there are many more men than women, so Cupid has an excellent opportunity for business."

Atom-Splitting Furnace Is On Way

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE.
Associated Press Science Editor

RALEIGH, N.C., March 29 (AP) —Four gallons of a champagne-like fluid worth nearly a pound of diamonds will be poured into a stainless steel can here in a few months.

The fluid will be water mixed with the A-bomb-type uranium 235. The can will be the world's first private atom-splitting furnace. It is built and owned by the North Carolina state college.

You might mistake this can for a scrubwoman's water pail with mop handles thrusting upward. This illusion is due to 14 pipes emerging from the can. Eight carry water for cooling the furnace.

You could tuck this furnace under your arm and walk out. But it would kill you with the rays emerging from the atomic fuel.

The apparatus will produce atomic energy as incredibly big as the container is little. It will produce transmutation rays (streams of neutrons) with a density about equal to those made in the 24-foot cube of graphite at Oak Ridge, Tenn.—the country's first big atomic furnace.

The can will sit inside an octagonal structure resembling a wayside shrine. This little atomic temple is not much taller than a man (10 feet) and 17 feet broad.

Open To Public

Around it State College is erecting a laboratory, costing, with the reactor, about $500,000. The little shrine sits on a concrete platform in the basement. Around it is a 20-foot wide corridor for working at the reactor faces.

Outside this wal lis a large observation room for students and the public. They will look through a huge goldfish bowl, a watertank enclosed in glass.

They will see port holes around the concrete shrine, each for placing materials in a beam of transmutation rays. All ports are knee high. If a worker accidentally walks in front of a port the rays will hit him around the knees where the harmful effects are small.

The neutron rays from ports travel like bullets. Opposite each port, 20 feet away in the corridor wall, will be an opening for atomic bullets to pass through, out into the earth.

The atomic furnace starts as easily as a scrub woman lifting her mop from a pail. Remote control will lift two rods up out of the fuel in the can. That is all.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission will make a free loan of the fuel. The four gallons will last probably 10 years, possibly much longer. There are no other government strings.

The reactor is part of a new education course. It seeks new knowledge in training of college students to become the engineers of a peacetime atomic age.

"All Lit Up"

VANCOUVER, March 29 (CP) —Walter Jones, 23-year-old longshoreman, felt "all lit up like a Christmas tree" when he made contact with a 4,000-volt power line. He told about it from his hospital bed Friday where he is recovering from burns to the hands, head and back.

Pleasant Dream

MONTREAL, March 29 (CP)—Mayor Camillien Houde, commenting on a statement by Toronto's Mayor Allan Lamport that the St. Lawrence Seaway will make Toronto Canada's metropolis, said he had a small dream of his own Friday. "My dream is that Montreal will maintain the lead she has over Toronto, while our sister city labors after us," he said.

Bush Pilot Dies

EDMONTON, March 29 (CP)—The last chapter has been written in the story of bush pilot Johnny Bourassa. The Bellanca aircraft which he crash-landed 375 miles southeast of Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories was returned here Thursday. The 30-year-old pilot perished in the wilderness last May after striking out on foot from his disabled plane for civilization which he never found.

Government Vet Lifts Quarantine On Farm

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — Dr. Thomas Childs, Canada's chief government veterinarian, said Friday he has lifted the quarantine imposed on a Shelburne, Ont., farm because of an outbreak of an animal disease there.

The animal, a bull, was under observation after coming down with an undiagnosed disease with some symptoms similar to those of foot-and-mouth disease.

Dr. Childs said while he was not certain, he believed the animal was suffering from lump jaw, a rather common animal ailment which causes the jaws to swell. Recovery is rapid.

Not Too Keen

TORONTO, March 29—(CP)—Civic officials aren't taking too kindly to a request from nine German tightrope artists — "Des Zugspirzartistan" — to put on a performance over Toronto's downtown streets. The group has been performing in Brazil as part of a world tour which is supposed to reach its climax in a tightrope crossing of Niagara Falls. Officials here suggested the group perform over an east-end ravine.

Wed In Barbados

TORONTO, March 29 (CP) — Mrs. J. Earl Lawson was married recently in Bridgetown, Barbados, to V. A. Mason, a British banker, it was learned Friday. Mrs. Lawson is the widow of J. Earl Lawson, Canada's onetime minister of national revenue.

Inventories Highest

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — Canadian manufacturers had inventories of an all-time high value of $3,584,400,000 in January, the Bureau of Statistics reported Friday. This was nearly 28 per cent above the January, 1951, figure of $2,806,000,000.

EVERYTHING BUT THE SINK—Critics of the outdated Ottawa coat-of-arms say it contains a "miscellaneous collection of hardware," and almost "everything but the kitchen sink." The Board of Control has set up a committee to see what can be done about changing it. Heading the move to scrap the coat-of-arms is Mayor Charlotte Whitton who said: "The broadaxe doesn't look like a broadaxe at all—it's a meat cleaver."

Cavan News

Mrs. J. Gainer, Bailieboro, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Hogg.

Mrs. J. McKnight was hostess to the Seventh and Eighth Line quilters Tuesday afternoon. One quilt was made during the afternoon and patches put together for another.

Service in St. John's Anglican Church was withdrawn on Sunday on account of the severe ice storm which tied up traffic in this area on Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Cavan maple syrup makers are at work but so far the run of sap has not been heavy.

Big Federal Works Program Underway In Northumberland

COBOURG, March 29 (ENS)—A good crowd turned out Friday afternoon at Colborne for the annual meeting of the Northumberland County Liberal Association. As far as the Liberal party at Ottawa was concerned, everyone at the meeting seemed quite happy and in regard to the defeat in the provincial elections the feeling was one of solace in the fact that it was no fault of the county organization. The advice from the county Liberal executive was to keep the organization alive by having active workers.

Dr. Fred Robertson, Cobourg, M.P. for Northumberland, touched briefly on the Ontario defeat and then swung to the work of the party at Ottawa. Referring to what had been done for his own riding, he pointed out that the new ordnance depot at Cobourg, on which work was underway, would run into many millions in cost and would do much for the county of Northumberland. Thirty per cent of the depot personnel would be military and the remainder civilian. Repairs to the centre pier at Cobourg were going to cost $230,000 and the government would do the work this year. After many long years of waiting, Colborne was having a new post office this year, and work had already started on it. A big help in getting these things for the county had been furnished by Senator William Fraser, former M.P. for Northumberland, the speaker said.

Dr. Robertson said that the federal government had taken prompt measures in dealing with the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan. The United States had closed its border to export of cattle from Canada and the embargo would likely remain until after the U.S. elections if certain powerful interests over there had their way. Beef prices might fall and although many would welcome the lower prices, the fact still remained that agriculture must be protected.

William Benedickson, parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Transport quoted Time Magazine when it declared that the strong Canadian dollar was a symbol of Canada's growing strength and that in the past 12 years Canada had shown the most impressive growth of any nation. The vice-president of one of the largest banks in the United States had pointed out that Canada was an example of sound government with a minimum of red tape. The stability of Canada was evident from the willingness of U.S. financiers to invest in this country.

Fought Tyranny

Continuing, the speaker declared that the Liberal government had fought tyranny and obtained responsible government, and had brought into existence the public schools and the free ballot. Socialists were inclined to say that the Liberal party favoured big business and in turn big business sometimes asserted that the Liberal party favoured the socialists. Farmers said that the Liberals favoured labor and labor said the opposite.

He went on to show the comparatively larger extent to which Ontario had participated in various subsidies and aids, which he said was evident proof that the Dominion government was not favouring western provinces.

In connection with corporation taxes, the government had differentiated between the big business and the small business classification. Since he entered parliament in 1945 he had seen the government keep its promises by providing a rehabilitation scheme for servicemen which had not been equalled; employment reach the highest level and highest wages in history, and family allowances and increase of old age pensions had been outstanding pieces of social legislation.

It was true that Mr. Abbott had overestimated expediture but it was also true that Premier Frost had estimated to spend 265 millions but had spent 304 millions. Mr. Abbott's overestimate was actually only a delay in certain defence commitments which would have to be met later on. One half of corporation taxes come from the large corporations and one half the income tax comes from people making more than $5,000 a year.

Chairman of the meeting was William Hogel, of Campbellford. Elected for 1952 were William Hogel, Campbellford, president of the County Liberal Association; Bob Love, of Cobourg, first vice-president; Jack Ball, of Baltimore, second vice-president, and J. C. M. German, Q.C., of Cobourg, secretary-treasurer.

Irrigation Would Change Farming In Saskatchewan

MOOSE JAW, Sask.—(CP)—An irrigation-minded physician from Outlook, Sask., is one of the biggest boosters of the proposed South Saskatchewan River power and irrigation project.

Dr. W. B. Tufts, president of the Saskatchewan River Development Association, says development of the South Saskatchewan would bring as great a revolution in the west as the fur trade brought to the prairies in the pioneer years.

In past years, Saskatchewan people chose a variety of alternatives during dry spells.

"They grumbled, prayed, left the country, changed their politics and hired rain-makers," Dr. Tufts says. But the trial and error period is passing.

The story of the outlook area is typical of the dry districts of the big grain-growing province.

The district's population has dropped from 40,000 to 22,000 since 1925, the farm population has slipped from 30,000 to 18,000, the wheat yield has fallen to an average of six bushels per acre and the average net farm income today is only $50 a month.

In 1931 there were 4,000 school children attending 110 schools in the district. Today there are only 1,600 students in 57 schools.

Hugh Relief Sum

Dr. Tufts says that in the last 30 years the government contributed $57,000,000 in direct relief to keep the Outlook district alive . . . "enough to build the dam."

These are the benefits he says will be reaped by construction of the irrigation dam at Outlook:

(1) A good crop could be grown every year instead of every four or five years.

(2) A livestock industry could be built up with irrigated pastures and feed lots, feeding 1½ head per acre instead of "one critter to 40 acres and shoot 'em when the dry spell comes;

(3) Farm income would move up to $300 per acre instead of $600 per year for a 360-acre farm;

(4) Wheat acreage would average 60 bushels instead of six;

(5) The rural population would be 40 to 60 persons to the square mile instead of three;

(6) New power would electrify farm homes, new industry would spring up, more and cheaper power would flow into prairie towns; and

(7) The young people could stay and find jobs and new opportunities to build a greater Saskatchewan instead of quitting the province.

For Parents Only

Attaching Blame Difficult Two Sides To Every Story

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Who is to blame?" How many weary parents have impatiently asked this question. Their child has been into mischief, some damage to property has been done, or there has been a quarrel which has progressed from name-calling to fighting.

Mother or dad want to live in peace with their neighbours. Order must be restored. This disturbance is a nuisance and the parents are annoyed.

It is very natural to look for a "scape goat' 'and heap all the blame on him. Individuals, and nations, too, have been doing this for a long time. Hitler, when Germany was going through a difficult period, picked out the Jews. He accused them of being the reason for the nation's trials and his treatment of the Jewish race was horrible beyond description.

Tempted To Be Dictators

But quite ordinary folk who loathe dictatorships are sometimes tempted to follow Hitler's example. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will feel more comfortable if they are assured that it is the child down the street and not their own son who has broken the windows in the empty apartment house. They want to be able to point the finger of scorn at someone else. They say, "Let us get this trouble settled quickly so we can forget about it."

Some parents don't even pause to inquire "who is to blame?" They either immediately jump to the conclusion that their youngster is completely innocent and begin building up a case against the other children involved in the incident, or they may take the opposite line—at once pounce on their child as the guilty one. Punishment is promptly administered and they feel that at least they are not "sparing the rod and spoiling the child."

High Regard For Justice

But what about the reaction of the boy or girl? Children have a high regard for justice. If they know they are partly to blame, and mother keeps on insisting that it certainly wasn't their fault, they are apt to feel confused or even guilty.

If they are punished severely—(or even lightly) when they are sure that this time they were absolutely in the right, their resentment is fierce. "Mother didn't even give me a chance to tell my side o fthe story," they mutter to themselves. "Next time I'll do as I like. If I'm going to catch it from her, even when I'm not to blame."

The parent role as judge will be easier if he gives his child a chance to state briefly "what happened?" The child who is crying should have a moment or two to calm down. If there are two or three children in the family who are implicated, let each describe what happened, in turn, without interruption.

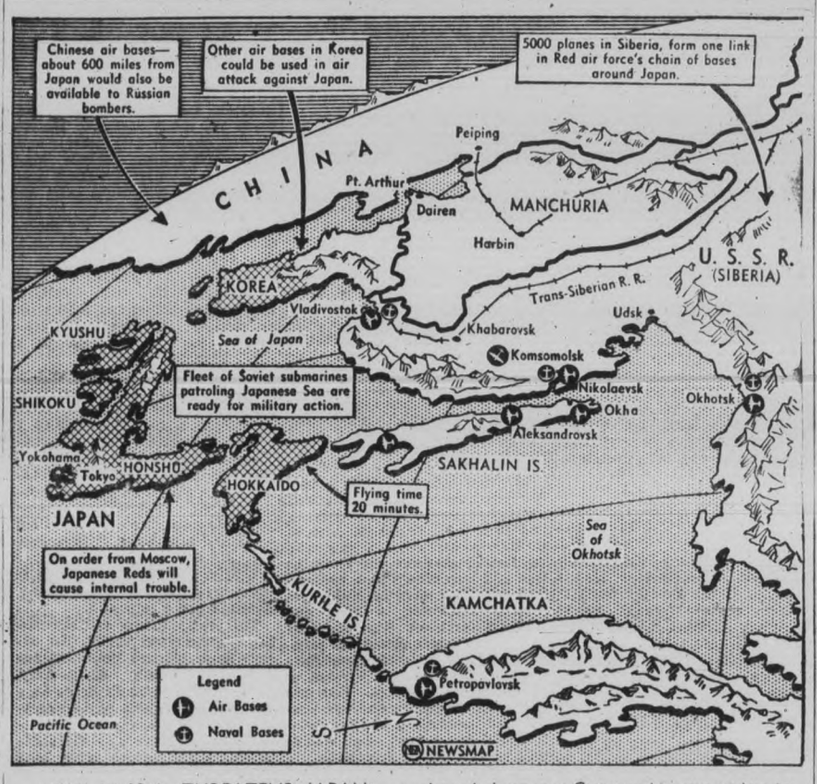
"How did it happen?" forces the child to look back on the incident and try to discover just why it came about. This is a good question, because, as they get older, they will recognize that often no one person is to blame for a mishap. Likely several people share the responsibility for initiating a wrong course.

"What can be done about it?" guides the child into thinking of ways to repair damage he has had a finger in. If his quarrel has been with another child, he chooses some way to repair the strained relationship.

When parents stand by at all times, even through trying and painful ones, there is a good possibility that every situation can be a learning one. Both children and adults are bound to make mistakes. There is hope for the race so long as the same error is not repeated a second time.

Mother and dad can best help their child, not just by asking "Who is to blame?" but by encouraging their child to recall what happened, to ponder over the causes and to make a wise decision about what can be done about the mistake.

The ability to look objectively at a situation and the willingness to accept the consequences of one's actions are very vital in growing up. So let's scrap, "Whose to blame?" and substitute "What happened? How did it happen? and What can be done about it"



HOW RUSSIA THREATENS JAPAN—Newsmap above shows precarious position of Japan with Communist air power surrounding her. According to Gen. Matthew Ridgway, Russia just completed building a fast-striking military force in Siberia which could be used against Japan at any time. In addition to this military threat from abroad, Japanese Communists are trying to take over labor unions, media of communications, and are forming cells advocating violence. This is the same pattern used by the Chinese Reds in their victory over China. Ridgway said, U.N. troops would stay in Japan after a peace treaty to oppose such Soviet ambitions.

Executive Receives Pins

The Mothers' Auxiliary of No. 7 Cub Pack of St. Paul's Church held a meeting Friday evening in the guild room. President Mrs. W. R. Philp presided and about 30 members were present. Highlight was a talk by Cubmaster James McLeod who was introduced by Mrs. H. Hewitt and thanked by Mrs. Wallace Caldwell. At the close Mr. McLeod presented Mothers' Auxiliary pins to the executive members. Mrs. W. Turner and Mrs. James McLeod brought interesting reports of recent Cub mothers' rallies in the city. Mrs. J. E. Watters led the group in lively games and Mrs. Al. Spencely sang two solos. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gordon Minty and assistants.

Reports On Organ Project

The monthly meeting of All Saints' Women's Church Year was held Thursday with president Mrs. J. Morley presiding. Mrs. C. Gilders read the scripture. A delightful solo was sung by Mrs. C. Foster, accompanied by Mrs. H. G. Hartle. Mrs. R. Ford read the advisory council report. Treasurer Mrs. T. Cook announced the month's collection was $146.38. It was decided to transfer $50.00 from the general purpose fund to the general fund. Mrs. Morley reported on the meeting she attended concerning the type of organ needed and the cost of one, which is the present project of the association. The Women's Church Year has been asked to help with the anniversary tea on May 15th. April meeting will be held in the evening. Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Border and her assistants.

Baby Band Mothers Present Fashion Parade At Mark St.

Two hundred and fifty attentive spectators were in the Sunday school hall of Mark St. United Church Friday evening to view the spring fashion parade presented by the Baby Band Mothers. They were extended a hearty welcome by the president Mrs. Horace Guppy and each one received a trio of favors from door attendants.

Commentary to aid in appraising the clothes and jewellry and fur accessories was most charmingly and efficiently given by Mrs. Murray Irwin. Also effective were the piano stylings by Miss Marilyn Pomeroy.

The children managed to steal their part of the show completely. Somehow the notes on their clothes became mislaid, and assistants were scribbling frantically behind the scenes. But each one, from two years up, was a perfect little picture on the stage though mostly too shy to go to the end of the runway.

Little girls modelled adorable wee dresses, matching coat and hat sets and play clothes, and little boys were very proud in long pants and blazers.

Glamorous part of the evening came, as it usually does, at the end. The bride in this wedding scene was Miss Peggy Noyes and the gown was a beautiful creation of Alecon lace and nylon with the fingertip veil of silk illusion deeply bordered with matching lace. As bridesmaids, Misses Donna Grills and Marilyn Moore were identically gowned in pale blue taffeta, the dresses featuring tucking on the skirts to match the bodice revers.

Young flower girl, Diane Elliott, wore an ankle length pink sheer dress with ruching on the skirt giving a tier-like effect, and her bonnet hat was of white straw with pink trim. Lovely floral bouquets completed the ensembles. Mrs. W. Ferguson modelled a dress suitable for the bride's mother of light navy faille and lace.

A group of lovely evening frocks were highlighted by a pale blue nylon net over taffeta with jewel-studded lace jacket, and in pretty mauve with unusual neckline treatment, the material embroidered all over with silver thread. Sparkling rhinestone jewelry was lovely with these gowns.

One of the prettiest afternoon frocks, suitable for summer weddings, was of pale blue nylon with white daisy trim on collar and pockets. This was modelled by attractive Mrs. Sid Craig. She looked very nice, too, in a red shortie coat which had notched revers and pockets cut out to match and she also wore an elegant shawl pocket reefer of ebony black Persian lamb.

The spring coats were mostly shorties with nicely swinging backs. Included was the new biscuit shade which was also shown in a full length, loose back style, very becoming on Miss Noyes with her tan accesories. She also showed the "quiltie" dress in gold bengaline.

A cool summery dress was of orlon, the fabric akin to nylon which washes easily and doesn't crease, and the color too was cool—lime yellow. A detachable cape dress was in black and white check, with the cape lined in red, shown by Mrs. George Faiers.

The "strictly good" dress of the show was in irridescent grey taffeta with finely pleated bodice and fan-like pleating forming an apron on the graceful skirt. It was worn by Mrs. Robert Russell. Another lovely dress was of silver grey taffeta in two piece style, trimmed with red and rhinestone buttons. Mrs. Floyd Samis modelled matron's styles, proving that the half-size figure can be just as smartly turned out.

Small furs with the suits, and capes, stoles and jackets for the early spring were admired. One of the most attractive hats was a sailor in natural straw with red ribbon band.

Cold drinks were served to everyone during a brief intermission in the show. All members of the group, numbering about 50, were assisting with this very successful presentation.

The adult models were Mrs. Max Green, Mrs. H. Bromley, Mrs. Sid Craig, Mrs. D. Gillespie, Mrs. Max Gordon, Mrs. G. Faiers, Mrs. G. Manley, Mrs. W. Ferguson, Mrs. Robert Russell, Mrs. F. Samis and Misses Donna Grills, Marilyn Moore and Peggy Noyes.

The children were: Gail Ferguson, Sally McMullen, Eunice Weaver, Sharon Smith, Elizabeth Sanderson, Diane Howland, Sharon Green, Donna, Armstrong Diane Elliott, Carol Craig, Brenda Cooper, Joanne Poolman, Linda Russell, Sheila Downer, Sandra Simpson, Ann McKeiver, Joanne Miller, Jewell Brown, Brian Green, Bobby Davis, Ross Toms, Brian Beggs and David Toms.

Spring Fashion Creates Starring Role For Dresses With Lines Full Of Flattery

Designers and coutourieres this Spring all share in a single deside and an admirable one, too . . . it's to make women as pretty as possible.

Look at the trick fashion played on milady in the twenties and thirties. Both French and American designers presented a style lacking in grace and in elegance.

The boyish figure was in vogue, the waistline hugged (with a singular lack of affection) a lady's hips and knobby or fat knees were painfully revealed. To heap coals upon this ridiculous figure, hat designers stuck a bucket-shaped Cloche upon the poor girl's head, pulled it well down over her ears and eyes and announced, somewhat grimly, this was fashion.

Feminine Styles

But the Spring of this year fashion tells a different story Designers love ladies and they're giving full rein to their passion by producing styles that are feminine . . . pretty . . . and with something of the dramatic elegance of the Gay Nineties.

The opening of a new fashion season embraces all the excitement . . . the hushed expentancy . . . and the thrilling wonder of the first night of a play opening.

The curtain goes up — and the spotlight is turned on the star of the opening — the Spring dress.

And this season promises to delight the feminine audience and reward their highest expectations!

This Spring — your dress will swirl and billow with all the captivating grace of a prima ballerina. It presents you at your loveliest . . . it dramatizes everything enchanting and utterly feminine about you.

There are many versions of this new full-skirted influence—the bell, standing out from a tiny waist, rippling all 'round pleats, the hip-yoke fullness, and the Dior-inspired back-fullness.

And the understudy of this leading fashion—is the petticoat!

Fashion-wise women will be wearing them by the twos and threes! It's definitely a case of the more the merrier.

Petticoats will rustle and whirl this Spring, wherever smart women gather.

And, of course, with wide, wide skirts playing such an important role, waistlines must look tiny in contrast.

This is achieved through the slimming princess line . . . with Spencer jackets and the high-waisted Empire line.

The Empire influence adds even more flattery to the feminine figure with its artfully placed tucks and gathers underscoring the bustline.

Tiny jackets, the graceful capelets, and the swirl-away taffeta coat all mate with Spring dresses to achieve the important costume look.

Never has color been used with such a lavish hand as have the dress designers painted the fashion picture for Spring '52'.

Shantung stands out for its brilliant colors and for the high-on-the-fashion-list slubbed look!

Crisp, rustling taffetas are getting rave notices for their glorious colors, irridescent effects, and bold stripes.

All in all, in designing dresses for this exciting season, fashion has created a starring role—presenting women at their loveliest and most captivating—the completely feminine woman!

Successful Business Woman Claims People Protected

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK—(AP)—"You've got to be scared!"

That's the philosophy of "Ma" Ewen, who is credited with starting the multi-million-dollar tourist business which is one of Jamaica's principal industries.

Today's young people are likely to be too pampered, protected and petted, says the 75-year-old Mrs. Ewen. They are inclined to take the easiest course, and if things don't go well, to proceed on the theory that the world owes them a living.

"Ma" Ewen got scared back in the early 1920s, when hoof-and-mouth disease wiped out Jamaica's cattle herds and brought the Ewen ranch close to bankruptcy. Her husband, the late Rupert Ewen, a successful cattle rancher, was caught in the panic.

"Ma" (who was christened May Belle) was not one to take misfortune lying down. She acquired a run-down villa at Montego Bay, got to work with scrub brushes and paint and set about devising lures for tourist trade.

Today her Casa Blanca is a resort known from New York to London. The guest list reads like a roster of the world's "Who's Who."

The original villa now includes a large cottage colony as well as the colorful, rambling main building, built directly over the turquoise waters of Montego Bay.

"Ma" now finds most of her excitement in a stiff game of cards or chess, at which she can beat most of the experts. She's a rabid horse race fan, loves any game with an element of chance. Says she:

"Life is a gamble, and the tougher the odds, the sweeter the victory. But you have to know how to fight, how to roll with the punches, how to hang on to hope when things look blackest. If you can teach your children that, the world is their oyster."

Junior Swim Club Shows Progress

The Junior Ornamental Swimming Club on Friday evening gave a display of their progress in the first five months' time for a gallery of invited guests at the Y.W.C.A. pool. This included only their parents and close relatives, members of the City Council, Lions Club and Recreation Commission.

Coach Mrs. Pansy Forbes introduced the program which presented the juniors in three synchronized numbers. They appeared overanxious to do well and so got a little bit out of line at times but it was clear they are making rapid progress and should have the rough edges polished by the time of their first public appearance on June 25.

Mrs. Isobel Crary and Mrs. Norma Douglas of the Senior Club were assisting and the Senior Club presented two pattern numbers and a solo by Miss Jean Millard.

Junior swimmers, ranging in age from three years are June Castle, Janice Crary, Judy Doughty, Mila Dennison, Deana Sue Delahaye, Rosemary Epston, Mary Gardenier, Anne Gariepy, Donna Goodson, Carol Howe, Marilyn Hewitt, Carley Lynch, Hariot Moldaver, Annabel Morley, Margaret Murduff, Carol Parnell, Mary Russelle, Lynda Touchburn, Marjorie and Geraldine Vinnette.

They were wearing deep rose shade bathing suits and white caps, and they have terry cloth robes in red and green showing their club crest. Mrs. J. Young is in charge of costuming and they are governed by a Mother's Auxiliary of which Mrs. W. Parnell is president.

Five Fashions In New Spring Mood

THE LOOK OF FASHION THIS SPRING is to be seen in these five models. A pale blue Honan silk dress in a well-fitted jacket, LEFT, that curves over the umbrella skirt of the underdress. In the, INSIDE LEFT, is a black moygashel linen coat lined in emerald green that can double as a dress and the key-printed silk dress is black and green on white while in, CENTRE, is a loose-fitting coat highlighted by twin capelets at the shoulderline with a wide box pleat in back. A parasol pleated skirt, INSIDE RIGHT, in a frock of parchment beige wool with bone buttons on jacket, while at, RIGHT, is a navy miroleen with plaid silk taffeta draped through neckline and belt.

Teen-Agers Learn Value Of 'Separates'

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)—The smartest of London's teen-agers have learned to appreciate the value placed by North American women on "separates."

Faced with the rising cost of living, more and more of Britain's working millions, salaried at £6 and under, make a bee-line for that odd, smart jacket, colored sweater and smartly-styled blouse.

Such things as the high-collared swagger in vivid green or red velour, with deep cuffs and swinging back, costing just over £5, are front-line choices. Blouses and jumpers priced at £2 and under also find favor.

Take, for instance, the allure of a vivid yellow Mandarin jacket in quilted spun rayon, worn with a strapless black top and matching black quilted skirt. At a total cost of just under £5 10s, what could be better for that informal dance date?

Not only that, a teen-ager with clever fingers can change the outfit completely by alternating the jacket with a satin or taffeta stole in subtle pastel shading, made from materials costing well under £1.

Among the most popular of teenage styles are pinafore skirts with all-round pleating and smartly-styled lapels. In pastel shades, dark colors and houndstooth checks costing less than £4, these are invaluable with a variation of dolman-sleeved blouses and jumpers.

Smart Party Outfit

For that "arty" party in London's Chelsea district, a smart outfit is the Kingfisher-green blazer jacket with low belting on the loose back and reefer front, combined with low-necked boucle sweater and matching heavy ribbed skirt in black. Bought separately each article is well within the teen-age pocket. Completing the picture are Cuban-heeled shoes and a baby deer-stalker cap of black grosgrain.

Secret of the well-dressed woman with a limited bank roll is, of course, clever choice of low-priced accessories. So far, spring news in Britain is heartening. Already, shops are sporting such summer wear as handbags of glistening pastel cellophane straw with black patent handles, priced under £2. A glossy navy straw with white plastic handles costs even less.

Worn on summer days with printed cotton dresses, basket-weave or patent leather sandals and a smart, velour bolero, they will be seen on many of Britain's beaches.

For the first time, hooped petticoats will be a No. 1 fashion in summer styles. At long last, tarlatan and taffeta numbers in plain or checked design come at prices accessible to most pockets and look attractive under dark, button-fronted linen dresses opened to the waist.

Foot Beauty Dates Back To Greeks

Painting toenails was an established custom long before anyone ever thought of painting finger nails. The ancient Greeks considered the foot a thing of beauty. Their sandals, which were nothing more than leather soles attached to the foot by thongs, provided ample protection and comfort, and left most of the foot exposed to the public gaze. So both men and women were careful to preserve the health and beauty of their feet.

Health and Beauty

In recent years, modern women have rediscovered the fact that health and beauty are inseparable, and that feet cannot be ignored in this connection. That's why fashions stress more and more the free and unconfined foot, protected by leather soles to build firm muscle tone and a lithe and graceful carriage. The vogue of open shoes is an unconscious revelation of the age-old importance attached to feet as a symbol of and an aid to beauty. Feet are more visible than in any past season and preview of Spring styles for 1952 shows that open models will be very much in vogue.

Choose Correct Fit

Well-dressed women know that the key to good looks above and below the hemline depends on the maximum possible combination of comfort and style. From the multitude of shoe fashions they choose, with an eye to correct fit, the right shoe for each occasion, with emphasis upon flexibility and shape-retaining smartness of leather soles. The same psychological factors which once made Greeks and Romans glorify the foot are operating in Mid-Twentieth Century Canada.

Protein Stains

Food stains containing proteins — those that result from milk, cheese, meat or egg—are best removed by first soaking in cold water and, then laundering in warm soapsuds. Protein-containing stains on upholstery can be treated with pepsin powder which "digests" the stains if no other treatment has been tried previously.

Sprinkle the stain with pepsin powder from any drug store and rub it in well. Keep the stain damp and covered with the powder for half an hour. Rinse off well with a clean, slightly damp cloth. To brighten color, sponge the stain with water containing a few drops of ammonia.

If the stain is on a washable slip cover, toss the slip cover into the wash for a good sudsing after the pepsin treatment.

What's Right?

You take your wife to lunch.

WRONG: Don't bother to talk to her during the meal.

RIGHT: Carry on a conversation as you would feel it only courteous to do with any guest.

Student Nurses Enjoy Governors' Annual Ball

Silver stars and multicolored balloons and streamers provided attractive decorations for the annual formal dance for the student nurses of Civic hospital given by the Board of Governors Friday night at the nurses' residence.

The student nurses and their escorts and other guests were received by Mayor Hugh Waddell and Mrs. Waddell, Mr. M. J. Swanston, chairman of the board, and Mrs. Swanston, and Miss Beverley Gamble, president of the student council, and Mr. Gordon Hunt.

Late in the evening a buffet supper was served.

Spot dances were won by Miss Frances Cameron and Mr. Al Plunkett, Miss Muriel Mann and Mr. Ron Frankish and Miss Barbara Loucks and Mr. R. Garder. The elimination dance was won by Miss Patricia Martyn and Mr. J. Baker and Miss Ella Keeting and Mr. D. Comtes.

Miss Barbara Loucks and Mr. Bob Gardner, Miss Fae Jones and Mr. John Outram, Miss Alice Moncrief and Mr. Bruce Mather, Miss Fran Hannan and Mr. Tom Armitage, Miss Jeanne Bell and Dr. Jack Peter, Miss Lillian Luther and Mr. Ralph Tremills, Miss Marion Seymour and Mr. Havelock Lunan, Mis Joan Giffen and Mr. Bill Douglas, Miss Carol Chestnut and Mr. William Perry, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Roberts, Miss Mae Renwick and Mr. Jack Olaveson, Miss Marion Dugan and Mr. Michael Quinlan, Miss Barbara Pratt and Mr Lee Darwin, Miss Muriel Mann and Mr. Ross Fleming, Miss Mary Gay Scott and Mr. Peter Donaldson, Miss Charlotte McArthur and Mr. Leonard Bredin.

Miss June Bullied and Mr. Kelly Metcalfe, Miss Jacqueline Tyndall and Mr. Douglas Jackman, Miss Beryl Aker and Mr. Jack Wakeford, Miss Joan Graham and Mr. Albert Smith, Miss Beverley Dawes and Mr. John Frisken, Miss Sheilagh Corrigan and Mr. Bill Drummond, Miss Evelyn Brooks and Mr. Bob Sweet, Miss Jean Lee and Mr. Don Smith, Miss Elizabeth Taylor and Mr. Elwood Foster, Miss Nesta Williams and Mr. Harry McNabb, Miss Margaret MacTaggart and Mr. Kenneth Wilcox, Miss Betty Berry and Mr. Leo Hill, Miss Wilma Seymour and Mr. Dick Batten, Miss Bev Starr and Mr. A. Bullock, Miss Cathy Craig and Mr. Keith Wood, Miss Ruth M. Poole and Mr. Charles Stoddart.

Miss Joan Creighton and Mr. Maxwell Clarke, Miss Eileen Bartman and Mr. Frank Mohun, Miss Eileen Stirling and Mr. Jim White, Miss Dorothy Connell and Mr. John Webster, Miss Joan Zufelt and Mr. Bob Saville, Miss Betty Rogers and Mr. Grant Burns, Miss Marilyn Bowles and Mr. Glen Stark, Miss Mary Morrison and Mr. John Bakker, Miss Nancy Varcoe and Mr. Don Masters, Miss Doreen Rogers and Mr. Douglas Perry, Miss Wilma Young and Mr. Bill Traynor, Miss Laurene Keeting and Mr. Dave Coates, Miss Margaret Forsyth and Mr. Charlie Bain, Miss Marian Jones and Mr. Douglas Darling, Miss Muriel Buck and Mr. Tommy Stark.

Spring's Silhouette Softer, Tiny-Waisted, Full-Skirted

The fresh breeze blowing through the fashion world this spring is beautifully expressed in the newest suits . . . never have they been prettier . . . never have they suited a lady's charms so well.

Still worn over petticoats . . . still wide in silhouette . . . the newest skirts are flared with hardly a ripple in the hemline. Many have fullness in the front only . . . others have unpressed pleats.

The fullness is handled with a delicate hand for the woman who likes its softness and flattering line, but does not want the junior look of the whirling skirt.

In keeping with the dressy look of spring fashions, suits are more dressmaker in type . . . there are many soft details . . . embroidery . . . velvet inserts . . . scrolls . . . and jewelled buttons.

Emphasis lies on the feminine curve even in tailored suits. The belled hipline, the result of padding or hidden stiffening, is still the most popular look for the short, tight jackets.

Here the beloved Spencer stands out as the basis for the smartest suit wardrobes. But there are many styles to choose from . . . jackets with narrow self belts, box shapes, jackets long enough to double as a short coat and boleros. The right skirt for each suit seems to depend on the length of the jacket . . . the shorter the jacket, the wider the skirt.

Hug the Throat

Necklines hug milady's throat . . . some, with small collars, others tight-fitting and high with no collar . . . the perfect background for pretty jewels or a small light fur.

The spring suit story is told in grey, light and dark flannel, fine pinchecks, fine stripes . . . some from France, some from Britain . . . with chocolate brown introduced for some silk suits.

For the first time, navy is forced to take a back seat in the fashion parade. The brighter-than-navy blue appears often for both wool and silk suits. Strangely enough the long-time favorite gabardine has lost its top place in the suit family and is, this spring, something of a stepchild.

The pretty, dressy suit is beautifully showcased in silk. The accent is on tailored lines that are dressed-up with embroidery, either in simple chalk beads on a small collar or more extravagantly, crystal and pearls are encrusted on small revers. Organdie touches highlight the dainty look . . . either in organdy collars or in the snowy fall of a soft gilet.

Taffeta . . . the iridescent shantungs . . . slubbed silks . . . pure silks, soft as a butterfly's wings . . . all are lovely for the dressy silk suits. Many are lined with rustling taffeta to give a buoyant look to skirts.

But the suit — able look for spring is the right look for the fashion conscious woman. Dressy . . . dainty . . . slim and tailored . . . one of the newest suits is sure to make you look your loveliest this spring.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Fanatical Housekeeper Can Ruin Her Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: My worry is my daughter. She is married to a wonderful husband, who works hard and is a good provider. They have one child, a year old. My daughter, however, is so obsessed with keeping her house in immaculate order she is in a constant state of irritation from overwork. Her husband owns a store, and hasn't much time to be home; when he is with her, she is continually complaining about the amount of work she has, yet she won't let up the least bit. I'm afraid that her nagging, coming at him when he, too, is tired from a hard day's work, will result in trouble between them.

I live alone in my own house, and am perfectly content. I visit my daughter frequently, and would like to help, but no one does work to please her. My son-in-law would like me to live with them, but I prefer not to.

MRS. M. N. T.

ANSWER: You very accurately foresee the danger ahead if your daughter continues to put housework before the welfare of her family. Many women have the same compulsion to maintain an apple-pie home at the expense of family relationships, and seldom do they change. Of course a smaller house, or an apartment, entails less work and would give a housekeeper more time for rest, and relaxation.

Husband Needs Peace

When a husband returns home from a hard day's work, the thing he would most like to find is a quiet, peaceful home. Women, by this time, are pretty well educated to the fact that Daddy should not be met at the door with a tale of Junior's latest delinquencies. They have not been so quick, however, in realizing that housework should be over—or at least put aside—in order to give the breadwinner a peaceful evening. There is absolutely no virtue in a woman working herself to death just for the pleasure of basking in the limelight of martyrdom. She neither deserves nor should receive sympathy. Furthermore, in spite of her own beliefs, she is not a good housekeeper—and much less is she a homemaker. A good, really efficient housekeeper keeps her home in good order, clean, tidy, without fanfare or exhaustion. The frantic scrubbing to which neurotic women are addicted simply indicates a fanatical obsession with one phase of housekeeping, while all the others are neglected. Maintaining a successful home, as I have said many many times before, calls up every resource the modern woman has at hand. A successful housewife combines the best characteristics of cook, seamstress, decorator, nurse, secretary, diplomat and civic worker. Allotting to each job its own percentage of effort instead of spending all one's energy on a scrub brush is what makes a well-adjusted, balanced woman of the house—a wife and mother who is really doing a good job.

You are right to keep your own home, and to turn down the kind invitation to share your daughter's polished premises. You would never be at ease in the house, and would yourself become an object of daughter's irritation. Continue your visits and lend a hand wherever possible; more than that I'm afraid you cannot do.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Recently I've been going with a boy I like very much. My parents also like him. The trouble is, he says I'm always talking with my friends but when I'm with him I have nothing to say. Personally, I thing a boy prefers a girl who doesn't talk a lot. JEAN.

ANSWER: The amount of talking a girl does on a date depends on her escort's conversational ability. If he doesn't talk much, she must fill in the gaps. If he's a good talker, it's up to her to be a good listener. In your case, the responsibility for keeping up a conversation depends on you Don't shirk it. Before a date, read up on whatever sports your boy friend likes, learn some jokes or anecdotes, listen to a few radio programs. With this material, plus some small talk or school affairs, you should be able to carry on.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 14 and have been going with a boy for six months. He has just been asked by his brother to come to another state to help with the family for a while. He'll be gone four to six months. He has told me to go out with other boys while he's gone, but I'd rather wait for him. What do you advise? R. I.

ANSWER: Your friend is quite right. At 14 you're too young to be so seriously concerned with one boy only. Make new friends and don't spend the time of your friend's absence moping.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: Sometime when you have space would you kindly print a recipe for porcupines—a dish with raw rice and hamburger made into balls and baked in tomatoes.—Mildred L.

ANSWER: I'm glad you reminded me of this delicious dish. I had forgotten about it.

Porcupine Balls (No. 1)

One lb. ground beef, 4 slices bread, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 2 medium onions, 2 medium stalks celery chopped, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup washed uncooked rice, 2 cups tomato juice. Soak bread in milk till soft, then beat egg into them. Add all ingredients except tomato juice. Shape into 8 balls and place in buttered baking dish. Pour tomato juice over, sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours.

Porcupine Meat Balls (No. 2)

One-half cup rice, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1½ lbs. ground beef or hamburger, 1 can tomato soup, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ soup can full of water, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper. Wash rice well in strainer. Mix meat, rice, salt and pepper. Add the water to the soup and bring to boiling and add onion and pepper. Shape meat into 1½-inch balls and drop into boiling sauce. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 40 or 50 minutes—or until rice is tender. Spoon tomato sauce over balls when serving.

NOTE: If desired, meat balls may be browned in fat, and the tomato soup poured over, and then the whole simmered 45 minutes covered.

QUESTION: To me your column is the most fascinating in the whole paper. I followed your Christmas cake recipe precisely and it came out to be the best and moistest I've ever tasted. Had to make another batch at New Year's . . . I have tried and am staying with your recipes for cookies and salads and vegetables. They are all super.

You gave a recipe for Springerle. I would like to know just what the Springerle roller looks like. I saw it (I think) in a department store. It has a sort of deeply carved squared design.

Every year I make my own supply of grape juice. I cook the grapes, drain them overnight through double thickness of cheesecloth, then I add sugar, cook and botle. But there always forms a crunchy sediment at the bottom of each bottle. What causes that? Is there a way of preventing this? I would like to ask if you have a recipe for pretzels and arrowroot biscuits? — Fran.

ANSWER: Look, my sweet, there are such outstanding columnists on this newspaper that you embarrass me with my homey stuff. Thank you though, wholeheartedly.

Pretzels: Haven't you ever heard of a pretzel bender? Seriously, these require machinery to make them—it is not practicable to make them at home. I have never seen a formula for the batter for pretzels. Could other readers comment on this please? Is there a pretzel maker in the audience?

Arrowroot Cookies are extruded through a tube in a cookie making machine too, but you can make arrowroot cookies like plain sugar cookies using arrowroot ffour instead of wheat flour—but sift the arrowroot flour 4 times before measuring and use only 2-3 as much as you would of wheat flour: 2-3 cup shortening, 1¼ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups sifted arrowroot flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

The sediment in your grape juice to which you refer is tartaric acid. The only way to prevent it being in your juice is to filter it out after it stands for anywhere from 2 to 21 days. You could filter the juice for 24 hours without it becoming too warm and too exposed to bacteria. You might manage three drainings through thick filter in that time. But don't worry about it—it happens in the best regulated of grape juice canneries. This tartaric acid from grapes is what cream of tartar for baking is obtained from — after it is refined and pulverized.

The springerle roller is what you describe.

I have just remembered that you can make shortbread with arrowroot flour. Remember to reduce the quantity of flour though until it is of good rolling consistency.

QUESTION: I am a faithful reader . . . can you give me a simple inexpensive recipe for a topping for crust pies that could be used instead of whipped cream or regular meringue . . . it is commonly used in bakeries . . . the foundation seems to be marshmallow or powdered skim milk . . . am I on the right track? —Mrs. Mac.

ANSWER: Yes, you are.

Skim Milk Powder Topping

(Replaces meringue or whipped cream).

One-half cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup skim milk powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Put water and lemon juice in a bowl and add the dry milk powder. Beat with rotary beater until thick — about 10 minutes. Add sugar and vanilla (1½ cups).

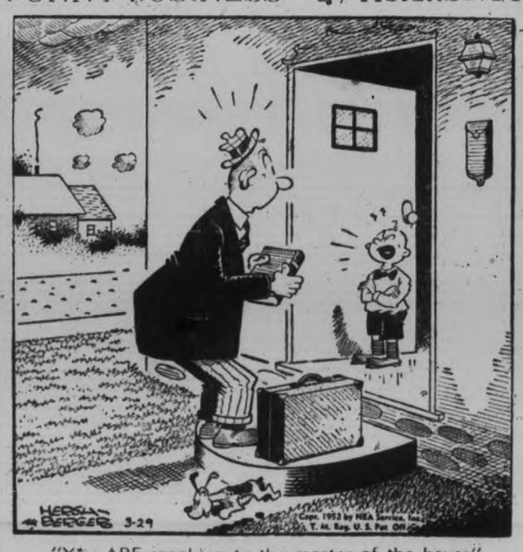
QUESTION: My problem is a friend of mine is being ordained. His sister is having a reception for 1,000. He would like a good recipe for punch—enough not to run out.—Mrs. Jack L. K.

ANSWER:

Punch for 1,000 (at 4 ounces per serving — 1 serving each — 1,000 people will drink 25 gallons punch.)

Forty (40) dozen lemons, 150 oranges (12½ dozen), 10 20-oz. tins crushed pineapple, 60 lbs sugar, 60 quarts (15 gals.) water Make a sugar syrup of the water and sugar and if practical some of the rind shredded from the lemons and oranges. Ginger ale or soda water may be used in place of the water. If so, it should be added at the last minute. Have slices of oranges and maraschino cherries to float on top of the punch in the punch bowls.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger



"You ARE speaking to the master of the house"

Friends Fete Couple Of Precious Cr's

COLDSPRINGS, Mar. 29 (ENS) —About 150 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harper, Precious Corners, gathered at Coldsprings hall on Wednesday evening to honor them on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper were both born in Hamilton township, the groom a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Harper, and the bride a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elissor Woods. They were married at the Methodist parsonage, Cobourg, on March 26, 1902, by the Rev. Mr. Saunders.

Following their marriage, they spent the rest of their lives in the vicinity of Precious Corners.

A pleasant evening was spent when 22 tables of progressive euchre were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Cliff Hie, Newton McIntosh, Howard Lang, George Drury and Cliff Hie.

After the euchre, Austin Nelson was chairman for a short program. Community singing of old songs was led by Wilbert Davey, with Mrs. Albert Davey, piano accompanist. Mrs. Wilson, Cobourg, gave two humorous readings.

The bride and groom of yesteryear were called to the front of the hall, and an address was read to them by Mrs. Albert Bell, and when the stage curtains were opened the presentation of a davenport was made. Mr. Harper voiced their appreciation.

For refreshments, the bride's relatives were seated at the bride's table, which was covered with a gold and white cloth, and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated in gold and white, and flanked by gold candles in crystal holders.

Mrs. Arthur Jamieson and Mrs. Austin Nelson were in charge of the evening.

Accept New Cycle Found Becoming

SAN FRANCISCO. — It seems clear, from a view of the San Francisco styles, that the new cycle as indeed been launched and that the general public has now accepted what looked startling a year or so ago. This market with its solid, smart, but conservative and uncluttered accent is always a good barometer of general public acceptance of new fashions. As women have found the new trends increasingly attractive and becoming, these have gained in importance.

The line is curved; the waistline is accented, the shoulder is round. Stiffened or padded hips point up and minimize the waist. Women have discovered that, far from making them look hippy, this type of styling, particularly when combined with a petticoat or two, promotes a silhouette that is easy for most any woman to achieve successfully.

6—In Memoriam

DOBBIN—In loving memory of a dear father, R. A. Dobbin, who fell asleep so suddenly two years ago today, March 29, 1950.
You're not forgotten, father dear,
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory last
We shall love and remember thee.
—Four daughters and grandchildren.

GILLESPIE—In loving memory of John M. Gillespie, who passed away March 29, 1950.
Memories drift in scenes gone past,
Time rolls on, but memories last.
—Ever remembered by his wife, Annie Gillespie, Bethany.

GRAHAM—In loving memory of Albert Edward Graham, who passed away March 30, 1942.
Memories are treasures no one can steal.
Death is a heartache nothing can heal.
Some may forget you, now you are gone,
But we will remember, no matter how long.
—Ever in our hearts, Mother and family.

HUTCHINSON—In loving memory of mother, Mrs. H. D. Hutchinson, who passed away March 29, 1951.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them, it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Sadly missed by son Allister and wife and family.

OXLEY—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. Fred Oxley, who passed away March 29, 1949.
Oh, what would I give to clasp your hand;
Your dear kind face to see;
Your loving smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have such can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one I loved so well.
—Ever remembered by husband Fred and family.

STARK—In loving memory of a dear father, Robert Stark, who passed away March 29, 1948.
Dear father you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with me,
As you always were before.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter and son-in-law Madelene and Jack.

OBITUARIES

MRS. WILLIAM REHILL

One of Omemee's oldest residents, Mrs. William Rehill, died today in hospital following a short illness. She was 92 years of age. Last September she and her husband celebrated their 69th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Rehill was born in Emily township and, except for a few years after her marriage when she and her husband farmed in Manvers township, she has lived in the Omemee district.

She was Adelaine, daughter of the late William Fee and Jane Laidley. One daughter, four sons, three sisters and one brother all predeceased her.

Besides her husband, she leaves one sister, Mrs. Bert McQuade (Ena) of Toronto, six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Mrs. Rehill was a member of Omemee United Church.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at the Morcombe Funeral Home, Omemee, at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt will officiate and burial will be at Emily Cemetery.

HECTOR GEORGE CLARK

Employed for the past four years in the dye house of the Brinton-Peterborough Company, Hector George Clark of 267 Prince St., died suddenly at his residence on Friday at the age of 51. He formerly worked for Moncrief Dairy for 18 years.

He was born in South Monaghan township, son of the former Mary Atchison and the late Matthew Clark, and has lived all his life in the district.

He leaves his wife, the former Lila May Dobbin, and two daughters, Mrs. Allan Burdett (Marie), and Miss Ona May Clark, a sister Mrs. William Clark (Ethel), and a brother, John. All live in Peterborough. Mr. Clark was a member of St. James United Church.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at the Belleghem funeral home at 2 p.m. The Rev. H. D. McCormack will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. MARY ELIZABETH MANLEY

A resident of Otonabee all her life, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Manley of Keene died today at her son's home, Lot 4, Concession 17. She was in her 73rd year.

Mrs. Manley was the former Mary Elizabeth Edwards, daughter of the late Charles Edwards and Isabella Cummings. She was educated in Otonabee and was a member of the Gospel Hall, Laing.

Her husband was the late Joseph Manley. He died six years ago.

She leaves three daughters—Mrs. K. Lowther (Irene), Peterborough, Mrs. L. Eason (Rose), Bowmanville, and Mrs. Lillian Sanderson, Cobourg; three sons—Gordon of Peterborough, Charles of Millbrook, and Percy of Otonabee; six sisters — Mrs. Bella Brown, Peterborough, Mrs. Phoebe Elliott, Laing, Mrs. Herbert Watson, Los Angeles, Mrs. William Redpath, Laing, Mrs. George Edwards, Keene, Mrs. R. McIvor, Guelph; six brothers—John Edwards, Campbellford, Amos, Victor and Wesley of Otonabee, and Melville and Percy of Warsaw. She also leaves 19 grandchildren and 68 great grandchildren.

The funeral will be at the Mather Funeral Home, Otonabee, 2 p.m., Monday, Mr. Samuel Taylor of the Gospel Hall, Peterborough, officiating. Burial will be in Keene cemetery.

MRS. ALFRED DRIVER

BETHANY, March 29—(ENS)—Mrs. Emma Driver, Bethany, widow of Alfred Driver, died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lyle Dawkins, in Phoenix, Arizona. She was 83.

The wife of a veteran of the Boer War and the First World War, Mrs. Driver was very active in Bethany United Church work. She was one of the organizers of the Red Cross Society in the village. She was also a member of the Women's Association and the choir as well as being a past president of the Women's Institute.

The body is being brought to Bethany part of the way by airplane for funeral services.

The former Emma Bristow, Mrs. Driver was born in England and came to Canada in 1908. Her husband predeceased her Feb. 9, 1949. In 1948 the couple celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary. About a year and a half ago, Mrs. Driver went to visit her daughter and stayed until her death.

Mrs. Driver is survived by three sons, Gilbert of Moose Jaw, Sask.; Douglas of New Toronto and Leonard of Bethany; one daughter, Mrs. Lyle Dawkins (Doris) of Phoenix.

Mrs. Driver had eight grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The funeral service will be held at the home of her son Leonard in Bethany at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. James Hampson will officiate and burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

Bulgarian Artist Makes New Career

MONTREAL—(CP)—A man who once painted Mussolini, was an inmate of a German concentration camp and sketched the uprising in the Warsaw Ghetto has chosen Canada as his home.

Bulgarian-born Christo Stefanoff, one of Europe's best-known artists, is equipping a studio in North Montreal. He has been in Canada since the beginning of the year and hopes to travel from coast to coast to capture some of the "space and color" of the Canadian landscape.

Born in 1898 in Bulgaria, he became interested in painting while still at school. He hit the "big time" in 1927 when both Mussolini and the late Hindu poet, Rabindranath Tagore, sat for portraits.

He went to Poland in 1934 and was naturalized in 1939. He held exhibitions there until 1941 when forced into hiding by German occupation troops. He was arrested by Gestapo in 1944 and held until 1945 when the concentration camp was liberated by units of the Polish army fighting with the Allies.

Mr. Stefanoff has lived in Holland since the end of the war.

Although he considers himself Bulgarian by birth, and Polish "by inclination and intellect", Mr. Stefanoff plans to make Canada the land of his adoption.

Mrs. Reddick and Mrs. Colby served lunch.

Dog-Keeping Hobby Now Big Business

VANCOUVER—(CP)—The average person keeping a pet dog may spend $100 a year on his hobby. At this rate Vancouver dog lovers would spend $4,000,000 a year on their pets.

Most of the money goes for food, of course, but there is also a good trade in waving dogs' hair or cutting it, shampoos and pedicures, and a big sale of many accessories.

Some breeds cost as much for haircuts each year as their owners. Scotties, kerries and wire-haired terriers require a $5 trim and bath four times a year, if their owners want to be fussy. Food may cost from $1 to $5 a week, depending on the size of the dog and the stuff you feed him.

Vancouver, with a population of upwards of 400,000, has 10 veterinarians caring for dogs. One of them declared there is nothing so rewarding as a pet. "We are a pet-loving people," he said. "It will be a better day for Canada when our children are more actively encouraged to have pets and care for them properly."

Marmora News

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rice have returned home from a winter's tour of Florida and other States.

A recent addition to the engineering staff of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company is James Keeley, son of Dan Keeley, for many years manager of the McIntyre Gold Mine and nephew of the late Rev. Father J. J. Keeley of Marmora. Mrs. Keeley is a sister of Mrs. James Shannon of Marmora.

Recent guests included Flight Sergt. and Mrs. Don Prentice of Clinton and Mr. and Mrs. William Prentice of Belleville with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Prentice.

Howard W. Sabine, Justice of the Peace, has resigned. An order-in-council accepting it makes it effective March 31. The growth of The Marmora Herald business has required all of Mr. Sabine's time of late, hence his decision to resign. It is understood Dr. R. E. Lumsden has been recommended to fill the vacancy with duties to commence April 1.

Two new members have been added recently to the Bethlehem Mines Corporation staff here. G. E. J. Painloud who has been associated with the company at their Cornwall, Pa., plant, is a graduate electrical engineer and will be plant engineer. Joseph Murphy, formerly associated with the Lamaque Gold Mines in Quebec, has taken the position of master mechanic.

Plans were made for entertaining the groupn from Lakefield when they present their play, "Here Comes the Prince," in Millbrook town hall, April 18. The lunch committee for the evening, Mrs. T. Douglas and Mrs. J. McKnight, served lunch.

Russians Using U.N. To Train New Diplomats

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—(CP)—Some officials high in the United Nations hierarchy are worried that the Soviet Union is using the U.N. as a training ground to teach fledgling diplomats English and the ways of the western world.

These officials point out the average work-span of the ordinary Russian on the secretariat staff is about two years. Then he is recalled to Moscow just about the time he has learned English and is becoming partway useful in the U.N. administrative set-up.

The practice, they say, is for a Russian who has been here about two years to close his desk at the end of a week and disappear. The next news from him is his letter of resignation—after he already has started back to Russia.

In a short while another Russian who cannot speak English and whose background is unknown to the U.N. arrives to work on the secretariat. He is given a place, the U.N. spends time trying to see where he fits and teach him English, and the process is repeated.

Other nationals remain at the U.N. much longer. Some have been here from the start. Some Russians have been here more than two years, but 24 months is the average.

There are 25 Russians on the payroll at U.N. headquarters and 13 in overseas offices. That number remains fairly constant.

Each country is asked to furnish workers on the percentage it pays in U.N. dues. The Russians are entitled to more than 25 but they never run over that figure.

Since the U.N. began operations in 1946, 38 Russians have come here, worked for a time, and returned home. The top man in that turnover was Arkady A. Sobolev, the first assistant secretary-general for Security Council affairs, who has since become Ambassador to Poland.

Sobolev returned to Moscow in January, 1949, pleading illness in his family. He was replaced by Constantin E. Zinchenko, a young Russian diplomat.

Zinchenko still holds the post. Like the other seven assistant Secretaries-General, Zinchenko gets a gross salary of $23,000 a year. Besides his salary he and others draw an expense allowance rang-from $7,000 to $10,000 yearly.

Old-Timers Pick Hartnett As Top Catcher

By GAYLE TALBOT.

PHOENIX, March 29 (AP). — While sitting around and talking time after the Giants' daily workout and the subject came up as to which was the greatest catcher the game ever saw — Mickey Cochrane or Bill Dickey.

"Neither," growled Tom Sheehan, head scout of the National League champs. "For my money, the best anyone ever has seen behind that plate was Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs. He had a better throwing arm than either Cochrane or Dickey, and he could murder you with that bat, too."

"Check," assented Frank Shellenbach, the club's pitching coach. "You've named my man. Smart, too. Some players thought old Gabby was on the dumb side, but it was the biggest mistake they'll ever make. Dumb like a fox, he was."

"I'll have to go along with you," came in Carl Hubbell. "I can't honestly judge the two American Leaguers because I didn't see too much of them, but I don't see how either of them could have been better than Gabby."

Records Show Edge

It was suggested that either Cochrane or Dickey, going strictly by the record book, show a slight advantage over old "Tomato Face" in the matter of batting averages. In Hartnett's best year, 1937, he hit .354. Dickey soared to .362 in '36; Cochrane to .357 in '30.

"That's all you fellows go by when you start getting up an all-star club—the record book," Sheehan charged in a voice which swayed the draperies. "Any baseball player will tell you you can't go by the book. If you could, we wouldn't need any scouts. The men who played against Hartnett, though, will tell you he was murder, pure murder.

"Steal against him? Not a chance. That guy could wait until a runner was halfway down to second and throw him out by 10 feet. He seemed to have some second sense which told him when you were going down, too. He'd call for a pitch-out and you were dead.

"And don't think he couldn't hit that ball. He'd give you 30-40 homeruns a season, and he always seemed to hit them when they hurt the most."

In addition to his mechanical ability, Hartnett also had a remarkable faculty for calling for the right pitch at the right time, the three former curvers agreed. A batter very seldom got what he was looking for.

"From a pitcher's viewpoint it's a wonderful thing to have a man like that behind the plate," Hubbell observed.

Friends Honor Mr.,.Mrs. H. Sherwin

WARKWORTH, March 29 (ENS) — Nearly forty friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sherwin of Warkworth met at their home on Thursday evening in the form of a surprise party to honor them on their 40th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin have lived on their farm about two miles north of Warkworth until about five years ago when they moved into the village. Mr. Sherwin is now a county road superintendent.

Mr. Sherwin is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwin. He has two brothers Percy Sherwin of Campbellford and Ross Sherwin of Brighton and a sister Mrs. Wm. Jones (Gladys) of Peterborough.

Mrs. Sherwin was the former Florence Jacques, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jacques of Cramahe township. She has two brothers. Harry Jacques of Campbellford and Fred Jacques of Brighton.

A pleasant evening was spent in playing progressive euchre until about 11 o'clock when the ladies served a lovely lunch.

After lunch Earl Nelson read an appropriate address to the honored couple and they were presented with an upholstered chair and a satin cushion.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin expressed their pleasure in meeting with their friends of their former neighbourhood on this happy occasion and they thanked them for the gifts.

New Copyright Fees Will Boost Cost–CAB

TORONTO, March 29 (CP)—The Canadian Association of Broadcasters said Friday a new formula of copyright fees to be paid by Canadian radio will increase operating expenses and cut into the funds broadcasters set aside for the development of Canadian music and talent.

"Unquestionably, the severe scale of payments will materially affect the financial position of many of the smaller Canadian broadcasting stations whose fees may be increased more than ten-fold and there is some possibility that smaller communities may actually be deprived of broadcasting service," a statement issued by the association's board of directors said.

Henceforth, royalties for performance of copyright music will be based on a percentage of revenue.

Leaders Of Victoria Life Honor Mr., Mrs. W. Newman

LINDSAY, March 29 —(Staff)— "The people of this community are completing tonight something they started fifty years ago when I first came to Lorneville," said William Newman, guest with Mrs. Newman at the dinner in their honor at Woodville Friday night.

The attendance of about 350 men and women represented a broad cross-section of the Lorneville-Woodville section of Victoria county.

The community sentiment was reflected in the presence of Premier Leslie M. Frost of Lindsay and Clayton Hodgson, Conservative M.P. of the Victoria-Haliburton riding, who came from Ottawa especially for this event.

Political adversaries of Mr. Newman, a former Liberal of the Ontario Legislature, both Premier Frost and Mr. Hodgson paid tribute to him as one of the leading citizens of the county and of the district of Central Ontario.

Retired From Farming

Mr. Newman retired a month or more ago from active farming, and recently a group of his friends planned the complimentary banquet. On their behalf, gifts of two lovely adjustible lounge chairs were presented by Clifford Benson of Woodville and R. J. McAlpine of Lorneville. One of them was for Mrs. Newman.

Speakers included Warden Ray Webster of Little Britain; Clayton Taylor, Bobcaygeon, president of the Victoria Federation of Agriculture, and Rev. Dr. H. W. Pointen of Woodville United Church.

Various agricultural organizations and rural clubs are represented in the large assembly.

Both Premier Frost and Mr. Hodgson reminisced on political campaigns in the riding in which they had opposed Mr. Newman, interjecting humorous recollections that have passed into memory.

Highest Citizenship

They mentioned the happy conditions existing in this country in which men exercised their franchise and their party loyalties not only in their democratic rights, but without severing their personal friendships. It was freedom and citizenship of the highest type, Premier Frost said.

He congratulated the community on the gracious spirit reflected in the tribute to Mr. Newman, and said he was happy to be able to join them in the felicities they extended to Mr. and Mrs. Newman as they retired from active rural life in which they had long been prominent.

Mr. Newman thanked his friends for the sentiment which had moved them to prepare the dinner occasion, and said he was especially grateful to Premier Frost and Mr. Hodgson not only for their presence but particular for their kindly reference to him. He said it was typical of the quality of the community life of the people of Victoria. Mr. Newman's four brothers and their wives were present by invitation.

William Newman's retirement from active work is a reminder to him and his friends that his years are advancing. He has acquired a wide friendship not only in Victoria and Haliburton, and throughout central Ontario, but elsewhere in the province. His experience in the Legislature, in the Ontario Federation of Agriculture in which he has been prominent, in his church affairs, and in other associations, have made him widely known. He has been a convinced and active supporter of rural organizations, and through the years has devoted time and effort to advancing the position of the Ontario farmer.

Mr. Newman has been engaged in farming and also in the dairy business. Although now retired from work, he is still active in the interests of farmers. He was in Peterborough several days this week, attending the Central Ontario Spring Show, and speaking at the Federation dinner in North Smith.

Bonarlaw News

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Prichard of Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wellman.

Mrs. Harold Elsey and son Stephen of Toronto, are visiting Mrs. Elsey's sister, Mrs. Ralph Wellman, Mr. Wellman and family.

Mrs. Arthur Young and children Denis and Ardith of Bancroft are visiting at the home of Mrs. Leona Walker, Marmora, this week.

Bobby Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harris, Marmora, is a patient in Havelock hospital.

Mrs. Peter Vartanian of New York is spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. William Redcliffe.

SUES FOR SLANDER—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) studies his law books in Washington, D.C., after announcing that he has filed a $2,000,000 libel and slander suit against Sen. William Benton (D.-Conn.), author of a Senate resolution asking an investigation of McCarthy's fitness to remain in office. McCarthy said he will serve as his own lawyer in the case.

Local Forums Close Most Active Season

Peterborough farm forums closed their most active and successful winter season in a joint social assembly Monday night at Normal School. Attendance was approximately 230.

Springville and Wesley forums had made other arrangements previously, and decided not to alter them when the union affair was announced.

Twenty-seven members of Springville unit met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melville H. Johnston. Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative, addressed the group, and showed three color films. The Rev. A. E. Larke moved a vote of thanks to the host and hostess.

Final Dinner Meeting

The community hall at the 16th concession of Smith was crowded Thursday night for the Federation dinner, the final of the season in the county. The guest speaker was William Newman, of Lorneville, who was introduced by Reeve James Gifford, of Ennismore. Henry Sharpe, president of Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, was chairman.

Mr. Newman said the Federation was providing a long needed agency of rural association, discussion and sound thinking. Its social phase was important, but even more so was the discussion of problems directly affecting farmers.

The emergency situation which has arisen in Canadian agriculture since February should not get farmers excited, Mr. Newman said. It was a time for clear thinking and carefully considered action.

Holstein Club Dinner

"A full evening's entertainment" is the promise of the Peterborough Holstein Breeders' Club at their dinner Thursday, April 17, at Club Aragon. Directors are not offering a speaker this year.

Glourourim Officers

Milton Lacey was elected president of Glourourim Forum, Hamilton township, at final meeting of the winter series at the Lacey home. Norman Lang is vice-president for 1952-3; and the secretary-treasurer is R. D. P. Davidson.

Average attendance of this Forum was 85 per cent at the winter Monday night meetings.

Leaders' Conference

Leaders of boys and girls' club work in this district are meeting at Peterborough Normal School Tuesday, April 1, for their annual conference.

$615 For Holstein

Howard Finch and Son, of Campbellford, received $615 for a "very good" eight-year-old cow at the Oakville consignment sale. "Maud Fayne Colantha" was bought by Elmer G. Wilker. Average for 63 head was $326 for a total of $18,350.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Garth Braund, skipping and curling superbly and ably supported by Mrs R. Miller, Mrs. H. Worton and Dr. H. Worton won the Royal Doulton Trophy Friday night at the all week mixed rink bonspiel sponsored by the Granite Curling Club, Toronto

Andy Grant's Royal Canadian rink won the Brerton Trophy.

Commencing on Wednesday morning, Braund lost his first game to Montreal, then won the next two, which qualified him for the finals Friday. In the first game Friday, his rink met and defeated S. Graham's Toronto rink, then Dr. Laidley's Lindsay rink and in the final game defeated a Hamilton rink.

So completely did the Braund rink outcurl the Hamilton quartette that they conceded the game and the trophy at the eighth end. The game with Dr. Laidley was different—close all the way with Braund one up coming home. The end was all Laidley's. When the doctor played his last stone he was lying three shots and well guarded. Braund studied the situation for about five minutes and finally decided to play a narrow in-turn shot. He called his shot, he played his shot and he made his shot, the stone coming to rest T-high and touching the four-four ring and won the game. The spectators were not slow in showing their appreciation of a well played shot.

This rink has come a long way this season. They won the main trophy and Gruen watches in the Lindsay 'spiel, came thin in the main event in our open open 'spiel and now win this beautiful trophy at Toronto. We predict a great future for this quartette.

Don't forget to be out tonight. A big social evening after the finals of the Sturgeon Trophy. Tommy Doughty is chairman.

New Ontario Policy Cuts Prescott Levy

PRESCOTT, March 29 (CP) — Public school supporters Friday received an unexpected five-mill reduction in the 1952 mill rate set two weeks ago. The new rate is 83 mills.

Th reduction was made possible by the provincial government's new policy whereby 1952 debenture charges now are eligible for departmental grants. The savings effected here amounts to about $7,300.

The separate school rate is unchanged at 78 mills.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS ASSOCIATION held their annual ladies 'night on Friday with a dinner and dance; it was attended by approximately 200 people. Raps Handling Of F-M Disease

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — Sen. Ralph Horner, a Saskatchewan farmer, Friday criticized the government's handling of the outbreak of foot and mouth disease among cattle around Regina.

Speaking in the throne-speech debate in the Senate, he charged there had been a "lack of prompt action" on the part of the government when the outbreak was first noticed.

"Surely," he said, "this could have been diagnosed (as foot and mouth disease) much sooner than it was."

While the outbreak "seems to have been handled in a very careless manner" he hoped there would be no spread of the disease. And he believed that the embargoes placed on Saskatchewan livestock, including the U.S. embargo on Canadian meat and livestock, were not necessary, providing there was proper inspection.

Sen. Horner also criticized the government's budgetary surplus—$721,000,000 for the first nine months of the fiscal year—protested against a redistribution of parliamentary seats which would cut Saskatchewan's parliamentary representation by a quarter, and said he was opposed to any toll-gate system on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

On the seaway he differed with his leader, Sen. John T. Haig. He was opposed to any toll on prairie products moving East. This would mean that the prairies in effect would pay for the seaway.

He expressed the belief that the seaway would result in still higher railway freight rates. And rail freight rates at present were such that "they are putting us right out of the market."

TILLSONBURG, March 29 — (CP).—Tillsonburg Livingstons ran over Sault Ste. Marie Gunners 97-57 here Friday night to win the Ontario Senior A basketball championship in two straight games. They now meet the Ottawa-Montreal winner.

Mosconi Holds Lead Easily In Billiards

BOSTON, March 29 (AP). — Willie Mosconi, defending champion from Havertown, Pa., today held a comfortable lead over his nine opponents and appeared a safe bet to annex his 10th world title as the pocket billiard championship round-robin series reached the halfway mark.

Mosconi overcame a nine-inning 138-133 deficit Friday night to defeat Joe Canton of Watervliet, N. Y., 150-137, in 13-innings for his fifth straight victory against no losses. It was the fourth straight setback for Canton, who has yet to win a match.

The champion plays John Fitzpatrick of Washington, D. C., who has won two and lost two, tonight.

Coldsprings News

Graydon McIntosh spent Thursday in Toronto.

Several from this community were attending the Central Ontario Spring Show being held in Peterborough, this week.

Robert Jibb, was one of the Northumberland Holstein farmers, who journeyed by bus, to Brant and Oxford counties to visit some of the farms in that area last weekend.

Guests during the week with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gibson, Ina, and Eileen were, Miss Lily Gibson, Cobourg and Mrs. Jack Minifie, Harwood.

Marvin Minifie has purchased three lots of land in the village from W. J. Dines.

Mrs. Sarah Holden, Toronto, was a week end guest with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bray.

Wm. Dines accompanied by David Dines, Camborne, and Ed. Dines, Plainville, attended the funeral service of Mrs. William Elmer Jamieson in Peterborough, on Tuesday.

Mrs. W. Jibb, Camborne, was a recent tea guest with Mr. and Mrs. Keith Harper, Kathryn and Kenneth.

Shapiro Sells Play In London

NEW YORK, March 29 (CP)—Lionel S. B. Shapiro, former Montreal newspaperman, has sold his first play to the London producer, Henry Sherek, and plans to go to Britain this spring for rehearsals.

Shapiro, now chief correspondent for the North American Newspaper Alliance, says he is "getting a big kick" out of working on the play, "The Bridge." He describes it as a "remote" adaptation of his novel, "Torch for a Dark Journey."

It is the story of the meeting in a French hotel between a refugee from an Iron Curtain country and his American sponsor.

Rehearsals will start in London in June and the play will have its try-out outside London before Sherek, co-producer of such hits as "Edward, My Son," and "The Cocktail Party," brings it to Broadway for its opening. Later, it may be taken back to London.

Shapiro, who had a hand in the motion-picture adaptation of his earlier book, "Sealed Verdict," finds the production of his own play different from working on the movie script of his book.

"Once the movies get your book," he said, "they never want to see you again. With a play it's different."

Shapiro went overseas as a war correspondent with the Montreal Gazette and later joined N.A.N.A.

He now is on leave of absence on television scripts in New York. He plans to visit Montreal next month.

Drew Urges Session To Break Trade Jam

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative party leader, Friday night renewed his plea for a Commonwealth trade conference "to find some way of breaking the log jam which is now blocking our trade channels. . ."

In an address to the Ottawa valley branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, he noted that Canada is doing increasingly more business with the United States and less with the dollar-short United Kingdom.

Mr. Drew said Canada might find herself in a "critical situation" if the exports to the U.S. were terminated as they have been in the case of cattle and animal products."

PRIESTS ACCEPT RICE OFFERINGS — A group of Buddhist priests stand at a corner of Bangkok and accept offerings of rice from followers. Two young women are shown, centre foreground, bowed before the priests. To the right of the five priests a Bangkok business woman is also about to make her rice offerings. Every Siamese man spends part of his life as a priest in a Buddhist temple. The result is diffusion among the people of a profound understanding of the religion they practise—daily, not just weekly.

Religious Tolerance Keystone Of Buddhism Practised In Siam

By BILL BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand, March 29 — (CP) — Every Siamese man spends part of his life as a priest in a Buddhist temple.

Every man is a walking mirror to the conscience of a Buddhist priest. He may know more about his religion than the saffron-robed monk who passes him on the street.

He also knows the standard of conduct and dress expected of the priest and is as quick to spot one falling short of the mark as another monk ought to be.

One monk to whom I talked—he had spent seven years in the temple and served as the temple's interpreter—pointed to a hotel room-clerk and said: "That man was my teacher in the temple when I was a student there."

One medical student of my acquaintance spent three weeks in the temple before he began his university studies. He plans to spend another three months there after his course when he will be joined by his brother, due to graduate in engineering at the same time.

A man may enter temple life anytime and leave anytime. Most Siamese spend three months there before marrying.

The result is diffusion among the people of a profound understanding of the religion they practise—daily, not just once weekly.

Up To Individual

Buddhism is a religion of the individual. Each must work out his own path to Nirvana—the state of Everlasting Enlightenment. All Buddha did was say, in effect: "All I can do is show you what I have learned. The rest is up to you." There are no prophets or messiahs in pure Buddhism, no rituals and no ceremonies.

Since religion is a matter for the individual, there is complete religious tolerance. Early American missionaries first preached the Christian gospel in a Buddhist temple at the invitation of the patriarch of the day.

In Thailand, the monarchy sought to preserve its despotism by placing the church under its patronage. It introduced Brahministic rites to lend Buddhism the trappings of ceremony. Lately there has been a revision of procedure. The number of monks has been reduced.

Traces of Brahmin influence remain, but in the more severe temples, such as beautiful Wat Benchamabopitr (marble temple), the service has been stripped to prayers and readings from the Suhtra, the writings of Buddha which are in the original pali, and commentaries on them by the priests.

Such services are held four times a month, regulated by the periods of the moon. Priests officiate at family events but in a straightforward way. They are invited to family celebrations. Siamese parents keep their children's heads shaved as a sanitary measure and the first shaving is performed by a priest. From then, effectively, he has no other religious connection with the family until death occurs, when he presides at cremation.

Marriage is not a religious event in Siam. It is enough for a young couple to live openly together for their union to be recognized. The law simply requires them to register the fact and there is no legal ceremony though unions may be blessed by the priest if a couple wishes. A man may have concubines.

Divorce is as simple as marriage. One merely orders, before witnesses, that the woman go home.

Finishes Course In Home Nursing

BETHANY, March 29 (ENS).—The home nursing and first aid class, sponsored by the Manvers Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, wound up its winter's course with a social evening held at the home of Mrs. Vincent Jackson.

Each week the group have met in the town hall and under the instruction of Mrs. Edgar Beer, Reg .N., who before her marriage was the former Helen Talbot of Peterborough Civic Hospital staff, have covered a complete course in home nursing. Assisting Mrs. Beer were Mrs. G. M. Longfield Mrs. Clarence Page and Mrs. Ernest Cavano, all graduate nurses.

The class was begun with 20 members and ten completed the unit of instruction.

Miss Laura Morton expressed the thanks of the group to the instructors who had given their voluntary service and each were presented with a gift of chinaware.

The evening was pleasantly spent in contests, after which Mrs. Jackson served lunch, assisted by several of the class members.

Pictures Of Arctic Shown In Travelogue

APSLEY, March 29. (ENS) — Sponsored by the Ladies' Guild of St. George's Anglican Church, Apsley, a travelogue was enjoyed by an appreciative audience on Tuesday evening in the parish hall. Anglican Church work at Aklavik, visits to the Arctic coast and to Herschel Island were shown in 400 colored slides taken by Deaconess Jones, missionary in the far North for nine years. The pictures of the country, the Indian and Eskimo peoples, and of the life there, brought the North very close to us. Her trip over the mountains to Dawson City, to Alaska, by plane, and visits to other beauty spots in Yukon and down the highway to Edmonton by bus, with Ontario autumn pictures and many local views of Apsley district brought an interesting evening to a close.

Proceeds go to the Fellowship of the Arctic and to the Ladies' Guild.

Premier Frost Refuses To Pay Cash To Unemployed

TORONTO, March 29 (CP). — Premier Frost Friday told a delegation representing Toronto's unemployed that the province will not pay cash relief to unemployed.

He told a 12-man delegation that Ontario has "no intention of supplementing unemployment insurance." If insurance payments were inadequate, "it is up to the Federal Government to make them adequate."

The Premier denied a charge by A. L. Davis, spokesman for the self-styled Union of Unemployed Workers, that the province is "passing the buck."

Ontario was "doing tremendous things to provide employment" through Hydro expansion, highways and public works. There were many public works "on the shelf" and private builders were prepared to build "tens of thousands of houses" if the Federal Government would "give us the green light" by lifting credit restrictions.

Farquhar Oliver, Opposition Leader, told the group that the government had taken a "purtly arbitrary position in claiming unemployment relief was a federal responsibility.

3-Way Conference

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) and Mayor of Windsor, said a three-way conference on the problem between municipal, provincial and federal governments could settle the problem, but there was no way of getting Premier Frost to attend.

A brief presented to Mr. Frost by the delegation said 15,000 unemployed would be "heading for destitution" after supplementary unemployment insurance benefits end on March 31. It asked for cash relief beyond unemployment benefits, a 50 per cent increase in benefits, public works projects and a halt to immigration.

Included in the delegation were Rev. G. P. Parson ,Toronto Anglican minister; W. C. Moffat of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.); Charles McDonald, vice-president of Ford Local 200, United Automobile Workers at Windsor, and Chris Mason, president of the U.A.W. Local 222 at General Motors, Oshawa.

W. J. Cronkright

MARMORA, March 29 (ENS) — The funeral of W. J. (Jack) Cronkwright took place on Thursday afternoon leaving his late residence west of Crowe River for St. Paul's Anglican Church. Service was conducted by Canon J. M. Brownlie in presence of a large congregation. Entombment took place in Marmora protestant cemetery. The pall bearers were Ernest Cronkwright, Frank Cronkwright, Wilbert Moffatt, Stanley Kerr, Carl Boyd and Archie Wickens.

Percy W.I. Hears Talk By Rev. A. B. Moffatt

WARKWORTH, March 29 (ENS) —The monthly meeting of the Percy branch of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. D. H. Evans with Mrs. George McCubbin as co-hostess.

The program convener, Mrs. D. Honey introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. A. B. Moffatt, pastor of Warkworth Free Methodist Church. Mr. Moffatt's topic was "Citizenship".

He spoke of how wonderful our country Canada, is showing that we have freedom of thought, freedom of speech and freedom of religious worship. He said, "citizenship begins at home. We must have faith in man and have a concrete faith in God".

Mrse. Wm. Shaw dealt with the motto, "No one has a right to do as she pleases, except when she pleases to do it."

Mrs. George Arkils was appointed delegate to the Provincial Conference to be held in May at Guelph.

The nominating committee is composed of Mrs. Oscar Laver, Mrs. A. Barrett and Mrs. S. Brenton.

Mrs. S. Blakely moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

Lunch was served by the hostess and lunch committee.

Suggesting Queen Live For Time In Lands Of Realm

LONDON, March 31. (CP)—A motion may be presented soon in the British House of Commons suggesting that the Queen take up residence in each of the commonwealth countries for a specified period, it was learned today. The idea still is in the discussion stage and many obstacles have to be overcome. One of the difficulites is finding a formula whereby such a petition could be brought before parliament, which has strict rules governing references to royalty.

Meanwhile, it is understood sponsors of the idea are circulating a petition for signature by members of parliament. It would read as follows:

"That a humble address be presented to Her Majesty praying that she may be pleased to ask the advice of her ministers in this and other commonwealth countries on the desirability of her residing in each country of the commonwealth for certain periods."

Norman Dodds, labor member for Dartford, Kent., England, is understood to have started parliamentary conversations on the subject after receiving letters from persons in Commonwealth countries. All expressed enthusiasm for the idea of the sovereign living outside her own country for certain periods.

Not Encouraged.

Columnist Hannen Swaffer, writing this weekend in The People, a left-wing newspaper, said that "Commonwealth history may be changed in a few days" by the proposal.

Court circles have given little encouragement to suggesting that the reigning king or queen should reside elsewhere, even for a limited time. It has been stressed that the sovereign is in the nature of things required to keep in daily touch with state papers.

"Obviously one can't send everything over to Canada," a Buckingham Palace spokesman said last Ocotber when it was suggested by some Canadian newspapers that Elizabeth, then a princess, should become governor-general of Canada.

Dodds is reported to feel that the growth of air travel tends to obviate such difficulties.

Plan Has Appeal

The idea that the Queen should live in each of the Commonwealth countries for a specified period has supporters in high places in Canada, including some in the cabinet authoritative quarters said today.

However, nobody here has ever done much about it beyond suggesting that it would be a good idea. There are a number of obstacles. One is the fact that Britain bears the financial burden of the Royal Family. Presumably if they moved to Canada for a time, Canada would shoulder their costs during that period.

Reds Suggest Top Negotiators Discuss Russia

MUNSAN, Korea, March 31 — (AP).—Communist staff officers today proposed that top-level negotiators try to break the deadlock over whether Russia should help police a Korean truce.

The Reds suggested that the joint sub-commitee on armistice supervision meet for the first time in more than two months at 11 a.m. Tuesday (9 p.m. E.S.T. Monday.)

Col. Don O. Darrow said the U.N. command reply would be in Communist hands two hours before the meeting would begin.

The Reds nominated Russia as one of their three representatives on a neutral inspection commission last Feb. 16. They say Russia qualifies as a neutral and has every right to inspect troops and supplies moving into Korea during a truce. The allies say Russia is in effect a belligerent and is wholly unacceptable.

One P.O.W. Issue

A second group of staff officers working on plans for exchanging prisoners of war completed a full week of secret sessions.

Only the issue of "forced repatriation" remains unsolved in the prisoner-exchange debate. The Reds want all prisoners of war returned. The allies insist that prisoners are allowed to choose whether they want to go home.

Two problems must be ironed out before an agreement is reached on truce supervision. One is Communist nomination of Russia as a neutral inspector. The other is allied insistened that airfield construction be banned during an armistice.

The airfield issue was not on the staff officers' agenda, but Darrow said the Communists offered to include airfields in areas opened to neutral inspection teams if the allies do not demand a construction ban.

"We made no agreements," Darrow said.

Niagara Woman Has Triplets

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 31.—A 21-year-old father Sunday pondered a trio of problems which developed over the weekend with the arrival of triplet daughters at the Greater Niagara General Hospital.

Laurie Rantali, still bewildered by the three girls born to his wife, Naomi, 23, looked around for larger living accommodation, clothing for the new-born infants, and names for the children. The girls weigh three pounds, 10 ounces; three pounds 6¼ ounces, and two pounds 10¼ ounces.

They are in the incubator in the nursery and hospital authorities say they are making good progress. The Rantalis came to Niagara Falls from Finland in July, 1951, and they live in a two-room apartment. They have one son, 15 months old.

Laurie is a garage mechanic. The young mother had been warned by her physician following X-rays that she would probably give birth to twins. The IODE chapters in Niagara Falls have offered to provide layettes for the children.

New Zealand Importers Get Less Currency

WELLINGTON, March 31 — (Reuters)—New Zealand importers will get less foreign currency this year to pay for imports, the federal reserve bank said today.

In an effort to cut unfavorable trade balances, the bank has ordered trading banks to limit importers to 80 per cent of the exchange they used in 1950. Applications for more than this will be considered by the reserve bank, in consultation with the government.

The new restrictions are described as "additional safeguards" to recent import reductions.

The bank gave three main reasons for the restrictions:

1. Drops in prices for wool and other farm products;
2. Restrictions by other Commonwealth countries on sterling area imports, including those from New Zealand; and
3. The high rate of private imports, now about $750,000,000 a year.

Britain Now Battling New F-M Outbreak

LONDON, March 31 (CP)—Another outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Britain has been confirmed in East Sussex, it was learned today.

Under the strict policy of destroying diseased animals, the 131 sheep and 107 cattle involved in the outbreak were slaughtered. This brings the total of British farm animals killed since last November to more than 15,000.

Agriculture ministry officials, meanwhile, are reported investigating the possibility that the spread of the disease in southern and eastern England has been caused by migrating birds.

One theory is that the yellow wagtail, now crossing Europe from West Africa, picks up the virus from feeding troughs and pens on the continent and transmits it on landing on English fields.

Plan U.S. Combat Units To Witness New A-Tests

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP) —In a new series of atomic tests in Nevada, soldiers and marines will learn how to attack across an area blasted only minutes before by atomic barrage, the defence department indicated Sunday.

The department announced that about 7,000 military personnel, including two combat battalions each from the army and marine corps, will participate in the tests beginning next month.

Coincidental with the announcement came a discussion by Navy Secretary Dan Kimball on how the navy plans to use atomic energy to destroy an enemy, fly its planes and propel its ships. Kimball's views were given in testimony before the joint Congressional Committee on atomic energy last September but were not made public until Sunday.

Kimball said atomic weapons will have a multitude of uses in execution of the navy's mission.

He said it is the navy's objective to develop the capability of delivering atomic bombs from all airplane carriers. This, presumsumably, meant the navy intends to use packaged bomb for tactical purposes as well as the big, area-destroying strategic type bombs.

The navy, Kimball said, is interested in development of nuclear engines for aircraft because they could be used in very long-range patrol bombers. He added that such a bomber might have to be a sea-based plane. A sea-based plane is one with a hull, using water instead of land for take-off and landing.

U.S. Steps Up Guided Missile Plans

Believe Russians Exploiting New Nerve Gases

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP)—U.S. army researchers are working an a guided missile capable of destroying enemy aircraft at all altitudes up to 15 miles, Congress has been told.

Brig.-Gen. Stanley R. Mickleson, head of research for special weapons, also told congressmen the goal is to protect U.S. cities largely with guided missiles firing at ranges several times greater than present anti-aircraft guns.

Maj.-Gen E. T. Bullene, chief of the chemical corps, warned that Russia is believed to be intensively exploiting new nerve gases developed by Nazi Germany. "Much of the German equipment and many German research men in this field are now in Russia," he said.

These disclosures were in testimony taken early this month and released Sunday by a House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee considering budget requests.

Ask New Funds

The army research and development division asked for $450,000,000 in new funds as part of the army's total $14,200,000,000 for the fiscal years beginning July 1. The research figure represents a $32,000,000 increase over last year.

Mickleson said $28,500,000 of the research total would go for continued experiments on surface-to-surface guided missiles and allied equipment.

Bullene asked for $49,746,407 to continue experimentation in atomic, biological and chemical warfare and to obtain material.

The breakdown figures were given in secret but the testimony showed that increased funds had been requested for biological warfare.

Bullene said this was due to rising costs and because people are paying more attention to biological warfare and taking it seriously.

The Soviet Union has taken it seriously enough to conduct an extensive propaganda campaign claiming the U.N. forces have practised germ warfare in Korea. U.S. authorities have branded these stories as completely false.

Canadian Dollar Continues Climb

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP).—The Canadian dollar continued its upward climb today, trading here at its highest level since September, 1934.

By mid-morning it commanded a price of $1.01 3-16 in United States currency, after opening at a premium of 1 1-16. The closing price Friday was $1.01.

New York trading quarters said today's rise appeared to stem from intensified European and Canadian buying.

Earlier, the growing strength of the Canadian dollar had been attributed to the stepped-up tempo of U.S. investments in Canadian enterprises.

Governor-General Appoints His Son As New Secretary

OTTAWA, March 31. (CP)—The Governor-General has appointed his son, Lionel Massey, to be one of his two secretaries, it was announced today. Under a revised establishment at Government House, J. F. Delaute steps up from assistant secretary to become secretary for administrative purposes.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the appointments and, at the same time, the resignation of Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson of Vancouver who was secretary through the six-year term of Lord Alexander.

The changes are effective Tuesday.

They not only create positions for two instead of one secretary but they also usher in virtually an all-Canadian staff as a sequel to appointment of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey as the first Canadian-born governor-general.

The Prime Minister also announced that Maj. J. L. Malkin, of Vancouver, has been posted by the army to succeed Maj. Mark Millbank as Controller of the Household at Government House. Maj. Millbank is returning to Britain shortly.

Under the new establishment, there will be two secretaries, instead of a secretary and an assistant secretary. One secretary will be appointed and paid directly by the Governor-General. The other is to be appointed from the civil service and to be designated "secretary to the Governor-General (administrative).

Truck Runs Over Victim Twice

AURORA, Ont., March 31 (CP) —Police said today that what was believed to be the same truck which ran over Norman Sheridan Saturday returned to the scene of the accident and ran over him again. The 37-year-old carpenter from nearby Snowball died of his injuries.

William Harrison, 32, of Aurora, has been charged with manslaughter and drunken driving.

Sheridan had obtained a job three days ago after being unemployed three months. He was married and the father of three children. He was walking two miles to his home after shopping for new tools.

Sheridan was struck twice within 10 minutes as he lay on the Aurora side road. The second collision was in view of a witness, Stanley Walker of Aurora, who said he tried to wave the oncoming truck to a halt. When the truck did not stop, Walker said he jumped clear and saw it crash into his own car, then swing on to the road again and pass over Sheridan's body.

Police said the driver of the truck which struck Sheridan proceeded for a quarter of a mile, turned his vehicle around to see what had happened, only to pass over the body a second time.

Plane Rescues 9 On Ice Floe

BARROW, Alaska, March 31—(AP)— Nine stranded men were snatched from an Arctic ice pack and landed her safely by their navy rescue plane Sunday night.

The plane rescued the seven navy men and two civilian scientists from their four-day isolation and brought them to a safe landing at this northernmost tip of Alaska at 8.30 p.m. (1:33 a.m. E. S. T.).

The pickup from the ice, where the men were stranded by a take-off accident of their own plane last Thursday, was made only about 500 miles from the North Pole.

The men reported the greatest danger of the operation came in the landing on the ice pack.

The crew members of the "Flying Laboratory," had cleared a 2,500-foot long runway on the ice. The P2V rescue plane came within 10 feet of an eight-foot high ridge of ice at the end of the runway before it could be stopped.

The plan enormally requires a 4,500-foot runway.

Members of the rescue party were in good health.

Rockingham Planning To Visit Australia

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, March 31. (Reuters)—Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of Canada's 25th infantry brigade, will visit Australia early in May before returning home.

Rockingham, born in Australia, said today he will recommend closer military ties among commonwealth countries.

"The closest possible integration of Canadian, Australian and New Zealand knowledge is vital for our future as free peoples.

"An interchange of officers and knowledge will help to an even greater degree the spirit that has made the commonwealth division in Korea such a magnificent fighting machine."

Rockingham will hand over command of the brigade to Brig. Pat Bogert of Toronto next month. After his Australian visit he will return to Canada to take over his duties as director-general of military training.

Steel Talks Postponed Indefinitely

Wilson Resigns Job In Surprise Move Over Truman Policy

NEW YORK, March 31. (AP) —The steel industry and the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) today postponed indefinitely their wage talks. The union has threatened a country-wide strike April 8 unless it gets the 17½-cents-an-hour wage raise recently recommended by the War Stabilization Board.

The union was to have met with six major steel producers here today for the first time since the S.S.B. handed down its controversial findings in the bitter dispute.

An industry spokesman said the indefinite postponement was asked by John Stevens, vice-president of United States Steel.

Hopes Dimmed

Charles E. Wilson's sudden resignation as mobilization director in protest against administration steel-price policies dimmed hopes today of averting the country-wide strike.

Senator Burnet R. Maybank (Dem. S.C.) broke off hearings of his Senate Banking Committee on the extension of the defence production act, which expires June 30, "until the air has cleared." The future of controls, Maybank said, should not be deliberated in a "wave of hysteria and confusion, charges and countercharges." Some legislators have urged the scrapping of controls.

Maybank praised Wilson, former president of General Electric Company and executive vice-chairman of the war production board in the Second World War, as a "great American." The committee, he said, definitely will want to know who will be Wilson's successor.

No Nominations Ready

Truman had no nomination ready. He designated his assistant, John R. Steelman, to direct the office of defence mobilization temporarily.

The President, in accepting Wilson's resignation Sunday said wage terms recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board are "by no means unreasonable." He said he

Landslide Hits Passenger Train

LISBON, Portugal, March 31—(CP).—A landslide sent huge rocks crashing into a passenger train near Caxias during a violent storm today.

First reports said more than a score of persons, including women and children, were killed. Many were injured.

The six-car electric train en route to Lisbon, was reported full of passengers. Heavy rains and hard winds which have been hammering Portugal for three days were blamed for the landslide, nine miles from Lisbon.

At least 30 injured were taken to hospital.

Rescue parties labored in pelting rain to free crushed bodies from the wreckage.

Tons of rock, loosened by two days' downpour, struck the third-class passenger car section of the train.

President Promises To Support Democrat Nominee

WASHINGTON, March 31. (AP)—President Truman convinced all but the most stubborn Truman die-hards today that he is "draft-proof" and sent them on a desperate hunt for a new Democratic standard-bearer. Many seemed inclined to go along with is own apparent choice of Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois—if Stevenson will — but three avowed presidential candidates already in the field claimed new support. Saturday night, near the end of a "give-'em-hell speech against the Republicans at a Democratic rally, the President departed from his prepared text to say:

"I shall not be a candidate for re-election. I have served my country long and, I think, efficiently and honestly.

"I shall not accept a renomination. I do not feel that it is my duty to spend another four years in the White House . . ."

When reporters asked if any development could bring him to reverse his decision, the President said, "none whatever."

Promises Support

At a Sunday reception, Truman urged 2,000 party workers to "get in there and pitch" for a November victory. He promised to work as enthusiastically for the party ticket "as if I were on it."

Most of the world's press bannerlined Truman's decision, but it had not yet been published in Moscow.

The former British prime minister, Clement Attlee, declined comment, but other European officials were less reticent. Maurice Schumann, French foreign affairs expert, applauded Truman's "wisdom for knowing when to quit." West German circles worried about future United States policy. The Danish Foreign Minister, Ole Bjoren Kraft, expressed hope it would be the same as that laid down by Truman.

The president, meanwhile, kept silent on his choice of a successor. Governor Stevenson seemed more receptive toward the nomination than formerly.

Few thought the president would not take an active interest in selection of a new standard bearer. He told the reception:

"I will be in there just the same as if I were the nominee because I am that kind of a Democrat. I'm not a fair-day Democrat."

Britain Won't Spend Dollars On Cheese

LONDON, March 31 (Reuters) —Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd George told the House of Commons today that Britain will be unable to spend dollars on Canadian cheese this year.

The Canadian Government had been informed, he said.

Lloyd George said dollar trade difficulties make it "impossible" to spend the dollars for cheese.

Conservative member Anthony Hurd asked if he would tell Canada that if the choice has to be made between apples and cheese, Britain would prefer cheese. The minister did not reply.

Tito Warns Western Powers Not To Give Trieste To Italy

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 31 (AP).—Premier Tito warned the western powers today that they may "lose the sympathy of our peoples" by supporting Italian territorial claims in the free territory of Trieste.

From the floor of the parliament he called upon Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi to answer the question: "Do you wish to be friends of enemies? He served notice that Yugoslavia never will accept a dictated settlement of the Trieste dispute in favor of Italy.

Simultaneously he demanded joint administration of Trieste by Yugoslavia and Italy and "protection" for the Yugoslav minority in Italy.

Trieste, a pre-war part of Italy now is governed in one section by British and United States military authorities and in another smaller section by Yugoslavia. Italy and Yugoslavia are disputing the future of the Adriatic port and its surrounding territory.

Britain, the U.S. and France urged in a 1948 declaration that Trieste be returned to Italy. At that time Yugoslavia was a member of the Moscow-dominated Cominform. Since Tito's break with the Russians, the Allies have not pushed the issue.

Last week, however, after pro-Italian demonstrations broke out in Trieste and spread to Italy, the western big three agreed to discuss with Italy the sharing of their zone's administration. The Yugoslavs objected.

Convicts Riot, Tons Of Water Hosed Into Wing

TRENTON, N.J., March 31 (AP) —Tons of water were pumped into a wing of Trenton state prison today to flood out a group of 25 hardened convicts who have barricaded themselves in the cell block since early Sunday.

Involved in the riot were convicts segregated from other prisoners because they are habitual trouble-makers.

Prison officials said the rioters shouted complaints concerning food and improper medical attention for one of the inmates.

The rioting convicts broke windows, tore out plumbing and ripped mattresses and set them afire. Some of them broke out of their cells and wandered about the three-tiered cell block.

Prison guards firing gas shells quelled the disturbance in the wing where food, water, heat and electricity were cut off.

About 25 filed out of the wing at noon. Another 25 stayed in the wing.

Other prison inmates, numbering about 1,250, were in different wings of the prison and took no part in the outbreak.

2 Youths Die In Gang Killing

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31 (AP) The gang killing of two youths in front of San Francisco's city hall touched off a sweeping roundup today of young gangsters.

Two young men were killed and three wounded in gunplay in civic centre early Sunday morning. One of the wounded may die.

Robert A. Ranson, 19, was jailed as the gunman. Inspector Al Nelder said Ranson admitted shooting down five members of the rival Fillmore gang with a .45-calibre automatic.

The shooting was the culmination of a long fued between the Fillmore and Portola gangs.

None of the five shot was armed. Norman Bothelo, 20, and Andrew Ulibarri, 19, were killed. James Erickson, 21, shot in the abdomen, was in critical condition. James Bennett, 21, and Thomas Hinman, 20, suffered flesh wounds.

Doctors Say Suchan Making Good Progress

MONTREAL, March 31 (CP) — Bandit Steve Suchan is making steady progress and has been getting up daily for short intervals, hospital authorities said today.

Suchan will face a murder charge in connection with the death of Sgt.-Det. Edmund Tong. He was shot and captured by Montreal police in a swank apartment some weeks ago.

Leonard Jackson, an alleged accomplice, also wounded by police in a gun battle prior to his capture, has already been moved to Toronto.

Crowds Jam Roads See Whistling Swans

PORT ROWAN, March 31 — —Folks came for miles around Sunday to have a look at the swans.

Lines of automobiles, sometimes two miles in length, filled all roads leading to Long Point marsh where the big white whistling swams annually stop off briefly on their way to their Arctic nesting grounds.

As many as 510 birds were counted in one flock. In another were an estimated 3,000. However by mid-after noon they withdrew shyly from view of the gaping crowds.

The swans have been arriving for the last week and it is expected the yearly visit will extend another seven days. Some of the birds have wing-spreads of more than eight feet.

Casualties Keep Mounting For Canadians

By WILLIAM BOSS

TOKYO, March 31 — (CP) — Death still stalks the Korean front.

And it will continue until armistice talks in the neutral Panmunjam enclosure—droning into the 10th month—produce some sort of truce.

The Canadian casualty lists published last week point up that fact.

In three lists last week, the army reported 35 casualties, including nine men killed, 25 wounded and one injured in action. In today's announcement, the 160th of the Korean War, one soldier was reported killed and eight others wounded.

Along the Commonwealth Division front, currently being visited by Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, commander of Britain's Far East land forces, action has been confined to routine raids and patrols —enough to keep the enemy on edge and U.N. troops aggressively minded.

Get Artillery Fire

However, Reuters reported on a Sunday dispatch that the Commonwealth Division was hit Saturday by Communist artillery for the first time in at least a month. No casualties were reported. The shelling started soon after Gen. Keightley inspected the division.

Recently Communists stepped up mortar and artillery fire into Allied positions, on which they had months to train their guns.

Although Canadian troops have not engaged in a major skirmish since Dec. 19 when Major Jack George of Edmonton won the D.S.O. for leading a company of the Princess Pats on a patrol. They and other U.N. troops have been holding what may one day be a ceasefire line.

A steady dribble of casualties have occurred in both patrol encounters and from shelling. Most injuries have been from shrapnel, and the soldier lives to fight another day.

But occasionally a bunker or dugout suffers a direct hit or a man is caught in the open, resulting in serious injuries or death.

R.C.A.F. Will Fly Canadian Jets

TORONTO, March 31 — (CP) —Canadian-built jet fighters will be flown this year by the R. C. A. F., Crawford Gordon, Jr., president and general manager of Avro Canada, said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club, he said:

"Barring unforeseen difficulties we will have one or two squadrons of CF-100 fighters in the hands of the R.C.A.F. this year and 1953 will see our production task well in hand."

He also said Orenda jet engines, designed and built particularly for the all-weather CF-100 have been chosen to power Sabre fighters. During a recent flight from Toronto to Montreal, an Orenda-powered Sabre flew at an average speed of 665 miles an hour.

A new plant with 400,000 square feet of floor space for production of Orenda and other jet engines was being equipped and staffed at nearby Malton. By the end of April, all machine tools and equipment would be installed, except for scarce items.

"The Orenda has passed the official R. C. A. F. test with flying colors. Quantity production is commencing and will accelerate as soon as the new plant is completed."

President Promises

Stevenson was asked directly on N.B.C.'s "Meet The Press" television program: "Will you say that you will not accept the Democratic nomination?"

No Comment

"I will not say that," Stevenson replied.

One immediate effect of Truman's action was to spur the campaigning of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who gave the president a stunning defeat in the New Hampshire primary, and the hopes of Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, candidate of the anti-Truman forces in the south.

At the same time, pro-Truman Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, campaigning for delegates for transfer to Truman, openly became a candidate in his own right.

Though his present term doesn't expire until January, already speculation was underway as to his future. A man of many interests, the president likely will range afar.

He may well lecture on politics and citizenship, as he expressed a desire to do in William Hillman's new book, "Mr. President".

He may travel extensively abroad as an unofficial ambassador of peace.

Immigrants For Canada

GENEVA, March 31—(CP)—European emigration authorities hope to send 3,000 immigrants from the Netherlands to Canada in 1952. Pierre Jacobson, deputy director of the European Emigration Committee, also said 30,000 German immigrants will go to Canada, Australia and Latin America but there was no breakdown on the proportion of these who will go to Canada.

Steel Talks

believes steel profits are "many times higher" than the proposed new wage costs.

Wilson's letter told the President Wilson could not "accept public responsibility for major stabilization actions which I cannot control."

The President voiced regret and paid tribute to Wilson's "vigor, competence and effectiveness" in his post.

Originally, Wilson favored neither wage nor price increases in steel. He told associates they would have the widest inflationary repercussions.

When the W.S.B. this month adopted the 17½-cent recommendation he protested it as "a serious threat" to economic stability. But he finally conceded that it must be the basis for negotiations between the industry and C.I.O.'s 650,000 steel unionists.

Changes Mind

Convinced that no settlement could be reached unless "part of the cost" were offset by assurance of a steel-price ceiling boost, his letter disclosed, Wilson flew to Key West last weekend and obtained what he regarded as an "understanding" to that effect with Truman.

But last Friday, Wilson told the President, "you changed your mind."

This was the day that Truman talked at length with economic stabilizer Roger L. Putnam and price director Ellis Arnall, both known to oppose the boosts.

By that time, however, Wilson had indicated to the steel companies the government's willingness to adjust prices if necessary. The figure of a $5-ton increase has been mentioned unofficially. The "big six" steel producers promptly invited the union into the New York negotiations today.

Now the price assurance is gone; Truman is on record as strongly supporting the wage board and doubting any need for price compensation.

Truck Lamps Used To Light Execution

ATHENS, March 31 (AP) — Four convicted Greek Communist spies were executed early Sunday near Athens.

They were Nicholas Beloyannis, Nicholas Carboumenos, Demetrios Patsis, and Elias Arghyriades. They were convicted by an Athens court-martial and sentenced March 1.

The execution was carried out before dawn by a military police rifle squad behind a sanatorium in the light thrown by headlights of 15 clustered trucks. No outsider was permitted to approach.

Col. Athanassulias, the Crown prosecutor throughout the trial, supervised the execution.

Sheep and lambs 500; market not fully established, asking 50 to 75 cents higher.

U.S. Comedian Jailed In Tiff Over Canadian Dollar Value

DETROIT, March 31—Billy De Wolfe, the screen comedian, spent Sunday morning in police headquarters and found nothing funny in it.

A tiff with a waitress over the value of the Canadian dollar was responsible.

De Wolfe, who last week appeared in a Toronto stage show and who opened Thursday at a Windsor night club, stopped in for a late snack at a Detroit hamburger stand. The cheque came to 56 cents and De Wolfe tried to pay in Canadian money.

The waitress, red-haired Mrs. Beulah Phillips, 25, wanted two extra pennies as discount on the Canadian cash.

De Wolfe recalled seeing newspaper stories which indicated that the Canadian dollar and discount had parted company.

Hot words flew. So did some other things, the participants said. De Wolfe said Mrs. Phillips reached under the counter and whacked him "a couple of times" with the proverbial blunt instrument, and Mrs. Phillips said that De Wolfe heaved a sugar container which hit her left hand and wrist.

Both Have Scars

De Wolfe exhibited a slightly skinned nose. Mrs. Phillips was treated at hospital for bruises.

Another waitress called police and De wolfe was taken to police headquarters and held for investigation into disturbing the peace.

"I've been all over Europe and I had to come to Detroit to get involved in an international situation," De Wolfe quipped.

The Comedian and Mrs. Phillips are scheduled to appear at the prosecutor's office today to talk over the situation.

"No more hamburgers in Detroit for me," said De Wolfe.

Because of the wrangle and subsequent trip to the clink, De Wolfe isn't sure whether he ever paid anything—much less the two extra cents.

De Wolfe said his hosts at police headquarters were "most gracious." He registered in under his real name—William Andrew Jones—and gave his age as 40, his address as Hollywood and his occupation as a movie actor.

De Wolfe said he was "humiliated" by the experience, but that his fellow-prisoners loved it. "They swarmed all over me for autographs," said the comedian, who could find nothing funny in the episode, but did admit that the sugar bowl punch line brought down the house.

2 Nurses Aides Prevent Panic

STOUFFVILLE, March 31 (CP) Two nurses' aides Sunday prevented panic among 27 elderly crippled patients before they were rescued from the third floor of the smoke-filled Brier Bush Private Hospital.

The patients were carried to safety by Uxbridge and Stouffville firemen, assisted by citizens on their way to church.

Six patients were made ill by smoke which came from a small fire in the basement of the hospital, a converted house on the limits of this village 30 miles northeast of Toronto.

Fire Chief Del Jennings credited nurses' aides Lois King, 17, and Helen Grose, 35, with keeping the patients calm and quiet.

A mother and two new-born twins on the first floor were aided by the Rev. H. S. Hallman of the United Missionary Church who left a Sunday school service to help in the rescue.

Three hours after the fire a mother was taken to the smoke-darkened hospital to give birth to a premature baby in the emergency ward.

Telegraph Workers Postpone Strike In US

WASHINGTON, March 31 — A strike of 31,000 Western Union Telegraph Company employees was postponed today at the government's request. It was due to start at midnight.

The postponement was announced by mediation commissioner J. R. Mandelbaum. He said the Commerciaal Telegraph Union (A. F. L.) probably will set a new strike date later in the day.

The strike delay was arranged to provide the government with more time to seek settlement of the labor dispute between the company and the union. The union's wage contract expires at midnight tonight.

The union represents virtually all Western Union workers except in metropolitain New York. It is demanding wage and hour improvements, higher pensions, and several "fringe" benefits.

Chiropractors Meet In Peterborough

Chiropractors from Whitby, Oshawa, Port Perry, Cobourg, Peterborough, Madoc, Campbellford and Belleville met in the Empress Hotel Sunday to hear Dr. R. O. Muller, D.C., Dean of the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College in Toronto.

Dr. Muller spoke on the principles and practice of dianetics.

In addition, the latest chiropractic techniques were reviewed.

Minister Dies Suddenly After Giving Sermon

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)— The Rev. John Levason, 70, died from a heart attack Sunday a few hours after preaching at the Anglican Church of the Advent, Westmount.

He was a native of England and on coming to Canada became a missionary in the Peace River district.

After receiving a theological degree from the University of British Columbia, he spent 12 years in the Peace River area. He then moved to the diocese of Ontario where he served many years at different places, including Oxford Mills, Frankville, Wolfe Island and Eastern Corners.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

Burial will be at Eastern Corners, Ont.

125 Friends Honor Young Bewdley Pair

BEWDLEY, March 31 (ENS)— Friday evening about 125 friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Manley in honor of their son, Murray, and his bride-to-be, Miss Myrna Larke of Springville. As Miss Arleigh McCallister read an address, beautifully handwritten by R. Hancock of Bewdley, the presentation of a lovely grey and yellow five piece chrome kitchen suite was made by Eugene Halstead, Ross Gordon, Bud Goss, Peter Brockenshire, Leighton Westington and Ted Dawson.

The evening was spent playing progressive euchre and checkers. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. Gordon, Mrs. Oswald Gibbs, Mrs. Cyril Churchley, Herman Bamsey, Wilbur Simpson and Clarence Pillsworth. Lunch was served.

Relatives and friends were present from Springville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Bensfort and Peterborough, as well as the surrounding Bewdley community.

Mrs. Harold McCallister and Mrs. Harry Goss had planned the party.

Mine Workers Turned Away

TIMMINS, March 31—(CP)— Workers at Preston East Dome Gold Mine were turned away today when they returned to the mine after a three-day "unauthorised" work stoppage.

Mine manager W. A. Hutchison said necessary inspection of underground equipment was under way. He could not say when operations would resume.

The stoppage began Tuesday when the miners—members of Local 4438, United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) — objected to the discharge of Paul Proule for sleeping on the job.

Between half and three-quarters of the 180-man shift turned up for work early today.

A union official said the Proule case will be referred to arbitration. "The important thing to do now is to try and rectify a mistake made."

Partisans Assume Bomb Blame

PARIS, March 31—(Reuters)— Paris newspapers today received a copy of a typed letter purporting to be from a "Jewish Partisan's organization" claiming it was responsible for last week's parcel-bomb attempt on German chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The letter was dated Zurich, Switzerland, and had been mailed in Geneva.

It said: "Our comrades carried out their first action on German soil on March 27."

"A book containing explosives was sent to Dr. K. Adenauer, chancellor of the people of murderers," the letter added.

"The German people must know that there can be no pardon for their crimes. We shall pay them back all they deserve for their crimes. We have just sent them the first gift; others will follow."

An unidentified man handed the "book bomb" to two boys to mail to Adenauer in Munich last week. The boys were suspicious, took it to a police station. There it went off, killing an explosives expert and injuring four other persons.

Prices Hold Firmly To Mid-Session Gains

TORONTO, March 31—(CP)— Prices held firmly to strong mid-session gains today in early afternoon stock market dealings.

Western oils, golds, base metals and industrials opened higher as the week-end's rally carried into early dealings. Oils continued to lead while steady support spilled over into selected industrials and golds, principally those with oil interests.

A few lower-priced base metals and penny golds also attracted interest but most turnovers were moderate. East Malartic, however, was a standout as it jumped strongly in active trading. Volume for the first three hours was 2,937,000 shares.

Oil gains ranged from pennies to about $1. Pacific Petroleum Canadian Atlantic, Calgary and Edmonton, Canadian Williston, General Petroleum, Federated Petroleum and Trans Empire pushed upward.

Refining oils led industrials upward as Canadian Oil, Imperial Oil and International Petroleum posted advances ranging to about $1. Papers, steels and agricultures also drew firm support. Canadian Pacific bolstered a mixed utilities section with a gain of $1.25.

Base metals climbed steadily, Castle, Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, Noranda, Ontario Pyrites, Sherritt-Gordon and Opemiska strengthened.

The exchange's gold index climbed to a record high as firm supports buoyed senior golds. Secondary issues were firm.

Anti-Tank, A.A. Guns Join In Cobourg Firepower Show

COBOURG, March 31 — (ENS)—One thousand military personnel took part in various capacities in a fire power demonstration Sunday east of the town which was witnessed by more than 3,000 civilian spectators.

Anti-tank, Bofors 40 mm and lighter automatic weapons fired at targets floating in the lake at 300, 500-and 800 yard positions. But before the guns were placed in position on a bluff overlooking Lake Ontario they had to be drawn through thick, heavy mud that threatened at times to completely bog down the mobile equipment. The 3.7 a.a. gun from Peterborough was drawn within a few hundred yards of the intended position and left there when the mud made further progress impossible.

Admitting the value of the firing training, staff officers pointed out that the mudding experience was almost of equal training importance.

Sunday morning they started to move in. Along a narrow winding road which led to the rifle butts, the big army trucks pulled the guns southward. The road was well-drained except for one or two low spots which were not serious but when they reached the butts and turned off on to the soft ground, the trouble started. Enough frost had come out of the ground to make it soft and the wheels of the big vehicles ploughed deep. Men and trucks fought the mud as they worked the guns to the firing line. Only piece of equipment that had no trouble was the big self-propelled 17-pounder anti-tank gun.

Fortuntately the public was advised in due course of the mud conditions and only a few cars ventured down the road. The rest parked near the gate and along the highway. Forewarned citizens wore rubber boots, the rest, except for those who were up on the rifle butts target ridge, stood in mud. In fact, the mud almost stole the show from the fire power demonstration.

All Ready.

At 2 p.m. everything had been readied under the co-ordination efforts of Capt. W. Pendergrast of H. Q., Kingston. On top of the sound truck, Major R. Owen of Kingston gave a commentary on the demonstration, naming the weapons in turn as they were fired, and giving their function. At the extreme west of the field was the 5.5 inch gun, handled by a gun crew of the 33rd Medium Regiment of Cobourg, which was host to the visiting units. Next was a 40 mm. Bofors manned by a crew from the Brockville 60th L. A. A., R. C. A. This and a mortar plus a Bren gun, Vickers machine gun and a 6 pound anti-tank were representative of the types of protective weapons for an infantry battalion. The Bren and the Vickers were handled by men of the Midland Regiment and the six pounder was by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. A 17-pounder anti-tank, (towed) was in charge of a gun crew from the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, Belleville. The 25 pounder gun was fired by men of the 4th Field Regiment, Lindsay and the 17 pound self-propelled by the 9th Anti-Tank.

Besides having to buck mud until they were short of their intended firing position, the 3.7 anti-aircraft gun of the 50th Heavy A. A., Peterborough, ran into difficulties due to failure of the firing mechanism to operate. However, this was one of the things that sometimes happens and no fault of the crew who manned the gun.

Radar equipment from Kingston probed the air and lake lest anything come within the firing range. Five mustangs from Trenton R. C. A. F. of the Pilot Attack Flight, Air Armament School, gave a demonstration of machine-gunning and rocket attack on the third floating target 800 yards out. The aerial offensive was watched with great interest by the huge crowd on shore.

Staff officers were very pleased with the successful demonstration. A recruiting tent in charge of Major Russell Manning of Cobourg drew many enquiries during the afternoon. While guns have been fired over Lake Ontario before, this was the first time in a considerable number of years and the first time in history where such a large crowd of civilian personnel have been spectators.

Old Church Yields Historical Harvest

LONDON (CP)—Old St. Bride's Church, just off busy Fleet Street in the heart of London's newspaper world, is yielding a harvest of historical discoveries.

Twenty-four hours after excavators started work on the blitzed church, built by Sir Christopher Wren, a crypt of a medieval church, dating well before Wren's time was discovered, along with a charnel house or ossuary and a vault.

Present discoveries suggest that the medieval church was larger than that of Wren, which was built after the great fire of 1666.

W. F. Grimes, director of London Museum who is helping supervise the digging, says it is rare for "such a rich harvest of discovery" to be made in such a short time.

Dr. H. P. Whidden Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, March 31 (CP). — Dr. Howard P. Whidden, 80, former president of Brandon College and former chancellor of McMaster University, died Sunday. Born in Antigonish, N.S., for 15 years he was a Baptist minister in Canada and the United States. For a time he was minister of the Water Street Baptist Church in Galt.

In 1917 he was elected to Parliament as a supporter of the Union Government by one of the largest majorities in the Dominion. In the House of Commons his special interests were immigration and scientific research.

In 1923 he was appointed chancellor of McMaster in which office he served until his retirement in 1941.

Nine Little Theatre Groups In Dominion Drama Festival

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Nine little-theatre groups from six provinces will take part in the Dominion Drama Festival at Saint John, N.B., April 28 to May 3.

Seven of the groups were selected to compete in the 13th annual show by Pierre LeFevre, regional adjudicator. In a two-month tour of area competitions, he saw 47 full-length plays and 13 short plays.

Two of the groups—from Belleville, and Montreal—have been asked to put on plays but not to compete.

After the executive meeting which drew up the list of entrants in the festival, Mr. LeFevre said his tour convinced him that Canadian theatre is "alive," although the choice of plays was not as varied as he would like.

The showing of Canadian-written plays—seven in all—was "very encouraging".

The only classical play he viewed in his tour was Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor". Its presentation by a Peterborough group showed that little-theatre groups can do the classics and audiences enjoy them. Mr. LeFevre would have liked to have seen more classical plays.

Wins $100 Award

Robertson Davies, editor of The Peterborough Examiner, was awarded the Dominion Drama Festival cash prize of $100 as author of the best play written by a Canadian and presented at a regional festival.

Mr. Davies' play, "Voice of the People" was presented by the Belleville group and will appear in the Dominion Festival May 3.

The other non-competing play will be "De L'Autre Cone Du Mur" presented by La Jeune Scene of Montreal the same night.

The Sir Barry Jackson challenge trophy was awarded to the St. Mary's (Ont.) theatre for the best production of a full-length or short play written by a Canadian. The group presented "Sit Ye Doon" by William Digby, 20-year-old London, Ont., playwright.

Program at the Dominion Drama Festival will be:

Saint John Theatre Guild, "Hay Fever" by Noel Coward, April 28.

St. John's Players of Newfoundland, "Ladies in Retirement" by Edward Percy and Reginald Denham, April 19.

Halifax Theatre Arts Guild, "Second Threshold" by Philip Barry, matinee, April 30.

Regina Little Theatre, "Tomorrow the World" by James Gow and Arnaud Dusseau, evening, April 30.

Saturday Players of Ottawa Little Theatre, "The Enchanted" by Jean Giradoux, May 1.

The Actors Company, Toronto, "Golden Boy" by Clifford Odets, May 2.

St. Genesius Players Guild, Montreal, "Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams, matinee, May 3.

Not Solely A Labour Matter

The Trades and Labour Congress is anxious that immigration into Canada be restricted in those fields where unemployment already exists, and wants all immigration to cease during the winter, and off-season periods of employment; it also suggests to Ottawa that immigration be made the business of the Federal Department of Labour. With the first of these recommendations we do not think that there will be any quarrel. It is obviously foolish to bring people to Canada in order that they may immediately join the ranks of the unemployed, and no government would knowingly do such a thing. Of course, it cannot be guaranteed that there will always be a job for every worker of every kind in Canada, nor is it desirable that this should be so. If standards of work are to be improved, or even kept at their present level, employers must not be put in the position of having to employ anybody, however poor a workman, simply because he belongs to a particular trade. But it is most undesirable that there should be immigration of workers in fields which are already overfull, and lack of encouragement for immigrants in the categories which we need.

* * *

It must be borne in mind, however, that immigrants these days can pick and choose where they shall go; they are not all panting to get to Canada, by any means. Therefore our rules regarding immigration must not be so complex and restrictive that they discourage immigration, and we obviously cannot make immigration a seasonal thing for this same reason. We want free people to come to Canada and we promise them freedom when they get here; we cannot begin by involving them in too many regulations.

* * *

The suggestion that the Department of Labour should control immigration is one which cannot be seriously entertained. Immigration concerns everybody in the country, and not the labour force alone. Immigration must not be made to serve the wants of a special interest in Canada. Labour, which has fought special interests successfully in the past, must not now seek to become a special interest itself.

For Texas, Yes; For Great Lakes States, No

One of the loudest and most immediate reactions to President Truman's appeal for approval of the St. Lawrence Seaway came from Senator Tom Connally, Texas Democrat. Senator Connally roared that the "United States Government could not get economy by spending a billion dollars on something that will be on foreign soil." He had earlier inveighed against creating artificial waterways where none were needed, and said that "his people" were opposed to it.

We do not doubt that the people—the influential people—of the ports of Texas are opposed to the building of the St. Lawrence Waterway, but their opposition does them little credit. It is doubtful if the Texas ports would be adversely affected, any more than Great Lakes ports were adversely affected when the United States Government created artificial waterways to benefit the State of Texas, and by so doing created deep-water ports where none had existed.

There are thirteen such ports in Texas, served by four canal systems, and each one of these ports is hand-made. Houston and Beaumont, for example, are fifty miles from natural deep water; Brownsville is fourteen miles from it and Corpus Christi twenty-two. Channels thirty to thirty-four feet deep were cut through the coastal plain to allow ocean shipping to reach these artificial ports, at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars—perhaps more than a billion all told—to the U.S. Federal Government. And there was no protest against this at any time from the people of the ports of the Great Lakes.

Senator Connally's contention that the St. Lawrence Seaway, as a joint project, would be built on foreign soil is nonsense. It would be an international development, it is true, but the installations would be the property of the two nations, and much of the project would be on the United States's side of the international boundary. We can only conclude, regretfully, that Senator Connally and "his people" cannot bear the thought of another portion of their nation benefiting as they themselves have benefited through Federal expenditure, regardless of national need.

Russian Peace Treaty Proposals

The recent detailed Russian proposal that a conference to be held to consider a four power German peace treaty has been discussed on this page. Whatever the merits of the proposal or whatever cupidity lies behind it, this must not be overlooked: it has a direct appeal to many Germans whose dearest wish is a united Fatherland. The Russian proposal implies a reunion of Germany.

The offer came from Moscow, and not from the satellite East German Republic. It is therefore being given considerable attention. West Germans are of course not to be duped by thinking that what Russia now proposes will be the line she takes at a Conference table. They understand, after seven years' experience in dealing with Russian tactics, that the 'offer' of a German national army and the hint of new national frontiers extending west from the Oder-Neisse line (that is, from the western boundaries of the post-war Poland) are bargaining counters which will not be binding on the Soviet Government. But the lure of a united Germany is contained in the Russian proposals. The London Times has described it as probably the last chance of restoring German unity. The West Germans have eagerly seized on this sentence.

What is behind the Russian offer, and the reality of the intention have yet to be weighed by the chief Western Powers and West Germany. A serious diplomatic attempt should be made to find out. Is it a delaying manoeuvre, to hamper West German partnership in the defence of Western Europe? Or is Moscow willing to sacrifice the east German regime in order to prevent German participation in the European Army?

Protracted negotiations over a German peace treaty (if the Russian suggestion is taken up), would certainly impede NATO military plans. If the matter got beyond negotiation, and Russian and western troops—all foreign military and aviation auxiliaries—were withdrawn from Germany, so as to allow a united Germany to run her own affairs and guard herself, what guarantee would the West have against Russian or satellite re-entry into Germany? What guarantee would West Germany and its supporters have that the elections would really be free?

Dr. Adenauer, Chancellor of West Germany, has gone to Paris to consult western leaders on the Western reply to the Soviet note. He and his personal advisers regard any four-power conference on Germany to be harmful at the present time. In this opinion he is not supported by general opinion in West Germany—an opinion which he did not take into account before he went to Paris. A great many West Germans (and of course East Germans) do not fear a four-Power conference, but look towards it with an almost despairing hope. This is the most vital question of German foreign policy today; and dissension over it could result in a political upset for Dr. Adenauer.

World's Biggest Landlord?

Arthur Blakely, who writes an Ottawa column for the Montreal Gazette thinks that through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Federal Government is one of the world's biggest landlords. In support he cites these figures: The Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (which, incidentally, is in the process of making a combined real estate deal with Peterborough, and the Ontario Government, to develop 550 acres of Smith township as an annex to Peterborough)—this corporation is renting 25,000 homes, almost entirely to war veterans. Rental revenues for 1951 totalled almost $13,200,000.

We can give no figures, but we suspect that collectively, the colleges of Oxford are bigger landlords than the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Most of the older colleges are heavily endowed, and require a full-time estates agent to attend to rental collections from farms, city properties and the like. The biggest land-owner—as distinct from landlord—in Britain is the Church of England. Although the amount of land is small which the owners of New York's Rockefeller Centre have, the rental income must be very large indeed. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is another contender for title to biggest landlord or even landowner. The Hudson's Bay Company is no mean land operator, either.

A pleasant feature of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation as landlord is that there have been very few complaints about landlord-tenant relations, and only 21 rental accounts have been in arrears for three months or more.

NOTES AND COMMENT

It is now asserted that nagging children at mealtimes will cause their teeth to decay. But a parent who pays any attention to this will undoubtedly grind his own teeth down to the gums.

A cookbook produces the odd bit of information that in 1645 Persia passed a law that astrologers should be paid only in food. Reason: a lot of money might make them dishonest, but a lot of food could only go bad. How times change! A man who was paid in large quantities of food today could laugh at care, and sell off his surplus at a handsome price.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

AN ARTICLE published recently in one of the leading Canadian magazines (I am not referring to the one which branded Peterborough as colorless) criticizes strongly the tendencies of modern education. It deplored the proclivity of our modern educators to make things as easy as possible for the student, and claimed that they are not made to use their brains. Certainly the deplorable results of half-baked school education are only too obvious, and the complete elimination of the competitive spirit from the schoolroom in a highly competitive civilization shows a remarkable lack of realism. Yet amongst all the experiments of the new education there are grains of good sense. We must be careful not to throw out the baby with the bath water. In particular the greater emphasis which is being placed, however tentatively and clumsily at times, on the place of the arts in the education of a well-rounded personality, can be counted as positive gain.

✧ ✧ ✧

CLASSICAL scholars will see nothing particularly new or startling in this, for Plato in the fourth century before Christ placed special emphasis on the study of music for the soul as on gymnastics for the body. A child's natural feeling for beauty should never be stunted: it should be allowed to expand and develop. This can only be done by the child actually singing, painting and so on: classes in "music appreciation" and the like, however well-meant, are ancillary to self-expression, particularly when that self-expression is disciplined and encouraged in equal measure. Needless to say the best models must be available. For example the best staple diet for the singing class is the rich store-house of folksong. The simplicity and directness of their expression is admirably suited to young and old alike. Unfortunately the school music books that I have seen contain too high a percentage of sugary trifles, some of them crudely and ineptly harmonized. If Plato were alive today I am sure that he would accuse this type of music of nurturing wishy-washy characters. Perhaps he would not be far wrong.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE of the most significant developments of the past few years in the smaller centres of population has been the increasing popularity of the subscription type of concert. They exist also in larger cities, though their importance is minimized by the multiplicity of other activities, whereas they may be perhaps the sole source of good "live" music in many a smaller place. The custom of subscribing for a series of concerts is of fairly long standing, but the modern type as developed in the States shows many distinctive features. Let us take the "Community Concerts", the best-known and most widespread of these organizations. In the first place the subscriptions are all paid several months in advance. Then follows the most remarkable feature—the subscribers do not know what artists they will be entitled to hear, nor the dates of the concerts. This implies an act of faith of the subscribers in the organization. As soon as all subscriptions have been received the artists for the coming season are selected by a board of directors composed of local people on the basis of the amount of money that they have available.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT WOULD be tedious to recount all the details, yet one of the most remarkable features of this organization is its great attention to detail, covering almost every conceivable contingency. There is a paradox; Community Concerts are organized pretty tightly from New York, and yet they depend to an enormous degree on the initiative and keenness of local music-lovers, who take upon their shoulders much of the work entailed in "making a go of it". Certainly the modern type of subscription series appears to be solving brilliantly for the time, at any rate, the age-old problem of sponsoring worth-while concerts without losing a fortune. Certain less desirable features, such as alleged unwarranted interference in the artist's choice of programme and the mere fact of the headquarters being in a neighbouring and friendly yet undisputably foreign country, have been discussed recently—yet on the balance it appears to me that these bodies are doing a grand job of work in bringing music to those who live outside the big cities; and if they happen to reap a disproportionate margin of profit it is the artists who should band together for more favourable treatment. Incidentally I observe that a higher proportion of Canadian artists is being engaged than heretofore, and auditions for prospective artists are being held in Montreal and Toronto. As result of this policy more Canadian artists are being engaged for tours in the States, which should go towards correcting the previous almost one-way traffic system in musical performers.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE question still remains whether it is desirable that the Canadian concert world should be controlled from New York. In the past few years Canadians have become more than ever conscious of their nationality. Certainly there are few nations that can boast of a comparable development in an equal period. Yet it is obvious to anyone that this development has been lop-sided in certain respects, notably in all those aspects of life that are not of immediate practical use. Music has fared better than drama, possibly because of a lingering Puritan idea that the stage is sinful. The English tradition of choral singing transplanted to this country is still vigorous in spite of the inroads of mechanized music. The Festival movement, too, has been and still is a potent means of fostering talent, especially amongst amateurs. Bodies such as the Toronto Conservatory have maintained and raised standards of performance and scholarship.

✧ ✧ ✧

YET it is still almost impossible for a concert artist to make a living in this country by concert tours. It is argued by some that this is largely the fault of the dead hand of New York stunting the musical growth of the country. This argument will not hold water: there are not enough audiences in Canada to provide a livelihood for the artists that are being trained in this country. For this reason New York remains the main clearing-house of talent throughout the entire continent. How long this state of affairs will continue I cannot say. The evils of centralization—standardization and regimentation—have been countered in other fields by decentralization. One thing is certain, that unless government action were taken (which would be a great mistake) New York will continue to play its present role for many years to come.

The Effectiveness of Mr. Knowles

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

IT WAS a personal triumph for Mr. Stanley Knowles when the House of Commons accepted his proposal that the Government consider increasing the amounts that may be claimed as income tax exemptions because of medical expenses. Mr. Knowles' resolution was adopted unanimously, a rare enough experience when the suggestion comes from one of the parties sitting to the left of Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Sinclair, speaking for the Government, had some reservations but in general he approved Mr. Knowles' proposal. Now it must be anticipated that the taxpayer who has been put to heavy expense by illness will find some adjustments to his benefit in the budget to be read on April 8.

Mr. Knowles, C.C.F. member of Parliament from Winnipeg North Centre since 1942, has two great assets—persistence and a detailed knowledge of House rules and procedure. His persistence in forwarding his causes has been known to weary the House, but interruptions are few because his fellow-members are aware that Mr. Knowles understands the rules and follows them.

With his determined logic Mr. Knowles may expect finally to convince the House and the Government on some other questions he often raises. One is his campaign to have divorce bills from provinces where divorces are not granted taken out of Parliament where they cause some embarrassment. Mr. Knowles believes there should be a court in Ottawa, or elsewhere, which would deal with the dissolution of marriage without members of Parliament and senators having to rattle through bill after bill in which they are not interested and which have caused the petitioners considerable expense.

Mr. Knowles' other causes include his proposals for a year-round five-day week for the civil service and he is concerned over the plight of civil service and other pensioners with small fixed incomes who have been caught on the rack of the high cost of living. On these and allied subjects he is prepared to speak on the drop of the hat and at length.

A member of Parliament, by the nature of things, cannot always be engaged in speeches that enrapture the galleries and stir enthusiasm along the benches. There have to be plodding speeches, whose virtue is their clear thought and firm argument. They require study and preparation to be effective and they must be backed by the research performed by members who take pleasure in the work of Parliament, making their duty their hobby.

Many may not agree with the opinions of Mr. Knowles as a Socialist member. But everyone with respect for the institution of Parliament can have nothing but praise for his industry and ability.

Oscars For Canada's Movie Makers

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

A comparison between the fourth annual Canadian Film Awards which will be presented next month in Toronto and the "Oscars" soon to be awarded in Hollywood may seem ludicrous. For the one represents the achievement of an infant industry; the other has behind it the prestige of one of the most fabulous businesses in the world. With a three billion dollar capital investment, an annual payroll of nearly 500 millions, and box-office receipts of two billions a year, the American movie-industry makes its Canadian counterpart seem very modest and inexperienced — a new starlet beside a long-established star.

But viewed apart from its colossal neighbor, the Canadian movie industry appears to be developing quickly and sturdily. The National Film Board alone completed 187 projects, 130 of them major films of one reel or more, during 1951. These films reached a large audience, both at home and abroad: about 9,000,000 Canadians and 6,500,000 movie-goers in the United States, Britain, Europe, Africa, Asia, Australasia, Central and South America. The fact that 14 Film Board productions won awards in competition with other Canadian and international films during the past year is indicative of the excellence of the board's artistry and craftsmanship.

The fact that some 20 films have been submitted for this year's Canadian Film Awards from the publicly-owned company and from commercial movie-makers and amateurs is evidence of very considerable progress in the whole industry. Sponsors of the awards, the Canadian Association for Adult Education, the Canadian Film Institute, and the Canada Foundation, are contributing to this advance by calling attention to Canadian achievement in film-making and fostering still higher standards of production.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

On this side Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moses to declare this law, saying . . . Behold, I have set the land before you: go in and possess the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give unto them and to their seed after them. And I spake unto you at that time, saying, I am not able to bear you myself alone . . .

So I took the chief of your tribes, wise men, and known, and made them heads over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes. And I charged your judges at that time, saying, Hear the causes between your brethren, and judge righteously between every man and his brother, and the stranger that is with him. Ye shall, not respect persons in judgement; but ye shall hear the small as well as the great; ye shall not be afraid of the face of man; for the judgement is God's. (Deut. 1: 5, 8, 9, 15-17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For the Lord giveth wisdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding . . . He keepeth the paths of judgement and preserveth the way of his saints. Then shalt thou understand righteousness, and judgement, and equity; yea, every good path. (Prov. 2: 6, 8, 9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now there was a day when the sons of the Lord, and Satan came also among them. And the Lord said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? Then Satan answered the Lord, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it. (Job 1: 6, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord, and their works are in the dark, and they say, Who seeth us? and who knoweth us? (Isa. 29: 15.)

Speaking of Spring

(Vancouver Province)

We know it is Spring because the seagulls of Winter have left and the pigeons and sparrows now have the park for their own. And we know it is Spring because the old maples have had their annual trimming and look very naked. But we know that one day soon we will look out the window to find them heavy in leaf and looking as if they had never been pruned.

Up the street people are pawing over garden books and magazines in the second-hand book shops. People are scrambling on buses with rakes and shovels and packages of seeds and bundles of shrubs.

We know it is Spring because even a bulbous-nosed old boy from the skidroad stops to ponder the miracle of the tulips poking their green shoots from the damp earth.

After 48 Years

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

A Port Arthur man this week received a cheque from Castle Trethewey Mines, Ltd. It was endorsed dividend number one, being at the rate of 10 cents per share on the 2,709,002 shares outstanding.

There being nothing remarkable about it in that sense, it is merely mentioned here to show that one should never be in a hurry about giving up hope on his mining investments. In this instance the wait was merely 48 years, the original investment having been made in 1904 with the purchase of shares in Trethewey Silver, one of the originals of the Cobalt boom.

DOUBLE FOR THE BIG RACE

Britain's Atom Program Put In Hands Of "Mystery Man"

By CHARLES E. WHITING

LONDON, March 31 — (AP) — Winston Churchill is counting on a veteran troubleshooter to coax a skittish United States into sharing its atomic secrets.

Lord Cherwell, Britain's "Mr. Fixit," is admirably suited for the role of tight-lipped custodian of civilization's most awesome knowledge.

One of Churchill's first moves when he resumed the government's leadership last October was to place Britain's atomic energy program in Cherwell's hands. His ministerial title is Paymaster General.

Cherwell moved into 11 Downing Street, next door to the Prime Minister's official residence at No. 10. He accompanied Churchill on his recent visit to the U.S. and is credited with sparking the reported decision to begin talks on the exchange of atomic secrets.

Confidences on this touchy subject were halted two years ago after Klaus Fuchs, British atomic scientist, was jailed for giving atom secrets to Russia.

Considered one of Britain's foremost scientists, Cherwell (pronounced char'-well) is about the closest approach to a "mystery man" outside the British Secret Service.

Bachelor, vegetarian, teetotaler —he lives at 65 the life of a cloistered genius.

He served Britain in two world wars, beginning as what has come to be known in British slang as a "boffin." That's a scientist or technician employed in experimental work for the armed forces.

A scientist by profession, Cherwell is an engineer, philosopher, economist and inventor.

He was born Frederick Alexander Lindemann, the son of a wealthy Alsatian business man, in Sidmouth, England.

He joined the "boffin" staff of the Royal Flying Corps and became director of its Aeronautical Research Laboratory during the First World War.

At that time the R.F.C. was losing planes and pilots at a costly rate due to a phenomenon known as "tailspin."

Cherwell reached certain mathematical calculations about how to keep a plane from spinning to its death. Other scientists and pilots scoffed at his "paper" theory.

Lindemann learned — in three weeks—how to fly a plane. He went aloft—alone. He tipped his flying crate over into a spin deliberately and plunged earthwards. Then he pulled it out into level flight, his "boffin" theory proved.

For his courage the scientists was awarded the D.F.C. After the war he went to Oxford as Professor of Experimental Philosophy and director of the Clarendon Laboratory.

Many Achievements

When Churchill became Prime Minister in 1940 he named "the professor" as his personal assistant. It was a profitable association for Britain. Scientific teams under Churchill's direction produced:

An answer to the Magnetic mine —a device known as "degaussing" which exploded the mines at a safe distance from the ship in peril;

Britain's clumsy-looking but effective anti-aircraft balloon barrage;

The method of "bending" a radio beam to deflect enemy bombers using it as a "homing" course to their targets;

"Window," the tinfoil device dropped from Allied raiding planes to confuse the enemy's radar-controlled anti-aircraft installations; and Airborne radar which helped defeat the U-boat menace.

By 1941 Churchill's regard for his scientific friend had risen so high that he elevated him to the peerage. Lindemann chose his title from the River Cherwell which meanders into the Thames near his beloved Oxford.

One of his first steps as atomic boss was to insist on tightened security measures. About 50 scientists working for the government have been fired since the security probing first began five years ago.

Churchill is anxious to explode Britain's first atom bomb this spring. He has ordered Cherwell to speed up the atomic energy program to meet this deadline.

Latin America Protestantism Fertile Field

By PATRICK CROSSE

ROME, March 31—(Reuters)—The powerful society of Jesus—better known as the Jesuits—has issued a call for the "rescue" of Roman Catholicism in south and central America.

The society is the most militant and highly-disciplined of the Catholic church's religious Orders.

"Catholicism in Latin America has passed through so formidable a crisis, lasting more than a century, that it is a miracle if that vast territory can still call itself Caholic, says Gentes, the missionary organ of the Jesuits.

In an issue entitled "Latin America—SOS," it says the three main points of the situation are:

1. "A world of 154,000,000 so-called Catholics must be re-christianized."

2. "The Catholic forces available are extraordinarily insufficient for the task."

3. "Every delay in this undertaking of religious reconstruction marks a progress in the methodical advance of Protestantism, if not of Communist materialism."

Big Protestant Jump

The publication says the advance of Protestantism in the last few decades has been considerable.

"In 1925 there were in all 708,000 Protestants in Latin America. Today there are 4,700,000. Official statistics show that there are: 19,428 Protestant places of worship; 3,655 ordained Protestant ministers; and 49 Protestant theological colleges.

"It cannot be claimed that the Protestants 'buy' converts. Often, it is a queston of souls who, experiencing a strong religious aspiration and finding no Catholic community near them, give themselves to the first pastor who invites them to come and sing hymns, in an undeniably religious atmosphere, and who reads to them, perhaps for the first time in their lives, the holy scriptures."

The review says that, adding to their other powerful means of propaganda, "the Protestants are now planning to flood Latin America with 10,000 preachers who have had to leave the Far East."

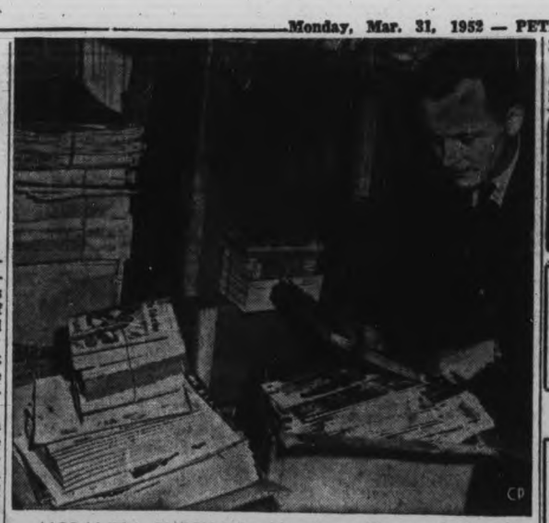
The basic problem in Latin America "is the grave lack of clergy" Gentes says.

"Latin America, which has 33 per cent of the world's Catholics, disposes of only seven per cent of the world's priests.

"It has been established that the proportion of Catholics to priests should be at least one priest to every 1,000 Catholics.

"While in the United States the average is 622 Catholics to one priest, and in Canada 479, the 25,000 priests of Latin America furnish the miserable average of one priest to every 7,000 of the faithful."

Gentes estimated that less than 20 per cent of city dwellers in Latin America and less than five per cent of country people attend mass.



MORALITY CHECK-UP—Morality officers of the Ottwa police department have seized about 10,000 books and magazines suspected of containing obscene material. The publications were taken from book and cigar stores in the capital. Morality Inspector Ubald Sauve is to decide which publication is obscene. Constable Stewart Kettles is shown checking some of the exhibits.

Traffic In Bangkok Proves Nightmare To Western Man

By BILL BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand, March 31 —(CP)—The air hangs heavy in the temple of the emerald Buddha.

From without comes the tinkle of vari-toned bells. The temperature is 95 degrees, the humidity 100 per cent.

But over the 500-year-old Buddha, carved from a solid piece of jasper, is a jewelled cape reaching from his neck to below the crossed legs —the idol's "winter" costume. He has other costumes for the hot and rainy seasons.

This is a hot country, and they say the best time to come is December.

It is a cheap place to live. A white sharkskin suit, made to measure with two pairs of trousers, is produced by a tailor in 48 hours for $30. Light cotton-rayon shirts cost $2 each and white canvas-topped shoes $2. The oriental hotel's table d'hote dinner is $1.25. There are croissants and coffee for 30 cents each morning at the same place.

But it is neither the warmth nor the economy of Bangkok that melts the visitor's heart. That is done by the people, who radiate a serenity, charm and directness of approach that seem unique in the east.

Travellers call the Siamese the "the French of the Orient". (The Japanese are likened to the British and the Koreans the Irish).

When the Siamese says "hello" he doesn't bow like other Orientals. He clasps his own hands, palms together and fingers outstretched, and smiles his greeting. An acquaintance or a friend will be greeted with the hands clasped somewhere between the waist and the forehead, dpnding on the degree of respect or feeling; but before Buddha the clasp is above the forehead.

Gives Straight Answer

The Siamese gives a straight answer to a question. He isn't servile, obsequious or fussed up in social protocol like the Japanese. It's refreshing to be in a place where a foreigner is treated as a man and not as an overlord.

But Bangkok traffic? Short of a midway roller-coaster there isn't a thrill to match it. Tokyo and Rome aren't in the same league. The Paris taxi driver is a softie by comparison.

Driving is by the left and there is no speed limit. Commonest and most popular form of transport is the samlor—a foot-powered tricycle cab in which the front wheel does the steering and the buggy is suspended between two rear wheels. It is trickier to drive than it looks.

In Bangkok traffic it's the samlor driver who calls the tune. He hugs the middle of the road. If he moves over he will under no circumstances go so far as to cross the street-car tracks, which are at the extreme left of one side of the street with "up" and "down" services on one track and double-track islands at intervals for passing.

Streets are wide and traffic usually moves two abreast with passers in each direction trying to make it three. The result is havoc, noise and shattered nerves.

Actually, accidents are few — thanks to the samlor. Everyone's afraid of hitting one because their drivers have an understanding. The motorist who damages a samlor and doesn't stop, or the one who stops and doesn't accord the right treatment, is noted for further reference. Within a few days he is likely to be waylaid by a representative samlor group and taught to mend his ways. The same goes for passengers who try to pay less than the proper fare.

Most samlor drivers are young men, for the heavy vehicles are hard on the heart and a driver must look for easier work by the time he is 30.

Such is the fear of traffic that few are hurt in traffic accidents. They are usually killed.

Reality Is Subject Of Lesson-Sermon

"Reality" was the subject of the lesson sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ Scientist in Peterborough on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory.'—(Isaiah 6:3).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Psalms 135:13, "Thy name, O Lord, endureth forever; and thy memorial O Lord, throughout all generations."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following: "Reality is spiritual, harmonious, immutable, immortal, divine, eternal. Nothing unspiritual can be real, harmonious, or eternal."

At the Metro Taxi Company, Montreal, where they do their own upkeep, and overhauls in their own garage, they've proved the value of Peerless Heavy Duty Detergent Motor Oil. They found out for themselves that it means a cleaner, more economical, more powerful engine with less chance of costly maintenance. Today they use Peerless Heavy Duty Detergent Motor Oil in their taxis.

Here's proof..

B-A HEAVY DUTY Detergent MOTOR OIL

washes your motor while you drive

In the same way that detergent soaps will free dirt from clothes Peerless Heavy Duty Detergent Motor Oil will wash your motor while you drive. For proof, examine the clean, sludge-free, uncorroded pistons and cylinders of a car that's been using Peerless Heavy Duty Oil . . . and then compare them with the pock-marked and dirty pistons, rings and cylinder walls of a car using ordinary motor oil. For further proof, benefit from the trained experience of fleet-owners, taxi companies, mechanics, bakeries, and salesmen who have found out for themselves that Peerless Heavy Duty Detergent Motor Oil saves them money by protecting engines, cutting down maintenance costs. The detergents in Peerless Heavy Duty Oil keep sludge, carbon, varnish and impurities in harmless suspension, never allow them to cake and cause trouble; these materials that are held in suspension are removed from the engine when the oil is changed. Today's high-compression motors need this kind of protection. Prove the value of Peerless Heavy Duty Detergent Motor Oil to your own satisfaction. Change to it now.

SCHOOLBOY CURLING came to a close recently when the playdown reached finals and Ken Butcher's rink won out. This year the Peterborough Curling Club in a province-wide program emphasized curling among the high school boys. Thus after an absence of 20 years Peterborough was again among the top rinks in schoolboy 'speils. The trophies were presented at the banquet last week. The winning rink included (left to right) George Nickson, Ken Butcher and Jetty Thompson; the other member of the rink was Jack Mason, B. W. Switzer, teaching director (extreme right) guided the boys throughout the season.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Last autumn Detroit Tigers' chief scout expressed some interest in George Brabin, Petes' left fielder who had led the Viaduct League in hitting. Ralph Snyder wrote us the other day, saying in part "I am wondering if there is anything you can tell me about George Brabin at this time. We are becoming active at this time, coming out of hibernation, so to speak, and would like to make plans to see young Brabin if he is still in Peterborough." Guess we'll have to drop Mr. Snyder a line and tell him he stayed in hibernation too long. Brabin is now in Brooklyn Dodgers' chain, having caught on with a minor pro team in the Florida State League.

Jim Ellis leads his Petes' puckists to Stouffville on the morrow determined to snatch a win away from home to offset that 3-2 overtime victory for Clippers here Friday. It was a sizzling tossup tilt, one which could have gone either way. Most fans we've talked to feel that Clippers and Petes are two classy and well-matched clubs. And that Petes must play their best to erase the Stouffville squad. They're all tough in provincial playdowns and every player must shoot the works in the money series. No letup at all. We're confident that the locals can turn in a bit better game tomorrow than they did on Friday—and that extra step or two can make the big difference.

Petes Won The Toss

As the Petes won the toss, they'll get the fifth or seventh game at home if either of these should be the deciding joust. First one was here last Friday, second is tomorrow in Stouffville, with third one back here this Thursday (100 seats have been reserved for Stouffville fans at this one), and fourth back there Saturday p.m. Next week, it's alternating ices on Monday, Wednesday and Friday—concluding here that Friday, April 11, if it goes that distance. Likely a lot of local fans will trek with the Petes on their road trips from here in. It's shaping up as one swell senior "B" playoff series.

It's all over but the shouting as far as the Leafs-Wings' Stanley Cup semi-finals go. Dropping their third straight decision on Saturday on home ice. Toronto Leafs have only the proverbial snowball's chance now against Detroit. They may win a game or two yet of the best-of-seven, but they'll have to take four straight. A pretty tall order when they lost 6-2 in Toronto on Saturday. Next one is there Tuesday, and the Wings may well wrap it up in four straight. Should have won by about 8-2 Saturday, we hear. Defeat does not rest lightly on the fiery Conny Smythe, and there'll be some Leafian changes made ere another N.H.L. campaign. On the other hand, Red Wings have a really powerful pack this year, and didn't breeze through the long schedule by accident.

Bruins Claw Canadiens

Bruins in their Boston lair last night put the brakes on the rampaging Canadiens from Montreal with a 4-1 verdict. It still leaves Canadiens up 2-1 games, next one being on Boston ice. We are pulling for Boston and Red Sullivan, but feel that Canadiens will take the series. They have a pretty potent pack and finished the schedule in second place while Bruins were in fourth. Hal Laycoe was in on two markers for the men of Patrick on Sunday eve. We were slightly amazed to hear over the radio that Red Creighton of Peterborough had scored once for Boston! Announcer must have been thinking of Red Sullivan, though Red didn't tally in this tilt.

In the O.A.B.A. midget and bantam hoop tournament at the Collegiate here Saturday, Toronto West End "Y" took the midget title over P.C.V.S. in the final after the Garnet and Gray had ousted Kitchener St. Jerome's in the semi-final. Toronto rubbed out Orillia in the other semi-final bracket. Sacred Heart of Windsor captured Ontario bantam honors by beating Toronto McMurrich Playgrounds. The latter eased out Bev Goulding's local bantams, while Windsor was pasting Orillia to take the other part of that [illegible] tourney. That winds up basketball here but for the Y.W. finals this week.

BERG WINS

Patty Berg won the inaugural New Orleans women's open golf tournament despite an eight-over-par 82 that almost erased a 10-stroke lead. Patty had a 72-hole total of 299 to capture her 56th major tournament during a 12-year professional career.

Toronto and Windsor Win Minor Hoop Crowns In Local O.A.B.A Tourney

By DON GRANT

Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. and Windsor Sacred Heart Church won the midget and bantam Ontario basketball championships Saturday in a one-day tournament at P.C.V.S. Teams attended from Peterborough, Windsor, Kitchener, Toronto and Orillia, all district winners. The bantam crown fell into the Sacred Heart cagers' hands fairly easily. With superior height and ball-handling the church boys ground out a 42-36 victory in the final Saturday night over Toronto McMurrich Playground.

Thanks to effective scoring by Bob McMahon and Bob Gardner, the Western Ontario quintet took a 13-11 score in the first quarter and a one-point lead 22-21 at the half. But in the third quarter they swept the championship with a 17-point burst and coasted to the title in the fourth.

Windsor's scoring was dominated by McMahon with 18 points and Bob Gardner with 16. McMurrich's best were Sid Linden, nine points, Morris Haber and Henry Welsh, eight each.

Lost In Final

P.C.V.S. last chance for a cage title came in the midget final; then Toronto's West End Y.M.C.A. were too strong, both ways. Jack Cullis' Garnet and Grey quintet were down 11-4 at the quarter, 21-13 at the half. From there they quickly fell behind under pressure by Toronto's fast break, 38-20 at the three-quarter. They rallied in the fourth but it was too late and ended 46-29.

Doug Ash swept the scoring honors whipping in 17 points for P.C.V.S. while teammate Neil Courneya had eight. Jerry Wojdon led Toronto with 13 points; the rest of the points were well distributed throughout the team.

In possibly the tournament's best game, the P.C.V.S. midgets defeated Kitchener's St. Jerome College 33-32 to climb into the midget final. The Garnet and Grey played a far superior game in the semi-final than they did in the final.

Bob Keeting, the tournament's tallest player, practically presented P.C.V.S. with the afternoon win. Rebounding and checking effectively the well-built cager stymied the college attack.

A Close Fray

Even then, P.C.V.S. just squeezed past the college cagers. The Garnet and Grey took a slim 14-13 lead at the half and a five-point lead 25-20 at three-quarter. Early in the fourth St. Jerome's tied the score at 27-all, went ahead 29-27 but fell behind 30-29, then 33-29. The college quintet got three points more but couldn't sink the winning basket.

Ash led P.C.V.S. with 11 points, Courneya and Keeting each scoring seven. Jack Peterson easily led Kitchener with 13 points while teammate Bob Heintzman scored nine.

In the other semi-final midget game the Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. was pushed to the limit by Orillia but finally won 26-21. This was the first victory this year in three games for Toronto over Orillia. In two exhibition games Orillia won both by one point.

In fact Orillia seemed headed into the midget final until the fourth quarter. They led 4-2 at the quarter 15-8 at the half and 19-15 at three-quarter. But they fell under Toronto's fourth quarter attack and were outscored 11-2.

Ken Lake for Toronto topped all the scorers with 13 points; teammates Ches Wlodarczyk and Ted Sulikowski each scored six points. Orillia's Bob Switzer scored 10.

Coach Bev Goulding's P.C.V.S. bantams absorbed a 44-13 setback at the hands of Toronto McMurrich playground in the bantam semi-finals. Some of the P.C.V.S. team, playing their first competitive game, were no match for the smooth-working Toronto cagers.

Toronto quickly jumped to a 16-4 lead in the first quarter and added for a 25-7 score at the half. They slowed in the second half 34-10 and were slower in the fourth 10-3. Sid Linden scored eight points to lead in the scoring.

But the worst defeat of the tournament was in the other bantam semi-final. Windsor's Sacred Heart Church waltzed to a 61-9 victory against Orillia's weak bantam quintet. The quarter scores were 19-3, 39-2 and 49-4. Bob Gardner got 19 points and Bob McMahon 12.

Reach Semi-Finals

OTTAWA, March 31. (CP). — Eastview St. Charles, Ottawa and district junior champions, advanced into the Memorial Cup eastern semi-finals Saturday night as they eliminated Halifax St. Mary's in the quarter-finals. St. Charles defeated the Maritime junior champions 4-2 in a fast, hard-hitting contest to win the best-of-five series 3-1 in games with one tie. They now meet Montreal Junior Canadiens in a best-of-three semi-final series. The opening game will be played here Wednesday night.

Marmora Drops First One To The Flyers

BELLEVILLE, March 31. — Paced by the four-goal effort of Len Beatch, the R.C.A.F. Flyers shellacked the Marmora Millionaires by a score of 9-3 in the first game of the Trent Valley Hockey League finals, played at the Belleville Memorial Arena Friday night.

Prior to the contest Frank S. Follwell presented the Follwell Trophy, emblematic of the championship of Southern Division of the Trent Valley Hockey League, to Flyer captain Ron O'Meara who accepted it on behalf of his team. O'Meara in turn presented it to Wing Commander Mason, senior administrative officer of the Trenton station.

Three-goal Lead

Flyers leaped into a three goal lead at the end of the first period, outscored the visitors by two goals to one in the second and then pumped in four more in the third after Marmora had rallied for a pair.

Other scorers for the Flyers included MacDonald with a pair of goals, Parnell with one goal and an assist, McLean and Roberge with a goal each, Attrill and Faulkner with a pair of assists and Bowman with one assist.

The Millionaires' top line of Ken Trumble, Glen Lavender and Mike Forestell accounted for all of their scoring, picking up a goal and an assist each, the former garnering a pair of assists.

Had Edge

The winners carried a decided edge throughout the contest although Marmora threatened at the beginning of the second and third periods. Good work in the Flyer nets by goalie Gary Scott kept the visitors at bay, although the Marmora team missed many chances and lacked finesse in finishing their play off.

It was a clean contest, only five penalties being handed out by referees Dick Fitzpatrick and Don Barrett, four of them in the second period and all to the winners.

Indians Trip Greyhounds 4-3

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 31 (CP).—Stratford Indians move to the familiar feel of home ice tonight for the third game of their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup series against Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

The Indians take a one-game lead with them, having managed to stave off a late-game Greyhound rally here Saturday night for a 4-3 victory. The first game played Friday night, ended in a 2-2 deadlock.

Indians took a 2-1 first period lead and lengthened it to 4-1 in the second. Sault Ste. Marie banged in two quick ones early int he final session, but Stratford was able to ward off the tying drive.

Mickey Roth, Billy Flick, Don Keinbuch and Bruce Burdett tallied the four Stratford goals while Johnny Offidani came through with two for the losers. Ronny garnered the other Greyhound marker.

Gives Fight O.K.

The National Boxing Association Saturday in Washington put its okay on a Joe Walcott-Ezzard Charles heavyweight title scrap. President Dave Rochon of Montreal told reporters the N.B.A.'s executive council advised that Walcott and Charles will sign their contract today in Philadelphia.

The council acted, he said, because there had been some question about whether Walcott had complied with the association rule requiring a champion to defend his title within six months of winning it.

Rochon said Walcott, like a lot of fans, had been under the impression that a titleholder was required only to sign a contract for a title fight within six months.

G. Monkman President Of Cricket Club

Gordon Monkman was re-elected president of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club at the annual meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce. Vice-president is J. Wild; captain, H. Dibben; vice-captain, B. Roberts; treasurer, A. Hamilton; secretary, H. Dibben; chairman of grounds and equipment, R. Harvey; transportation, W. Wright; and entertainment, S. Frazer.

A feature is the return of veteran Frank Dyer as captain. He joined the old Peterborough Club in 1924, was captain in 1926, and again appointed in 1931, he served in that office until 1949, for 19 consecutive years. He then asked to be relieved of the post but continued to play. During his long service with the club, he has taken more than 1,000 wickets.

Treasurer A. Hamilton reports a balance on hand, and various business was discussion by those attending.

In the Council

The "A" team will again enter the Toronto District Council but will be in the Rawlinson or third division. It was this division first in 1949, was promoted to the Godin division and came second in 1950, but last year it was down so returns to the third part.

Last year, a "B" team was in the Council but will not compete this year though efforts will be made to provide matches for the younger players. Apart from Lakefield Grove School and T.C.S. at Port Hope, the nearest competition is at Oshawa and then Toronto. The first Council match is June 3. Newcomers and oldtimers wishing to join the club may contact the secretary. His address is 51 Park St., phone 5350.

Triple Boxing Championship Ray Robinson's Ambition

NEW YORK (AP).—His old lust for fighting has faded away with time but Sugar Ray Robinson wants to rack up one more record before he hangs up his gloves.

The middleweight King wants to join Bob Fitsimmons and Henry Armstrong among the ultra elite of triple champions. Unless present plans go awry, the Harlem Negro will go after his third crown against light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim in the Yankee Stadium late this June.

Robinson has two more middleweight title defences scheduled before then. April 16 he'll face Rocky Graziano in Chicago Stadium, and a month later he'll take on Paddy Young in Madison Square Garden.

Fitzsimmons was the first boxer to win three titles although he never held the three at one time as Armstrong did later. Fitz captured the middleweight, heavyweight and light heavyweight championships in that order

Armstrong seized the featherweight title in 1937 and then swept the lightweight and welterweight championships in 1938. Because of Armstrong's monopoly of three of boxing's most active divisions, boxing commissions ruled a fighter couldn't hold more than one title at a time.

Robinson was forced to give up his welterweight title when he knocked the middleweight crown off Jake Lamotta's bulging brow. If he whips Maxim, Ray probably will retire from the ring. The Sugar man has more than a half-dozen business enterprises going to keep him warm.

Barny Ross and Tony Canzoneri each held two genuine titles, the lightweight and welterweight diadems, and one synthetic championship—the junior welterweight. Junior titles are no longer recognized.

Leafs Drop Third Straight To Red Wings In 6-2 Cup Playoffs

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO, March 31. (CP)—The critics have been saying for years that Toronto is the greatest money team in the National Hockey League. But the club's magic touch in chips-down competition appears to have deserted it—for this season, at least. The Leafs, who have won the Stanley Cup six times since the 1941-42 season, blew the big one 6-2 Saturday night to Detroit Red Wings and today even the most optimistic Leaf wouldn't wager a kopek on the club's chances of getting past the Wings for a final shot at the trophy donated by Lord Stanley 60 years ago.

It was the now-or-never game and the Leafs, behind two games in their best-of-seven cup semi-final series, just didn't have it. They were a well-beaten team and it would surprise any of the 14,403 fans on hand if the Wings don't sew up the series here Tuesday night.

The Leafs' playoff record over the last 10 years pointedly shows what people have been saying about them. They've placed first only once over the long October-March schedule during the decade and yet they've knocked higher-placed teams kicking in the big money series.

Their only league championship, in 1947-48, also brought them the cup.

Not Much Doubt

Their outstanding cup victory was in 1942 when they dropped the first three to Detroit and then confounded the experts with four straight victories. But this year's Red Wing club with plenty of scoring punch in each line, is the prohibitive favorite to meet the winner of the Montreal-Boston semi-finals

The Wings showed it in the 3-0 opener at Detroit last Tuesday, added to it in their 1-0 decision Thursday with captain Sid Abel on the sidelines and practically settled it Saturday with Red Kelly, starry, heads-up defenceman, out of action because of an injured arm. The Wings, N.H.L. champions with plenty to spare over the second-place Canadiens, rode to victory on a two-goals-a-period splurge Saturday.

The Production Line of Abel, Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay was on the ice when three were scored, the second line of Marty Pavelich, Glen Skov and Tony Leswick was around for another and the third trio of Johnny Wilson, Alex Delvecchio and Metro Prystai figured in the other two.

Crew Clicking

That's a good indication how this Tommy Ivan-coached crew clicks. Two defencemen — Leo Reise and Ben Woit—picked up a goal each and goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk held the Leafs, who finished third in the league standing, to two goals in 180 minutes of play.

The Wings went on to their biggest scoring rampage at the expense of 37-year-old Turk Broda. The veteran was taken out of retirement for a 30-minute stint in the closing-out game of the league schedule and for full duty last Thursday at Detroit.

But he didn't make the difference in the Saturday affair It was a case of too much Red Wing class.

Toronto's marksmen were Joe Klukay—a 40-footer that whipped under Sawchuk's arm in the first period—and Max Bentley.

Teepees Bow 8-6 To Guelph; Trail Series 3-1

ST. CATHARINES, March 31—(CP)—St. Catharines Teepees trail the Junior O.H.A. series 3-1, after their 8-6 Saturday loss to the Biltmores here.

Right winger Ron Murphy led the Guelph attack with four goals and the Bilts' third straight win of the series. They dropped the opener to the Teepees and have come through in the next three.

The series survivor moves against South Porcupine Combines — the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions—in an eastern Canada Memorial Cup semi-final. The series will also determine the all-Ontario Junior A championship.

Guelph started slowly Saturday trailing 2-1 at the end of the first period before drawing even in the middle session and going into the third tied 4-4. Outscoring the Teeps 4-2 in the final 20 minutes the Bilts wrapped up their 8-6 win with a strong third-period drive.

With Murphy manging in four, defenceman Ron Stewart clicked for two and Ken Laufman and Dean Prentice added the other Guelph goals.

Hank Ciesla and Brian Cullen each tallied twice for the losers while Gerry Foley and Chuck Marshall scored the others.

Laycoe Sparks Bruins To 4-1 Win In Retribution Against Canadiens

BOSTON, March 31 (AP) — Hal Laycoe, 28-year-old defenceman, today figured he had just about evened the score with his former teammates — Montreal Canadiens. He has been irked since Canadiens traded him to Boston Bruins a year ago for rookie Russ Lowe.

Laycoe was Bruins' outstanding rearguardsman during the first two playoff games with Canadiens in Montreal, where the home forces won by lopsided margins.

Before taking the ice for the third game Sunday night in Boston, Laycoe shouted his challenge:

"Let's see who will be the first to throw a bodycheck at Canadiens tonight. The one who does will have to beat me to it."

Thereupon Laycoe turned in a two-way performance that kept the 11,526 crowd roaring every time he came on the ice. He sparked Bruins to a 4-1 win by scoring the first tally and, 62 seconds later in the second session sutting up Boston's third marker for Eddie Sandford. The other two Bruin goals were provided by Dave Creighton and Fleming Mackell.

Outstanding Defence

In between times Laycoe was Boston's outstanding defensive performer. Time and again he ruined wide-open Montreal scoring chances with spectacular defensive play. And goalie Sugar Jim Henry had to thank Laycoe, more than any other Bruin, for the shutout. he had going until Floyd Curry provided the lone Montreal score with less than five minutes to play.

Coach Lynn Patrick rated Laycoe Boston's top third-game player. And rival Dick Irvin and Frank Selke, Canadiens' general manager, agreed.

Selke also credited the Bruins' newly-discovered hustle for their first win in the best-of-seven series.

"The team that does the hustling always gets the breaks in hockey, and the Bruins were doing it Sunday night," he said.

Casualties Worry

Both of these Montreal officials now appear worried about the physical condition of their players. Canadiens have lost centres Johnny McCormack and Ken Mosdell, who suffered arm and leg fractures respectively. Gary (Duke) Edmundson, a Kitchener amateur, was called up to help plug the gap.

Irvin reported that high-scoring Boom Boom Geoffrion has an injured left knee and may be out of the fourth game here Tuesday night. Dick Moore also has a knee injury that hampered him through Sunday night's contest.

The Bruins need another win to square the series at two-all, and all their players are in top physical condition.

Patrick and his players are confident that if they deadlock the series they will go on to assure themselves a place in the Stanley Cup finals.

Lumber Kings Take First Game

PEMBROKE, March 31 (CP).—Pembroke Lumber Kings slipped by the Northeastern Quebecers 3-2 in the first game of their eastern Allan Cup semi-final Saturday night.

After losing an early lead, Aces tied up the game 2-2 but succumbed to an ice-wise veteran and a tripping penalty with eight minutes to play.

Roy Giesebrecht, veteran centre who was honored by a shower of gifts from the 3,195 fans and his teammates between the first and second periods, sparked the victory. Geisebrecht's slow shot from near the blue line drifted into the net through a maze of legs.

His winning goal was the climax of a hectic ganging play that started about a minute earlier with a tripping penalty to Real Marcotte of Aces. Eddie Daoust in the Jonquiere net played brilliantly to rob Kings of five successive trys.

To Head Team

SEATTLE, March 31 (AP). — Martin Mendez of San Diego, Calif., the new national amateur badminton champion, heads the six-man team selected to carry United States' colors in the International Thomas Cup matches in Singapore in May. Mendez and runner-up Joe Alston of Fargo, N. D., were named to the team at the conclusion of the 12th annual amateur badminton championships Saturday night.

Rate Slaughter As Better Than Musial

MIAMI, Fla., March 31 (AP)—When talking about the greatest active player in baseball today, manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies contends you can't stop with Ted Williams and Stan Musial.

The Philadelphia professor says he'd have to rate Enos Slaughter in his prime over either of these famous sluggers.

Slaughter, an outfield teammate of Musial, will be 36 next month and is in his 15th year with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Slaughter in his prime was a better ball player than Musial is today," said Sawyer. "And I agree with those who think Stan is the best in the game right now. But I've never seen a greater competitor, a fellow with more spirit, hustle and the desire to win than Enos.

"Slaughter's batting marks in the late 30s and early 40s may not have been as high as those that Musial compiled in the last half dozen years, but the competition was much rougher then. So were the pitchers.

"I've always been a Slaughter fan," admitted Sawyer. "I've been in this game a long time but I've never seen Slaughter's equal in playing the game for everything that's in it. He's beaten me out of many a ball game but he's the kind that makes you take your hat off to him even though he's on the other side."

Harris Agrees

Sawyer's praise of Slaughter recalled the remarks made by Bucky Harris only a short time ago.

"Slaughter may not be the greatest ball player of all time," the astute Washington manager said, "but he is the best exponent of the desire to win the game has known. . . And I don't except Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig or any other star.

"I recall an incident the other day," said Harris. "We were playing the Cards. One of their fellows slapped a routine bouncer to second. He looked like an easy out. But the guy never gave up. He ran down the line as if is life depended on it. The second baseman had to hurry his throw and just did make the out.

"'Hey, that kid is really hustling out there,' I thought. 'He reminds me of Slaughter.' As he raced back to the bench, I got a good look at his face. Yep, you guessed it. It WAS Slaughter.

Doctors Have Good Alibi For Snoring

LONDON—(CP)—Medical science has come up with a solid alibi for the chronic snorer. The whistling and trumpeting is nothing but nature's way of signalling that the system's blood supply is being recharged with oxygen and as long as he is snoring al lis well.

The theory is advanced by Dr. J. W. Lovett Doust and Dr. Robert A. Schneider, Medical Fellows of the Nuffield Foundation, after a series of nightly vigils over seven sleepers ranging in age between 22 and 36 years. Their conclusions were published in the British Medical Journal.

Insomnia—Inability to relax one's awareness of objective reality—was described by the doctors as a tiresome state and largely due to psychological causes.

Plan To Send 130 Canadians To Helsinki

MONTREAL, March 31 (CP).—The Canadian Olympic Association at its annual meeting Saturday decided that Canada's representation at the 1952 summer games at Helsinki, Finland, will be no larger than that at the 1948 games in London.

Approval was given for representation in the equestrian and shooting events—a new stop for Canada. There will be no gymnastics team, application for which had been made.

A total of 145 for the full Canadian team, including officials was first aimed at. The tentative total now, to conform with that of 1948 is around 130.

The treasurer's annual report showed collections to date of $85,100 with $52,000 still needed. The Olympic winter games cost the association $30,000.

Following is the list by sports of the representation tentatively approved:

Men's track and field 16; women's track and field 7; basketball 11; fencing 2; rowing 16; swimming and diving 10; weightlifting 5; boxing 6; wrestling 4; yachting 11; equestrian 4; paddling 12; shooting 4; cycling 2; totals 110.

The association approved the following dates and sites for trials for aspirants to the games:

Marathon, May 3 at St. Hyacinthe, Que.; track and field (men and women), June 27 at Hamilton; walking, June 21 at St. John's Nfld.; basketball, indefinite but likely first week in May; fencing, May 24 at Toronto; rowing, June 14 at St. Catharines; swimming, June 25-27 at Toronto; weightlifting, April 5 at Drummondville, Que.; boxing, May 1-3 at Vancouver; wrestling, May 5-6 at Winnipeg; yachting, six-metre class, May 24 at Toronto; fin, star and dragon classes, June 21 and June 28 at Toronto and Montreal; shooting, indefinite, some time in May; cycling, May 3 at Victoriaville, Que.; equestrian, May 24 at Toronto.

Reds Subdue Mohawks 3-1

By The Canadian Press.

Providence Reds have drawn first blood in their best-of-five American Hockey League semi-final playoff with Cincinnati Mohawks.

The Reds dropped the Mohawks 3-1 Sunday night with the winner of the series tangling with Pittsburgh Hornets for the league championship and Calder Cup.

Playing at Providence before a packed house of 5,859 the Reds, who upset the defending champion Cleveland Barons in the first round, took a 3-0 lead before allowing the Mohawks a tally at 8:15 in the second period. They notched two goals in the first period and their third earlier in the second.

Edmonton Mercurys wound up their European hockey invasion Saturday night in London with a 7-2 victory over Earl's Court Rangers of the English National League. It gave Canada's Olympic hockey champions 45 wins in 50 games during their four-month stay abroad. Mercs left by plane Sunday and are expected in Edmonton Tuesday.

Frank Bliss, president of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union, Sunday confirmed the signing of 27-year-old Bill Mackridges, a T formation quarterback from Philadelphia Eagles, for the 1952 season.

In Winnipeg Saturday night, King Carl scored almost a point a minute to lead Winnipeg Varsity Grads to a 68-81 victory over Vancouver Eilers in the first game of the best-of-five Western Canada Men's basketball final.

Hamilton's Zion Ramblers roared back after a slow start Saturday night in Hamilton to win the eastern Canada ladies' basketball title by defeating the starry Point St. Charles team from Montreal 77-56. Zion won the first game of the two-game series 46-40 Friday night.

Richard (Pancho) Gonzales of Los Angeles overpowered Francisco (Pancho) Segura of Ecuador 6-3, 6-2 Saturday night in Philadelphia to win the Inquirer Masters professional tennis tournament and the $3,000 prize.

Tenley Albright of Newton Center, Mass., turned in a near-perfect performance in Colorado Springs, Colo., Saturday night to win the United States senior women's figure-skating title. The 16-year-old beauty succeeds Sonya Klopfer of New York, who did not defend her title.

Jimmy Clark, 30-year-old professional from Laguna Beach, Calif., Sunday won the $2,000 top money in the $10,000 Azalea open golf tournament in Wilmington, N. C., with a last-round 68 for a total of 272 for 72 holes. His 16-under-par performance set a course record.

Denton True (Cy) Young, who won more games than any pitcher in baseball history—511 in a 22-year career—celebrated his 85th birthday Saturday in Grover Hill.

Toronto Tops Saturday won the southern Ontario ladies' intermediate B basketball title by defeating St. Catharines Merrimacs 43-37 in St. Catharines. The win gave Toronto the two-game, total-point series 98-76.

Kiner, Dickson Bolster Pirate Lineup

By BOB MYERS.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 31 — (AP).—Home-run slugger Ralph Kiner, 20-game winner Murry Dickson and budding youth mark the 1952 roster of Pittsburgh Pirates.

If some of the youngsters develoy into successes on an overnight basis, and Kiner, Gus Bell, Dickson and the other established men hold up their end, Pittsburgh may begin to see the dim light of the first division by 1953. This year the Pirates seem destined for another spirited rivalry with Chicago Cubs for the National League cellar.

Billy Meyer, now in his fifth season as manager, and general manager Branch Rickey, Sr., will continue to gamble with their youth movement.

They'll probably start the season with rookies at first and third and centrefield, and a semi-rookie at second base.

At first is Dick Hall, a promising rookie despite the fact that Rickey took him straight off the campus of Swarthmore College and put him on the Pirate Varsity.

Lee Walls, up from Modesto in the Class-D California League where he hit .342 last season, is at third.

Bobby Ded Greco is installed at centre between Kiner and Bell.

At second is Jack Merson, who got into the Pirate lineup from Indianapolis in the tag end of the campaign and astonished the club with a .360 hitting figure in 13 games.

Holdover George Strickland at short appears to be the only seasoned hand in the inflield.

New Carburetor Claims Said Dangerous

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Prof. E. A. Allcut, head of the department of mechanical engineering at University of Toronto, said Sunday night that amazing claims for a new carburetor are "not new but very dangerous."

George Hastings, 40, a farmer near New Liskeard, says he has invented a carburetor which will drive an automobile 200 miles on one gallon of gasoline. The average car goes about 20 miles on a gallon.

Mr. Alcutt said the gadget described has been used in experiments at universities for years and would give "at the most, a five-or-six-per-cent increase in efficiency."

The claims were dangerous because publication of them without scientific corroboration in the past has sometimes led people to invest money which they did not get back.

Makes Claim

Mr. Hastings claimed that his carburetor breaks down gasoline to an atomized state.

Dr. Allcut said: "Atomizing has nothing to do with developing the latent atomic power in gasoline. For this, a much greater atomic plant than this inventor would have, would be necessary."

Atomizing—which means that the gasoline is finely divided—would improve distribution to the cylinders and now is used in diesel and many aircraft engines, he said.

The professor said such claims for new carburetors have been made for years but whenever they were checked they were proved false.

Amateur Radio Show Broadcast From Pen

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask.—(CP)—Some 40 members of the local branch of the Association Canadian Travellers and four members of radio station CKBI went to penitentiary one night recently —to stage an amateur show by inmates of the big Prince Albert provincial penitentiary.

Believed the first entertainment program broadcast publicly from any Canadian penal institution, it featured 27 prisoners in selections ranging from classical pieces to cowboy ballads. The proceeds went to the campaign against tuberculosis.

The amateur hour was run off in the same manner as ordinary shows of its type, except that the performers were identified by nicknames. Somehow or other the inmates didn't like the use of "numbers" on the program. After taking their turns at the microphone, the performers later gave encores in response to requests telephoned in by the listening public.

Typical introductions were: "Here's Nitro Jake to sing you a song of the west." While the program was on the air for ordinary radio audience, prisoners not on the program were able to hear it over the institution's public address system.

Paper Official Dies

ST. CATHARINES, March 31 (CP)—Peter F. J. Dolan, 55, secretary-treasurer of the Alliance Paper Company Ltd., died Saturday after a long illness. Born in Stratford, he had been associated with Alliance Paper since 1923. Prior to that he was with the Bank of Nova Scotia in Toronto, St. Catharines and Stratford. He is survived by his widow, three brothers, including T. J. Dolan of Stratford and Leo Dolan of Merritton, and a sister.

They operated the press when the newspaper office was located in a tent back in 1883. The Washington press now is set up in the rotunda of the business office of the Herald.

Stars Prove To Be Safe Guide When Native Fails In Arctic

OTTAWA—(CP)—Inside the Arctic circle, where the night is six months long and one wind-crusted snow formation looks much the same as another, even a routine dog-sled patrol can turn out to be an adventure.

It happened to R.C.M.P. Constable C. E. Boone the first time out.

Boone was charged with a patrol from Chesterfield Inlet, about 250 miles inside the Arctic Circle on the western shore of Hudson Bay, to Baker Lake, some 200 miles inland as the crow flies.

The Mountie had with him a native guide in Special Constable N. Ford, who had travelled the route several times and was sure he knew the way. The patrol was to visit native camps en route and pick up experimental equipment at Baker Lake to bring back to Chesterfield Inlet.

The trip normally took five or six days, each way.

Radioed For Aid

When Sgt. L. Weston, commanding the Chesterfield Inlet detachment, hadn't heard of his men for 12 days, he radioed Baker Lake to send out a detachment in search. Three days later, he wired R.C.M.P. headquarters here for a search aicraft. The party turned up in Chesterfield Inlet two days after that, none the worse for wear after 17 days out.

Boone and Ford left the inlet Jan. 4 and three days later in heavy overcast and blowing snow, the guide took a turn which took them north instead of west.

For several days it was a case of the guide coming upon bays and hills that looked "very familiar," but always turned out on examination to be something else.

Boone was later commended by his commanding officer for conducting himself "remarkably well." In his report to headquarters here, Sgt. Weston said the constable had "shown by his actions and observance to be well-suited to northern travel."

Boone had been studying the stars—particularly the north star—and he had come to the conclusion he was quite a bit north of the normal course to Baker Lake. On the ninth day, he decided to head east, in hopes of reaching the coast of Hudson Bay.

They found an Eskimo settlement on the 13th day and discovered they were some 80 miles north of Chesterfield Inlet. Taking no chances, Boone took one of the Eskimos with them as a guide, and made Chesterfield Inlet four days later.

Narrow Escape

OWEN SOUND, March 31 (CP)—A snowsuit and a tow rope saved Bradley Cruickshanks, 2, from drowning Saturday. The boy fell into the Pottawatamie river while playing. Buoyed by air inside his snowsuit, he floated as Lloyd Norton plunged into the river in a rescue attempt. But Norton nearly drowned and struggled back to shore. Norton then waded into the river with a rope and dragged the unconscious boy to shore. Artificial respiration revived the youngster.

British War Guest Turned To Teaching, Heads Two Schools

By MURIEL NARRAWAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31 — (CP)—When Lady Edith Mary Eden set sail for Canada in 1940 with her own school of wartime evacuees, more than 10 years of schoolmarming were definitely not in the cards —but that's the way it went.

Before her Canadian trip, Lady Edith—wife of Sir Timothy Eden, eldest brother of Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden — had done no teaching. And the fee-paying school of 25 youngsters she took with her to Canada had been merely a hobby.

Her small dollar allowance did not, however, cover the cost of hiring Canadian instructors. So Lady Eden turned teacher—and has been one ever since.

Now she runs two fee-paying schools in Britain—one in London, the other on her country estate in Hampshire, near Southampton.

"It was the best way to keep the place going," she said with candor. "But I love children and would no longer be happy without the occupation."

With both the Hampshire and London establishments housing around 120 students paying £70 to £75 a three-month term as boarders, or a day-school fee of around £30 a quarter, Lady Edith smiled ruefully as she recalled dollar-hard days in Canada, and the debt owed one of Quebec's well-known families.

After seven months in Vernon, B.C., Lady Edith moved the wartime school to Breakeyville, Que., family home of the Breakey family. Not only did Ian and Colin Breakey lend the roomy, timbered house, they fitted it with desks and other necessities. The dollar allowance could then be spent on food and maintenance.

Grateful To Canucks

Lady Eden has not forgotten the kindness received in Canada, or, she says, "its beauty and magnificent opportunities as a country."

In both the present schools you will find Canadian touches. The long, low, 25-roomed house in Hampshire, backed by woods and surrounded by open country, has polished wooden floors covered by soft rugs. Canadian wood frames surround wall niches sporting pottery and other decorations.

Both schools teach music, painting and other artistic subjects as well as general education. In Hampshire, riding is part of the curriculum. In London ballet dancing can be studied professionally.

One of the keenest ballet students is 11-year-old Elfrida, the youngest of Lady Edith's four daughters. Elfrida went to Canada at the tender age of three weeks and took her first faltering steps there.

Brought up in France, Lady Edith teaches French in the London establishment and spends her spare time painting and redecorating the pastel-shaded rooms, making and repairing the pretty chintz bedspreads and hangings.

Sir Timothy and two daughters help run the school in Hampshire, and all spend school holidays on the estate. Lady Edith has one son.

See No Slump

LONDON, March 31 (AP) — Lloyds indicated today there is no sign of a let-up in the world shipbuilding boom. The Lloyd register of shipping published figures showing merchant tonnage boomed upward 2,600,000 tons in 1951 to a record of 87,245,044.

PROFESSIONAL ACHIEVEMENT

Carefully framed and proudly placed for all to see is your Pharmacists' professional degree. Look for it when you shop at your drug store.

By law, every drug store in Ontario must be operated by a professional pharmacist, licensed to practice retail pharmacy.

Homework that never ends

Pharmacy never stands still—it is always on the march. Your own Pharmacist knows the truth of that. He spent years studying pharmacy in all its branches. His successful work earned him a degree and the right to practice pharmacy in the Province of Ontario. But, his education didn't end—it really only started. Science, at a fast pace, has developed new drugs, new products and new methods. Your pharmacist must keep pace with all these new things. Nightclubs Try Drum Up Trade, Drinks On House

LONDON—(AP)—Times are so tough for London's night clubs that even the best of them often round up friends by telephone to fill in the great open spaces and drink on the house.

"There just isn't the money about" is the first reason any club owner will give.

The latest blow to fall on the night clubs has come from the government, which has told the treasury to tighten up on business men's entertainment allowances. Luncheon allowances still seem to be okay, but nocturnal jaunts now are out.

The law hits the clubs in two other ways. Even though they are "private," the clubs must stop serving drinks at 2 a.m. and clear them off the tables by 2:30. This is clearly discouraging to the would-be dawn reveller, who in the old bottle party days was still putting them away at sunup.

Another law has pushed up staff wages through the catering industry. It is designed to protect employees against various unfair practices and fixes steeply ascending rates for late night work. A general estimate is that wage bills are five times pre-war.

The basic problem of all clubs is how to keep going during the lean months, with overheads just as high as in the summer, when the tourist trade saves the day.

The owners are trying to combat the tightward trend by cutting prices. The lead was taken by the fashionable Churchill's Club, which charges one guinea ($3) annually for membership. People now can drop into Churchill's and from the bar and a few tables up at the end of the room see the floor show without paying any charge above the cost of drinks (about five shillings for a large whisky).

NO TAKERS—Evidence that there's still hope in Judsonia, Ark., hard hit last Friday by a death-dealing tornado, is this crudely-lettered sign which asks for help in the task of rebuilding a shattered home in the residential section. Old Fishing Banks See New Methods

SHELBURNE, N.S.—(CP)—The 55-foot "Muriel Eilèen" sailed to Nova Scotia's fishing banks recently as the first Canadian east coast vessel to be equipped with a hydraulically-driven winch.

Although common on the west coast, Maritime fishermen are hopeful that the new method will be suited for Atlantic inshore fishing operations.

Until now fishermen have been using mechanically-operated winches for trawling and dragging duties. The new winch eliminates use of clutches, provides easier control, and is lighter and more compact.

Plan Preaching Missions To Be Held At RCAF Station

TRENTON, March 31 — Air Force stations here will join with other commands across Canada in holding special religious services, Air Vice-Marshal C. R. Slemon, air officer commanding Training Command Headquarters, announced Sunday.

Special Protestant preaching missions based on victorious living will be held on three days at the R.C.A.F. Station and No. 6 Repair Depot. Meetings will be held on the first three days in April at 11 o'clock in the 6 R.D. Recreation Hall, and at 1 o'clock in the Sports Arena at the Trenton Station. Evening services will be held for dependents of personnel in the Breadner School auditorium.

Daytime services will be short and timed to allow all officers, airmen and airwomen to take part. The missions, said the announcement, are designed to bring to the attention of Air Force men and women and their families the need for Christian principles in everyday living.

Speaker at the missions here will be Group Captain R. M. Frayne, Protestant director of religious administration at R.C.A.F. Headquarters, Ottawa.

416 Million For Jobless

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP)—Jobless have received a total of $416,919,000 from the unemployment insurance fund since it was started in 1941, the labor department said Sunday. Claims paid numbered 3,234,000 to the end of 1951. At that time, there were 3,170,000 persons covered by unemployment insurance. At the end of 1951, the total amount in the fund was $773,472,000.

Packed House Greets Lakefield Y.A.S. Farce

LAKEFIELD, March 31 (ENS)—A packed house greeted the presentation of "Here Comes the Prince," the three-act farce staged in Memorial Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings by the Young Adult Society of the United Church.

The story centres around the love life of Terry Donovan (Ralph Millage) who is secretly loved by Joan Haliday (Jean Millar), but who is really in love with Carol (Bette Millage).

Prince Rudolph of Zenobia (Garnet Graham) is expected to arrive with the intention of marrying Carol. However, Joan and Terry, with the aid of Granny Haliday (Mrs. S. A. Grylls) stir up a plot that upsets all the plans and as good stories should, all ends well.

Other members of the cast are: Fred Haliday, a self-made man, Harry Wannamaker; Professor Chipper, interested in birds David Spence; Mrs. Lovejoy, a social climber, Mrs. J. Keller; Wanda, her daughter, Shirley Graham; Sonya, an impetuous visitor, Mrs. Robert McCracken, and Winks, the butler, the Rev. W. H. Tonge.

The play was directed by Mrs. Grylls and Mr. Tonge. Prompting and sound, Mrs. C. Payne, Mrs. W. Millage, and Miss Merle Crawford. Stage setting was in charge of A. W. Stewart, Raymond Jackman, Ralph Jackman, and Robert McCracken. Publicity, Mrs. Neil Wood, George Tanner, and John D. Grylls. Lighting was by A. W. Stewart.

Following the performance on Thursday evening the cast was entertained by members of the society at the home of Dr. L. O. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, and after the Friday show in the Council Chamber by Mrs. W. H. Tonge and Mrs. Ralph Jackman.

As over a hundred were turned away on Friday evening, the play will be given again in Memorial Hall on Wednesday, April 16. This is the third annual play given by this group, and is looked forward to by residents of the village and surrounding country.

Fight Against Evil

VATICAN CITY, March 31 — (AP) — Two hundred thousand Roman Catholic faithful, thronging the square before St. Peter's, were urged Sunday night to lead a world-wide battle to beat back the forces of evil. The twilight ceremony climaxed a "Week of Faith" observance called in answer to the appeal by the Pope last month for a "Crusade of Christian awakening to save the world from threatened ruin.

By The Canadian Press

A child mangled in the machinery of a cold storage plant and four Italian immigrants burned to death in a bunkhouse fire brought to 19 the toll of deaths in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed nine persons killed in Ontario, nine in Quebec and one in New Brunswick. Five persons were burned to death, 10 killed in traffic accidents and two were drowned. A child was killed by machinery and one man died of a fall from his automobile.

Four recent immigrants from Italy were burned to death on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river 200 miles northeast of Quebec City when a workman tried to start a fire in their bunkhouse stove with gasoline.

Dead are Marino Masini, 24; Julio Parenti, 28; Candido Roson, 23 and John Chromi, 56.

Tangled In Machinery

At Victoriaville, Que., Gerald Grenier, 3, was killed when he became entangled in the machinery at his father's butter-storage plant.

Two men on a pilgrimage to the Shrine of St. Joseph at Mount Royal were killed as they walked along the highway near the Montreal suburb of Ville St. Laurent. Edmond Ouelette, 20, and Lionel Lavigne, 28, were struck by an automobile.

At Kinsey Falls, Que., Audette Pesharnais, 6, and her five-year-old brother, Pierre, were drowned when they wandered too near the Nicolet river and fell in.

In Ontario, three persons were killed near Matheson on their way home from a dance when their automobile collided with a train. Adrien Grenon, 26, his 21-year-old wife and Jenny Kaworski, 17, were killed.

Another dance party on its way home from Chatham to Windsor was involved in an accident and Marcia Noirel, 26, of Windsor, was killed.

Ex-Mayor Dies

Hugh A. Currie, 93, a former mayor of Collingwood, died there of burns suffered three days ago when his night attire caught fire from an electric heater.

Near Guelph, Duncan Mackenzie, 47, was killed when his automobile failed to negotiate a turn and rolled over into a gully.

Two deaths were recorded at Aurora, 25 miles north of Toronto. Thomas H. Stewart, 44, died when he tumbled out of his car at a service station. Death was due to alcoholic poisoning and the fall. Norman Sheridan, 37, of Snowball was killed by a truck as he was walking on the highway.

Nicholas Sytnyk,, 58, died at Toronto more than a month after he was struck by a street-car. Louis Sugarman, 78, died at London, Ont., of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car Friday.

In New Brunswick, Louis Gerard Daigle, 36, of Verret, was killed at Edmundston when he was struck by an automobile.

Harold Brooker Dies

NIAGARA FALLS, March 31—(CP) — Harold M. Brooker, 48, manager of the Spanish Arrow car which carries thousands of tourists over the whirlpool rapids in the Niagara river every year, died Saturday. He had been in ill health for several months.

Expert Calls On Britain To Help India

LONDON—(CP)—Britain is morally bound to give aid to India as long as that country, with about 50,000,000 unemployed, remains "the poorest big country in the world."

That is one of the main points in a Labor party pamphlet written by Research Adviser Michael Young, who has just returned from a visit to the sub-continent.

Young says that if the task of the 1930s was to abolish unemployment in the industrialized west, the job of the 1950s and 1960s may be to do the same in the agricultural east. The chief problem is idleness among the rural masses. Farms are so small that in many cases the peasant family is busy only a fraction of the year.

Because inequality between countries is as morally indefensible between countries as it is within one country. Young writers, Britain is morally bound to help through the Colombo plan. If Britain insists that exported machinery must be paid for by goods from India, it is the same as saying an already famished people should have less food.

"India must abolish her terrible poverty," adds Young, "without landing herself in the new poverty of the west, the poverty of rich people who feel poor."

Line Of Crises Marks Truman's Seven Years

WASHINGTON, March 31. (AP)—Harry S. Truman's seven years as President of the United States have been described as "a virtually unbroken line of crises." The line stretches from April 12, 1945—when he stepped up from the vice-presidency on the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt—to the present—when his plan to step down is being discussed around the world.

Dangling from this line were foreign policy crises like:

The launching of the United Nations at the end of the Second World War, two weeks after he took office.

The dawn of the atomic age—with the bombing of two Japanese cities in 1945 and the later decision to begin work on the hydrogen bomb.

The rise of Communism and the ensuing cold war with Russia.

The war in Korea, beginning June 25, 1950.

Formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, marking the first time the U.S. struck a peacetime military alliance with European nations.

Establishment of the European Recovery Program — billions of dollars to put postwar Europe back on its feet.

Promulgation of the Truman doctrine of military and economic aid to countries fighting Communism.

Aid Program

Launching the program of technical aid to backward countries.

The Berlin blockade of 1948-49, set up by the Russians and broken after 327 days by the airlift.

Ratification this year of the peace treaty with Japan and of related Pacific pacts.

The crises on the home front included:

The "great debate" of 1951, touched off by Truman's decision to send six divisions to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's N.A.T.O. command, over how much military authority the President has.

The furore in the spring of 1951 over the recall of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as U.N. Far East commander.

Merger of the armed forces.

A peacetime military draft, first in U.S. history, and a move toward universal military training.

Industrial unrest — government seizure of the railroads to head off strikes in 1946 and again in 1950 (still technically in effect) and court duels with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

Communist Charges

Charges of Communist infiltration of government agencies.

Congressional investigations and disclosures of corruption in federal bodies like the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the internal revenue bureau.

On Nov. 1, 1950, Truman escaped an assassination attempt. Two Puerto Ricans tried to gun their way into Blair House. One was killed, the other wounded. Three guards were shot down, one fatally.

Nearly 68 (on May 8 he will be), the former Missouri farm boy still expects to be active in affairs of the Democratic party. In his swan song to the White House he said emphatically:

"I like politics."

Canadian Gives Seaway Boost

LONDON (CP)—C. P. Wright, Canadian lecturer at Oxford University, said in a recent speech at the Royal Empire Society that "not merely the prosperity but the security" of the western world may hinge upon the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Wright, who has written a book on the seaway, recommended that the locks should be built with a depth of 32 feet, instead of 27 feet as now planned. He said this would enable the biggest ore-carrying ships from Labrador to get through not only to Montreal but to Pittsburgh.

"Monthly Pains" Halted

or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

• Chances are you're putting up—unnecessarily—with the functionally-caused pains, cramps and weak, "no good" feelings of menstruation!

For, in actual tests by doctors, Lydia Pinkham's Compound brought complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases!

Lydia Pinkham's is modern in its action!

Get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—or new, improved Tablets and see if you don't get relief... see if you don't feel better during your period. See if you don't have the same experience as thousands who have benefited!

And remember—Lydia Pinkham's is grand for those "hot flashes" and other distress of change of life!

It has a quieting effect on uterine contractions that often cause menstrual pain!

Dr. A. D. McLachlan Dies In St. Thomas

ST. THOMAS, March 31 (CP).—Dr. Archibald D. McLachlan, 81, one of the oldest practising veterinarians in Western Ontario, died here Sunday.

Born at Crampton, near Ingersoll, he graduated from the Ontario Veterinary College in 1898. He practised in Belmont and Tillsonburg before coming to St. Thomas 34 years ago.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. William Duncan, Welland, and a son, A. Donald McLachlan, St. Catharines.

Organized Terrorists

TOKYO, March 31 (AP) — The newspaper Yomiuri reported Sunday that 30,000 Koreans living in Japan are organized terrorists taking direct orders from the North Korean Communist regime. Yomiuri said the special investigation board and Metropolitan Police Board are considering deportation of more than 1,000 verified Korean terrorists. Many Koreans have recently staged anti-deportation demonstrations at various places throughout Japan.

Salvage Battleship

TRIESTE, March 31 (AP) — The Italian battleship Cavour, sunk at the head of the Adriatic by Allied aerial bombs during the Second World War, was raised and hauled ashore Sunday after a year-long salvage job.

"Snow White" Treatise Used For Allies To Learn German

By HEINZ WEISSENBERGER

MUNICH, March 31—(Reuters)—The story of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," told in a mixture of German, American and English slang, is helping Allied soldiers learn German — after a fashion.

Dedicated to "Alles who lernen Deutsch der hard weg," it appears in the Munich American, a United States Army newspaper.

Here are some typical extracts:

Es war once upon a time eine schoene Princess Die Schneeweitchen gecalled war. Sie hatten eine terrible stepmutter who es nacht permitten konnte that someone else prettier and schoener than she leven should. Every tag she asked her magic-looking spiegel diese question:

"Mirror, mirrow, auf der wall,
"Am I die schoenste babe of all?"

"And der magic-looking mirror would sagen,

"Queenie, du bist really tops."

Wicked Stepmutter

Aber after a little while Schneeweitchen hat prettier gegrowed, and wenn die stepmutter wiederum her looking mirror die question geasked hat, sie sagte:

"You ain't so bad, aber Schneeweitchen really takes die kuchen."

Dies made the Queen sehr hut under dem kollar, and she wanted to put Schneeweitchen out of her weg. So she called her tops hunter herein, und zu ihm sie sagte: "Take this kid out in der woods. Mach sie disappearing."

Der hunter sagte "okay, Mamma!" Dann hat es das poor Schneeweitchen in der tiefen woods getooked und sagte "Nun, dann, kid, scram!" und Scheeweitchen scrammte.

Da war die arme little kid all alone in der woods. Sie war scared, aber suddenly she saw a pretty haeuslein and went herein. Es war die home der seven dwarfen.

Wenn die drawfen Schneeweitchen saw, sagton sie, aber auf Deutsch "wheeee whooo" (wolf whistle).

Und die dwarfen hat her getold that she mit 'em liven could.

Meanwhile hat die stepmutter wieder her magic-looking spiegel geasked:

"Mirror, mirror auf der wall,
"Am I die schoenste babe of all?"

Under der mirror sagte "Ja, du bist die schoenste hier. Aber Schneeweitchen, who now mit den dwarfen lives, she's got alles ueber dir."

Later the stepmutter gave Schneeweitchen a poisoned apple and dwarfs found her "tot." They put her in a coffin with a glass top "und all die little animals came and cried ueber her."

Happy Ever After

Dann aber kam ein prince durch die woods und saw her dar lying, er sagte, aber auf Deutsch "whee whooo." Der prince ging zu die dwarfen und sagte "sell mir das koffin! Ich will payen was er worth is."

Aber die dwarfen sagten "nicht fuer all der beer in St. Louis."

Und so on, with the prince later calling Snow White his baby and then "Sie gingen zu der haus der Prince's vater and were married, und lived happily every after."

Grants Provide Art Lectures

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Free art lectures in many parts of Ontario have begun as a result of a grant from the Atkinson Charitable Foundation, Toronto Art Gallery announced Saturday.

The series began Thursday in Timmins with an address on contemporary artists by L.A.C. Panton of the Ontario College of Art.

Martin Baldwin, director of the gallery, spoke Saturday night in Sarnia. Sydney Keey, gallery curator, will deliver the third lecture at Kingston tonight.

The fourth of the series will be at North Bay April 14, to be given by Clare Bice, curator of London public library and art museum.

Mrs. Stewart Gagnani of the Toronto Art Gallery's extension department will speak in Stratford April 24. J. C. Parkin, Toronto architect, will speak in Peterborough April 29.

A lecture has been scheduled for May 1 at Parry Sound. The speaker has not yet been selected.

Dr. Joseph Baird of the University of Toronto department of art and archaeology will speak at Owen Sound May 6.

Lectures also are planned for Guelph and Sault Ste. Marie.

10 Boys Killed

VELLETRI, Italy, March 31 — (AP)—A Second World War shell exploded in a field near here Sunday, killing 10 boys. The boys apparently were trying to carry the shell away.

Prairie Farm Model Big Hit With Kids

FOX VALLEY, Sask. —(CP)— District farmer Albert Burkart has come up with a new solution for "keeping them down on the farm."

Burkart has built a neat, pint-size model of a typical prairie farmstead for his youngsters: Diana, 7, Gilbert, 6, Sharon, 5, and Darleen, 3. It's a big hit with them.

The farmstead consists of a house, barn, two car garages, outhouse, chicken coop, a windmill that goes, a pump that actually draws water, a manure spreader, wagon, hay rack, bobsleigh, two toy tractors, cars, sheep, cows and everything you would expect to find on a real farm.

On warm, sunny days the youngsters carry "the farm" outdoors where their make-believe is invigorating as well as keenly interesting.

"The farm" also entertains father.

"It's a darn good pastime when the wind howls and the mercury hangs around 30 below zero," he says.

Break Channel

SAULT STE. MARIE, Milch., March 31 (AP) — The cutter Mackinaw Sunday broke through ice from 14 to 20 inches thick to open a channel in the lower St. Mary's river in preparation for the expected opening of navigation here this week. The Canadian steamer, the Scott Misener, and several United States ships are expected in the river Tuesday.

Farmers on Belleville produce market offered maple syrup Saturday in quantities at $5 a gallon or $1.25 a quart. They said there had been a good run of sap during the week.

PUT BRIDGE IN

Traffic over the Hastings swing bridge is closed off for the first three days of this week, as the new bridge is being completed. It is expected to be ready for traffic by Thursday.

SPEAKS TO C.C.F.

Fred Young, provincial organizer of the C.C.F., will speak at the annual meeting of the C.C.F. association in the Labor centre at 8 p.m. tonight. Officers of the association will be elected for the coming year and delegates will be named for a provincial convention in Toronto April 10, 11, and 12.

TWO FIRE ALARMS

A chimney fire at 507 Bolivar St., the home of Hayden J. Kelly, was put out by a handpump Saturday. Sunday morning firemen investigated a report that a house at 65 Morrow St. was afire but it was just a false alarm. Early today the furnace pipes overheated at the home of Mrs. L. J. Clark, 634 McKellar St., but an extinguisher wasn't needed.

HOUSEWIVES ANGRY

Lindsay housewives of complaining because they see beef prices in Peterborough quoted 10 cents a pound cheaper than in Lindsay. "How come?" they ask. in Lindsay it is 89 cents. It couldn't be transportation costs, argue the Lindsay consumers, because beef is slaughtered right there in town.

Safecrackers Blow Up Safe At Brewer's Retail Store Make Escape With $1,000

Worked On Safe Beside Street Window Believe Lights Left On;
Neighbor Hears Noise, Does Not Investigate

Safecrackers escaped with an estimated $1,000 early today after blowing a small safe in the Brewers' Retail sub-store on McDonnel St. The safe is mounted on a concrete block just inside a plate glass window facing on the street. It is believed the thieves worked with lights on, in plain view of anyone passing by, because the store lights were still on when Manager Cliff Wills discovered the robbery at 8:30.

A six-foot crow bar was used to force the door, and the heavy bar, along with a smaller metal wrecking bar was left behind. The safe blowing is described as "a neat job" and after the contents had been looted, the door was replaced in position.

An electric drill was apparently used to to drill the hole in the door, and a wall socket was conveniently located within two feet of the safe. An eye dropper was found near the safe and it is believed that nitro-glycerine was the high explosive that did the job.

The safe and the corner where it was located were covered with a fine layer of plaster dust, indicating that the blast had shaken the interior enough to dislodge plaster particles. A number of badly bent coins were left on the floor.

Mrs. Douglas Hutton who lives next door at 384 McDonnel St., reported she was awakened by a noise and heard someone running. She thinks it was about 4.30 in the morning, but she did not bother to investigate, as she did not suspect anything was wrong.

Although some cases were moved in the rear of the warehouse, by the thieves to clear a way to the back door if they were surprised at their work, no merchandise was reported stolen. The rear door was unlocked from the inside.

Banked Saturday

A box on the counter, containing contributions to the Canadian March of Dimes was not touched either.

The safe would have contained a much greater amount of cash, but all the Saturday's receipts up until 4 o'clock had been taken to the bank Saturday afternoon.

Constable Eldon McDonald and Sergeant Gordon Trennum were the first policemen to arrive on the scene after Mr. Wills turned in the alarm. Further investigations are being carried out by Identification Sergeant William Aggas and detective sergeant W. A. Clarke.

Collegiate Holds Open House On Wednesday

The doors at P.C.V.S. will be thrown open to the students' parents Wednesday when the Collegiate's Home and School Association holds its annual open house.

The special period, from 2:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. is held annually with the hope that the students will introduce their parents to the teachers and acquaint their parents with the school's facilities.

The classes for the students will end at 2:15 after the first two periods. After that the teachers will be in their rooms, available for consultations with parents about the children and the courses of study.

Girls Guide

Girls will be at school entrances and will act as guides for anyone who needs assistance in finding any room. There will be no planned tour through the school.

The parents will be able to see the electrical, wood-working, machine shops, possibly in action, and the various business machines available in the commercial and economics departments.

Extra-curricular activities open to the parents will be the art rooms, the library and the P.C.V.S. Choral Club which will be practicing for the Kiwanis Festival in the school auditorium.

Parents will be able to meet parents at a tea which will be held by the association in the school gym.

Asks Re-instatement Of 15 Welders

Local 524, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America announced today they would "take every possible step" to have 15 welders in structural steel re-instated.

Despite a recommendation from an arbitration board the company refuses to take these men back, the union charges.

Sixteen welders were fired by the company for their part in a wildcat strike that began Dec. 11. The welders walked off the job claiming that the Canadian General Electric Co. had recoded a piece of work so that they stood to lose 12 cents an hour on this piece of work.

Later the men were fired and Local 524 submitted two collective grievances on their behalf, claiming unjust dismissal.

Upheld Company

An arbitration board, under the chairmanship of Judge D. S. Anderson of Belleville, upheld the action of the company in firing the men. But the board recommended that 14 of the 16 men be re-instated.

Art Hunter, business agent for Local 524, told the Examiner today that the executive committee had been told the following by management:

"The company will not abide by the arbitration board recommendation and re-instate the welders. They are all fired."

Roy T. Bogle, assistant works manager, had no comment to make on this statement at noon today.

"C.G.E. workers are shocked and angered with the company's action in refusing to re-instate the welders in accordance with the arbitration board's recommendation," said Mr. Hunter.

Mrs. Blackwell Leader In Women's Affairs

An outstanding contributor to the cultural life of Peterborough, Mrs. William Blackwell, 40 Benson Ave., died at the Civic Hospital Saturday following an illness of five weeks.

A prominent and keenly interested member of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association of Canada, Peterborough Branch, Mrs. Blackwell had the longest term of office as president since the Peterborough branch was organized. She was president for 11 consecutive years up to 1936.

As a result of having attended school in Paris she was always interested in the French people and language and during her term of office she inaugurated the Causerie Francaise, or French Club in connection with the Art Association.

Presented Plays

It was also due to her encouragement during the early years of her term of office that the Art Association presented a number of dramatic performances in the hall of the Gliddon Conservatory on Hunter St. These performances were the only ones of their kind to be presented in Peterborough at that time and aroused considerable interest in a Little Theatre movement.

Mrs. Blackwell was also an enthusiastic gardener and even last year she looked after her garden and was able to do her own housework.

Born In England

Born in Bassingborne Royston, Hertfordshire, England, the former Annie Amelia Hales, Mrs. Blackwell was the daughter of the late Clarke Hales and Ann Warren. She came to Peterborough from England in 1886.

She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

She leaves two sons, R. H. Holden Blackwell of Jacksonville, Florida, and Walter R. L. Blackwell of Peterborough and nine grandchildren, Holden Blackwell Jr., Jacksonville, Florida; Mrs. Hugh M. Williams (Lilias), Alexandria, Virginia; Peter A. Blackwetll, Riviera Beach, Florida; William G. Blackwell, San Diego, California; Edmund W. Blackwell, Jacksonville, Florida; Elizabeth A. Blackwell, Jessie F. Blackwell, Cynthia J. Blackwell and Walter R. P. Blackwell, all of Peterborough; and six great grandchildren.

The eldest of the family of thirteen, Mrs. Blackwell is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. J. N. Harrowell of Chicago and Mrs. H. H. Gobbet of Creston, British Columbia. Her husband, William Blackwell predeceased her in 1937.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at St. John's Anglican Church. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Large Audiences Enjoy Skating Club Carnival

Capacity audiences attended both matinee and evening performances of the skating carnival, Skating Around the World, presented by the Peterborough Figure Skating Club at Civic Arena Saturday. The audiences expected skill, color and thrills at these performances and were not disappointed. Under the direction of Miss Betty Lee Dent, club professional, the group of more than 100 skaters presented an extremely enjoyable entertainment.

This skating world travelogue gave ample opportunity for variety of skating technique as well as group performance in co-ordination.

Good Settings

Solo, duet and group numbers were all exceptional considering the short period of time this club has been organized. And special mention should be made of the design and color scheme of both setting and costumes. Clever operation of the lighting also enhanced the performance.

Exceptional of course were the four visiting performers. The audience seemed particularly impressed with the performance of 14-year-old Charles Snelling, Junior Canadian Figure Skating Champion from the Granite Figure Skating Club, Toronto. But not far behind in receiving enthusiastic applause was Paul Tatton of the North Bay Figure Skating Club who is Senior Champion of Northern Ontario.

The comedy team of McFadden and Burbidge of Toronto were also popular in their skating rendition of The Charleston.

But Peterborough can be proud that members of this city's own club were not too far outshone by the visitors and with a few more years training will also be champions.

Taking Part

The program included the following solo and duet numbers: Bride and Groom, Ian Clarke and Dalia Eidimetaite; Miss Globelia Trotter, Joan Lye; Comedy, Jack Porter; The Blond Sailor, Gaynor Galoska; Jeanette and Her Wood Shoes, Rosemary Pilon; Hanzel and Gretel, Dian Zakos and Francis Finn; Swiss Miss, Nancy Zolyomy; Miss Azure Blue, Marilyn Clark; The Ballerina, Jacqueline Hopkins; The Chinese Mandarins, Dorothy Kingston and Lorne Hale; The Mademoiselle, Joan Begley; French Maids, Gail and Sandra Wood; Senorita and Senor, Joan Begley and Jack Martin; The Toreador, Arlene Ferguson.

Master of ceremonies was Andy Rutter.

General carnival chairman was Gordon L. Dobbin and he was assisted by the following committee chairmen: Mrs. A. Galoska, props; Mrs. Don Wood and Mrs. Ralph Standish, costumes; Mrs. Clare Collins, dressing rooms; Mrs. W. J. Gordon, make-up; Mrs. W. J. Garner, publicity; Bert Austin, tickets; James Harkness, lighting and sound effects; Mrs. Ernest Ferguson, music; Ernest Ferguson and Mrs. James Clark, group selection.

Car Wheel Runs Over Child's Leg

Three-year-old Linda Riley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clam Riley who live on the River Rd. N., is resting in St. Joseph's Hospital after being run over Sunday afternoon by a car.

A car wheel passed over her left leg, badly bruising it. And she also suffered brush burns and facial cuts.

Her condition today is satisfactory, hospital authorities say.

Linda was going home after attending Sunday School at Auburn Gospel Hall, just inside the city limits. She came out of the Sunday School and dashed across the road.

The front bumper of a car, driven by Walter G. Rogers, 714 Spadina Ave., Toronto, struck the little girl, knocking her to the pavement. The right rear wheel ran over her left leg.

Rogers told Police Constable Harold Andrew and Wilfred Perry that he did not see the child until he was too short a distance away to avoid hitting her. He applied his brakes and skidded 15 feet to the point of impact, and the car continued on for another 21 feet.

Motorcycle Passenger Hurt In Accident

Bud Harvey, 195 Rutherford Ave., was slightly injured Saturday afternoon when a car and motorcycle collided at Charlotte and Stewart Sts.

He was a passenger on the motorcycle driven by Jack Cross, 335 McGill St. Both of Harvey's ankles were scraped and cut.

Cross was travelling east on Charlotte St., and as he neared Stewart St., he pulled out to pass a line of cars stopped for a train passing the Bethune St. crossing.

At Stewart St., a car came through the intersection going north and Cross said he was unable to avoid a collision.

The car was driven by James Roland Henderson, 406 Water St. He said he stopped for the intersection and also stopped to make sure there was no traffic coming, before he nosed between the line of cars.

New Separate High School To Cost $225,000

An estimate of $225,000 as the cost of a new high school was made Friday evening by Bishop Gerald Berry at the first diocesan Parent-Teacher meeting.

On hand at present is $117,900.34, said the bishop, "we are appealing to the zeal and generosity of our people for the remaining sum."

The meeting was held in St. Mary's Hall, and chairwoman was Mrs. Margaret O'Brien, president of the group.

"Twelve classrooms are now in use at the school on Reid St. Only two rooms in the annex are used by the separate school. By Sept. 1953, all 12 will be needed for grades 9 and 10, for these will then number 251," Bishop Berry said.

Higher Grades

"Our problem will then be: What of the 124 students in Grade XI to XII, our private high school classes? Where to put them?

"Furthermore, we know that in 1956-57 we will have 160 students in those same three grades.

"It is clear that we will require 6 classrooms at the least for Grades XI to XIII within 4 years from September 1952.

"It is clear that if we are going to build a new private high school we must equip it properly; that means we must provide library and suitable laboratory space.

"The minimum number of rooms in the new private high school must therefore be eight."

In conclusion, His Excellency Bishop Berry, called upon Catholic population of the diocese for sympathetic and understanding co-operation, stating that with organization and united effort the future can be faced without fear.

Mr. Fergus O'Connor in thanking the Bishop for his guidance and leadership shown in the valuable data given, assured him of the wholehearted and loyal support of his people.

The president's address, outlined the aim of the organization and named conveners of the different units. Attention was drawn to the convention to be held in Toronto during Easter week, at which the Rev. Father Ryan of Detroit will be guest speaker. Mrs. O'Brien referred to the diocesan convention to be held in May with representatives from each unit.

Mr. Anthony De Noble sang two solos: "The Winding Road" and "Where the River Shannon Flows". He was accompanied by Miss Margaret McCabe.

20 of Park St. BYPU Enjoy Taffy Pull

The B.Y.P.U. of Park St. Baptist Church spent a very pleasant social evening in the form of a "Taffy Pull" on Saturday, when a group of 20 motored to the farm of Mr. and Mrs. C. Little, R.R. 2, Lakefield.

After being greeted by the host and hostess, the party was transported by sleigh to the maple syrup camp which is a mile from the farmhouse. Since the sleigh would not hold everyone, a number of people enjoyed walking to the camp.

Mr. Little lit a fire in the evaporator and demonstrated the different processes of syrup making. Outside the building, syrup was boiled in an iron kettle over an open fire and when it was of proper consistency it was poured out into pans. Each guest then had the experience of pulling the taffy till it became white and ready for eating. Afterwards, a delicious lunch was served in the evaporator building.

At the close, Doug Sweeting, on behalf of the union, presented a gift to Bob Herzog who is returning to his home in Delia, Alberta, in a few days.

Eric Bills expressed the group's appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Little for their generous hospitality.

Mr. N. D. Sidey is visiting in Cleveland and attending the Sportsmen's Show there.

The bi-weekly party of the Whitehead Corners' Group was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvyn Heard, Thursday evening. Ten tables of progressive euchre were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Whitney Howard, Mrs. Pillsworth, Mrs. Heard and Miss Helen Coates; Mervyn Heard, Mrs. Kinsman as a gent, W. Howard and Wilf. Gainor. This ends the parties for the season. Mrs. the parties for the season.

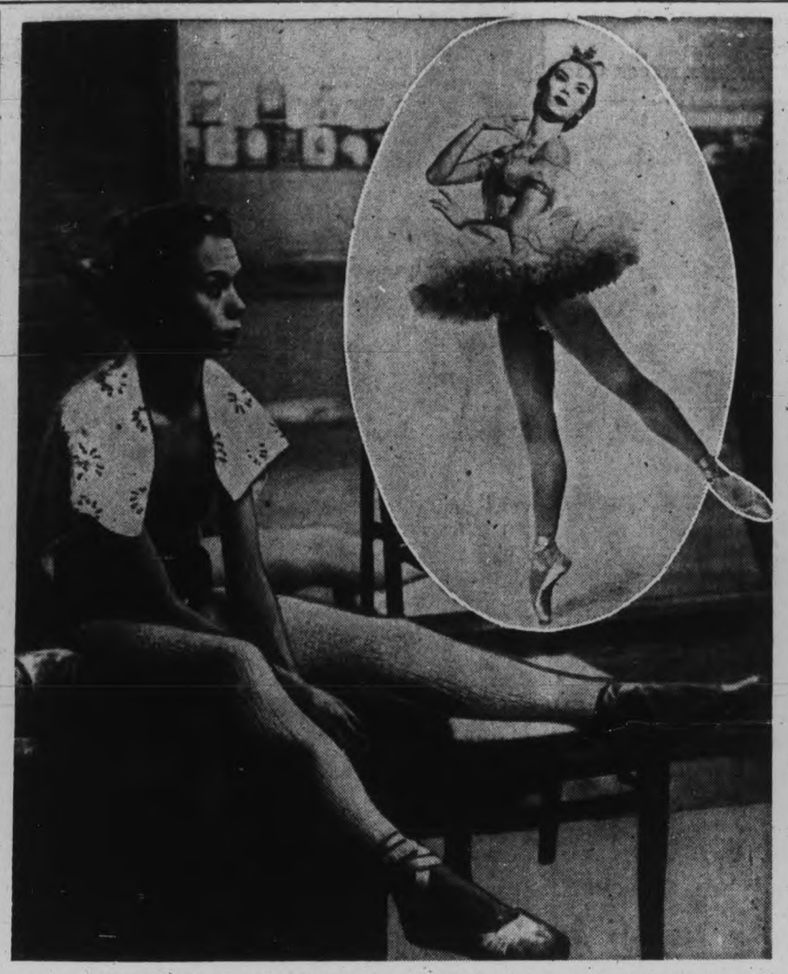
Mr. Ronald Manley of Picton spent the weekend at his home here.

Colors Exciting

SAN FRANCISCO.—Colors are more exciting than they have been in many years. The new developments in dyes have made possible more variations, clearer tones, more feeling and brilliance than was previously possible. This is effectively dramatized in the blond and blue promotion locally and these two colors seem destined for an important place in the spring fashion picture.

White Background

SAN FRANCISCO — In prints, white backgrounds are more important than they have been for years. Even here, there is a texture look—some of them have an etched feeling; others look as though they were tied-and-dyed. There are striking brushed prints that appear painted on.



GERTRUDE TYVEN, classic ballerina of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, takes time out to rest, during a strenuous rehearsal. She's wearing long hand-knit woollen tights to keep her muscles warm and supple. She sits with her legs straight, so the muscles will not pull and tighten as she relaxes, and the towel around her shoulders is to keep off any stray draught. Inset, Miss Tyven as she appears on the stage.

Outdoor-Minded Get Treat At Fashion Tea

A showing of fashions for the out of doors and resort season seemed just the tonic for lagging spirits and the half hour parade presented by the Kinettes Saturday afternoon was all too short. It proved too that there is no need to wait until away on a holiday or out of town to provide a wardrobe of quality sportswear and the newest in the fashion headlines.

It was typical of these smart young matrons who are Kinettes to present such a treat as this fashion tea. They entertained more than 300 friends during the afternoon, using the Y.W.C.A. facilities, and repeated the fashion parade for those who came late. The proceeds will be devoted to their service project which is sending two diabetic children to Ilahee Camp at Cobourg each summer.

Mrs. Maurice Holt as the fashion commentator reminded of the large scale fashion shows formerly held by Kinettes, when she first became familiar in such a role. Mrs. Adam Sands, a former president of the club, played the background music for the parade, and Mrs. Wm. Godson directed the show. The six models are all closely associated with members and a club member herself.

Newest Coats

Newest thing was the "pop" coat, faking its first appearance in Peterborough at this show. Destined to be popular for night life this summer, it is very like the old-fashioned hug-me-tight but styled of soft fleecy coating. Young Miss Ann Lewis, a pretty brunette, modelled it atop a wide-flaring taffeta skirt, hinting its use as an evening wrap.

She also showed the other featured coat of the year—the "pendulum" in bright red ottoman. Sleeves are fully lined with the same material and can be pushed as high as you like. Another nice style was in gold ottoman, treated for all kinds of weather. These coats were called "aqua scutums", borrowing the English name for raincoat, Miss Holt explained.

The "separates" are just as popular as ever but some are more glamorous. Miss Audrey Oliver modelled a circle skirt and blouse of matching print in the new gold overlay. The quiltie skirt was shown in pale orchid with a low cut black blouse. Slimmer skirts with matching tops were of cool chambray, broadcloth, and sateen with the shine of satin shown in rich purple shade by blonde, petite Mrs. Gordon Harrison.

"Hot tops" is what the sport hats are called this year and they match some of the striped cotton shirts worn with shorts and slacks. The denims shown were in "sailing blue" shade.

Colors Lovely

In more formal line were a collection of the popular knitted suits in lovely colors highlighted by "corsage pink" worn by Mrs. James Connors. She also modelled a wonderfully fine tailored suit, the jacket a tweed fleck of beige and brown and the skirt brown.

A colorfully striped umbrella opening out like an awning was carried by Mrs. Clayton Selkirk when she wore a smart grey suit featuring the nipped in waistline. There were several suits with the box jacket, one in natural camel hair and another in beige tones, worn by Miss Barbara Lewis. She was also the daring model who showed a three piece bathing or sunning outfit in printed sharkskin.

The tartans were well represented in slacks, skirts and suits. The white wool blazer with crested pocket is again to be popular. One new skirt was of light weight wool finely pleated all around.

Guests gave vent to their curiosity while awaiting the fashions by buying the "Whatzinit" parcels. These were mailed in by friends of Kinettes throughout Canada and each contained a gift valued at not less than 25 cents. The stamps were offered free to any collector in the crowd by Miss G. Greensides, in charge, and assistant Mrs. Walker Jones.

President Mrs. Howard Powell and vice-president Mrs. Bev Metcalfe received in the tea room where carnival style booths and the individually arranged tea tables featured the aster colors. The floral arrangement combined daffodils, mauve iris and purple pansies and the tapers were yellow.

Mrs. Hugh Waddell and Mrs. M. J. Swanston graciously gave their assistance as tea pourers, with past president Mrs. Norman Elliott presiding during the second fashion showing.

Small cakes were served with the tea, and the servers were Mrs. Harvie Ball, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. Harley Weir, Mrs. J. Burns, Mrs. C. Craig and Mrs. Adolph Lamers, under direction of tea convener Mrs. V. J. LaPlante. The plates were arranged by Mrs. Eric Johnston, Mrs. Ed. Henwood and Mrs. Harry Tewsley.

Tasty potato salads and jellied concoctions added interest to the home baking and candy tables convened by Mrs. C. Boorman with Mrs. V. A. Selkirk, Mrs. Stan Gilmour, Mrs. Donald Grills and Mrs. Fred Ash assisting.

Lucky draw prizes were two delicious looking cakes, a light and a dark, and Mrs. W. A. Henderson was selling tickets on them. Mrs. Powell made the draws at close of the tea and winners were—Mrs. W. Malowney Sr. and Miss Catherine Allen.

Tickets were taken at the door by Mrs. Robert Hamilton and Mrs. George Stone.

Mrs. Truman "The Boss", Opposed President's Run

WASHINGTON, March 31 — (AP)—The reason for Mrs. Harry S. Truman's cheerfulness of late is now out.

Apparently President Truman's "bombshell' that he is not a candidate for re-election was no surprise to her, however, much it was to others.

He frequently refers to her as "the boss" and has always talked things over with her.

Bess Truman never has liked the glass-bowl existence that goes with being first lady. Nor has she liked the formal large-scale entertaining.

She is friendly, approachable. She likes to visit with small groups. Her memory of people is excellent— her handshake firm.

She regards the presidency as a gruelling post— one of honor, but which takes a toll of health. She has been credited with opposing Truman running again.

Those in Washington who have been watching for a sign indicating what Truman planned became aware in recent weeks that Mrs. Truman seemed relaxed, happy.

DOROTHY DIX

Settle Financial Question Before Marriage Vows Made

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 50, with some income, and am marrying a man who is salaried. When we marry, does he assume the full responsibility of living expenses? Should this be discussed before marriage? Have you any further advice to give widowers and widows, grandfathers and grandmothers getting married?

✧ ✧ ✧

MRS. L. P.

ANSWER: To skip to your second question first, all problems that give an indication of future trouble should be thoroughly discussed before marriage. This is very important in financial matters. Complete agreement should be reached on income and spending programs. With middle-aged marriages, these problems are, of course, completely different than they are with younger weddings.

A certain amount of financial security has usually been reached by the 50's, there is no question of providing for a family, and long-range saving is not as important a factor as it is in the 20's. However, since money is potentially always a source of trouble, its management should be thoroughly established whenever matrimony is contemplated. Just exactly how you spend your incomes is a subject so dependent on personal tastes and obligations that it cannot be answered arbitrarily.

He Pays Living Expenses.

Traditionally, the husband supports the family, in other words, pays all living expenses. Whether you have an income or not, it is still the best practice to have his salary cover essential expenditures. Your income could be used supplementally, to supply luxuries that otherwise could not be had, such as a car, travel, or special clothes.

By the time a man or woman has passed the mid-century mark, temperament and disposition are usually settled in a definite groove. Offtimes the desire for companionship, the dread of loneliness, leads to marriage with an incompatible mate and subsequent unhappiness that is far worse than solitude. This is the chief source of trouble in marriage between oldsters, and its possibilities should be thoroughly weighed.

That the difficulties are by no means always present, or insurmountable, is seen in the many many marriages between grandfathers and grandmothers that are congenial, happy and rewarding. Two harmonious people, with similar tastes and hobbies, can make a fine marriage, setting a splendid example even for their grandchildren.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a girl of 14 with a problem that is very serious to me. I know and like a very nice boy of 16. When he comes over, which isn't often, I go out to talk with him, and I don't see anything wrong in that. I stay in our driveway. However the minute I get out my father shouts at me very rudely to come back in. If he would only speak gently I wouldn't mind so much. It gets the boy mad at me instead of at my father.

JOAN S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Why do you have to go outside to speak with your boy friend? Your parents should permit you to have him in the house; then there would be no cause for shouting or embarrassment. At 14, you should be allowed to go to a school dance or basketball game with a boy, or to an occasional early movie, or a neighborhood party. But most important, you should be permitted to entertain your friends at home, with your parents' cooperation.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I had been married eight months when my husband was sent overseas. He has been gone two months. A few days ago I received a letter from one of my old flames. Knowing I was married, he wrote me a letter that was pracically a love letter, reminding me of "the good old days." I only had a school courtship with this boy, and liked him very much but have no feelings toward him now since I have found another and married. Should I answer his letter and tell him not to write any more, or ignore it?

PAULINE R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: To put the period of finality to the episode, write and tell the man that you don't wish to hear from him any more, and that you consider his letter in very bad taste. The matter should end there.

CASUAL COMFORT and bright colors are reflected in this three-piece ensemble, LEFT, in "sea spray blue." The ensemble has a rhinestone-sprinkled cardigan and blouse, fulfilling every woman's desire for gay colors, CENTRE, is this two-piece suit with three-quarter sleeves and deep flyaway cuffs. The California influence is reflected, RIGHT, in this tailored town suit with its low-notched shawl collar and single-self-covered button at the waist, two curved welt pockets and a stalk slim skirt.

Little Glamour Girls Not Overlooked

Spring, 1952, will find the Pretty - as - a - Picture look in fashion also done—in Miniature! For little glamour girls are finding the season just as exciting, fashion-wise, as their mothers.

Tots to teen-agers will look picturesque this spring with tiny, tight-fitting waistlines, full, full skirts and big sleeves. Paris hasn't overlooked the petite fille when it comes to the smart Victorian influence in fashion.

Little girls will let their gay, stiff petticoats peek provocatively from under their billowing skirts. Leading this fashion are the quilted cotton skirts done in reversible styles with a spirited print on one side and a contrasting plain color on the other. With their swirling skirts, they'll wear blouses with either perky, puffed sleeves or the sleeveless, bare-arm look.

Sweaters on the smaller scale will feature the same glamorous touches as those worn by style-conscious women for the new dressed-up details are highlighting sweaters for girls of all ages. Touches of embroidery, shell, braid, and glitter trims are dominating the sweater fashion scene. Baby turtle necks, sleeveless styles, dolman sleeves, and heraldic motifs are news in girls' sweaters.

Dressing up for Easter will be thrilling for the Sunday School set! The briefer-than-brief topper is a newsworthy fashion for girls and makes an adorable duo with the fuller skirt. These rib-length toppers are being featured in checks, pastel fleeces, wool suede, and poodle cloth. They feature push-up sleeves, wide cuffs and shawl or mandarin collars.

Full-length spring coats are being shown in crisp ottoman and Benegaline in both the flattering Princess line and the pyramid coat. Girls' Easter suits will feature the swirling skirt with its own stiffened petticoat. Coats with detachable capelets are also starring in the fashion picture for spring. The Easter parade will see many of the new, nubby woollens, varicolored tweeds as well as flannels and gabardines.

Young girls can give full sway to their love for color this spring. They can pick from a bouquet of pastels with lilac, crocus yellow, mint green, gay pinks, and soft blues the leading favorites.

Cottons will be more beloved than ever when little girls see the dresses for spring-into-summer! The most popular are broadcloths, tissue chambrays, soft plaid ginghams, and bright calico prints.

Fashion this year has truly captured the magic of springtime . . . forever new, forever fresh. There's a feeling of expectancy in the air . . . as though around the very next corner lies adventure and romance. Little ladies this year are dressed for the part . . . never prettier . . . never more feminine . . . as charming and delectable as a tintype in grandmother's attic!

BEAUTIFUL SPRING SAILOR in shiny black straw and rich black velvet is by Lily Dache. The wide brim sits squarely on a white brow, emphasizing the purely feminine look of spring. Perching flirtatiously on the brim's edge is a pink silk rose.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Preparing Chicken For Oven

When you read the following excerpts from two letters that I received you will understand why the column is devoted solely to chicken today.

Dear Mary: . . . I have heard of and know so many young people that do not know how to dress a fowl. . . I even wash my chickens in warm water and soap and rinse well. . . one lady did not know about the lungs. . . she never removed them . . . another very important thing is to remove the gall from the liver . . . you heard of the bride that roasted the chicken as is—she thought she had bought it already stuffed. . . I do enjoy your letters. Mrs. E. M.

P.S. — What became of Don Ameche and Freddie Bartholomew? E. M.

Dear Mary: Could you some time when convenient give details on how to dissect a chicken for stewing. I can take off the legs and wings but can't manage to dissect the remainder in small pieces. It does not look too appetizing when put on the server when the pieces are too large. E. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

First let's try to clear up the D. Ameche and F. Bartholomew mystery. I'm not a movie or radio fan. Could any of you enlighten me so I can pass the news on to Mrs. E. M?

Preparation of Chicken (or other poultry) for Cooking

In this day and age chicken from chicken shops and quick-frozen poultry come already cleaned and drawn. The butcher usually draws a chicken if you buy it from him. However, if you buy a chicken on the market you must singe, draw and clean it at home, and a good cook has to know how.

Singeing

Do this first while the chicken is dry. Hold the bird over a flame, turning it quickly, and spreading each wing, until all parts have been exposed, so that hairs and down are burnt off.

Next remove any pinfeathers with tweezers or tip of sharp knife and forefinger.

Drawing

With sharp pointed knife cut around vent, then slit skin in line with tip of breastbone and almost up to it, large enough to admit hand. Insert hand and grasping entire abdominal contents loosen the connective tissue which attaches them to the abdominal wall all round and try to remove them all at once. Save the gizzard—a meaty organ surrounding the kidneys which lay deep in a hollow in the backbone. Very carefully cut away the gall bladder which is embedded in the liver. Save the liver. Discard the lungs which lie deeply embedded in the ribs high up along the backbone. At the neck end pull out the crop which lies at base of throat and the windpipe, which was attached to the lungs. Discard them.

Push back neck skin and cut neck off where it joins the body with a heavy knife. (The neck is cooked with the giblets.)

Carefully cut away an oil sac you will find just above tail at base. Discard.

Leg tendons require removal. Cerefully cut skin around base of meat at drumstick. Snap the bone by laying the leg at this cut over edge of table and pressing downward. Pull the foot with a strong tug and foot and tendons will come away together.

Washing

The skin of market chickens is often dirty. Wash it with soap or soda and water and scrubbing brush. Thoroughly wash inside of chicken.

Dry chicken. It is now ready for stuffing, if to be roasted.

If chicken is to be cut up for frying or fricasseeing or baking: With a sharp knife first remove the legs, cutting each through the skin on the inner side of the thigh, next to the body. Press back the entire leg and facilitate cracking hip-joint by slitting tendons at joint with sharp point of knife. Cut through when joint breaks. Bend leg to make "Knee" joint stand out sharply then slit the skin and tendons, then bend backwards to break joint. Cut through completely. Remove wings with same routine. Cut off tips and cook with giblets.

Where incision was made for drawing the bird, insert knife at side and cut through in line with the small joints in ribs up to the wing joint. When done at both sides, snap back the breast piece and separate it, by slitting connections at collar bone. With strong knife cut breast in half lengthwise and, if large, once again crosswise. Cut back crosswise and each piece in halves with very strong knife.

That's all for today, and while I hate the job of dressing a chicken I've made myself hungry and am going to have lunch. Watch for more chicken stuff later.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"I haven't been hitting too well lately, so I'm hinting for the pitcher to co-operate a little!"

Suit The Occasion

Perfume should be as suitable to the occasion as the hat you wear. Think of your fragrance as an accessory. If your clothes are crisp, wear that kind of scent. When your clothes are softly feminine, be sure your perfume expresses the same thought. The fragrance you wear should complement, be compatible with your clothes and with the "front" which you present to your world. Some perfumes, like your classic pearls, are suitable for all occasions.

What's Right?

You answer your telephone and the caller apologizes for having a wrong number.

WRONG: Hang up without saying a word.

RIGHT: Meet his courteous apology with something like: "That's quite all right."

Accessories Set Mood For Room

Proper choice of accessory furniture and decorations reflects the homeowner's personality and good taste, sets the mood of a room and rounds out the interior design.

Accessories should be functional and interesting and should include such "working" items as mirors, ashtrays, lamps, clocks, cigarette boxes, vases and prints or pictures.

Selection should be with an eye to scale. Accessories should not be too large or too small for adjacent pieces. A large room calls for dramatic accessories such as floor and table lamps, large panel mirrors, over-sized coffee-table. Conversely, smaller areas can better utilize decorative pieces in reduced scale such as small end tables.

Too many unnecessary decorations and gadgets give a cluttered effect. Avoid bric-a-bac, excessive carvings and any other gingerbread likely to create dust and make cleaning difficult.

This is the study (above) in the two-room apartment. Color is dingy tan, blinds are shabby, grill is ugly. Pale blue venetian blinds (right) are matched to walls, drapes are in Peruvian print. Woodwork is white.

This is opposite wall (above) of study. Blocked doorway has one useless shelf, is eyesore. Same doorway (right) has become useful bookcase and cabinet by means of simple carpentry. Walls are pale blue.

Remodelling Apartment Cheap, Easy To Work Out

Remodelling dark apartments that previous tenants or landlords have left in gloomy disrepair is a tough job at times. Lack of natural light, repair work, and dismal original colors add to the problem.

One young couple took on the job of repairing and redecorating a small apartment. They were faced with one big problem — making the place liveable—and several smaller ones.

One difficulty was in choosing a color scheme that would lighten the room and give them a color plan with which they could live.

They had to have colors that would be warm and reflect light in the winter, but that would not turn the apartment into a sizzling oven in summer. They discarded colors so rapidly they had to start all over.

Finally they chose a color scheme—yellow, coral and brown. They wanted pale yellow for three walls, the ceilings, doors and woodwork. Cocoa brown would serve as a color for the fireplace wall.

Digging deeper into details of their scheme, they picked on coral as an accent note in the drapes and the slip-cover for their studio couch.

For the other room, the study, they chose pale blue with touches of white. Its window, like those of the living-room, fronted on the street. Full drapes were necessary to insure privacy.

For the kitchen and bath, pale blue was chosen again, with a touch more turquoise in it.

As the husband was living in the apartment, he chose an odorless paint that would dry completely overnight. In mixing paint, he found shades could be changed to any degree he wanted.

It wasn't necessary to use a delicate formula involving a dash of this and two drops of that; he followed a paint recipe given by the paint manufacturer.

Two coats of paint, he found, were enough to cover the old walls completely. But this had to be done after he had patched and plastered the walls, which had been left in poor shape.

Total cost was $100, including materials for repairs.

Before painting the study, he turned carpenter. Although he'd had no experience at it, he found it was mostly a matter of hitting the nail where his thumb wasn't.

A blocked doorway in the study was transformed into bookshelves and a cabinet. His repair work and creative work was finished with the painting and the apartment was just about ready to live in.

Re-doing House Endless Job

Once people start such ambitious projects as re-doing floors and woodwork, there's no telling where it will stop.

The woodwork will look so nice, for instance, that the ceiling and walls will look shabby by contrast, and you might just as well finish the job right.

These days it's a lot easier than it used to be, what with new kinds of paints and gadgets that just about put the handyman around the house in the decorating business.

Get the whole room ready for the job before you start putting on anything new.

Tackle the ceiling first. If it was calcimined previously, wash off the old finish with warm water whether you plan to re-calcimine or use paint. If it was painted before and isn't too dirty, use a dust brush to get off all loose particles of paint.

Dust the walls, too, and wash any bad smudges. Then mix up some patching plaster, and fix up all the cracks on the ceiling and walls, covering these with a size

Converting Old Oil Lamp To Electricity

Oil lamps of the Victorian and Edwardian eras are quaint and attractive and often may be bought for comparatively little cost at auctions, in second-hand shops or maybe just found in your own attic. Converting one of these old oil burners to use electricity isn't difficult at all.

They usually consist of a standard set of parts—a base, a column, the oil reservoir and, on top, the chimney support which contains the wick and its adjustment mechanism. This last part can simply be unscrewed and discarded.

The principle thing that bothers amateurs in converting oil lamps is the necessity of drilling a hole through the botton of the glass or porcelain oil reservoir in order to run the electric wire up through the column to the electric socket which replaces the wick-holder.

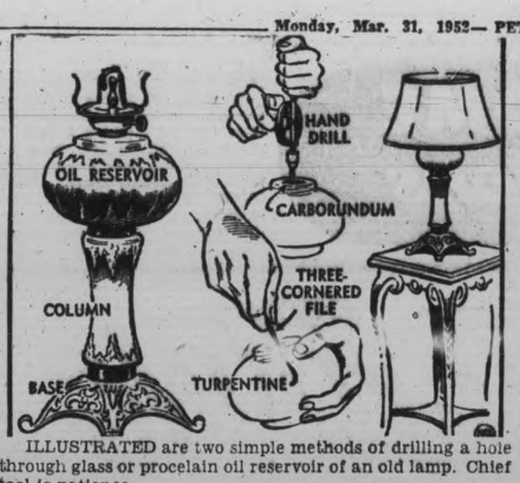
The first step is to disassemble the lamp and lay the parts out in correct order. Next, you'll want to drill that hole. There are several methods of doing it without danger of cracking the glass. One way is to grind the hole through with carborundum. Use a piece of wooden dowel, the diameter of the hole you want in a hand drill.

Put a bit of carborundum on the spot where you'll drill, moisten it to hold it together, place the end of the dowel against the glass, on top of the carborundum. Start grinding slowly — repeat—slowly. Speedy grinding will only throw the abrasive to one side and waste your time. The job should take at least a half an hour. This is a slow method, but it works.

Another method of drilling through glass is with a triangular-shaped file. Keep turpentine on the drilling area and just keep turning the file, with hand pressure, until you have a hole large enough to accommodate the wire.

You may wish to have the metal parts of the lamp plated with brass or even silver. Some metals won't take plating, so you'd better test yours the same way a professional plater does. Simply hold a small magnet against the metal. If there is no attraction to the magnet, the metal cannot be plated. If the magnet holds the metal, it can be plated. Take it to a commercial plating shop to have the job done.

In re-assembling the lamp, there is one thing to watch our for. Sometimes the column looks the same at both ends, but isn't. So if you accidentally try to assemble it upside down, you'll run into trouble and wonder what it can be.



ILLUSTRATED are two simple methods of drilling a hole through glass or procelain oil reservoir of an old lamp. Chief tool is patience.

Floors Need Refinishing? How To Do It

Because the kids are out-of-doors most of the time now, why not do something about the condition of hardwood floors which have taken a beating through the winter?

In most cases, best results are achieved by completely refinishing floors. In cases where the existing finish is floor seal or lacquer, it may only be necessary to touch up worn spots with the same type of finish. If the worn spots are conspicuous because of their size or number, it's better to refinish the entire room.

Before applying a new finish, the floor must be clean. This means not only sweeping it but removing all dirt and wax.

There are several cleansing agents which are recommended; mineral spirits or naphtha may be purchased at most paint stores. A damp cloth with mild soap can be used.

To remove grease spots, use a laundry soap containing lye but only on the grease area. Clean only a small area at a time and immediately rinse and dry it off. In the case of particularly stubborn areas where the naphtha, mineral spirits or strong soap fail, rub the area with steel wool.

Be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions. If you use the same type of finish, one coat is usually sufficient. If you plan to change the type of finish it will be necessary to completely remove the old finish from the wood except in one instance: varnish can be applied over shellac.

After the finish has dried thoroughly, the floor should be waxed with either liquid rubbing-wax or paste type. Self-polishing liquid wax contains water and is therefore not recommended for wood floors because it causes the grain to rise and makes the wood surface rough.

Follow the instructions on the container and don't spare the muscle.

In some cases, more than one coating of wax is necessary to give the wood protection from dirt which penetrates the pores.

When the floor becomes dirty it is easily cleaned by removing the wax and dirt together and applying a new coating.

Re-doing House

after the plaster dries.

Some people paint right over old wallpaper, but we don't go along with the idea, even if it saves work. You'll want to take the old paper off some day, anyway; painting over it makes it much tougher. You can rent a steamer from your hardware man, and as the steam softens the glue, scrape off the paper with a broad-bladed putty knife, being careful not to dig into the plaster.

Previously painted walls need no further preparation before painting, but if you've removed paper before switching to paint, you'll have to size the whole thing.

One way to save a lot of time and muscle in your home redecorating is to use a roller. They come in a lot of styles—some you dip into the paint in a shallow metal trough that fits on your stepladder; some hold the paint in a reservoir inside the roller, and others are fed by a portable hand-pump pressure tank.

With the roller, you'll need a brush only for the trim and to touch the corners. If you have rough-finished walls or ceiling, however, you'll have to stick to a brush for the whole job.

Focal Wall Gives Interest, Variety To Room

By FRANCES JAMES

Recently, so many of you have asked questions on the focal wall treatment, that we think it is just about time to have a wee chat about them. Some questions asked are: What is a focal wall? Where is it best used? What is the purpose of a focal wall treatment? Is it just a fad, or is it going to be popular for some time?

The focal wall treatment consists of one wall (sometimes two) treated in contrast to the other walls in the room. One wall may have a large patterned wallpaper, the other three a textured wallpaper. One wall may be light coloured textured wallpaper, the other three dark textured. Two walls may be striped, the other two floral. Whatever the arrangement, the focal wall will be in sharp contrast to the others from the standpoint of design or color.

The purpose of the focal wall treatment? Here are some good reasons for using it. It automatically gives the room a point of interest, which as you know, every room needs. It will help draw attention to a beautiful wall or to a grouping of furniture along that wall. A focal wall adds variety to your wall treatment which you may appreciate. And, of course, some people use it because they just like the appearance of it.

If you are contemplating a focal wall treatment, where are you going to place the contrasting wall? It should be a pretty wall. In the past many homemakers have chosen the fireplace wall. To begin with, it is a natural centre of interest and the addition of a large pattern strengthens its prominent position. Lacking a fireplace, the next best choice is an unbroken wall. A large wall space, with no doors or windows and against which you have arranged some of the important pieces of furniture, is an excellent place for the focal wall.

Natural Alcove

One lucky homemaker I visited recently had a natural architectural alcove which she papered in a bright contrasting pattern. In this alcove she placed a prized and pretty antique knee hole desk, a Victorian ladies' chair and a graceful wooden based floor lamp. Remember whichever wall you choose for the focal treatment, it will become the most important wall. Make your best wall come forward to the centre of attraction by papering it with a dominant pattern.

Many of you have asked—"is the focal wall treatment just a fad". Well, frankly, we thought it was, and said so when it first appeared. But it seems we were wrong. It has been popular now for several years and, if anything, seems to be gaining in popularity. There are a few changes and variations each year. For instance, it now is high style to paper two walls with the dominant pattern, the other two walls finished in a plain textured effect. We see the focal wall treatment creeping into the kitchen. The wall against which you place the breakfast table can be papered in a bright washable paper.

When using the focal wall treatment make use of the color co-ordinated wallpapers. The plainer wallpapers with the textured effects are color-locked to the larger designs. This simply means that the same basic colors are used in printing both papers. One greyed color taken from the large design is used for the plain textured wallpaper. If you use these color co-ordinated wall paper combinations they will unify your entire room color scheme.

In New Window Controls Pulley and Cord Replaced

Several types of window sash control devices are now available which can replace the old-fashioned pulley-and-cord system.

Some of the new devices operate on a spring and friction principle, others are in balance with the window. Most are easy to install and eliminate the conventional pulley openings in window frames and the bulky drafty sash-weight boxes which admit large amounts of dirt and cold air.

Proper Insulation

Heating experts say that to heat a basementless house properly, it is essential to prevent heat loss from the edges of the concrete slab. They advise proper insulation for a slab-floored home built on the ground without "crawl" space.

When exposed walls and ceilings are insulated with mineral wool, they are within 2 or 3 degrees of the air temperature and drafts are virtually eliminated. Government authorties report that mineral wool reduces fuel consumption up to 30%.

Use Own Taste Expert Advises

By FRANCES JAMES

Does your living room convey a feeling of warmth and comfort where family members like to gather for gay good fun? Does it draw your family members together on a cold wintry evening, and friends in for a friendly chat as they chance your way? Is it arranged for comfort and ease of living as a family group? Surely you can answer yes to all these questions! Surely you have made your house a home and have not just slavishly followed all the latest rules, fads and smart advice of magazine, radio and newspapers.

In decorating our homes we are all too prone to say "But I don't know anything about interior decoration, I'll just do what the experts tell me". How wrong that attitude can be! Yes, listen to the experts, but adjust their advice to your own way of living and your own personal likes. Remember you and your family must live in your home—not the experts.

May I give you a couple of examples of this slavish following of advice and fads. Ask a group of women what two dominant colours they are using for their living room colour scheme. I'll bet you dollars to doughnuts that nine out of ten will tell you a combination of grey, wine and green. Go into one of the new housing developments in Canada today and look at the wall treatment.

It's bound to make many families unhappy to have to live with those plain flat walls and I'm sure when the day comes to redecorate they will rush to the wallpaper store first thing. Talk to women about their window treatments and what do you find? They have all removed glass curtains, have bare windows regardless of the view, and are using patterned side drapes, floor length—the most expensive treatment possible.

It just doesn't make sense that hundreds of families are so alike in their color preference, method of decoration, choice of design, etc. Each home should reflect the personalities of the family members living in that home and be suggestive of their way of living, main interests and activities.

Therefore, if you want your home to be one where your family and friends like to meet, visit, play games and just simply enjoy themselves, plan, decorate and furnish it to suit these activities and create a warm friendly atmosphere. This cannot be done by blindly following rules and fads.

THIS BEFORE AND AFTER PICTURE shows one view of a remodelled two-room apartment. LEFT is the window wall of the apartment as it was, with deeply set windows, and broken radiator grill. The parquet floor is coated with grime. RIGHT is the wall as it is now. Coral drapery fabric covers pale yellow venetian blinds over the windows. Sanding and scraping brought the floor to a like-new finish. The closed drapes give dramatic contrast to the brown and yellow color scheme of the room.

Wood tones are important when planning the color to go into a room. Think of your furniture, your floors and your woodwork, and of how they will blend or contrast with the color of the walls.

You won't waste steps when you are bedmaking, if you stand on one side of the bed to straighten and tuck in sheets, blankets and bedspread, and then move to the other side and complete the process.

Textured Wallpapers Take Spotlight In Modern Home

By FRANCES JAMES.

Textures have taken the spotlight in modern home interiors. The home furnishings shops are full of fascinating array of rough surfaced wallpapers, furniture woods, floor coverings and fabrics. Choose textures for your home. They are attractive, they are fashionable and serve the very definite purpose of reducing noise and harsh glare in your home.

Sound proofing is necessary for the small home of today, where we have families living in smaller and fewer rooms. The walls, being the largest single area in a room, can have the greatest sound proofing effect. There are many textured wallpapers in plain fabric effects and gay bright patterns waiting for you. Remember when buying, the rougher the surface, the more effective the sound proofing job—so buy by feel.

As well as reducing noise, textures can minimize glare. Soft, non-glare light in your home is essential for reading, sewing, watching television or for just a good old chin wagg with your neighbor. Smooth plain walls reflect light, increase glare and annoying eyestrain. Textured wallpapers whether patterned or plain create in your room a charmingly soft, liveable light.

Textured Papers

If you are one of the many homemakers who prefer patterned wallpapers, you can still have texture. The manufacturer, after printing the design on the paper, runs it through what is known as an embossing machine. The embossed texture may be a pebbled, nubby design, fine stripe or weave effect. By this double process the manufacturer gives you both design and texture in one product.

And, of course, in the plain effects in wallpaper you may have a whole raft of new and exciting textures. Grass papers, inspired by the original Chinese hand woven grass hangings, give the most exquisite texture. Grass papers, produced in a wide variety of soft, decorator colors, are now available.

Tweeds, shantungs and basket weaves lead the parade of fabric wallpapers just fresh on the market. They are ready to add textured interest to the walls of your room. See these new effects in the wide variety of colors from the high style "deep" shades to the most subtle of greyed tints and tones. They can do wonders for your room.

As an added touch of a thoughtful hostess, try keeping a freshly laundered house robe in the guest closet.

THIS IS FIREPLACE CORNER of a living room being planned by a couple who are to be wed in June. Grime has been removed from brick and marble; fire basket has been installed. Two chairs placed together make, with table lamp and more chairs, a conversation corner. At RIGHT they measure long deep windows for drapes.

THIS CORNER OF LIVING ROOM is on other side of fireplace. Here old radiator grill was replaced with modern screen. Studio couch has a tailored cover. Coffee table is modern, free form plywood with special slots for plants. Pin-up lamp provides soft light directly over couch. Rear wall is brown, others are yellow.

Before you buy pure linen hand towels, note the workmanship, particularly the hemstitching — whether hand or machine embroidered, and find out if they are colorfast.

When you buy slip covers, remember that coarse textures are suitable for sturdy pieces of furniture, whereas the lustrous surface of a satin or damask suggests formality.

6—In Memoriam

BROWN:— In memory of Mrs. Robina Brown who died April 1, 1949.
In God's care.
—Lovingly remembered by sons, James and Andrew, daughter-in-laws, Elsie and Jean and grandchildren.

MILLAR—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Melville Miller who passed away March 31, 1951.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the would is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

MILLAR— In loving memory of Melville Millar, who passed away, one year ago to-day.
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed —
How sweet the memory still—
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by son Arnold, and family.

Prizes Awarded At Marmora Commencement

MARMORA, March 31 (ENS)—The auditorium of the new Marmora High School was well filled Friday evening for the 1952 commencement exercises, first to be held in the new building. H. A. McNally, of the Centre Hastings High School Board, officiated as chairman.

Following his introductory remarks, L. G. McGinnis of the school staff presented intermediate certificates to the following students: Stanley Andrews, Joan Belanger, Elaine Dargel, Wayne Grant, Joseph Davidson, William Drummond, Mauna Kouri, Sheila Spry, Glenice Wannamaker, Douglas Lynch, Vera Morrison, Fay Wellman, Beverley McKeown, Wilma McKinnon, Jennie Reynolds, Marjorie Price, Joan Shannon, Winifred Wall.

This was followed by a tumbling act by a group of boys. Two songs were then sung by the boys choir under Stan Hawthorne.

Mrs. R. G. Walsh presented I.O.D.E. awards as follows: Grade IX merit ring,: 1, Graeme Leonard; 2, Martin Nicholson. Grade X merit ring: 1, Glenice Wannamaker; 2, Joan Shannon. Grade X music prize: Mary Neal. Grade XI merit ring: 1, Ruth Bateman; 2, Betty Nobes. Grade XII merit ring: 1, John Brownlie; 2, Ann Borland Grade XIII merit ring; 1, Peter Nicholson; 2, Carl Johnston. Improvement prize, Betty Nobes.

Next came a dance executed by 12 girls of Grade IX. The school choir then gave the musical selections. Mrs. Charles Cook president of the Catholic Women's League, presented that organization's bursary, winner of which was Peter Nicholson, to the latter's father, C. T. Nicholson, who expressed thanks to the C.W.L. and I.O.D.E. for their awards whereby the students were given an incentive to study. Mrs. C. Brady passed out the girls' hockey awards and Principal L. Begley the boys' hockey awards as follows:

Girls—Joan Belanger (captain), Patricia Claremont, Jean Nash, Audrey Lajoie, Mary Neal, Jeanna Bedore, Lulabelle Fraser. Boys—Tom Paranuik (captain), Robert Bell, Daniel Maloney, Douglas Young, William Van Henkelom, Donald Leonard, Patrick McCrodan, Tray Corrigan.

Twelve senior girls indulged in a rye dance after which 21 boys did some pyramid building. Further musical selections ensued and Thomas Byrnes contributed accordion solos. Mel Borland, of the Area School Board, presented awards of the board.

Grade IX scholarship: 1, Graeme Leonard; 2, Rosemary Webb. Grade X scholarship: 1, Winifred Wall; 2, Joan Belanger. Grade XI scholarship: 1, Ruth Bateman; 2, Betty Nobes. Grade IX music: 1, Rosemary Webb; 2, Robert Walker. Grade IX agricultural project: 1, Clara Fleming; 2, Jean Brooks.

More musical selections were succeeded by the one-act comedy "Budy Buys An Orchid," with the following taking part: Bob Walker, Fay Wellman, Clara Fleming, Douglas Bedore and Joan Belanger.

Angry Mobs Riot In Tangier

TANGIER, March 31 —(AP)—Furious anti-French mobs ran riot through this north African international-zone city Sunday. At least six persons were killed. Hospitals treated 151 injured. Nine persons are so badly hurt doctors fear they will die.

The mobs, bursting from the native quarter, stoned European shops and cafes, smashed and burned automobiles, broke windows and looted. The occasion was the 40th anniversary of French rule over the neighboring protectorate of French Morocco, where rising Arab nationalism has been manifest in recent months.

The city was quiet today.

Tangier is a demilitarized zone, opposite Gibraltar, surrounded by Spanish Morocco. It has its own local Arab government, representing the Sultan of Morocco but [illegible] powers are held by a conirol committee of representatives of the big powers which created the territory.

Freight Derailed

ALBANY, N.Y., March 31 (AP)—Twenty-two cars of an eastbound New York Central freight were derailed Sunday as the train entered the nearby Selkirk yards. No one was injured. Most of the cars were loaded with automobiles. Only one overturned, railroad officials said. The accident ripped up about 2,000 feet of rails. Cause of the derailment was not determined.

Guatemala Refuses To Have Doukhobors

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, March 31 (CP).—The foreign office of this Central American Republic announced today it has refused to grant a request made by British Columbia's Doukhobor colony to live in Guatemala.

The Doukhobors made a similar fruitless request a year ago.

Unofficial comment from foreign office officials was that "we have sufficient problems without inviting more."

C. L. Owens Pupil At Central 60 Years Ago

Charles Leslie Owens, prominent retailer in shoes, who died in Toronto last week, was a pupil at Central School Peterborough more than 60 years ago. The family lived on the Court House hill, as recalled by Jack McCabe.

Chris Graham also knew him as a boy, and in later years used to call occasionally at the Owens and Elmes Ltd. store in Toronto, renewing the friendship of school days. A brother, Percy Owens was organist at St. John's Church about that time.

C. L. Owens left school to do surveying work with a firm of engineers headed by his cousin in the mining country around Sudbury. He arrived in Toronto in 1906, joined the Royal Shoe Store and subsequently became manager. In 1914 he founded with J. T. Elmes the partnership of Owens and Elmes Limited, with stores in Toronto and Montreal.

Drove Cows

Mr. McCabe recalled Charlie Owens as one of the small boys who used to drive cows to Cummings pasture on Armour Hill, 60 years or more ago.

"I think he used to drive the cow of Croft's Hotel, opposite the Examiner in the Sunlife building," Mr. McCabe said. "A great number of the people kept cows in those days. We didn't have dairies, and a lot of boys had this job of taking a cow to pasture before going to school in the morning and bringing it back around supper time.

"Pay for the boys was not more than 25 cents a month, as I remember it. Up on the hill in Ashburnham cows grazed all day.

"It was the custom of the time, and you'd see quite a herd of cows that came from the homes of Ashburnham people such as Calcutt, Adams, Wand, and so on. Our people also had a cow, and the pasturing chore fell to me. A few of the people from the west side of the river also pastured their cows on Armour Hill."

New Yorker Gets Sweeps Money

DUBLIN, March 31 — (AP) — The first ticket out of the Irish Sweepstages drum today went to Thomas Flaherty of New York. The sweeps are based on the Grand National Steelechase to be run at Aintree, England, next Saturday.

Flaherty drew Tommy Traddles, a non-runner. Officials said he will collect $370, eight shillings.

The counterfoils of millions of tickets were mixed over the week-end in huge revolving drums. Blindfolded Colleens — pretty Irish hospital nurses — picked the lucky numbers from the drums.

Sweepstakes director John O'Sheehan announced the prize of $3,404,829 for this 74th drawing is the biggest in the 21-year history of the Irish Sweeps.

The prizes are split into units of £100,000. Each unit consists of one first prize of £50,000; one second prize of £20,000 and a third prize of £10,000.

The remainder of the unit funds are split into smaller consolation and so-called residual prizes. After expenses of the sweeps are paid, huge revenues go to build and maintain Irish hospitals.

Kefauver Ready To Meet Stalin

WASHINGTON, March 31 — (AP)— Senator Estes Kefauver said today that if elected president he will be willing to meet Premier Stalin anywhere in the world "if there was a possibility" of a real settlement with Russia.

"I would not stand on my dignity while the fate of the world hangs in the balance,' 'Kefauver said in a copyrighted interview in U. S. News and World Report, a weekly news magazine.

Kefauver said he favors a get-tough policy to end the stalled said he would offer whatever political and military settlement the United Nations decided on "and have a time limit fixed for the acceptance of it."

He said h woud have "no political compunctions" to bombing Manchuria's military concentrations, and, with U. N. suuport, blockcading China.

Pleads Guilty, Fined

John Doherty, 55, R.R. 4 Lakefield, pleaded guilty to a drunk charge in police court today and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days.

"FLEET" STEED FOR ORPHAN—Lieut.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commanding general of the Eighth Army in Korea, puts aside stern duties for a moment as he plays "horse" for a Korean orphan. General Van Fleet and other UN officials visited the Columbian Children's Home in Seoul to present $11,000 worth of clothing to the orphanage. It was purchased by chaplains stationed in the Far East, with money donated by members of the Third Army.

P.C.V.S. Quartet Wins Trophy For Jr. Curling

Ken Butcher's P.C.V.S. rink captured the schoolboys' championship and the R. J. Gourley trophy.

The trophy was presented at the annual banquet last week and smaller trophies went to the rink members, George Nickson, Jack Mason, Jetty Thompson and Butcher. Runners-up in the first event were Jim Clarke, Ron Board and Paul Crough.

Another P.C.V.S. rink, Bob Hutchinson, Hugh Outram, Murray Eagleson and Don Friar won the second event while Ted Sanders' P.C.V.S. rink was runner-up. Dave Coit's rink won the third event and Doug Graham's quartet second prize in that event.

Gary Hancock's rink, including Bob Hollingsworth, Lee Barrie and Joe Masterson swept the schedule for the G. N. Gordon trophy. This prize has been idle since the Clark brothers dominated junior play in the early thirties.

S. B. Cummings Awarded Jewel

Highlight of the 44th anniversary celebration by the Duke of Manchester, L.O.L. 50, was the presentation of a past-master jewel to Stanley B. Cummings.

The anniversar dinner was in the Orange Hall, Brock St., and was served by the women of L.O.B.A. No. 650.

Ernest F. Reid made the presentation to Mr. Cummings.

Guest speaker for the evening was the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson. Others who spoke briefly were Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., Grand Master Fred Bateman, R. Darling, D.G.M., and H. Deyell, G.M.B.P. They were thanked by A. Thompson.

Entertainment was by Fay Blackwell and Mrs. Reid doing a Hawaiian duet. W. James on the banjo, Mrs. Al Spencely two solos, and the "Hay Balers" two musical selections.

A singsong was led by Ashton Fife and another solo was by Adam Hawley.

Ability Affected Driver Fined

Kenneth Fasken, 22, of 684 George St., pleaded guilty Saturday to a charge of driving his car while his ability was impaired by alcohol. He was fined $50 and $2.50 costs.

Fasken late Friday night drove his car through the intersection at Hunter and Water Sts., and hit a westbound truck, driven by Victor Post of 279 Braidwood Ave.

The left front fender, front bumper, grill, left door and motor of Post's truck was damaged. Damage to the Fasken car included right front fender, front bumper and windshield.

Neither Fasken nor Post was injured.

Fasken was taken into custody and lodged in the cells by Constable Harold Andrew.

Moths Edge Crickets In Volleyball Finals

Barney Dundas' Moths took a one-game lead over Ken Kingston's Crickets Saturday in the best-of-seven Lillico trophy volleyball finals. The final four games will be played next Saturday at the Y.M.C.A. gym.

Kingston's team jumped into an early lead in the series when they overpowered the Moths 15-12 in the first game of the doubleheader. But the Moths finished strong in the other two games, winning 15-7 and 15-8.

Dave Addyman's Crickets advanced into the consolation finals next Saturday when they defeated Batley's Grasshopper's two straight, 15-12 and 15-13. They will now plaw Campbell's Bugs next Saturday in the best-of-three series.

OBITUARIES

SAMUEL BEAMISH

HASTINGS, March 31. (ENS)—Samuel Beamish, Hastings, who lived all his life in Percy township, died at the home of his son, Arthur, in Hastings ao the age of 86. He was buried Thursday.

Mr. Beamish was the son of Charles Beamish and Mary Dukelow.

In 1932 he and Mrs. Beamish, the former Victoria Donald, moved to Hastings where they lived on Bay St. until Mrs. Beamish's death five years ago when he moved back to the Cobourg Rd., and made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beamish and family.

MRS. WILBERT H. BELL

Mrs. Wilbert H. Bell, 76, 785 Water St., died Sunday at her residence following an illness of one year.

The former Lillie Eliza Jane Clysdale, Mrs. Bell was born in Dummer Township, daughter of the late John H. Clysdale and Eliza Jane Finley, and has lived in Peterborough for the past 15 years. Formerly she lived in Smith and Dummer Townships.

She was a member of George St. United Church and a very active worker in the church when health permitted.

She leaves her husband, Wilbert H. Bell, one son Wesley and one grandson Allen, both of Smith Township, and one brother, Merd of Dummer Township.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Kaye funeral home. The Rev. F. Horton, the Rev. D. P. Morris of Bridgenorth and the Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

JAMES H. BATEMAN

MARMORA, March 31 (ENS)—Well known resident of Madoc township for many years and also a resident for a while of Marmora township, James Henry Bateman died about midnight on Saturday in Belleville General Hospital, in his 76th year. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Major Bateman, of Madoc township, and farmed all his life until retiring 11 years ago.

At the time harvest excursions to the west were an annual affair, Mr. Bateman went on two or three and for a short while homesteaded at Durham, Man.

When living in Marmora township, he served for a term on the school board of S.S. 3. He was a member of the Methodist Church and later the United Church, attending the church on the Eldorado charge known as Union Church. He also was a member for many years of L.O.L. 517 Eldorado. His wife predeceased him ten years ago.

He is survived by three children, Thomas, Marmora; William, Madoc; and Mrs. H. Blakeley (Margaret), Marmora.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday, leaving the residence of his son Thomas on Burstall St., Marmora, for service at Fox's United Church, Eldorado, and the Rev. G. D. Young, Marmora, will officiate. Burial will take place in Fox's cemetery.

JOHN J. McCAMN.

Well-known as an inspector on the Peterborough street railway in the early 1920's, John J. McCamn, 89, died Friday in Niagara Falls, Ontario.

He was born and educated in in Keene, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McCamn. His father, a shoemaker, came to Keene from Ireland.

Mr. McCamn left Keene shortly after finishing public school about 1876, and came to work in Peterborough. He was one of the few surviving members of his eschool class. One other, W. G. Read, Sherbrooke St., is still living.

About 23 years ago, when the street railway closed down, he left Peterborough to go to Niagara Falls, where he worked for the hydro until his retirement several years ago.

The funeral was held today in Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Caroline Boate

Pallbearers at the funeral Friday of Mrs. Caroline Boate of Bobcaygeon were Milton Clark, John Franks, Earl Guthrie, and Clifford, Reginald and Kenneth Boate.

Mrs. Boate, the former Caroline Clark, died Wednesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. Devitt, in Bobcaygeon. She was in her 87th year.

The funeral service was at the Belleghem Funeral Home, Hunter St., the Rev. Charles Richmond of Christ Church, Omemee, officiating. Burial was in Emily Cemetery.

U.K. Orchestra To Begin Concert Series

Four concerts will be given next season in the Community Concerts series, leading off in October with the famous English Boyd Neel orchestra. This was decided at a meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Community Concerts Association held Saturday. Last season there were three concerts and a members' concert.

The Boyd Neel orchestra is making its first North American tour next fall. It consists of 17 strings, two oboes and two horns, and specializes in works for chamber orchestra. Dr. Boyd Neel is a London surgeon who before the war formed a string ensemble of friends, for their mutual enjoyment. The group became one of the premiere musical organizations in the United Kingdom and its leader abandoned surgery for music. It is now world-renowned for its concerts and recordings.

A young South American violinist whose already triumphant career promises to him to be one of the great virtuosi of this generation has been booked by the Peterborough directors. He is Ricardo Odnoposoff, who has already toured in Europe, Australia and the United States.

The two-piano team of Whittemore and Lowe is to be another stellar feature of the coming season. Their work is well-known through concert tours and recordings.

The directors are recognizing Canadian talent by engaging the young Quebec lyric tenor Leopold Simoneau who has sung at the Edinburgh and Glyndebourne festivals, had two seasons at the Paris opera, and has performed with leading opera companies and orchestras in the United States and Canada. His voice is considered one of the most notable in concert halls and on the radio today.

To Destroy Workhouse

IPSWICH, Suffolk, Eng., March 31 (Reuters)—The workhouse in the nearby village of Barham—reputed to be the birthplace of Oliver Twist—is going to be torn down. Novelist Charles Dickens is believed to have conceived the idea for the novel "Oliver Twist" while scanning the records of the old workhouse. The gloomy building ceased to be used as a workhouse in 1925.

General Ike Has Wide Range For Speeches

WASHINGTON, March 31 — (AP)—Should Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower be nominated for president, the range of topics he could discuss in campaign speeches could be goverened by whether he retires from active duty or resigns his commission.

Some of the things he could talk about as "Mr. Eisenhower" would be different from matters he would be privileged to discuss as a retired officer of the United States army.

A retired officer continues subject to army regulations. An officer who resigns ceases to be subject to army regulations. He also forfeits retirement benefits.

Some possible issues in a campaign include subjects which bear security classifications. Should Eisenhower, as a retired general or officer in inactive status, discuss subjects still classified he would be guilty of violation of army regulations.

Civilian Rights Differ

But as a civilian he would be committing no infraction of army regulations. He would be guided only by propriety and his own determination of what he should not disclose.

In a decade of holding some of the most responsible military assignments in United States' history, Eisenhower has been privy to international and national decisions of trascendent importance.

How much should he tell of the communications and documents he saw, of the conferences he attended?

Either "Mr." Eisenhower or "General" Eisenhower will have to decide should he become the Republican nominee.

Churchill Aide Duncan Dies

LONDON, March 31 (CP).—Sir Andrew Duncan, Prime Minister Churchill's wartime supply minister, died in his sleep early Sunday. He was 67.

Duncan, chairman of Britain's Iron and Steel Federation, had been ill for two weeks with an undisclosed ailment.

A native of Ayrshire, Scotland, Sir Andrew was prominent in Canadian Maritime industrial circles 25 years ago. In 1925 and 1932 he headed royal commissions inquiring into the Nova Scotia coal industry. And in 1926 he was chairman of a royal commission to inquire into grievances in the Maritime Provinces.

Originally trained as a lawyer, Duncan received an Honorary Doctorate of Laws from Dalhousie University, Halifax.

Prior to entering Churchill's cabinet in 1940, he was director of the Bank of England for 11 years. He served in top positions in Britain's coal, iron and steel, chemicals, electrical and shipping industries.

He was a bitter opponent of the former Labor Government's nationalization of the steel industry after the Second World War.

Bomber Crashes Attempting To Land

OMAHA, March 31. (AP)—Two men were killed and three others injured—one severely — shortly before 1 a.m. E.S.T. today when a United States Air Force B-25 bomber crashed while attempting to land at Offutt air force base.

A command spokesman said the plane, based at Offutt, was coming in for a landing at the end of a routine flight to Burbank, Calif. Apparently one engine was out.

The plane overshot the field, tried to pull up and crashed about three miles northwest of the base, the spokesman said.

Develop Burn Treatment

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP)—United States army medical officers have reported "considerable progress" in developing treatment for deep burns and other wounds that might result from an atomic attack. Severe 20-per-cent body burns, once considered near-fatal, now can be treated by family doctors, the officers told a House of Representatives appropriations sub-committee considering budget requests.

'Hellfire' Death Being Tamed To Peacetime Use

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—The hellfire death of war—napalm or jellied gasoline bombs—is being tamed to useful peacetime work.

In war, napalm is one of the most feared and most useful weapons.

Napalm itself is a yellow powder, and is just a thickener of fluids. It turns gasoline into a jelly for use in bombs and flame-throwers.

In peace, some of Napalm's present or promised jobs include:

A thickener for vinyl resin plastics. It forms putty-like materials that can be easily molded or worked, and then fused by heat no higher than a roasting oven to make resilient, non-breakable plastic products.

Disks, the size of a quarter, to start up the logs in your fireplace without paper or kindling.

Mixing in fuel oil to ignite huge coal furnaces and bring the coal fire to high temperature rapidly.

Flame-throwers to burn out vegetation on waterways, to kill weeds, or start back fires to combat forest fires.

Napalm bombs are set off by detonators in the mouth of the tank of jellied gasoline. The stuff flies everywhere, sticks and burns. It burns far longer than liquid gasoline.

Communists in Korea call it the hell bomb. It fires tanks and trucks and towns, brings flaming death or suffocation to troops hiding in dugouts or in tunnels. The average napalm bomb covers an area 275 feet long and 80 feet wide with fire.

Psychologically it has tremendous impact, and panics many troops.

Napalm is a war baby, developed out of necessity in the Second World War and used them to burn out Japanese troops.

Rubber can be used to jell gasoline, but the Japanese cut off rubber supplies. Science looked for another way to make the gasoline jelly.

Napalm thickener is an aluminum-soap of napthenic, oleic and coconut fatty acids.

Old Folks Back At School Under Free College Plan

BOSTON, March 31—(AP)—Old folks like to go to school. They're returning to Boston classrooms long years after they laid away their school books.

Boston University has thrown open its evening classes—free—to students 65 and older. B.U. calls it a "retirement scholarship plan."

One elderly lady wants to come here from South Africa to study. A lonely man of 75 in Iowa asks if he can participate. Other letters are arriving from many other places. Not all are applications to join classes. There are letters cheering B.U. for doing "a wonderful thing."

Prof. John Waters, director of B.U.'s evening division, explains the plan came from "a desire to do something for these older people."

B.U. assures them there is no cost—unless they want to shop for books. They don't need books. They attend classes as listening students and are not subject to written homework, quizzes or examinations.

They average well above the 65-year limit. A fair proportion are in their 70s.

Some hold college degrees. Some haven't high school educations.

Their occupations—or former ocupations—range from housewife to lawyer, from vaudeville entertainer to teacher.

With a choice of more than 300 courses, they go for cultural subjects, largely. Most popular is "history in the making," a currents events course conducted by a Boston newspaper man.

Need More Of It

In this quest of older people for knowledge and in the letters from far-away places, Prof. Waters sees evidence of a great need.

He points out that the university cannot encourage the woman in South Africa who wants to visit the U.S. and stop in Boston to study, or the elderly Iowan who would come here—seeking an end to loneliness.

But he suggests that through the country there should opportunity for older people to meet and study. Every community, he points out has its halls and schools—if not colleges. And if some villages are too small to have many educationists, they have doctors, lawyers, musicians, and other professional men who can conduct study courses.

Pope Permits Early Easter Sunday Rites

By PATRICK CROSSE

VATICAN CITY, March 31 — (Reuters)—Pope Pius has authorized the 1,500 Roman Catholic bishops throughout the world to continue the experiment, begun last year, of celebrating the Easter rites during the evening of Holy Saturday and early morning of Easter Sunday.

This means the first mass of Easter, when bells, organ and triumphal singing return after the silence or gloomy chanting of Holy Week, is celebrated about midnight.

The experiment is a return to the practice of 700 years ago when the resurrection of Christ was generally celebrated during the night.

In the middle ages what is now known as the Holy Saturday Mass was traditionally celebrated immediately after midnight on the night between Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday.

As midnight sounded, the altar was decked with flowers and the priests, having terminated the other rites of the day, entered to celebrate the joyful mass of the resurrection.

The purpose of the Pope's present experiment is to see whether this ancient practice of high symbolic significance can be conveniently restored in the modern world.

Four-Year Experiment

The coming Easter, and the next two after it, should provide sufficient experience upon which to base a final decision.

Last year's experiment showed flexibility is needed to adapt the rites to widely differing circumstances of parishes all over the world.

Many bishops reported difficulties in arranging to begin mass immediately after midnight.

To meet this difficulty, new regulations allow mass with the express permission of the bishops to be celebrated earlier, although not before 8 p.m. on the evening of Holy Saturday.

Another difficulty eliminated was that the rite required several priests to join in the celebration of the office and the mass.

Now in small country parishes, where no more than one priest is available, he may perform the ceremonies alone, assisted by "properly trained" lay accolytes.
